UFFORD.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1309. 1. SIR ROBERT DE UFFORD,[a] of Ufford, co. Suffolk, 1st s. and h. of Sir Robert DE UFFORD, otherwise PEYTON (who assumed the former name from his ownership of the Lordship of Ufford, near Woodbridge, co. Suffolk), and was sometime (1268-69 and 1276-81) Justiciary of Ireland, by Mary, his wife, relict of William DE SAY, of Sawbridgeworth, co. Herts, was b. 11 June 1279; suc. his father in 1298 being then 19; K.B., 1303, in which year he attended the King, "as a Banneret," into Scotland and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD UFFORD) from 13 Jan. (1308/9) 2 Ed. II. to 19 Dec. (1311) 5 Ed. II. He m. Cicely,[b] yr. da. and coheir of Robert DE VALOINES, of Hickling, co. Norfolk. He d. 1316, aged 37. Escb. 10 Oct. (1316) 10 Ed. II. His widow d. 1325. Both probably were bur. at Woodbridge Priory, co. Suffolk.[c]

II. 1316. 2. ROBERT (DE UFFORD), LORD UFFORD, 2d but 1st surv. s. and h., b. 9 Aug. 1298; suc. his father in 1316; was sum. to Parl. from 27 Jan. (1331/2) 6 Ed. III. to 14 Jan. (1336/7) 10 Ed. III., and was cr., 16 March 1336/7, EARL OF SUFFOLK "sibi et hæredibus suis." He d. 4 Nov. 1369, aged 71.

III. 1342. 3. ROBERT (DE UFFORD), LORD UFFORD, 1st s. and h. ap., b. about 1320; was sum. v.p. to Parl. presumably in his father's Barony (as LORD UFFORD), by writ, 25 Feb. (1341/2) 16 Ed. III., directed "Roberto de Ufford, Le Fitz." He d. v.p. and s.p. presumably before 1364[d], and certainly before 29 June 1368.

For fuller particulars see "SUFFOLK" Earldom, cr. 1385.

(a) A valuable and critical account of the family of Ufford is in "The Chesters of Chichelay" [pp. 322-342], by R. R. Chester Waters [pub. in 1878], who speaks of it as "an attempt to disentangle the genealogy of De Ufford from the confusion in which Dugdale has left it." A previous "attempt" had, however (not unsuccessfully), been made (accompanied by a good tabular pedigree), by "G.S.S." [George Steinman Steinman] in 1847 in the "Top. and Gen." vol. ii, pp. 271-277.

(b) She, "on 28 April 1306 was found to be one of the coheirs of the estates in Norfolk and Suffolk of the extinct family of Creke." See note "a" above.

(c) "It has been conjectured by Gough, from the arms displayed on a tomb without inscription in Rendlesham church, Suffolk, that Robert de Ufford and his wife Cicely lie buried there, but, according to Weaver, they were bur. in Woodbridge priory." See note "a" above.

(d) Chester Waters says (see note "a" above) that "he and his wife were both living in 1366," for proof whereof he refers to "Coll. Top. et Gen.," vol. v., p. 155. In that place is quoted a deed of 39 Ed. III. [1365], by "Elizabetha de Latymer, uxor Radulphi [sic. but supposed to be an error for Roberti] de Ufford." It seems, however, somewhat doubtful whether the absence of the word "quondam" before "uxor" is of itself sufficient to prove that Robert was still alive and that this deed was that of a woman under coveture and not of a widow.

IV. 1364 to 1382. 4, or 1. WILLIAM DE UFFORD, 2d and eventually 1st surv. s. and h. ap. of Robert, EARL OF SUFFOLK and LORD UFFORD, being br. of Robert, LORD UFFORD [1342], both above-named; b. about 1339; was, like his elder br., sum. v.p. to Parl. (as LORD UFFORD), presumably in his father's Barony, but possibly in the lifetime of his said elder br. and in right of his own wife, (a coheir of the Barony of Montacute), by writs from 4 Dec. (1364) 38 Ed. III. to 20 Jan. (1365/6) 39 Ed. III. He suc. his father, as EARL OF SUFFOLK, 4 Nov. 1369. He d. s.p.s. 13 Feb. 1381/2, when the Earldom of Suffolk became extinct or lapsed to the Crown, and the Barony of Ufford fell into abeyance.(a)

[ROBERT UFFORD, presumably styled LORD UFFORD, 1st s. and h. ap.; d. v.p. in boyhood before 1374, leaving three yr. brothers then living, all of whom d. young and within a year from that date].

For fuller particulars see "SUFFOLK" Earldom, cr. 1337; ex. 1382.

I. bis. 1360, to 1361. 1. JOHN DE UFFORD, s. and h. of Sir Thomas DE UFFORD,(b) by Eva (heiress of Langley, co. Norfolk), da. and h. of John (DE CLAVERING), LORD CLAVERING; suc. his father (who was slain at the battle of Bannockburn) 24 June 1318, and was sum. to parl. as a Baron (LORD UFFORD) 3 April (1360), 34 Ed. III., on the same day that his stepfather, Sir Robert de Benhale, was so sum. He d. unm. next year (in the lifetime of his said mother) 1361, and was bur. at Langley aforesaid, when the Barony became extinct.(c) Esch. 35 Ed. III.

UGHTRED.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1343, to 1365. 1. SIR THOMAS UGHTRED, s. and h. of Robert UGHTRED, of Scarborough, Catton, &c., co. York (who was sum. in 1295 to attend "equis et armis" at Newcastle on Tyne), suc. his father (1309-10), 3 Ed. II., being then aged 18 or 23; served from 1314 to 1339, with great distinction, in the wars with Scotland; was Gov. of Scarborough Castle, 1319; obtained from Ed. III. the (considerable) Lordship of Boukill in Scotland; was Admiral of the Fleet, northwards, 1336: was a Banneret in 1337; Gov. of Perth, 1338, which town however he, after a gallant resistance, surrendered, 17 Aug. 1339; was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD UGHTRED) by writs from 30 April (1343), 17 Ed. III. to 4 Dec. (1364), 38 Ed. III.; was in the wars of France, 1345-47 and of Gascony, 1359; K.G., between May 1358 and April 1360. He m. Margaret, da. and h. of Brian BURDON, of Kexby, co. York. He d. shortly before 28 May 1365, and was bur. at Catton afsd.

SIR THOMAS UGHTRED(d), s. and h., of full age and a knight at his father's death, 1365, who, altho' he was a distinguished commander both in Scotland (where he was Gov. of Lochmaben Castle), and in France, was never sum. to parl. He d. Nov. 1401.(e)

(a) For the coheirs of this Barony, see vol. vii, p. 308, note "a," sub "Suffolk."

(b) He was 2d son of Sir Robert de Ufford, the first of that surname, being yr. br. of Robert, 1st Lord Ufford, and uncle of Robert, 1st Earl of Suffolk.

(c) Sir Edmund de Ufford, his only surv. br. and h. acquired, by marriage, the estate of Wrentham, co. Suffolk, and d. Sep. 1374, being father of Sir Robert de Ufford, the last male of his race, who d. s.p.m., 1390-1393. His granddaughter, Ela, heiress of Wrentham (only da. and h. of Sir William Bowett, by Joan, the only child of the said Robert, that had issue), m. Sir Thomas Dacre, and was ancestress of the family of Fiennes, Lords Dacre.

(d) In Banks's "Bar. Ang. Cons." is a tabular pedigree of this family, and much information not to be found in "Dugdale." This pedigree is the foundation for the account which, after 1401, is given in the text.

(e) Considering the great position of this family and the personal merits of this Thomas (1365-1401), the fact of their non-recognition as members of the peerage tends strongly against the memorable decision of their Lordships, that a Summons and Sitting in Parl. constituted an hereditary peerage dignity.

THOMAS UGHTRED,(a) grandson and h. being s. and h. of William, or Sir William Ughtred who d. v.p. He suc. his grandfather in Nov. 1401 and proved his age in 1404. He m. in or before 1401, Margaret, da. and coheir of Sir Thomas GODDARD, by Constance, da. and coheir of Sir Thomas DE SUTTON, of Holderness.

SIR ROBERT UGHTRED,(a) s. and h. He was found (1447-48), 26 Hen. VI. cousin and h. of Sir Thomas Sutton. He m. Katharine, da. of Sir William KURE.

SIR HENRY UGHTRED,(a) s. and h. He m. Elizabeth, da. of Sir John SEYMOUR, of Wolf Hall, co. Somerset. He d. (1510-11), 2 Hen. VIII. Will pr. at York before 1515.

ROBERT UGHTRED,(a) s. and h. He m. Elizabeth, da. of William FAIRFAX.

ROBERT UGHTRED(a) of Kexby, co. York afsd., living (1551), 5 Ed. VI.

ULSTER.(b)

[Remarks on this dignity as communicated, Jan. 1884, by R. E. Chester Waters; "THE EARLDOM OF ULSTER was the first and for 185 years the only title of Honour in Ireland of English creation.(c) It was a Feudal rather than a Personal dignity, for it was enjoyed by successive Lords of Ulster, no way related to each other. It was originally granted,(d) in 1180, by Henry II. to John DE COURCI (the Conqueror of Ulster) in fee, but he was declared a public enemy by King John and, altho' no sentence of forfeiture was formally recorded against him, he was despoiled by force both of the Dominion of Ulster and of the Earldom(c) by Hugh de Laci, in 1205. Hugh de LACI obtained a charter from King John, on 29 May 1205, confirming to him and his heirs the Dominion of Ulster, of which the King had belted him Earl,(c) to hold as freely of the Crown in fee as John de Courci held it on the year and day on which Hugh conquered him and took him prisoner in the field. The Earldom was forfeited for high treason by Hugh de Laci, in 1210, and altho' he was restored in 1226 it was only re-granted to him for his life, for, when he died in 1243, his only surv. da. and h.,(e) Matilda, Lady of Naas, made no pretension of succession to the Earldom, altho' she suc., without question, to the Barony of Carlingford, which had been her mother's marriage portion. On Hugh de Laci's death in 1243, the Earldom and Dominion of Ulster lapsed to the Crown as an escheat, and was included in the Royal Grant of Ireland to Prince Edward, in 12 [1254]. But, altho' Ulster was equal to a fifth part of the whole island, it was comparatively improductive

(a) See p. 2, note "d."

(b) See vol. i, pp. ix—xx, as to the principal "Honours" and feudal Baronies of Ireland before the 16th century.

(c) The grant of the Earldom of Ulster, 29 May 1205, to Hugh de Lacy, is stated to be "The earliest creation of an Anglo-Norman dignity in Ireland, of which there is any extant record." Nat. Biogr. in C. L. Kingsford's article on "Lacy."]

(d) As to the assertion that John de Courcy was created Earl of Ulster, tho' "repeated it would seem by all, even by the best authorites . . . it is certain that this title was the invention of a late chronicler and that it first appears in the 'Book of Howth,'" where we read of 'Sir John Courcey, Earl and President [sic] of Ulster'" [Nat. Biogr., in the able article of J. H. Round on "Courci."]

(e) According to J. H. Round's "The Earldoms of Ormond in Ireland" [Foster's "Coll. Gen."], the Earldom of Ulster was granted to de Lacy, 1205-06, with limitation to heirs general and "duly passed through females from Lacy to De Burgh, from De Burgh to Plantagenet, &c."—but the fact of such descent from Lacy seems erroneous (see p. 4, note "e" below), and, failing this, there seems no valid ground to presume that the grant, if, indeed, not for life only, extended beyond heirs male of the body.

whilst it was managed by Seneschals, and the Prince was glad to transfer it, in 1261, to Walter DE BURGH, the Lord of Connaught, in exchange for the rich domain of Kilsilan. The Earldom remained in the family of de Burgh till 1352, when Elizabeth de Burgh, the da. and h. of the 3d Earl, carried it to her husband, Lionel [PLANTAGENET] of Antwerp, the 3d s. of Edward III., who became, in her right, Earl of Ulster and Lord of Connaught. They were the ancestors of the House of York, and, since the accession of Edward IV., the Earldom of Ulster has formed part of the special inheritance of the Crown."]

JOHN DE COURCY, the famous Conqueror of Ulster, "whose parentage is a problem as yet it would seem unsolved,"(a) is generally, tho' erroneously(b) stated to have been cr by Henry II, in 1181, EARL OF ULSTER [I.] He unquestionably had "obtained a substantial hold on Ulster," and was Lord of that Honour; placing his followers in castles there who, as his 'Barones' or feudal tenants, became known as the Barons of Ulster "and in the midst of whom he kept at Down his own feudal court."(a) Having been declared an enemy, he was in 1204 taken prisoner and the grant of Ulster was made, 29 May 1205, to Hugh de Lacy, as hereafter stated. He d. s.p. legit.(c) shortly before 22 Sep. 1219.

Earldom [I.]

I. 1205 to 1243.

1. HUGH DE LACY,(d) 2d s, of Hugh DE LACY, Lord of the palatine Honour of Meath,(e) and one of the Conquerors of Ireland, (Ch. Gov. thereof 1178 and 1179; murdered 25 July 1186) by his first wife Rose DE MONMOUTH, settled in Ulster after his father's death,(f) and became the chief opponent of John de Courcy, Lord of the Honour of Ulster, whom he defeated early in 1204, whereupon he crossed over to England, and received 2 May 1205 a grant of Ulster "as John de Courcy held it on the day when Hugh conquered and took him prisoner in the field," which grant was confirmed some 3 weeks later, when, 29 May 1205, he was cr. EARL OF ULSTER I. He however opposed the English Justiciary and was expelled from Ireland in 1210, to which he returned about 1216, being restored to his castles and lands 20 April 1227. He supported the Royal authority in 1234 against the Earl of Pembroke, joining Richard de Burgh next year in the great raid into Connaught. He m. Emmeline, or Leceline, da. and h. of Walter DE KIDLEFORD, feudal "Lord of Bray," co. Dublin.(e) He d. probably s.p.m. legit.(h) late in 1242 or early (before 25 April) 1243 and was bur. in the church of the Dominican friars at Carrickfergus. On his death the Earldom of Ulster [I.], and the vast dominion of Ulster reverted to the Crown.(i) His widow was living Nov. 1267, but d. before 1278. She is sometimes said to have m. Stephen DE LONGESPEE, Ch. Gov. of Ireland, 1259-60.

(a) J. H. Round's article on him in the Nat. Biogr.

(c) "We have the positive statement of Giraldus himself that he [John de Courcy] had no legit. issue. Yet peerage writers have assigned him a son, Miles, from whom, by a grossly fictitious pedigree, they have derived the Lords Kinsale." [J. H. Round, ut supra.] See vol. iv, p. 392, notes "f" and "g," and see also in that vol., p. 396, note "b," sub "Kingsale" as to the alleged "DE COURCY-PRIVILEGE" (of remaining covered in the presence of Royalty), supposed to have been granted to this John de Courcy and his heirs male.

(d) See C. L. Kingsford's article on him in the Nat. Biogr.

(f) "Mr. Gilbert is mistaken in speaking of him as having been Viceroy [Qy. Chief Governor?] of Ireland 1189-90 and again in 1203 and 1205, for the records shew that John de Courci and Meiler FitzHenry held office [Qy. 1189-1209?] uninterruptedly." [See note "d" above].

(g) See p. 3, notes "c" and "e."

(h) Numerous children of both sexes are allotted to him, but their legitimacy is doubtful. Three sons and three daughters are mentioned in the Nat. Biogr. [See note "d" above.] Another da. (see "Remarks" on p. 3) is stated to be his heiress, while as to yet another but a very problematical da. (also said to be his heiress and the inheritrix of his Earldom), see p. 5, note "d."

(i) See p. 3, note "e."

II. 1255 ? 1. WALTER DE BURGH,[a] feudal Lord of Connaught,[a] 2d s. of Richard DE BURGH[b], also feudal Lord of Connaught (d. 1243), by, apparently, Egidia, da. of Walter DE LACY, feudal Lord of Meath, elder br. of Hugh, EARL OF ULSTER [I.]. He suc. his elder br. Richard, in the Lordship of Connaught, 1248, but appears not to have become of full age till 1253. He was in constant warfare with the race of O'Connor and with the Irish of Connaught. Between 1254 and 1256[a] he acquired from Edward, the Black Prince (who in 1254 had been made Lord of Ireland), the "County of Ulster" (in exchange for the manor of Kilsilan), and probably was then recognised (as he certainly was at some date before 1265) as EARL OF ULSTER [I.] [c] He m.[d] Avelina, 3d of the four sisters who, or whose issue, became in 1297 coheirs of Richard (FITZ JOHN), LORD FITZ JOHN, s. of John FITZ JOHN (sum. to [Montford's] Parl. in 1264), by Margery, da. of Philip BASSET. He d. after a week's illness, at his Castle at Galway, 1271 and was bur. at Athassil Abbey near Cashel. His wife, or widow, d. before 1297.

III. 1271. 2. RICHARD (DE BURGH), EARL OF ULSTER [I.], 1st s. and h.,[a] b. probably about 1259, suc. his father in 1271, being undoubtedly a minor when he was brought over to the King at Woodstock in 1274. He was by far the most powerful of the English nobles in Ireland, and was constantly embroiled with the native Irish Princes, more especially with those of Connaught, and also with the race of FitzGerald. He inherited, in 1297, thro' his mother, large estates in Thomond and the south of Ireland, and some also in England.[e] He served against France 1294 and 1297, "led more than 16,000 men from Ireland for the Balliol campaign of 1296; and at the second conquest of 1304, received (Feb.) the submission of the Scotch Governor, John Comyn. Before setting out on this Expedition he is said to have dubbed 33 Knights in Dublin Castle. In these campaigns he spent his money so lavishly on the King's behalf that in 1308 more than £2,000 was still owing to him by the Crown out of an original debt of £4,000."[a] He was occasionally sum. to[g] attend the English parl. viz., that at Westminster, in Lent 1308, and that at Lincoln in 1318; was appointed Ch. Gov. of Ireland, 15 June 1308, but superseded the next day; opposed the invasion of Ulster by Edward Bruce[h] in 1315, tho,' his loyalty being suspected, he was for a short time in 1317

(a) See T. A. Archer's article on him in the Nat. Biog.

(b) This Richard was undoubtedly nephew to the great Hubert de Burgh, Chief Justiciar [I. 1232], and son of William de Burgh, feudal Lord of Connaught (d. 1205), who possibly was the same as William FitzAldelm, "Henry II.'s Irish Justiciar" [See note "a" above.]

(c) "It is possible that he may have put forward some vague claim [to the Earldom of Ulster] in virtue of his maternal descent from Walter de Laci, who held Ulster for a few years by the gift of King Henry." [See note "a" above.]

(d) His wife is very frequently said to have been Maud, da. and h. of Hugh (de Lacy), Earl of Ulster [I.], so that he, in her right, consequently inherited the Earldom on her father's death in 1243. (See p. 3, note "e"), but "there does not seem to be any evidence in support of this theory, which makes its first appearance in certain 'Fragmenta Historiæ Hiberniæ' preserved in a fifteenth century Manuscript, further back than which date no allusion to this Maud de Laci can be traced. Her name is not to be found in contemporary documents." [See note "a" above.]

(e) An elaborate account of the dispersal of the FitzJohn estates is given in "Dugdale" under that family.

(f) Coke [Inst iv, 350] remarks that "sometimes the King of England called his Nobles of Ireland to come to his Parl. of England," &c., and quotes, "Rot. Parl." 8 Ed. II., m. 31, "Rex . . . mandavit Ricardo de Burgo, Com. Ulton'. et aliis Nobilibus terre predicte quod sint ad parliamentum suum quod summoneri fecit apud Westm." &c.

(g) Such summons coupled with sitting may be held to have created an English Barony in fee. See Vol. i, p. 92, note "i," sub. "Angus," where the summons to Gilbert de Umfravill, Earl of Angus [S.], is treated as having cr. an English Barony of Umfravill.

(h) One of his daughters had m. in 1302 (as a second wife) the well known Robert Bruce, crowned King of Scotland, 1306, elder br. of the said Edward Bruce imprisoned in Dublin. He m. in or before Feb. 1281, Margaret, da. of Sir John DE BURGH, of Lanvalay or Lanville. He d. in the monastery of Athassil afsd. shortly before Midsummer day in 1326.

[WALTER DE BURGH, possibly styled LORD DE BURGH, 1st s. and h. ap., d. s.p. and v.p., 1304.]

[Sir JOHN DE BURGH, possibly styled LORD DE BURGH, 2d but (after 1304), 1st surv. s. and h. ap. He m., about 1306, in England, Elizabeth, 3d da. of Gilbert (DE CLARE), EARL OF GLOUCESTER and EARL OF HERTFORD, by his second wife, the Lady Joan PLANTAGENET, 3d but 2d surv. da. of Edward I. He came into Ireland, 15 Oct. 1309, and d. v.p. at Galway, 18 June 1313. His widow, who on the death, 24 June 1314, of her br., Earl Gilbert, became a coheir of the great family of De Clare, inheriting the Lordship of Clare, &c., co. Suffolk, m. secondly, in 1315, Theobald (VERDON), LORD VERDON, and thirdly, Roger (D'AMORIE). LORD D'AMORIE, both of whom d. s.p.m. She d. 4 Nov. 1360, nearly 50 years after her first husband, aged about 68. See fuller particulars of her in vol. ii, p. 268, sub "Clare."]

IV. 1326. WILLIAM (DE BURGH), EARL OF ULSTER [I.], grandson and h., being only s. and h. of John DE BURGH, by Elizabeth, his wife, both abovenamed; b. 1312; suc. his grandfather, June 1326; knighted in London, 1328; sat in Parl. [I.], 1329; in England about 1330. He m. Maud, da. of Henry (PLANTAGENET), EARL OF LANCASTER (grandson of Henry III.), by Maud, da. and h. of Sir Patrick CHAWORTH. He d. (before his mother, the heiress of Clare) 6 June 1333, being barbarously murdered near Carrickfergus,(a) in his 21st year. His widow m. Sir Ralph DE UFFORD,(b) Justiciary [I.], 10 Feb. 1343/4 till his death at Kilmainham Castle, 9 April 1346, when she became a nun at Campsey, co. Suffolk, where she d. 5 May 1377, and is bur. with her second husband.

V. 1333. 4. ELIZABETH, suo jure, apparently,(c) COUNTESS OF ULSTER [I.], only da. and h.; b. 1332, and suc. her father in the 1st year of her age. She m. 9 Sep. 1342, at the Tower of London, LIONEL PLANTAGENET, styled "of Antwerp," 3d but 2d surv. s. of Edward III., which Lionel, having been b. 29 Nov. 1338, at Antwerp, had then not completed his 4th year, the marriage being consummated in 1352. By this match he apparently became in her right EARL OF ULSTER [I.], and was recognised as such previous to 26 Jan. 1347. By the death of his wife's grandmother, "Elizabeth de Burg, Dame de Clare,"(d) relict of John de Burgh abovenamed, he, in her right, inherited the vast honour of Clare and other estates of the great family of De Clare (Earls of Gloucester and Hertford) and was accordingly cr. 13 Nov. 1362, in full Parl., DUKE OF CLARENCE ("de Clarentia.") His wife, the suo jure Countess of Ulster [I.] d. 1363, and was bur. with her ancestors in Clare priory. Tho' he m. secondly, 28 May 1368, he had no issue by his second wife. He d. s.p.m. 17 Oct. 1368, in his 30th year, when the Dukedom of Clarence became extinct. He was bur. at Pavia in Italy, but removed subsequently to Clare priory afsd. See fuller particulars of him under "Clarence" Dukedom, cr. 1362; ex. 1368.

(a) The particulars are in "Lodge," vol. i, p. 124, sub "Clanricarde," where it is stated that "the county people destroyed the murderers with their abettors, killing in one day above 300 of them"; adding that "in all pardons granted about that time, this clause was inserted excepting the death of William, late Earl of Ulster."

(b) See p. 300, note "a," sub "Suffolk."

(c) It is presumed that this Earldom devolved, with the territory of Ulster, on the heirs general of Walter de Burgh, who have in many instances been recognised as possessing the same, e.g., on 26 Jan 1347.

(d) She so styles herself in her will, for tho' John de Burgh, her first husband, was not a Peer, while both of her other husbands (Verdon and D'Amorie) had been sum. to Parl., the position of the families of De Burgh and De Clare was by far more eminent than that of Verdon or D'Amorie.

VI. 1368. 5. PHILIPPA, suo jure(a) COUNTESS OF ULSTER [I.], Lady of the Honour of Clare, only da. and h., suc. on the death, 17 Oct. 1368, of her father, Lionel, Duke of Clarence to the abovenamed dignities, of which he, apparently, was the life tenant. She was b. 16 Aug. 1355, and m., in 1368, Edmond (MORTIMER), EARL OF MARCH, who d. 27 Dec. 1381. She d. 5 Jan. 1381/2. Both were bur. at Cork. M.I.

VII. 1382. 6. ROGER (MORTIMER), EARL OF MARCH, &c., also EARL OF ULSTER [I.], Lord of the Honour of Clare, s. and h., b. 11 April 1374; suc. his father, 27 Dec. 1381, as EARL OF MARCH, &c., and suc. his mother, 5 Jan. 1381/2, as EARL OF ULSTER [I.], &c. He was declared, [jure matris], heir presumptive to the Crown in 1387. He d. 20 July 1398, aged 24, and was bur. at Wigmore, co. Hereford.

VIII. 1398. 7. EDMOND (MORTIMER), EARL OF MARCH, &c., also EARL OF ULSTER [I.], Lord of the Honour of Clare, s. and h., b. 6 Nov. 1391. He d. unm. in prison at Trim Castle, Ireland, 19 Jan. 1424/5, and was bur. at Clare Priory afsd.

See fuller particulars under "MARCH" Earldom, 1360 to 1425.

IX. 1425. 8. RICHARD (PLANTAGENET), DUKE OF YORK, EARL OF MARCH, &c., also EARL OF ULSTER [I.], Lord of the Honour of Clare, nephew by the sister and h., being only s. and h. of Richard, EARL OF CAMBRIDGE (2d s. of Edmond, DUKE OF YORK and grandson of Edward III.) by his first wife, Anne, eldest sister of Earl Edmond abovenamed. He was b. 1412; suc. as Duke of York (on the death of his paternal uncle), 25 Oct. 1415, and suc. as Earl of March, &c., and as Earl of Ulster [I.] (on death of his maternal uncle abovenamed) 19 Jan. 1424/5, being then aged 14. He was slain at the battle of Wakefield, 31 Dec. 1460, aged 48, and bur. at Fotheringay.

X. 1460, to 1461. 9. EDWARD (PLANTAGENET), DUKE OF YORK, EARL OF MARCH, &c., also EARL OF ULSTER [I.], Lord of the Honour of Clare, s. and h.; b. 28 April 1442. On 4 March 1460/1, he ascended the throne as Edward IV., when all his honours became merged in the Crown.

UPPER OSSORY.

Barony [I.]

I. 1541. 1. BARNABY, or BRYAN, or BARNARD FITZ-PATRICK, otherwise MAC-GILL-PATRICK,(a) s. and h. of Barnaby MAC-GILL-PATRICK, Chief of Upper Ossory, (living 1522), by (—) da. of (—) O'MORE, feudal Lord of Leix, suc. his father before 8 Oct. 1537, at which date he submitted to the commissioners of Hen. VIII., and was consequently cr. by pat. dat. at Dublin, 11 June 1541(b) BARON OF UPPER OSSORY [I.], being subsequently 1 July 1543, knighted. He was afterwards imprisoned at Waterford till he restored "some preys he had seized in Leix." He m. firstly, about 1530, Margaret, widow of Thomas FitzGerald (of Desmond), first da. of Piers (BUTLER), Earl of ORMONDE AND OSSORY [I.], by Margaret, da. of Gerald (FITZGERALD), 8th EARL OF KILDARE [I.]. He m. secondly, Elizabeth, third daughter of Bryan O'CONNOR, of Offaley, by Mary, da. of Gerald (FITZGERALD), 9th EARL OF KILDARE [I.]. She was living 25 July 1551. He, having long been impotent, d. 1576.

II. 1576. 2. BARNABY (FITZPATICK), BARON OF UPPER-OSSORY [I.], first s. and h. by first wife, b. about 1535; was sent into England, as a pledge of his father's loyalty, and ed. at that Court along with Prince Edward, being his "proxy for correction." In 1551, he was a Gent. of the Privy Chamber to Ed. VI., as he was, shortly afterwards, to the King of France. In 1553 he took an active part against Wyatt's rebellion. He appears to have been present at the siege of Leith, and to have been knighted, at Berwick, in 1560, by the Duke of Norfolk, as also in 1566 at Drogheda(c) by the L. Deputy Sidney [I.]. He suc. his father in the peerage [I.] 1576, and, in 1578, he defeated and slew "the great rebel" Rory Oge O'More. He was, however, involved in a life-long feud with the Earl of Ormonde, through whose influence he and his wife were imprisoned in Dublin Castle, 14 Jan. 1581. He m. in 1560 his cousin, Joan, da. of Rowland (EUSTACE), 2d VISCOUNT BALTINGLASS [I.] by Joan, sister of Edmond, 1st BARON DUNBOYNE [I.], da. of James BUTLER, of Dunboyne. He d. s.p.m.(d) somewhat suddenly, 11 Sep. 1581, aged about 46 at the Dukedom of Kent was cut down in 1866 (and that too, strangely enough, by the late Duke's only child) to an Earldom, behind which Earldom, for no good reason apparently (unless the using up of as many as possible of the Royal titles at one blow was so considered), the Earldom of Ulster was placed; so that henceforth (as long as these titles exist) it is likely to remain in profound concealment.

[D'Alton's "King James's Irish Army List, 1689."] "Mac-Gill Patrick now softened into Fitz-patrick." [Lodge, vol. ii, p. 333.]

(b) The preamble to the patent (wherein he is called "Barnardus Mac-Gylle-Patrick, armiger") is in "Lodge."

(c) In the latter case called "Sir Barnaby Fitzpatrick, Lo. of Upper Ossory," in the former "Sir Bernaby Fitz Patricke of Ireland," there being in Medcalfe's "Knights" a reference from one to the other.

house of William Kelly, a surgeon, in Dublin.(a) Will dat. 9 Sep. 1581.(b) His wife survived him.

III. 1581. 3. FLORENCE, or FYNGIN (FITZPATRICK), BARON OF UPPER OSSORY [I.], br. and h. male of the whole blood(c); suc. to the peerage [I.], 11 Sep. 1581. His legitimacy was questioned but established after a long controversy, 12 May 1607. He had, however, previously, 1585, sat in [Perrot's] Parl. [I.] At his request the district of Upper Ossory was, 21 July 1600, reduced into "Shire-ground" and annexed to Queens County. He received considerable grants of territory, with rem., however, in the first place, to his second and younger sons. He m. Catharine, da. of Patrick, or Rory, O'MORE, of Leix, in Queens county. He was living 1608, but d. before 8 July 1615.

IV. 1610? 4. THADY, or TEIGE (FITZPATRICK), BARON OF UPPER OSSORY [I.], 1st s. and h.(d); suc. to the peerage [I.] before 8 July 1615. He, his son Bryan, and his br. John, received, 7 Aug. 1618, new patents for their lands, after surrender. He m. Joan, sister of Theobald, VISCOUNT BUTLER OF TULLROPHELIM [I.], 1st da. of Sir Edmond BUTLER, by Eleanor, da. of Rowland (EUSTACE), 2d VISCOUNT BALTINGLASS [I.] He d. Dec. 1627, and was bur. in the family burial place at the Abbey of Aghmacarte. His widow d. 1631, and was bur. with her ancestors at St. Canice, Kilkenny.

V. 1627. 5. BARNABY, or BRYAN (FITZPATRICK), BARON OF UPPER OSSORY [I.], 1st s. and h.,(e) suc. to the peerage [I.] Dec. 1627, and took his seat, 14 July 1634. He m. his cousin Margaret, 1st da. of Walter (BUTLER), EARL OF ORMONDE AND OSSORY [I.], by Helen, da. of Edmund (BUTLER), 2d VISCOUNT MOUNTGARRET [I.]. He d. in the prime of life, about 1638. His widow was living at Water Castle in 1641, and joined in the rebellion [I.] of that year.

VI. 1638? 6. BARNABY, or BRYAN (FITZPATRICK), BARON OF UPPER OSSORY [I.], 1st s. and h.(f) suc. to the peerage [I.] about 1638 and took his seat 16 March 1639. He took part in the rebellion [I.] of 1641, was at the siege of Borras in 1642, and at that of Ballynakill in 1643, being accordingly indicted of high treason. On claiming his seat in Parl. the Lords [I.] decided, 20 Sep. 1661, that being "only indicted and not outlawed or any ways attainted," he was entitled thereto. He m. Catharine, da. of Sir Edward EVERARD, of Fethard, co. Tipperary.

(a) Ormonde said of him that there was "not a naughtier or more dangerous man in Ireland than the Baron of Upper Ossory, but Sir H. Wallop calls him "as sound a man to her Majesty as any of his nation," while Sir H. Sidney writes that he was "the most sufficient man in counsel and action for the war that ever I found of that country birth; great pity it was of his death." [Nat. Biogr.] Lloyd says, "He died a good protestant, a public spirited patriot and an honest man." His correspondence has been printed in the "Literary Remains of Ed. VI.," published by the Roxburghe Club.

(b) An abstract thereof is given in Lodge.

(c) There were also two younger brothers among whose issue male, if any, the heir to this Barony may possibly exist—viz. (1) Teige, or Thady, sent prisoner to Dublin by his Father in 1546 and there executed "for his crimes." (2) Geoffrey.

(d) He had four brothers among whose issue male, if any, the heir to this Barony may exist, viz. (1) John, said to have been great-grandfather of Richard, 1st Baron Gowran [I.], who was father of John, 1st Earl of Upper Ossory [I.] (2) Geoffrey, of Ballyraghan or Ballybaragh, who d. s.p.m. 13 Aug. 1638. (3) Barnaby or Bryan, of Water Castle, living 4 Sep. 1626. (4) Edmond, of Castle Fleming, living 1641, being father of Andrew, who was engaged in the rebellion [I.] of that year.

(e) He had three brothers among whose issue male, if any, the heir to this Barony may exist, viz. (1) Dermoid, or Darby, who m. twice. (2) Turlough, who also m., and who was living 16 Sep. 1631. (3) John.

(f) He had two brothers, among whose issue male, if any, the heir to this Barony may exist (1) Edward, or Edmond. (2) Dermoid, or Darby. Several notices of members of the Fitzpatrick family are in D'Alton's "King James's Irish Army List, 1689" (pp. 506-510).

VII. 1670? to 1691. 7. BARNABY, or BRYAN (FITZPATRICK), BARON OF UPPER OSSORY [I.], 1st s. and h.(a) suc. to the peerage [I.] about 1670; was a Capt. in the Army in the Earl of Clancarty's regiment; distinguished himself at Mons; had an annual pension of £100 from Charles II., This was continued by James II., 1 Jan. 1687, for adherence to whom he was outlawed at Dublin, 11 May 1691. This act, however, was not confirmed, and its reversal was by special exemption, not hindered under the Act 6 Will III. relating to such outlawries and attainders. It appears, however, to have been considered as effectual in causing the forfeiture of the peerage dignity. He m. firstly, Margaret,(b) 1st da. of Pierce (BUTLER), 1st VISCOUNT IKERRIN [I.], by Ellen, da. of Walter (BUTLER), EARL OF ORMONDE AND OSSORY [I.] He m. secondly, his late wife's first cousin, Margaret,(b) da. and h. of James (BUTLER), 13th BARON DUNBOYNE [I.], by Ellen, 3d da. of the said Pierce (BUTLER), 1st VISCOUNT IKERRIN [I.] He m. thirdly, Dorothy, da. of (—) WAGSTAFFE. He d. s.p.m.s.(c) about 1695, and before 1696. His widow was living 21 Feb. 1701.

VIII. 1695? 8. BARNABY, or BRYAN, FITZPATRICK, nephew and h., being only s. of the Hon. John FITZPATRICK, by Elizabeth, da. of Bryan CAVENAGH, of Borris, co. Carlow, which John was next br. to the late Baron. He assumed the title of BARON OF UPPER OSSORY [I.] after his uncle's death, but it was disallowed by the House of Lords [I.] 29 Dec. 1697, who found that he, "the said Barnaby or Bryan was outlawed 11 May preceding."(d) He d. 1698, when "it was again ineffectually laid claim to by Lieut. James Fitzpatrick [whose parentage is not stated], who had one son, Henry,"(d) who m. in Jan. 1749/50, Jane, da. of Richard FARREN. Finally, 15 Nov. 1731,(e) it was resolved by the House of Lords [I.] that this Barony was extinct, and that consequently it should be omitted in the list of Peers I.

UPPER OSSORY and UPPER OSSORY OF AMPTHILL.

Earldom [I.] I. 1751. 1. JOHN (FITZPATRICK), BARON GOWRAN [I.], s. and h. of Richard (FITZPATRICK), 1st BARON GOWRAN [I.] (so cr. 27 April 1715),(g) by Anne, 2d and yst da and coheir of Sir John ROBINSON, 2d Bart., was b. 1719; suc. to the peerage [I.], 9 June 1727; matric. at Oxford (Queen's Coll.), 6 June 1735, aged 15; suc., on the death of his mother, 24 Nov. 1744, to the estate of Farming-wood and Grafton Underwood, co. Northampton; Master of Farming-wood forest, 1745; and was cr. 5 Oct. 1751, EARL OF

(a) He had two brothers, viz. (1) John, mentioned in the text, father of Barnaby, who assumed the title, and (2) James, who d. in England. It is probable that no issue male from either of them exists, but, if otherwise, the heir to the Barony would be among such issue.

(b) Lord Upper Ossory m. "Mall" shortly after June 1685. To which of his marriages this may apply seems doubtful.

(c) By his first wife, only, he had issue (1), Bryan, 1st s. who d. v.p. of the small-pox at Downpatrick, in 1687, unm.; (2) Kerau, d. v.p. and s.p.; (3) Mary; (4 and 5) John and Catharine, who d. infants.

(d) "Lodge," vol. ii, p. 343.

(e) The House of Lords [I.] agreed, 15 Nov. 1731, to the report of the committee appointed to consider the return of the Lords [I.] made by Ulster King of Arms, that the honours undernamed are extinct and ought to be left out of the list of Peers [I.], viz. (1), Sanderson, Viscount Castletown; (2) Fitzpatrick, Baron of Upper Ossory; (3) Folliott, Baron of Ballyshannon; (4) Gorges, Baron of Dundalk; (5) Tichbourne, Baron Ferrard. If, however, as possibly was the case, the descent of Lord Gowran [I.] from the 3d Baron of Upper Ossory [I.] in the male line was correct, it is evident that, tho' under forfeiture, the last named Barony was not extinct.

(f) In "Lynch," p. 277, mention is made of papers relating to a claim to this Barony in 1749.

(g) This Richard suc. his elder br., Edward, 10 Nov. 1696, being 2d s. of John Fitzpatrick of Castletown in Queen's county (d. 1693), s. of Florence F. (living 12 Aug. 1652), 1st s. and h. of John F., both of Castletown afsd., who was said to be 2d s. of Florence, 3d Baron of Upper Ossory. See p. 9, note "d."

UPPER OSSORY in the Queens county [I.] He was M.P. for Beds., 1753-58. He m., 29 June 1744, Evelyn, 6th da. of John (LEVESON-GOWER), 1st EARL GOWER, by his first wife, Evelyn, da. of Evelyn (PIERREPONT), DUKE OF KINGSTON-UPON-HULL. He d. 23 Sep. 1758, aged 39, and was bur. with his parents at Grafton afsd. M.I. Will pr. 1758. His widow m. 6 Feb. 1759, at St. George's, Bloomsbury, Richard VERNON, Sec. of State to the Viceroy of Ireland, who survived her. She d. at Montauban in France, 14 April 1763, and was bur. there. M.I. at Grafton afsd.

II. 1758, to 1818.

2 and 1. JOHN (FITZPATRICK), EARL OF UPPER OSSORY [1751] and BARON GOWRAN [1715] in the peerage of Ireland, 1st s. and h., b. 2 May 1745; styled LORD GOWRAN from 1751, till he suc. to the peerage [I.] 25 Sep. 1758; ed. at Eton and Oxford.(a) M.P. for Beds. 1767; L.-Lieut. of that county, 1771-1818. He was cr. a Peer of Great Britain, 9 Aug. 1794, as BARON UPPER OSSORY OF AMPTHILL, co. Bedford. He m., 26 March 1769, at Kingston, co. Surrey, Anne, the divorced wife of the 3d DUKE OF GRAFTON,(b) da. and h. of Henry (LIDDELL), BARON RAVENSWORTH, by Anne, da. of Sir Peter DELME. She, who was 7 years his senior, d. in Grosvenor Square, 24 Feb., and was bur. at Grafton afsd., 4 March 1804, aged 66. M.I. Admon., Aug. 1806. He d. s.p. legit.(c) of apoplexy, at Ampthill Park, Beds., and was bur., 13 Feb. 1818, at Grafton, aged 72, when all his honours became extinct.(d) M.I. (c) According to the pedigree, proved in March 1795, before the committee for privileges, his issue was "Mary, b. 24 Feb. 1770; d. an infant," and "Gertrude, b. at Ampthill, Aug. 1774, and bap. there." This Gertrude d. unm. 30 Sep. 1841. Another da., Anne (probably illegit), said, in "Collins," to have been b. 10 Feb. 1774, d. unm. at Farming wood (where she and her said sister had long resided), 14 Dec. 1841, aged 67. These two were devisees for life of the Irish estates of their father (who, in his will, calls them "Lady Anne Fitzpatrick" and "Lady Gertrude Fitzpatrick"), the rem. being to an illegit. son, John Wilson, afterwards John Wilson Fitzpatrick, who, in 1869, was cr. Baron Castletown of Upper Ossory. There was, also, another such son, Richard, who d. unm. Another da. (doubtless illegit.), Emma Mary, inherited the estates of Farming Wood, Lyveden and Grafton, and m., in 1828, the Rt. Hon. Chichester, taking an active part in the colonization of Ulster and receiving a grant of the fort of Mountnorris and other grants, besides several small offices of state. He was M.P. [I.] for co. Armagh, 1613; was knighted at Theobalds, 16 June 1616; was Prime Sec. of State [I.], 1618; was cr. a Baronet [I.], 7 Aug. 1620,(a) being the second person advanced to that dignity [I.], and obtained, 11 March 1621/2,(b) the reversionary patent of the Viscountcy of Valentia [I.] as above stated. Tho' not on good terms with Lord Falkland, the Viceroy (so appointed in 1622), he was, in 1625, made Vice Treasurer and Gen. Receiver of the Revenue [I.], and on 8 Feb. 1628/9, was cr. BARON MOUNTNORRIS of Mountnorris, co. Armagh [I.], taking his seat 14 July 1634. In 1632, he received the addit. office of "Treasurer at Wars" [I.]. In 1635, however, he gave such offence to the Viceroy, Wentworth(c), by his mutinous conduct, that he was sentenced on 14 Dec. to lose his head, but, on his own petition, had pardon, 6 April 1637, under the great seal. Being anxious to regain his lost offices, he on 7 Nov. 1640. relinquished all advantage of such pardon, and submitted his case to the arbitration of "the Commons of England," obtaining in 1648, from the Parl. the office of Clerk of the Signet [I.] On 25 May 1642, he became (in right of the abovementioned patent of 11 March 1621/2), VISCOUNT VALENTIA [I.] on the death, s.p. of the former Viscount. He m. firstly, about 1608 Dorothea, da. of Sir John PHILIPPS, 1st. Bart. of Picton Castle, by his first wife, Anne, da. and coheir of Sir John PERROT, sometime Viceroy [I.] She d. 3 and was bur. 4 May 1624, at St. John's, Dublin. He m. secondly, Jane, widow of Sir Peter COURTENE, Bart., sister (of the half-blood), to Philip, 1st EARL OF CHESTERFIELD, being da. of Sir John Stanhope, of Elvaston, by his second wife, Catharine, da. of Thomas TREMPHAM, of Rocester, co. Stafford. He was bur. 23 Nov. 1660, at Thorganby, co. York. His widow d. 12 and was bur. 15 March 1683, at St. Mary's, Nottingham.

III. 1660. 2. Arthur (ANNESLEY), VISCOUNT VALENTIA, &c. [I.], s. and h. by first wife, b. 10 July 1614. His proxy was received in the House, 25 June 1661; on 20 April 1661 he was cr. a peer of England as BARON ANNESLEY and EARL OF ANGLESEY. He d. 6 April 1686.

IV. 1686. 3. JAMES (ANNESLEY), EARL OF ANGLESEY, &c., also VISCOUNT VALENTIA, &c. [I.], s. and h. He d. 1 April 1690.

V. 1690. 4. JAMES (ANNESLEY), EARL OF ANGLESEY, &c., also VISCOUNT VALENTIA, &c. [I.], s. and h. He took his seat [I.] 27 Aug. 1695. He d. s.p.m., 21 Jan. 1701/2.

VI. 1702. 5. JOHN (ANNESLEY), EARL OF ANGLESEY, &c., also VISCOUNT VALENTIA, &c. [I.], br. and h. male. He d. s.p.s., 18 Sep. 1710.

VII. 1710. 6. ARTHUR (ANNESLEY), EARL OF ANGLESEY, &c., also VISCOUNT VALENTIA, &c. [I.], br. and h. He took his seat [I.], 9 July 1711. He d. s.p., 1 April 1737.

(b) See "Creations, 1483-1646" in ap. 47th Rep. D. K. Pub. Records.

(c) One of the principal charges against Wentworth, then Earl of Strafford was having condemned Mountnorris to deprivation of life and fortune, before a council of war "for an unadvised passionate mysterious word." See Hist. Reb., by Clarendon, who adds that some excused the Earl on the ground that "Lord Mountnorris, a man of great industry, activity and experience, having raised himself from a very private mean condition . . . had always by servile flattery and sordid application, wrought himself into trust and nearness with all Deputies . . . and after the determination of their commands," done his best to ruin them. There seems little doubt that Annesley was corrupt in the discharge of his official duties, and that when his private interests were interfered with, he fell foul of the Government.

VIII. 1737. 7. RICHARD (ANNESLEY), EARL OF ANGLESEY, &c., also VISCOUNT VALENTIA, &c. [I.], and BARON ALTHAM [I.], cousin and h. male, being second(a) s. of Richard, 3d BARON ALTHAM [I.], who was third son of Arthur, 1st EARL OF ANGLESEY, &c., and (iiid) 2d VISCOUNT VALENTIA [I.]. He took his seat [I.] as Viscount Valentia [I.], 4 Oct. 1737. He d. 14 Feb. 1761. According to the decision of the English House of Lords he d. s.p. leg., whereby his English titles, the Earldom of Anglesey and Barony of Annesley became extinct, but, according to the decision of the Irish House of Lords, his marriage on 15 Sep. 1741 (with Juliana, da. of Richard DONOVAN was valid, and the son of such union was (in Ireland) legitimate, and consequently entitled to the Irish titles, as below.

IX. 1761. 8. ARTHUR (ANNESLEY), VISCOUNT VALENTIA, BARON MOUNTNORRIS and BARON ALTHAM [I.], only s. and h. of the above, by Juliana abovenamed; b. 7 Aug. 1744. He, being held by the Irish (tho' not by the English) House of Lords to be legit., suc. to the peerage [I.], as above, 14 Feb. 1761(b); mat. at Oxford (Ch. Ch.) 3 Sep. 1761, and was cr. M.A. 13 July 1763. He took his seat in the Irish House of Lords, 5 Dec. 1765, and again 7 Nov. 1771, his legitimacy being confirmed by a decision of that House, 1 June 1772. His claim, however (1765), for a writ to the English House of Lords (as Earl of Anglesey), was disallowed 22 April 1771. He was Gov. of co. Wexford; P.C. [I.], and was cr. 3 Dec. 1793, EARL OF MOUNTNORRIS [I], taking his seat 21 Jan. 1794. He m. firstly, 10 May 1767, at St. James's, Westm.(c) Lucy Fortescue, sister and heir (27 Nov. 1779), of Thomas (LYTTELTON), 2d BARON LYTTLETON OF FRANCKLEY, only da. of George, 1st Baron, by Lucy, da. of Hugh FORTESCUE. She, who was b. in Argyll Buildings, 18 March, and bap. 9 April 1743, at St. James's, Westm., d. 20 May 1783. He m. secondly, 20 Dec. 1783, Sarah, 3d da. of the Rt. Hon. Sir Henry CAVENDISH, Bart., by Sarah, suo jure BARONESS WATERPARK [I.] He d. at Paris of apoplexy, 4 July 1816, aged 72. Will pr. 1816. His widow, who was b. 24 May 1763, d. s.p.m s. 2 Jan. 1849, at Chesham place, aged 85. Will pr. May 1849.

X. 1816. 9. GEORGE (ANNESLEY), EARL OF MOUNTNORRIS [1793], VISCOUNT VALENTIA [1622], BARON MOUNTNORRIS [1628], and BARON ALTHAM [1681] in the peerage of Ireland, also a Baronet [I. 1620], 3d but 1st surv. s. and h.(d) by first wife, being only surv. s. of his mother, bap. 22 Jan. 1771 at Upper, or Over, Arley, co. Stafford; mat. at Oxford (Bras. Coll.) 17 Nov. 1787; styled VISCOUNT VALENTIA 1798-1815; M.P. for Yarmouth (Isle of Wight) 1808-18; suc. to the peerage [I.] 4 July 1816; Gov. of co. Wexford; F.R.S., F.S.A., F.L.S., &c. His claim as a Peer of Ireland, not only as an Earl, but as a Viscount and the holder of 2 Baronies, was admitted 6 March 1817 by the House of Lords [U.K.] on which ground, inasmuch as the Viscountcy, &c. could only have devolved on him from his grandfather, proving thereby the legitmacy of his father's birth, he petitioned 30 Jan. 1819 for his writ, as Earl of Anglesey, but the matter was referred to a committee for

(a) If, however, the statement is true, of James Annesley, "the unfortunate young nobleman," (claiming to be the lawful s. and h. of Arthur, 4th Baron Altham [I.], the elder br. of this Richard), the said James and his issue male (which however became ex. in 1764) would have had prior claim not only to the Earldom of Anglesey, &c., but also to the Viscouncty of Valentia, and the Baronies of Mountnorris and Altham [I.]. See "ALTHAM," under the note to the 4th Baron.

(b) John Annesley, of Ballysax, the next h. to the Viscountcy in 1771, contested his legitimacy. The extinction of this line has never been proved, and in 1817, according to a pedigree in Ulster's office, there were 4 grandsons of a John A. of Ballysax (who d. 1720), who was s. of John A., the 3d s. by first wife) of the 1st Viscount. The names of these were John A. and Charles A., sons of Rev. Richard A., who d. 1752, and John A. and Francis A., sons of Rev. Maurice A. This line is senior to that of the Annesleys of Bletchington, who, in 1884, considered themselves to be, as not improbably they were, entitled to the title.

(c) He is described in the register as "Earl of Anglesey," and signs himself "Altham-Anglesey."

(d) His elder br., Arthur, b. 2 Nov. 1769, and bap. 19 June 1770, at Upper Arley, was bur. there 26 March 1771.

He was b. 30 Nov. 1785, at Blechingdon ; suc. his father 20 Jan. 1841, and assumed (probably correctly) the peerage [I.] as above, on the death of his distant cousin, 23 July 1844, but took no steps to establish his right thereto. 1. THE HON. WILLIAM VANE, of Fairlawn, co. Will pr. April 1742.

2. WILLIAM HOLLES (VANE), VISCOUNT VANE, and BARON VANE OF DUNGANNON [I.], 3d and yst. but only surv. s. and h,; b. 4 Feb. 1713/4; suc. to the peerage [I.], 20 May 1734. He was well known for his eccentricities and extravagance, which ended in complete ruin. VAUGHAN.

The title of "VISCOUNT VAUGHAN" is used as the courtesy style of the h. ap. to the Earldom of Lisburne [I.], cr. 1766, the family name being Vaughan, and the Viscountcy of Lisburne, which these Earls possess, having the same designation as the Earldom.

VAUGHAN OF MULLENGAR.

See "BROUGHAM AND VAUX OF BROUGHAM, co. Westmorland," Barony (Brougham), cr. 1830; ex. 1858; but cr. again (with a spec. rem.) 1860.

(a) The two elder sons, Christopher and John, both d. v.p. unm. and under age, one of them d. 19 July 1721.

(b) The Viscounts Vane and their wives are continually confused with the Viscounts and Viscountesses Fane, a contemporary title, cr. 1718, and ex. 1766.

(c) Of him and his wife, Edward (Harley), Earl of Oxford writes ("Peerage memoranda," see N. and Q., 2d S. 1. 326), "She a very great w . . . ., and he a great fool." He appears, indeed, in spite of her infidelities and extravagance to have treated her with affection. See "Gent. Mag." for April 1789. She was for some time Mistress to Lord Berkeley. Her indecent autobiography, under the name of "Lady Frail" (the amorous adventures of "a Lady of Quality") disgraces Smollett's novel of "Peregrine Pickle."

VAUX OF HARROWDEN.

[Remarks.—This is one of a series of Baronies of which the abeyance was terminated in the first five years of Queen Victoria's reign. See Remarks thereon, vol. iv, p. 178, sub "Hastings," and vol. ii, p. 11, sub "Braye."]

Barony.

I. 1523, April. 1. SIR NICHOLAS VAUX, of Harrowden,(a) co. Northampton, s. and h. of Sir William VAUX, of the same (who was slain at Tewkesbury and attainted in 1460 for his fidelity to Henry VI.), by (—), da. of Gregory PENISTON, of Courtesells in Piedmont; was b. about 1460; ed. at Oxford(b); obtained restoration of his father's estate from Henry VII., by whom he was knighted, after the battle of Stoke in 1486; was present at the marriage of Prince Arthur, 1502; was Lieut. of Guisnes Castle, in Picardy, 1509, and was, with others, invested as a Baron (LORD VAUX DE HARROWDEN), 27 April 1523, at Bridewell palace.(c) He was also a poet of some note.(d) He m. firstly Elizabeth, widow of Sir William PARR, K.G. (and consequently grandmother to "Queen Catharine Parr"), da. of Henry (FITZHUGH), LORD FITZHUGH, by Alice, da. of Richard (NEVILLE), EARL OF SALISBURY. She d. s.p.m. He m. secondly, about 1508, Anne, da. and coheir of Sir Thomas GREENE, of Boughton and Green's Norton, co. Northampton, by Jane, da. of Sir John FOGG, of Repton, co. Kent. She, who was aged 16 in 1506, d. before him. He d. 14 May 1523 (within 3 weeks of his investiture as a Baron), there being no proof that he was ever sum. to Parl (e) Inq. p. mort., wherein he is styled as late "Lord Harrowdon," being also so styled in an Act of Parl. (1525) 27 Hen. VIII. Will pr. 1523.

II. 1523, May. 2. THOMAS (VAUX), LORD VAUX DE HARROWDEN, 1st s. and h. by second wife, suc. his father 14 May 1523, being then 14 years old. He sat in the parl. of (1529) 21 Hen. VIII.(f) but the writ of summons thereto is not to be found.(e) He was, however, sum. to Parl. 23 April (1531) 28 Hen. VIII. and was present therein, 27 March (1534) 25 Hen. VIII. and on eighteen other occasions during that reign, the last summons being dat. 17 May (1554) 1 Mary. He m. Elizabeth, da. and sole h. of Sir Thomas CHEYNE, of Fen Ditton, co. Cambridge, and of Thenford and Irthlingborough, co. Northampton, by Elizabeth,

(a) The estate of Harrowden was acquired after (probably soon after) 1410, by Sir William Vaux, father of this William from Sir William Thirninge. It was sold in 1694 to the Wentworth family, by Charles Knollys, illegit. son of Edward, Lord Vaux, 6th in descent from the first named Sir William. According to "Truth," 2 Aug. 1894, Lord Vaux "has just bought back Harrowden, which has been separated over 200 years from the title."

(b) Wood's "Athenæ."

(c) Four Peers were then and there invested, viz., one Viscount, i.e. Lisle, and 3 Barons, i.e. Berkeley, Saudys de Vyne, and Vaux de Harrowden. The patent of the Viscount bears date (two days previous) 25 April 1523. Baronies at this date were frequently (perhaps usually) cr. by writ (and not by patent), and such presumably was the case as to these three—at all events the House of Lords decided, in 1838, that Vaux was a Barony cr. by writ in the reign of Henry VIII. Looking, however, to the cases of Eure and Wharton, both long supposed to have been so created, it seems rather a rash assumption of their Lordships to assume that no patent existed to this 16th century Barony. Banks (Bar. Angl. Conc.) says that "it would seem that he was cr. by patent, and that Dugdale so considered it." adding that the infamous Countess of Banbury "is said to have destroyed the patent of creation of Nicholas, Lord Vaux (which was never enrolled), together with divers deeds relating to the entailed estates, to secure them to her bastard sons and thereby prevent Henry, the last Lord, succeeding to them."

(d) "The Paradice of Dainty Devices," London, 4to., 1578, was one of his productions.

(e) All the summons to Parl. from 6 to 21 Hen. VIII. (1514-29) are missing.

(f) The date 1529, being that in which there is the first notice of a sitting in this Barony, is presumably the date of the precedency of this peerage as indicated in the finding (1838) of the House of Lords.

da. and h. of Henry HUDLESTON, of Irthlingborough afsd.(a) or (according to another statement) by Anne, da. of Sir William PARR, K.G. abovenamed. He d. before Nov. 1556 and apparently before 30 May 1556.(b) tho' admon. of his goods was not granted till 20 Nov. 1574. His widow, who was aged 9 in 1513-14, d. 20 Nov. 1556. Inq. post mortem, 1 May (1557) 3 and 4 Ph. and Mary.

III. 1556? 3. WILLIAM (VAUX), LORD VAUX DE HARROWDEN, s. and h., suc. to the peerage about 1556, aged 22 and more in May 1557. He took his seat in Parl. 20 Jan. 1558/9, and was sum. thereto till 4 Feb. (1588-9) 31 Eliz.(c) He was several times convicted of recusancy, was tried in the Star Chamber, 15 Feb. 1581, for harbouring Edward Campion, the Jesuit, and sentenced to imprisonment and a fine of £1,000. He m. firstly, Elizabeth, da. of John BEAUMONT, of Gracedieu, co. Leicester, Master of the Rolls (1550-52) by Elizabeth, da. and h. of Sir William HASTINGS. He m. secondly, Mary, da. of John TRESHAM, of Rushton, co. Northampton, by Eleanor, da. of Anthony CATESBY, of Wiston. He d. 20 Aug. 1595 and was bur. at Irthlingborough. Inq. post Mortem. Will pr. 1596. His widow in her will, dat. 28 April to 26 Sep. 1597, pr. 6 July 1598, directs her burial to be with her husband. A previous admon. is dat. 4 Feb. 1597/8.

IV. 1595. 4. EDWARD (VAUX), LORD VAUX DE HARROWDEN, grandson and h., being s. and h. of George VAUX, of Pabenham, Beds., by Elizabeth, da. of John (ROPER), 1st BARON TEYNHAM, which George, who was the(d) second but 1st surv. s. and h. ap. (being 1st s. by the second wife) of the late Lord, d. v.p. 13 July 1595, about 5 weeks before his father. He suc. to the peerage, 20 Aug. 1595 being 7 years old on 13 Sep. following. He was sum. to parl. 3 Jan. (1620/1) 18 Jac. I. He m. in June 1632, within 5 weeks of her late husband's death, Elizabeth, widow of William (KNOLLYS), 1st EARL OF BANBURY, 1st da. of Thomas (HOWARD), 1st EARL OF SUFFOLK, by Katharine, 1st da. and coheir of Sir Henry KNYVETT, of Charlton, Wilts. He was reputed to be actual father of her 2 sons, Edward (b. 10 April 1627, d. a minor and unm. 1646), and Nicholas (b. 3 Jan. 1630/1, when the Earl, her husband, was about 85 years old), the latter of which sons went by the name of VAUX. At all events, on 19 Oct. 1646, he settled the whole of his estates on the said Nicholas, speaking of him as "now Earl of Banbury, heretofore called Nicholas Vaux" to the total exclusion of his own lawful heirs. She, who was bap. 11 Aug. 1586, at Saffron Walden, died 17 April 1658, aged 71. He d. 8 Sep. 1661, aged 74. Both were bur. at Dorking, Surrey. M.I. His will dat. 25 April 1661, proved 9 Sep. following.

V. 1661, to 1663. 5. HENRY (VAUX), LORD VAUX DE HARROWDEN, br. and h. He, who inherited none of the family estates, suc. to the peerage, 8 Sep. 1661, but never sat in Parl. He d. unm. 20 Sep. 1663, and was bur. at Eye, Suffolk. M.I. Will dat. 11 Sep. 1661, to 19 Sep. 1665, proved 12 Oct. following.

On his death the Barony fell into abeyance between (1) Joyce, his second sister, a nun at Eye, who d. unm. 1666; (2) Elizabeth, VISCOUNTESS MOUNTGARRETT [I.], only child of Mary his eldest sister; and (3) George, LORD ABERGAVENNY, 1st surv. s. and h. of Catharine his third and youngest sister. Between the descendants of these two last named sisters it continued in moities, nearly two centuries, till the abeyance was terminated as below.

(a) Bridges's "Northamptonshire" under "Irthlingborough."

(b) In Machyn's "Diary" it is said that Lord Vaux was bur. in Oct. 1556.

(c) It appears from the list of summonses that this William was sum. to Parl. till 4 Feb. [1588/9] 31 Eliz., and that in the next Parl., viz. 19 Feb. [1592/3] 35 Eliz. "Thomas Vaux de Harrowden, Chel'r." was sum. The name of Vaux does not occur again among the Barons until 18 James I., viz. 3 Jan. 1621, when Edward Vaux was sum. As no Thomas Vaux suc. to the title [i.e. none after the said William's father], it is possible that the entry in the list of summonses was erroneously transcribed from the Roll. [Nicolas slightly altered by Courthorpe.]

(d) Henry, his elder br. (of the half-blood), d. v.p. 1587-88).

VI. 1838. 6. GEORGE CHARLES MOSTYN, of Kiddington, co. Oxford, s. and h. of Charles MOSTYN(a) (d. 11 March 1821), by Mary (d. 2 Dec. 1831), da. and h. of George BUTLER, of Ballyragget, co. Kilkenney, was b. at Bath, 7 March 1804, and being thro' his said mother and the families of Vaux, Simeon, and Butler, a coheir(b) (senior heir to a moiety) of the Barony of Vaux de Harrowden, the abeyance thereof was terminated in his favour,(c) by writ, 12 March 1838, in which he was sum. to Parl. as LORD VAUX DE HARROWDEN, and was placed next below Lord Willoughby de Broke, a Barony cr. in 1492. He m., 9 July 1828, at St. Marylebone, Caroline, 1st da. of Arthur VANSITTART, of Shottesbrooke, Berks, by Caroline, 3d da. of William (EDEN), 1st Baron Auckland. He d. 28 Jan. 1883, at 6 Upper Grosvenor street, and was bur. at Gayton, co. Northampton, aged 78. His widow d. at the same house, 30 Sep. following, and was bur. at Gayton afsd.

VII. 1883. 7. HUBERT GEORGE CHARLES (MOSTYN), LORD VAUX DE HARROWDEN [1529?(c)], grandson and h.; being 1st s. and h. of the Hon. George Charles MOSTYN, by Mary,(d) da. of the Rt. Rev. James Henry MONK, L. Bishop of Gloucester, which George Charles was 1st s. and h. ap. of the late Lord, but d. v.p. at Cairo, 31 May 1879, aged 49. He was b. 4 June 1860; suc. to the peerage, 28 Jan. 1883; ed. at Trin. Coll., Cambridge; B.A., 1883; M.A., 1886; was Attaché to the mission to Cairo, 1885; 3d Sec. in diplomatic service, 1886; 2d Sec., 1891. He m., 25 Aug. 1886, Eleanor Margaret, 2d da. of Sir Alexander MATHESON, 1st Bart., of Lochalsh, co. Ross, being 1st da. by his third wife, Eleanor Irving, da. of Spencer PERCEVAL. She d. 18 Sep. 1896, aged 33, at Muirtown House, and was bur. at Great Harrowden, co. Northampton.

Family Estates.—These, in 1883, consisted of 4,323 acres in the counties of Westmeath, Kilkenney, and Meath, worth £2,401 a year; inherited from the family

The said Charles took the addit. name of Browne on inheriting the Kiddington estate, and d. 19 Sep. 1844, aged 90, being suc. by his grandson, afterwards Lord Vaux.

VAVASOUR.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1299. 1. SIR WILLIAM LE VAVASOUR,(a) of Haselwood, co. York, whose actual parentage (tho' descended from an ancient family long settled there) is not very clear,(b) having served in the wars in Gascony and Scotland, had lic. to crenellate his house of Haselwood [1289-90], 18 Ed. I.; was sum. to Carlisle "equis et armis" among the Barons, 26 Sep. (1298) 26 Ed. I., and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD VAVASOUR) from 6 Feb. (1298/9) 27 Ed. I. to 7 Jan. (1312/3) 6 Ed. II. He m. Nichola, sister to Sir Richard and da. of Sir Stephen WALEYS, of Newton. He d. (1312-13) 6 Ed. II.

II. 1313, to 1325? 2. WALTER (LE VAVASOUR), LORD VAVASOUR, s. and h.(c) was sum. to Parl. 26 July (1313) 7 Ed. II., but never afterwards, nor was any other of his family. "He d. s.p., leaving Elizabeth, only child of his br., Sir Robert Vavasour (d. 16 Ed. II.), his niece and heir."(d)

VEEL.

PETER DE VEEL, or, possibly, LE VEEL,(e) who, in (1336) 10 Ed. III., had the custody of the county of Devon, &c., was, by writ directed "Petro de Veel," one of 96 persons sum. 25 Feb. (1341/2), 16 Ed. III., to a council, not a regular Parl., tho' often erroneously(f) held to have been one.(g)

VENDOSME.

The title of "EARL OF VENDOSME AND BEAUMONT," was borne, in 1431-32, by Robert (WILLOUGHBY), LORD WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY; whom see.

(a) The name is derived from that of some dignity and is considered by Ferne ("Blazon of Gentrie," p. 102) as the equivalent of "Banneret." The "Vavasores Regis" who occur in Domesday book, are, says Selden ("Titles of Honour" p. 625), "much the same as Liberi homines Regis." Chaucer, in his description of the Frankelein, or great Freeholder, says of him that there "Was no wher swiche a worthy Vavasour." [Lower's "Family Names."]

(b) "Dugdale states him to have been s. of Robert Le Vavasor by Juliana, da. of Thomas de Multon, but according to Collins (Baronetage, vol. ii, p. 130) he was son of John Le Vavasor, by Alice, da. of Robert de Cockfield [sic. but at the reference given the name is 'Rookfield'], which seems confirmed by a MS. pedigree of the family in the Minster Library at York, as also the Originalia Record (Orig., 23 Ed. I., rot. 13) that as s. and h. of Alice he did homage for the lands of his mother, which she held of the Barony of Baieux." [Banks's "Par. Angl. Conc."] According to "N. & Q." (7th S.I., 249) the wife of "John, Lord Vavasor of Haslewood," is "stated in the escheat rolls of Ed. III." [sic.] to be (not "Alice Cockfield" or "Rookfield" but) "Alicia, 2d da. of Jordan de Sancta Maria, and Alicia, da. of Bertramus Haget." If the parents of William, Lord Vavasour, are here indicated, the esch. roll must relate to some much earlier period than its date.

(c) The affiliation of this Walter (as s. and h. of William, Lord Vavasour) is on the authority of Courthope. Nicolas, following Dugdale, does not attribute any issue to that William, saying of Walter, that he is "presumed to have been nearly related" to the said William. As Courthope, however, speaks (see note "d" below) of having consulted divers pedigrees of the family, he, doubtless, had good grounds for correcting "Nicolas" in the matter.

(d) "Courthope," where it is added that this Elizabeth "m. Sir Robert Strelly of Nottinghamshire, whose representation in the male line continued till about the reign of King Henry VIII., when John Strelly, Esq., ob. s.p.m., and among the representatives of his four daughters and coheirs, viz. (1), Anne, wife of Sir Richard Stanhope; (2) Margaret, wife of John Powtrell; (3) Isabel, wife of Clement Low; and (4) Elizabeth, wife of William Aiscough, this dignity is in abeyance. It is to be remarked, that although all the Vavasour pedigrees consulted by the Editor [Courthope] concur in giving a daughter and heir to Sir Robert Vavasour, there are two Inquisitions made upon his decease, in both of which his brother, Henry, is stated to be his heir, and if the said Henry were not only heir male, but heir general of his brother, the representation of the dignity would be now vested in the heir or coheirs of Vavasour, VENTRY.

Barony [I.]

I. 1800. 1. SIR THOMAS MULLINS, Bart. [I.], of Burnham, co. Kerry, s. and h. of William MULLINS,(h) of the same (d. 3 May 1761, aged 71), by Mary, da. of George ROWAN, of Mahara, co. Derry, was b. 25 Oct. 1736; was cr. a Baronet [I.] 7 Dec. 1797, and was cr. 31 July 1800,(i) BARON VENTRY of Ventry, co. Kerry [I.] He m., 5 Oct. 1755, Elizabeth, da. of Townsend GUNN, of Ratton, co. Kerry, by Elizabeth, da. of Conway BLENNERHASSETT, of Castle Conway in that county. She d. 16 Jan. 1823 in her 88th year, at Burnham House, co. Kerry. He d. there (a year afterwards), 11 Jan. 1824, in his 88th year.

II. 1824. 2. WILLIAM TOWNSEND (MULLINS), BARON VENTRY [I.] 1st s. and h.; b. 25 Sep. 1761; suc. to the peerage [I.], 11 Jan. 1824. He m. firstly, 12 July 1784, Sarah Anne, 5th and yst. da. of Sir Riggs FALKINER, 1st Bart. [I.] of Anne Mount, co. Cork, by Mary, da. of (—) BARKER. She d., s.p.m., Nov. 1788. He m. secondly, 12 May 1790, Frances Elizabeth, only da. of Isaac SAGE. This marriage was dissolved by Act of Parl. in March 1796. He m. thirdly, 10 Sep. 1797, Clara, 6th da. of Benjamin JONES. He d. s.p.m.s.,(k) 5 Oct. 1827, at his residence, Chateau de la Cocherie, near Boulogne. His widow m., April 1832, Peter FitzGibbon HENCHY. She d. 17 Jan. 1837, in Dublin.

III. 1827. 3. THOMAS TOWNSEND AREMBERG (MULLINS, afterwards, 1841, DE MOLEYNS), BARON VENTRY [I.] nephew and h. male, being only s. and h. of the Hon. Townsend MULLINS, by Christabella, da. of Solomon DAYROLLES, of Henley park, co. Surrey, which Townsend was 2d s. of the 1st Baron, and d. 1799,(l) aged 36. He was b. Jan. 1786, and suc. to the peerage [I.] 5 Oct. 1827. By royal lic. 16 Feb. 1841, he took the name of DE MOLEYNS in lieu of that of MULLINS(m) of Haselwood, co. York." This branch (who were Baronets from 1628 to 1826) continued in the male line till 1826.

(e) It seems probable that the name is merely another spelling of Le Viel, to distinguish the elder from the younger man of the same surname.

(f) See Round's article on "The Barony of Dawbeney" in "The Genealogist," N.S., vol. iv, pp. 42—46.

(g) Courthope adds that "his representation continued to exist in unbroken male descent till about the reign of King Henry VI., when it passed into the family of Mathew, by the marriage of Alice, da. and h. of Robert Veel, with David Mathew; which David died, leaving four daughters and coheirs, viz. (1) Katharine, wife of Sir Henry Wogan, (2) Elizabeth, wife of Richard Hoord of co. Salop, (3) Anne, wife of John Baynham of Westbury, and (4) Margaret, wife of Sir Thomas Throckmorton, amongst whose descendants the dignity [if any hereditary dignity can be held to have been created by the summons of 1342], is in abeyance." An elaborate pedigree is given in Banks's "Bar. Angl. Conc." among his "Barones preterminsi."

(h) This William (s. and h. of Frederick, who d. v.p 3 Oct. 1695), was grandson and h. (3 Nov. 1712), of Col. Frederick William Mullins, a native of Burnham, in England, who first settled in Ireland, and was M.P. [I.] for Dingle, 1692-95, and for Tralee, 1695-96, by Jane, da. and coheir of John Eveleigh, Dean of Ross. In right of this match, the 4th Lord Ventry, their descendant in the 6th [!] generation took, some 200 [!] years later, (i.e. in 1874), the surname of Eveleigh in addition to his (then embellished) patronymic of de Moleyns.

(i) Ventry was the 9th of 16 Baronies [I.] made that day. The patent was never enrolled, but was produced in the House of Lords. See vol. iv, p. 205, note "c," sub "Henniker," and see also vol. vi, p. 376, note "d," sub "Riversdale."

(k) Thomas, his only s. and h. ap. (by his 3d wife), b. 12 Aug. 1798; d. v.p., unm., 31 May 1817.

(l) It was said (but the truth of such saying has not been ascertained), that he was hung for forgery.

(m) "At Burnham, in Buckinghamshire, was an Abbey to which Sir John DE MOLEYNS was a benefactor, circa 1338. He was the favourite knight of William de Montacute, Earl of Salisbury, K.G., who gave him his own arms on a chief. These arms, varied by the introduction of ermine spots, are now borne by Lord Ventry instead of the cross moline formerly borne by the family." [Letter from H. Gough.] It is presumed that the noble house of Mullins claims descent from this Sir John, for himself and the other descendants of his grandfather. He m. 18 Aug. 1821, his cousin, Eliza Theodora, 2d da. of Sir John Blake, 11th Bart. [I.], of Menlough, co. Galway, being 1st da. of his second wife, Rose, da. of Edward Blake, by Theodora, da. of Thomas (Mullins), 1st Baron Vestry [I.] He d. 18 Jan. 1868, at Burnham House aforesaid, in his 82d year. His widow d. 25 Oct. 1879, aged 77, at Bournemouth.

IV. 1863. 4. Daveollier-Blakeney (de Molyneux, afterwards [1874] Eveleigh-de Molyneux, and previously [1823-41], Mullins), Baron Vestry [I. 1866], and also a Baronet [I. 1797], 1st a. and h.; b. 22 Jan. 1823; Ens. Prem [I.], 10 July 1871; Lieut.-Col. com. 4th Bn. Royal Munster Fusiliers, 1864-66; suc. to the peerage [I.] 18 Jan. 1868. By royal lic. [I.], 3 Nov. 1874, he took the name of Eveleigh, before that of de Molyneux. He m. 12 Sep. 1860, at Biddrie House, co. Midlothian, Harriet Elizabeth Frances, 1st da. of Andrew Wauchope, of Biddrie Mariechal, by Frances Mary, da. of Henry Lloyd, of Farrenrory, co. Tipperary.

Family Estates—These, in 1883, consisted of 93,629 acres in co. Kerry, worth £17,067 a year. Residence—Burnham House, near Dingle, co. Kerry.

VERDON.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1295. 1. Theobald de Verdon,[b] s. (possibly s. and h.), of John de Verdon, otherwise Le Botiller,[c] of Alton, co. Stafford, (slain in Ireland, 1278), by his first wife, Margaret, da. of Gilbert de Lacy, and grandaughter and coheir of Walter de Lacy, of Ewyas Lacy and Weobley, co. Hereford, Lord of the palatine honour of Meath,[d] became, in right of his said mother, Lord of Duleek, i.e., the eastern moiety of the honour of Meath, having livery thereof (1274-75), 3 Ed. I., being at that time Constable of Ireland. He was in the Parl. of (1289-90), 18 Ed. I., but was in (1290-91), 19 Ed. I., found guilty of high treason, and his estates confiscated, tho' he was subsequently released for a fine of 500 marks. He was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD VERDON), from 24 June (1295), 23 Ed. I. to 3 Nov. (1306), 34 Ed. I., the writs after (1298-99), 27 Ed. I. having the addition of the word "Senior." His name as "Theobaldus de Verdon, Dominus de Weobele" is affixed to the Barons' letter to the Pope, in 1301.[e] In (1305-06), 34 Ed. I., he was sum. to the Scotch war. He is said to have m. Margery, or Eleanor. He d. at his castle of Alton, co. Stafford, 24 Aug. 1309, and was bur. in Croxden Abbey. Inq. p. mort., 28 Aug. 1309.

but, according to the royal lic. of 1841, the grantee was "descended from a family long seated at Burnham, co. Norfolk, of which his immediate ancestor, Frederick William Mullins, or Molins, came to Ireland in the reign of Charles II."; also that "previously to the 16th century, the family name was uniformly [!] spelled Molins, and more ancently [!] de Moleyns or de Molins." [This last statement reminds one of the material which would "wear for ever, and make a petticoat afterwards."] These more ancient ancestors of the house of Mullins, are (with probably equal authenticity), indicated in Burke's "Peerage" for 1841 as under. "The family derives from a common ancestor with that of Molyneux, Earls of Sefton, viz. Sir Richard Molyneux, Knt., of Sefton, co. Lancaster, from whom descended William Molyneux, or Mullins, of Burnham, co. Norfolk, whose son (Frederick William), settled in Ireland." The reader is left to chose between these two illustrious, but conflicting descents, as a deep haze obscures the view not only of the ancestry, but even of the actual parentage of this William Mullins, father of the emigrant to Ireland; as also as to the fact whether Buckinghamshire or Norfolk is to be credited with the honour of his origin.

(a) See p. 23, note "h," as to his remote descent from this family.

(b) The name, apparently, is from Verdun, on the Meuse in France, a town well known as the place where the English prisoners were confined by Napoleon.

(c) This John was s. and h. of Theobald Le Botiller, by Rohesia, da. and h. of Nicholas de Verdon, who inherited the vast estates of that family.

(d) See vol. i, p. xi, in "introduction."

(e) See full description thereof in "Nicolas," pp. 761—809.

II. 1299, to 1316. 2. THEOBALD (VERDON), LORD VERDON, 2d but 1st surv. s. and h.,[a] aged 30 and more at his father's death. He, as well as his father, was sum., "equis et armis," to Carlisle (1297-98), 26 Ed. I., both being designated Barons. He was knighted v.p., in England, 24 June 1298, and was sum. to Parl. v.p. as a Baron (LORD VERDON), from 29 Dec. (1299) 28 Ed. I. to 24 Oct. (1314) 8 Ed. II., the earlier writs, down to 22 Feb. (1306/7) 35 Ed. I., having the addition of the word "Junior," which is omitted in those from 4 March (1308/9) 2 Ed. II. He had livery of his father's lands in 1310, being then aged 28; was Chief Gov. of Ireland (as Custos), 1314-15. He m. firstly, about 1299, Maud, sister of Roger (MORTIMER), 1st EARL OF MARCH, da. of Edmund, LORD MORTIMER, by Elizabeth, da. and coheir of Bartholomew (DE BADLESMERE), LORD BADLESMERE. She d. at Alton Castle, and was bur. 9 Oct. 1312, at Croxden Abbey afsd. He m. secondly, 3 Feb. 1315/6, at Bristol, Elizabeth, widow of John DE BURGH (d. v.p. 18 June 1313), 3d da. of Gilbert (DE CLARE), EARL OF GLOUCESTER and EARL OF HERTFORD, by his second wife, the Lady JOAN PLANTAGENET, 3d but 2d surv. da. of Edward I. He d. s.p.m.s.,[b] aged about 36, at Alton Castle, 27 July and was bur. 13 Oct. 1316, at Croxden abbey afsd., when the Barony fell into abeyance.[c] His widow, who on the death, 24 June 1314, of her br., Earl Gilbert, to whom she was 3d sister and coheir, inherited the Lordship of Clare, co. Suffolk, &c., m. as her 3d husband, Roger (D'AMORIE), LORD D'AMORIE [1317 to 1322], who was attainted 1322, and d. s.p.m. the same year, at Tutbury Castle, co. Stafford. She, who was Foundress of "Clare Hall," Cambridge, d. 4 Nov. 1360, aged about 68. Will, directing her burial to be at the Sisters' Minories, Aldgate, London, dat. at Clare, 25 Sep. 1355, pr. 3 Dec. 1360.[d]

III. 1332, to 1342. 1. JOHN DE VERDON was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD VERDON), from 27 Jan. (1331/2) 6 Ed. III. to 22 Jan. (1335/6) 9 Ed. III., and again 25 Feb. (1341/2) 16 Ed. III.[e] No account is given of him in "Dugdale," but he is presumed to have been the same as John, s. of Thomas de Verdon, of Brisingham, co. Norfolk, and Brixworth, co. Northampton, and to have been aged 16 on 24 June 1316.[f] He d. s.p.m.[g] [Qy. in 1346]. None, however, of his descendants were ever sum. to Parl.

II. 1313, to 1314.

1. WILLIAM DE VESCI, called "of Kildare" (from the place of his birth), illegit. s.(f) of William (DE VESCI), LORD DE VESCI abovenamed, inherited Malton and other considerable estates in Yorkshire, &c. from his said father; was in the expedition to Scotland, 1308, and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD DE VESCI), from 8 Jan. (1312/3),

(a) See vol. iii, p. 365, note "d," sub "Fitz-John," where also a list of those so sum. is given.

(b) This William was s. and h. of Eustace de Vesci, one of the celebrated 25 Barons appointed to enforce the observance of Magna Charta, who was slain about 1216.

(c) This was in right of his paternal grandmother, Margaret, da. of William, the Lion, King of Scotland. She was, however, one of the King's 5 illegit. children, each child being ancestor of a like competitor. Had any of them been legitimate, their descendants would have been prior to those of David, that King's brother, who was the ancestor of the families of Balliol and Bruce.

(d) John de Vesci, his only s. and h. ap., served in the wars of Gascony. He m. about 1287, Clementia [Qy. Isabel], a kinswoman of Eleanor of Castile, the Queen Consort, but d. s.p. and v.p. Isabel, widow of John de Vesci, was living in 1309, as well as (another) Isabel, widow of William de Vesci, being both entitled to dower.

(e) The celebrated Anthony de Beke, Bishop of Durham, was enfeoffed thereof on such trust, which he afterwards betrayed, selling 19 Nov. 1309, the castle and honour of Alnwicke to the Percy family, who or whose descendants have ever since possessed it.

(f) "In the Inq. after his death held at Lincoln on the feast of St. Oswald [5 Aug. 1315], 9 Ed. II., he is stated to have held certain lands 'ex dono et feoffamento Will'i de Vesci patris sui,' to him and the heirs of his body, but no express notice occurs in that or any of the other inquisitions held on his demise of his having been a bastard,

6 Ed. II to 29 July (1314), 8 Ed. II. He m. Maud, widow of Thomas NEVILL, of Chetham. He d. s.p., being slain by the Scotch, 24 June 1314, at the battle of Brannockburn, when the Barony became extinct. Inq. p.m. 5 Aug. 1315, at Lincoln.

III. 1449, to 1469. 1. SIR HENRY BROMFLETE, of Malton, &c., co. York, only surv. s. and h. of Sir Thomas BROMFLETE, of the same, by Anastacia, da. and h. of Sir Edward ST. JOHN, and Anastacia, da. and coheir of William (DE ATON), LORD ATON, having inherited, thro' his mother, the estates of the family of Aton, which included those of DE VESCI(a); had livery of his father's estate (1430-31), 9 Hen VI., being then a knight; was Sheriff of co. York, and Gov. of York Castle; Ambassador to the Council at Basle in Germany, 1433-34; and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD DE VESSY). 24 Jan. (1448/9), 27 Hen. VI., the writ being directed "Henrico Bromflet, militi, Baroni(b) de Vessy," and containing the remarkable (indeed unique) clause that the Barony of de Vessy should be hereditary to the heirs male of his body.(c) He was so sum. till 28 Feb. (1465/6), 6 Ed. IV., but had obtained, in 1456, dispensation from attendance in parl. in consideration of his eminent services to Hen. V. in the wars in France and Normandy, as also of his own advanced age. He m. firstly (pardon 14 Aug. 1416), Joan, widow of Henry (LE SCROPE), LORD SCROPE DE MASHAM, formerly wife of William (WILLOUGHBY), LORD WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, and, before that, of Edmund, (PLANTAGENET), DUKE OF YORK, 2d da. of Thomas (HOLAND), 2d EARL OF KENT, by Alice, da. of Richard (FITZALAN), EARL OF ARUNDEL. She d. s.p., 12 April 1434. He is said to have m. secondly (about 1465 ?), "Eleanor, da. of William, LORD FITZBURGH."(d) He d. s.p.m.(e) 16 Jan. (1468/9), 8 Ed. IV., when the Barony became extinct.

though the form of them somewhat justifies such a conclusion, as the lands of which he died seised devolved on the h. of his putative father, viz. Gilbert de Aton I., 1st Baron de Aton, he being s. and h. of William, br. and h. of Gilbert, s. and h. of William, s. and h. of Gilbert de Aton, by Margery, da. and h. of Warine de Vesci, br. of Eustace III. Baron. In 28 Hen. VI., Henry de Bromflete being descended from a coh. of the said Gilbert de Aton, was sum. to Parl. as 'Henry Bromflete de Vessy.'"--[Courthope.]

(a) William, Lord Aton, above named, was only s. and h. of Gilbert, Lord Aton (see that dignity), who inherited the de Vesci estates in Yorkshire, &c., on the death s.p., 1314, of William, Lord de Vesci, under the settlement of the preceding Lord de Vesci, the putative father of the last named William. The said Gilbert was s. and h. of William de Aton, of Aton, co. York, by Margery, da. and h. of Warine de Vesci, a yr. br. of Eustace de Vesci (one of the 25 Barons of Magna Charter), who was grandfather to William, Lord de Vesci, 1295-97, the putative father of the said William, Lord de Vesci, who d. in 1314.

(b) Nicolas and Courthope give (erroneously), the words as "Domino de Vessy."

(c) "Volumus enim vos et hæredes vestros masculos de corpore vestro legitime exeuntes, Baroness de Vessy existere." This clause seems to go far to prove that at that date a mere writ of summons was not held as sufficient of itself to create an hereditary peerage, for the clause was presumably one of augmentation, not one of restriction, which would prevent that said Henry from obtaining by the said writ a Barony (as, according to later decisions in such cases, would have been the result), heritable by all his descendants. Though such a clause never occurred, before or after this date, in any English writ of summons, it was made use of, in 1689, by James II., after his deposition from the English throne, in the creation of three Irish Baronies. See vol iii, p. 356, note "b." sub "Fitton of Gosworth."

(d) Burke's "Extinct Peerage, 1883."

(e) Margaret, his only da. and h., aged 26, was then the wife of Sir Lancelot Threlkeld, having formerly been wife of John (Clifford), Lord de Clifford. She d. 12 April 1493. The title of "Lord Vescy" was assumed by her descendants. See vol. ii, p. 292, note "b," sub "Clifford."

WAHULL, DE WAHULL, or WODHULL.

The family of Wahull, or Wodhull, was so called from the Honour and Manor of that name, afterwards known as Odell, in co. Bedford, of which (or of the greater part of which) they were the territorial Lords from the time of the Conquest to that of Henry VIII.,[a] and, as such Lords, were spoken of as BARONS DE WAHULL.[b]

THOMAS DE WAHULL, the representative of this family, who had suc. his father, John DE WAHULL, 5 April 1296, being then aged 23, was sum. 26 Jan. 1296/7, to attend the King at Salisbury, but this was not a regular writ of summons to Parl.[c] such as is held to constitute (with sitting there-

(a) An elaborate pedigree is in Baker's "Northamptonshire," vol. i, p. 711, under "Thenford," in that county, where the family continued in the male (tho' cadet) line till the death s.p. of Michael Wodhull, 10 Nov. 1816, aged 76, the heir male, tho' not the heir general, of this race. See, also, Harvey's "Willey Hundred, Beds."

(b) "They were all Barons by tenure, and by tenure only" [Townsend's "Additions" in "Coll. Top. et Gen.," vol. vii, p. 267]. It was noticed by the Commissioners in the Reports on the dignity of a Peer (1826), "that the persons called Barons of Wahull or Wodhull," (like other Barons therein mentioned) were not sum. to Parl. See vol. iv. p, 304, note "c," sub "Hylton."

(c) See vol. i, p. 111, note "b," sub "Ap. Adam."

under) an hereditary Barony. He was, also, sum. "equis et armis," 21 Oct. (1297) 25 Ed. I., to Newcastle on Tyne, and 30 March (1298) 26 Ed. I., for the Scotch expedition. He d. (1304) 32 Ed. I., leaving John, his s. and h., then aged 1 year and 17 weeks, but neither he nor any of his descendants were sum. to Parl. as Barons, tho' they continued to hold the lands in regular male succession till the death s.p.m. of Anthony de Wahull, or Wodhull,[a] 4 Feb. 1541/2.

WAKE, and WAKE DE LYDELL.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1295. 1. JOHN WAKE, of Liddell, co. Cumberland, Kirkby Moreshed, &c., co. York, &c., s. and h. of Baldwin WAKE,[b] of the same, by Hawise,[c] da. and coheir of Robert DE QUINCY, of Colne Quincy, co. Essex, suc. his father (1282) 10 Ed. I., doing homage for his lands in 1290; was in the wars of Gascony and Scotland, being a Commissr.

[a] Altho' it would seem that no peerage Barony of WAHULL ever existed, that fact has by no means hindered the heir general of these feudal Barons from claiming it as one. Accordingly, in the time of James I., Sir Richard Chetwode, grandson and heir, ex parte materna of the said Anthony Wodhull, possessing the manor and castle of Odell, petitioned for a writ of summons to Parl. as Baron de Wahull, which petition "was referred to the Duke of Lenox, the Lord Howard, and the Earl of Nottingham, as exercising the office of Earl Marshal, whose certificate, as given by Banks, stated that the averments in his petition, that his ancestors were Barons in their own right before the usual calling of Barons by writ, and were also sum. to Parl.* were true; and on these and other grounds, but which had nothing to do with his claim to the dignity in question, reported that they held him worthy the honour of a Baron, if his Majesty thought meet. Nothing was done in consequence of this report, which admitted no right to the Barony, but merely recommended the Claimant to the notice of the Crown, as a proper person to receive the dignity of the Peerage." [Courthope].

In a note by "C.G.Y." [i.e., Sir Charles G. Young, Garter, 1842-69] in "Coll. Top. et Gen." (vol. vii. pp. 267-268) it is stated that "about 1739, Knightley Chetwood, Esq., the lineal descendant and heir of Sir Richard, revived the claim, without any successful result. In 1831, Jonathan Chetwood, Esq., of Woodbrook in the Queens County in Ireland, the rep. and h. gen. of Sir R. Chetwood, and, as such, the heir of Thomas de Wahull," (sum. 1297-98, as in the text) presented a like petition, on which the Attorney Gen. (Denman) observed in his report thereon, May 1832, "that altho' the fact of the ancient Barons having sat in Parl. had received no direct proof, the argument adduced appeared to him to deserve great consideration." It was accordingly referred, 18 April 1833, to a committee for privileges, and there, apparently, the matter ended.

In a royal lic., 19 Dec. 1885 (issued 4 Jan. 1886, from Dublin Castle) for Constantia Elizabeth Aiken, widow, to take the name of Chetwood, before that of Aiken, it is stated that her father (of whom she was only da. and h.), John Chetwood, Capt. 73d Foot, decd., had "become the heir and representative of Sir Richard Chetwood, the Claimant of the Barony of De Wahull, in the reign of King James I."

The claim of John Chetwood Chetwood-Aiken, of Stoke Bishop, co. Gloucester, s. and h. of the above lady (then recently deceased) to "the Barony of Wahull, which dates back to the time of William the Conqueror," came before the committee for Privileges, who, on 27 June 1892, decided that no proof having been adduced of sitting under writ by any of the claimant's ancestors he "had failed to prove that there was a creation of any such Baron de Wahull as he alleged." [Morning Post, 28 June 1892].

* "From this expression it would be inferred, that repeated Writs of Summons had been issued to his ancestors; but, as it it is stated above, there is but one instance recorded of a Writ of Summons to Parliament having been directed to this family, and that instance is the doubtful Writ of the 25th Edw. I." [Courthope]. See as to this writ p. 34, note "c."

[b] He was s. and h. of Hugh Wake, of Blisworth, co. Northampton (d. at Jerusalem, 1246), by Joan, da. and eventually sole h. of Nicholas DE STUTEVILLE, of Liddell abovenamed. He, himself, took a leading part against Henry III., but was subsequently pardoned.

[c] Her mother, Helen, was widow of John (Le Scot), Earl of Chester, da. of Llewellyn ap Jorweth, Prince of North Wales.

for guarding the marches of Scotland, 1299, and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD WAKE), by writs dated from 1 Oct. (1295) 23 Ed. I. to 19 Dec. (1299) 28 Ed. I. He m. Joane,[a] said to be da. of Sir John FITZBARNARD, of Kingsdown, co. Kent. He d. (1300) 28 Ed. I. Esch. 28 Ed. I.

(1348) 22 Ed. III., the writs being generally directed "Thomæ Wake," but sometimes "Thomæ Wake de Lydell." He took part against Ed. II. with the Queen Consort, by whom he was made Justice of all forests, south of Trent, and Constable of the Tower of London. In the next reign he was Gov. of Hertford Castle, as also of the islands of Jersey, Guernsey, &c. He was one of the 12 Lords[c] appointed in Jan. 1326/7, as Council to the young King Edward III.; took part with Edward Balliol in his claim to the Crown of Scotland in 1329; was suspected, but cleared himself, of being in the Earl of Kent's conspiracy in 1330, and was in the wars with France, 1342. He m. Blanche, 2d da. of Henry (PLANTAGENET), EARL OF LANCASTER (grandson of Henry III.), by Maud, da. and h. of Sir Patrick CHAWORTH. He d. s.p. 31 May (1349) 23 Ed. III. She had livery of her late brother's estates, but d. shortly afterwards, 29 Sep. 1349, aged 40.

She m. secondly Edward, Prince of Wales (who d. v.p. 8 June 1376, aged 46), by whom she was mother of Richard II. She d. 8 July 1385, aged about 54.

His widow, who was bap. 10 July 1736, at St. James' afsd., m. 6 Sep. 1766, at her house in Pall Mall, H.R.H. Prince William Henry, DUKE OF GLOUCESTER, who d. 25 Aug. 1805, aged 61. Her Grace d. at Brompton, co Midx., 22 and was bur. (with her second husband) 31 Aug. 1807, in St. George's chapel, Windsor, aged 71.(e) Will pr. 1807.

Earldom. III. Barony. IV. } 1763. 3 and 4. JOHN (WALDEGRAVE), EARL WALDEGRAVE, &c., only surv. br. and h. male, being 3d and yst. s. of the 1st Earl(f); b. at Ghent, in Flanders, 28 April 1718; entered the army 1735, distinguishing himself at the battle of Minden, 1 Aug. 1759, and becoming eventually, 1772, full General; was Aide-de-Camp to the Duke of Cumberland, 1747; Groom of the Bedchamber, to Geo. II., 1747, and to Geo. III., 1760-63; M.P. for Oxford, 1747-54, and for Newcastle-under-Lyne, 1754-63; Gov. of Plymouth, 1760; suc. to the peerage, 28 April 1763; Master of the Horse to the Queen Consort, 1770; Col. of the Coldstream Foot Guards, 1775; L.-Lieut. of Essex, 1781. He m. 7 May, 1751, Elizabeth, sister to Granville (LEVESON-GOWER), 1st MARQUESS OF STAFFORD. 5th da. of John, 1st EARL GOWER, by his first wife, Evelyn, da. of Evelyn (PIERREPONT), 1st DUKE OF KINGSTON-UPON-HULL. She, who in March 1748/9, was Lady of the Bedchamber to the Princesses, Amelia and Caroline, d. 28 April, and was bur. 5 May 1784, at Navestock. He d. six months later, suddenly of apoplexy, at an inn near Reading, 22 and was bur. 30 Oct. 1784, at Navestock, aged 66.(g) Admon. March 1785, and again Aug. 1843.

(a) He appears to have been a successful diplomatist. H. Walpole ("Geo. II., vol. i, p. 91) says that he "had complaisance enough to have covered folly or ill-nature, tho' in him it only concealed a very good understanding and made his good nature the less observed."

(b) "Doyle"; but no such appointment, is in Ockerby's "Haydn's dignities."

(c) This Dorothy is said to have been a milliner's apprentice at Durham.

(d) A very long and highly eulogistic character of him is thereon. A copy is given in "Collins." The Earl is best known as being author of "Historical Memoirs, 1754-1758," pub. in 1821, and noticed (very fully) in the "Quarterly Review," vol. xxv. His portrait "after Sir J. Reynolds," is engraved in "Doyle."

(e) "A lady of exquisite beauty." Her uncle, Horace Walpole, says of her "she was very pious, charitable, sincere, frank, and friendly, but warm and resentful; her sense strong; her wit ready and very pointed."

(f) The second son, also named John, was b. 17 Jan. 1715/6, and d. the same day at Ghent, in Flanders.

(g) H. Walpole ("Geo. II., vol. iii, p. 199), calls him "a man, who united much frankness with steady attention to his interest. His parts were never taken notice of but on this occasion [i.e., the battle of Minden], but such an occasion is immortality." On this occasion too the same writer remarks (Letters iii, p. 352) alluding to his extreme leanness ("too lean for to be a Groom of the Bedchamber") that "Johnny Waldegrave was shot through the hat and through the coat, and would have been shot through the body, if he had had any."

WALES.

The title of Prince of Wales is not, of itself, a Peerage title, but it was first conferred in 1301 on Prince Edward (afterwards Edward II.), s. and h. ap. of Edward I., together with a peerage, viz. the EARLDOM OF CHESTER, by which titles he was sum. to Parl. from 2 June 1302 to 8 Nov. 1306. It was for the second time conferred, in 1343, on Prince Edward (the Black Prince), s. and h. ap. of Edward III., which Prince was already a Peer, being (like his predecessor Earl of Chester as well as) Duke of Cornwall. It has, since that date, been regularly conferred, together with the Earldom of Chester, on the heir ap. to the throne. See "CHESTER," Earldom.

WALEYS.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1321. 1. RICHARD WALEYS was, by writ, 15 May (1321) 14 Ed. II., directed "Rico. Waleys," sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD WALEYS), but never afterwards, being the last of the 90 Barons sum. to that Parl. Such summons, however, can hardly be held to have constituted an hereditary peerage. "Dugdale gives no account of this Baron in his Baronage. He was, however, of the party of Thomas, Earl of Lancaster; was present at the battle of Boroughbridge, and received writs on various occasions between the years 1308 and 1325, although never sum. to Parl. after 1321. He left a son, Stephen Waleys, living 1348, whose only da. and h., Elizabeth, was the wife of Sir John Depedene, Knt." [Courthope].

Barony [I.]

I. 1800, to 1803. 1. JOSEPH HENRY BLAKE, 1st s. and h. ap. of Joseph BLAKE, of Ardfry, co. Galway (who d. 19 Jan. 1806, aged 66), by Honoria, only da. of Dermot DALY, was b. 5 Oct. 1765; adopted the established religion; was M.P. [I.] for co. Galway, in 3 parls., 1790-1800, and was cr. (v.p.) 31 July 1800.(c) BARON WALLSCOURT OF ARDFRY, co. Galway [I.], with a spec. rem., in default of heirs male of his body, to those of his father.(d) He m. 18 Aug. 1784, Louisa Catharine Mary, 2d da. and coheir of Thomas (BERMINGHAM), EARL OF LOUTH [I.], by Margaret, da. of Peter DALY. He d., s.p.m.,(e) and v.p. 28 March 1803, aged 37, when the Barony (no heir then existing thereto) became possibly extinct, but more probably only suspended.(f) His widow, who was b. 20 July 1764, m. 21 April 1804, James DALY, of Tuam, and d. 28 May 1827, in Dublin.

* * * * *

(a) He had been a consistent supporter of Pitt and his political successors, declining office under Canning. The peerage was conferred on the accession of the Duke of Wellington as Prime Minister. The services rendered by him to commerce were acknowledged, in 1823, by a testimonial, signed by the Chief Merchants and Bankers in London.

(b) He devised all his estates, some of which had been for many generations in his family, to a stranger in blood, viz., Col. the Hon. James Hope (nephew to his late wife), who took the additional name of Wallace, and d. 7 Jan. 1854, aged 46, leaving issue. He left but £1,000 to his cousin and heir at law, John Wallace, who was the 2d surv. of the six sons of his uncle, John Wallace, of Sidcup, co. Kent, whose issue male still (1896) exists. See a full account of this family in Burke's "Extinct Peerage."

(c) One of 16 Baronies [I.] cr. that day. See vol. iv, p. 205, note "c," sub "Henniker." See also vol. vi, p. 376, note "d," sub "Riversdale."

(e) Anastacia, his only da. and h., m. 6 Jan. 1803, Luke (Dillon), 2d Baron Clonbrock [I.], and had issue.

(f) "The Barony [of Wallscourt] was, on account of his [Mr. Blake's] father being a Roman Catholic, conferred upon him with [an extended] rem. to the heirs male [of the body], of his father, but the contingency of his dying without issue [male] in the lifetime of his father was overlooked. This event, however, did take place, and at Lord Wallscourt's death, his father was still alive with an heir apparent only, in the person of a grandson. Doubts arose as to whether in law the peerage was not therefore extinct, and altho' the young man succeeded to his uncle's title, neither he nor any subsequent Lord Wallscourt has ever brought the question to issue by claiming to vote for a representative peer." [Note by the Editor of "The Cornwallis Correspondence."]

II. 1806. 2. JOSEPH HENRY (BLAKE), BARON WALLSCOURT OF ARDFRY [I.], nephew of the above, being only s. and h. of Ignatius Charles BLAKE, Capt. 18th Dragoons, by Helen, da. of William CASHELL, of Berwick upon Tweed, which Ignatius (who d. 6 Aug. 1797, in his 24th year), was the next br. that left issue of the late Peer. He was b. 23 July 1795, and by the death of his grandfather, 19 Jan. 1806 (as heir male of his body), presumably([a]) suc. to the peerage [I.] under the spec. rem. in its creation. He d. unm. 11 Oct. 1816, at Fleming villa, Old Brompton.

III. 1816. 3. JOSEPH HENRY (BLAKE), BARON WALLSCOURT OF ARDFRY [I.], cousin and h. male, being 1st. s. and h. of Henry James, Col. of the Galway Militia, by Anne, da. of John FRENCH, of Galway, which Henry (who d. 11 Nov. 1811, aged 38), was yst. br. of the first Peer. He was b. 2 June 1797, and presumably([a]) suc. to the peerage [I.] 11 Oct. 1816; was Aide-de-camp to the Gen. of the Northern district of Ireland. He m. 23 Sep. 1822, at the British Embassy at Naples, Elizabeth, only da. of William LOCK, of Norbury Park, co. Surrey. He d. 28 May 1849, at Paris, of cholera, aged 52. Admon. Feb. 1851. His widow d. 2 Jan. 1877, at 5, Montagu square, aged 72.

II. 1757. 2. HORATIO (WALPOLE), BARON WALPOLE OF WOLTERTON, 1st s. and h.; b. 12 June 1723; was M.P. for Kings Lynn from 1747 till he suc. to the peerage, 5 Feb. 1757. Forty years later, by the death, 2 March 1797, of his cousin, Horatio, 4th Earl of Orford, he suc. as BARON WALPOLE of Walpole, under the spec. rem. in the creation (1 June 1723) of that dignity. He was cr., 10 April 1806, EARL OF ORFORD; see that dignity.

WALSH, or WAILSH.

In 1745, ANTOINE VINCENT WALSH, was cr. BARON, or (according to some accounts) EARL WALSH by the titular James III. He was s. of Philippe Walsh, by Anne, da. and h. of James WHYTE of the city of Waterford, which Philippe was s. of James Walsh of Ballynacully, who emigrated to France.(c) He was b. at St. Malo in 1703, and having been instrumental in conveying "Prince Charles Edward" to Scotland in 1745, was rewarded with a peerage by that Prince's father.(d)

WALSINGHAM.

Earldom.

I. 1722, to 1778. 1. MELUSINA (or PETRONILLE MELUSINE) VON DER SCHULENBERG, Spinster, illegit. da. of George I., by (his favourite Mistress) Ermengarde Melusina (born VON DER SCHULENBERG), suo jure DUCHESS OF KENDAL, Spinster,(e) was b. about 1693, and was cr. 7 April 1722, BARONESS OF ALDBOROUGH, co. Suffolk, and COUNTESS OF WALSINGHAM, co. Norfolk, for life. She m. 14 May, or 5 Sep., 1733, Philip Dormer (STANHOPE), EARL OF CHESTERFIELD, when she thenceforth adopted the title of her husband. He d. s.p. 24 March 1773, in his 79th year. See fuller particulars of him under "Chesterfield." She d. s.p. 16 Sep. 1778, when her peerage honours became extinct. Will pr. Sep. 1778.

(a) This Peter used to be called by the famous Duchess of Marlborough "my tailor." His said da. when asked by the Queen at the Court of France "De quelle famille etes vous, Madame," is reported to have modestly replied "D'aucune." However, in the "Hist. Reg." the death of "Peter Lombard, Esq.," is recorded, 5 May 1725. The marriage licence (Vic. Gen.), 22 March 1692/3, of Peter Lombard of St. Martin's in the fields, Gent, about 50, Widr., with Mrs. Mariana Ernault, of London, Maiden, probably refers to him.

(b) Of him, writes his nephew, the better known Horace Walpole ("Geo. II.," vol. i, p. 140), that "he knew something of everything, but how to hold his tongue, or how to apply his knowledge; * * * his mind was a strange mixture of sense, alloyed by absurdity; wit, by mimicry; knowledge, by buffoonery; bravery, by meanness; honesty, by selfishness; impertinence, by nothing." According to George II. (Hervey's Memoirs) he was "a dirty buffoon." In Coxe's "Walpole" a long and highly eulogistic character is given of him, in which it is said (apparently with justice), that "he maintained an unimpeached character for truth and integrity."

(c) "Notes and Queries," 7th S. iv, 42. His "noblesse d'extraction" was confirmed in 1754, as being 18th in descent from Philip Walsh, surnamed "Le Breton," who established himself in Ireland. Count Theobald Walsh, killed at St. Domingo in 1792 and "Le Vicomte" Joseph Walsh (that Count's brother) were his nephews.

WANDSWORTH.

Barony. I. 1895. 1. "SYDNEY JAMES STERN, Esq.," 1st s. of ( ), 1st VISCOUNT DE STERN in the kingdom of Portugal,(c) by Sophia, da. and coheir of Aaron Asher GOLDSMID, of Cavendish square (br. of Sir Isaac Lyon GOLDSMID, 1st Bart.), was b. 1845; ed. at Mag. Coll., Cambridge; became head of the London firm of "Stern Brothers" Financiers; unsuccessfully contested in the "Liberal" interest the representation of Mid-Surrey in 1880 and 1884; of Tiverton in 1885, and of Ipswich, 1886, becoming, however (finally) M.P. for the Stowmarket div. of Suffolk, 1891-95, and was cr. 19 July 1895,(d) BARON WANDSWORTH of Wandsworth, co. London(e); Hon. Col., 4th Vol. Batt. East Surrey Reg.

Family Estates.—These, in 1883, appear to have been under 2,000 acres, but in 1896, the "seats" of Lord Wandsworth are stated to be "Hengrave Hall, near Bury, co. Suffolk, and Bolney, co. Sussex," at or near which places estates probably exist.

(a) Elizabeth, his only sister m. as his first wife, 1 July 1766, John Luttrell, afterwards Luttrell-Olmius, who in 1821 (long after her death) became 3d Earl of Carhampton [I.] She d. s.p.m.s., 12 June 1797.

(b) Printed in the evidence (p. 89) in the claim of the Fitzwalter Barony.

(c) He is said to have been so created for two lives.

(d) This was one of four Baronies conferred on the retirement of the Earl of Rosebery from the Premiership. These were [1] Loch (Loch); [2] Burghclere (Gardner); [3] Wandsworth (Stern); and [4] Ashton (Williamson). Their creation caused considerable comment, being on the recommendation of a Minister, who had supported the abolition of the House of Lords, which he thus inconsistently increased. None of those so honoured had been as much as 10 years in the House of Commons, and Mr. Stern, who had not been there 4 years, never held any (even the smallest) office. In an article in the well known periodical called "Truth," his creation is thus spoken of: Mr. Stern "knew what he wanted—it was a Peerage. He did not waste his time in studying politics or in making speeches, being a practical man, he used the most practical means to attain the object of his ambition—he is now Lord Wandsworth."

(e) The administrative county of London was thus (somewhat questionably) allowed to displace in a formal document the County of Surrey.

1. HENRY (BOOTH), 2d BARON DELAMER OF DUNHAM MASSEY, co. Chester, 2d but 1st surv. s. and h.[b] of George (BOOTH), 1st BARON DELAMER OF DUNHAM MASSEY (so cr. 20 April 1661) by his second wife, Elizabeth, da. of Henry (GREY), 1st EARL OF STAMFORD, was b. 18 Jan. 1651/2; was M.P. for Cheshire, 1678-81, and was (like his father) strongly opposed to the Royal Prerog.; suc. to the peerage, as above, on the death of his father, 8 Aug. 1684. He had in 1683, been imprisoned for a short time on suspicion of complicity in the Rye House plot, and was in Nov. 1685 accused, but acquitted of high treason as having aided the Duke of Monmouth's rebellion.(a) In 1688 he was one of most active of those "in arms"(b) to assist the Prince of Orange, and was one of the three deputed to James II., to request his removal from London;(c) P.C., 1689; L.-Lieut. of Cheshire, 1689; Chancellor and Under Treasurer of the Exchequer, 1689-90, being on his retirement,(d) 17 April 1690, cr. EARL OF WARRINGTON, co. Lancaster; Mayor of Chester, 1691. He m. 7 July 1670 (Lic. Fac.), Mary, da. and h. of Sir James LANGHAM, 2d Bart., of Cottesbrooke, co. Northampton, by his first wife, Mary, da. and coheir of Sir Edward ALSTON. She d. 23 March 1690, and was bur. at Bowdon, co. Chester, aged 37. He d. in London 2 and was bur. 16 Jan. 1693/4,(e) at Bowdon, aged 42. Admon. 1 March 1693/4; admon. revoked and will pr. July 1698.

II. 1694, to 1758. 2. GEORGE (BOOTH), EARL OF WARRINGTON [1690], and BARON DELAMER OF DUNHAM MASSEY [1661], also a Baronet [1611]; 2d but 1st surv. s. and h.,(f) b. 2 May 1675, at Merehall, co. Chester; styled LORD DELAMER from 1690 till he suc. to the peerage, as above, 2 Jan. 1693/4; L.-Lieut. of Cheshire (tho' a minor) 1694. He m. 9 April 1702,(g) at St. Giles' in the fields, Mary ("a fortune of £40,000") da. and coheir of John OLDBURY, of London, Merchant.(h) She d. at Dunham Massey, 3 April 1740. He d. there s.p.m.,(i) 2 August 1758, in his 84th year,(k) and was bur.

(a) See full account thereof in "State Trials," and in Luttrell's "Diary."

(b) See vol. i, p. 28, note "b," sub "Abingdon" for a list of these.

(c) These were the Marquess of Halifax, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Lord Delamer, of whom James II. afterwards remarked, that Delamer "had treated him with much more regard than the other two Lords, to whom he had been kind and from whom he might better have expected it"

(d) This was owing to his quarrels with the Earl of Monmouth, the head of his department, who, as well as himself, was soon superseded by the ever active Goldol. phin, who was junior to both. His past services were accordingly rewarded with an Earldom and "a grant of all lands belonging to the Jesuits in 5 or 6 counties." This was a very appropriate gift to one who was almost a Puritan in his religion. A contemporary satire thus describes him—

"His boding looks a mind distracted show,
And envy sits engraved upon his brow."

Macaulay states that "Delamere was gloomy and acrimonious, austere in his private morals and punctual in his devotions, but greedy of ignoble gain." This last charge, however, seems founded on a mistake (see "Nat. Biogr.") He was the author of several political tracts, speeches, prayers, &c., as also of a vindication of (his friend) William, Lord Russell. His portrait "after Sir G. Kneller, 1689," is engraved in "Doyle."

(e) Evelyn remarks ("Diary," 21 Jan. 1693/4) that "Lord Macclesfield, Lord War. rington and Lord Westmorland all died within about one week."

(f) His elder br. James d. an infant and was bur. in London.

(g) He appears to have had previous essays at marriage. Luttrell (Diary) writes, 13 July 1697, that he is married to a da. of the Lord Crew, and again 12 Oct. 1699 that "a marriage is agreed upon between the Earl of Warrington and Madam Offley, of Crew Hall, with whom he is to have £20,000."

(h) It is probable that the mar. lic. (Vic. Gen.), 9 June 1683, as under, relates to her parents, viz., "John Oldbury, of St. Dustan's in the East, London, Merchant, about 38, Bachr., and Mrs. Mary Boone, of new Fish street, about 26, Spinster.

(i) Mary, his only da. and h., m. May 1736, Harry (Grey), 4th Earl of Stamford, and inherited the Warrington estates. Her son, the 5th Earl was cr. in 1796, Earl of Warrington.

(k) Macky, in his "Characters," says of him [1706 ?] when past 30, "This gentleman makes no great figure in his country, Parl. or person." Mrs. Bradshaw (in the "Suffolk Letters") writes of him in 1722 as "the stiffest of all stiff things," and of his wife as "a limber dirty fool." His experience of an unhappy married life induced him to publish in 1739 a treatise on the desirability of divorce, for incom. patibility of temper.

III. 1796. 1. GEORGE HARRY (GREY), EARL OF STAMFORD, &c., 1st s. and h. of Harry (GREY), 4th EARL OF STAMFORD, by Mary, da. and h. of George (BOOTH), EARL OF WARRINGTON abovenamed, suc. to the peerage, as above, 30 May 1768, and was cr. 22 April 1796, BARON DELAMER OF DUNHAM MASSEY, co. Chester, and EARL OF WARRINGTON. He d. 23 May 1819, aged 81.

IV. 1819. 2. GEORGE HARRY (GREY), EARL OF STAMFORD, EARL OF WARRINGTON, &c., s. and h.; d. 26 April 1845, in his 80th year.

V. 1845, to 1883 3. GEORGE HARRY (GREY), EARL OF STAMFORD [1628], EARL OF WARRINGTON [1796], BARON GREY OF GROBY [1603], and BARON DELAMER OF DUNHAM MASSEY [1796], grandson and h.; d. s.p. 2 Jan. 1883, in his 56th year, when the Earldom of Warrington and the Barony of Delamer of Dunham Massey, became extinct, but the other titles devolved on his cousin and h. male.

WARWICK (County.)[a]

Earldom.

I. 1090.? 1. HENRY DE NEWBURGH,[b] otherwise DE BEAUMONT, yr. br. of Robert, COUNT OF MEULAN,[c] and (perhaps) EARL OF LEICESTER, both being sons of Roger DE BEAUMONT, SEIGNEUR DE PONTAUDEMER, by Adelina, sister of Hugh and da. of Waleran, each of them, successively, COUNT OF MEULAN,[c] was b. about 1046; is spoken of as "a brave Knight," in 1066,[d] tho' he does not appear to have been present at the battle of Hastings. He was, however, Constable of Warwick Castle, 1068; was Councillor to William I. in 1079, "was a Baron of the Exchequer of Normandy, 12 April 1080,"[f] and resided, apparently, chiefly in Normandy. He received a grant of the vast possessions in Warwickshire of (a Saxon Noble) Thurkill of Arden, from William II. about 1090, by whom[e] presumably he was then cr. EARL OF WARWICK. Being a friend and companion of Henry, afterwards Henry I., he exerted himself in 1100 in procuring his election as King, and (with his br. abovementioned) was one of the few who remained faithful to him in 1101. He m. before 1100, Margaret, elder da. of Geoffrey II., COUNT OF PERCHE, by Beatrice, da. of Hilduin IV., COUNT OF MONT-

(a) The traditional "Guy, Earl of Warwick," supposed to have lived during the reign [925-941] of Athelstan, is famed, in romance, as having slain several Saracens at Constantinople; a Danish Giant, named Colbrand, near Winchester; a savage Dragon, which was devastating Northumberland, and last (not least) a gigantic Cow [!], whose rib is still [1897] on view in Warwick Castle.

(b) So called, says Dugdale, from the castle of that name in Normandy, "Neubourg, the place probably alluded to by Dugdale is near Louviers." [Lower's "Patr. Brit.]

(e) "Rous, in his MS. history of the Earls of Warwick, as quoted by Dugdale, states that it was in the latter part of the reign of King William the Conqueror that this Henry was promoted to the Earldom." [Courthope]. The words used by Rous are that he was created "per servitium comitatus cum soca et saca," &c.; "cum multis privilegiis," but, he adds "ad visum tamen carte creationis hujus Comitis nunquam potui attingere." John Rous, a monk of Guy's Cliff, co. Warwick, who d. 1491, was author of a curious roll, with portraits, arms, badges, &c., and of a full account of these Earls, "from Brutus their founder," including of course, the redoubtable "Guy," and many such like. This was printed in 1845.

V. 1204. 5. HENRY (DE NEWBURGH, otherwise DE WARWICK), EARL OF WARWICK, 1st s. and h.[a] by first wife; b. 1192; suc. his father, 12 Dec. 1204, was in ward[b] till, on his full age, King John, by writ, 1 June 1213, directed the Sheriff of Warwickshire to pay to him, as "Henry, Earl of Warwick," the third penny of the county[c] as his ancestors had been accustomed to receive it. In the wars of the Barons against the Kings, John and Hen. III. he adhered faithfully to the Royal cause, and, in 1215, was Commander in the King's army. He m. firstly, before 1208, Margaret, 1st sister and coheir of Henry D'OILLY, of Hooknorton, Oxon, da. of Henry D'OILLY,[d] of the same, by Maud, da. of Humphrey DE BOHUN. He m. secondly, about 1214, Philippa, da. and coheir of (his former guardian) Thomas BASSET, of Headington, Oxon. He d. 10 Oct. 1229. His widow m., 1230, Richard SIWARD, "a turbulent spirited person," who took part with the Barons, 1233-39, in their rebellion. From him she was divorced in 1242, and d. s.p. and a widow about 1246, being bur. at Bicester priory, Oxon.

VI. 1229. 6. THOMAS (DE NEWBURGH, otherwise DE WARWICK), EARL OF WARWICK, only s. and h., by first wife; b. about 1213; suc. his father, 10 Oct. 1229; knighted at Gloucester, by Hen. III., 22, and was confirmed in the Earldom, 24 May 1233,[e] having been girded with the girdle thereof. He was bearer of the third sword at the coron. of the Queen Consort, Eleanor, 26 Jan. 1236. In 1231 he paid a heavy fine to be excused from serving in Gascony. He m., before 1242, Ela, da. of William (DE LONGESPÉE), EARL OF SALISBURY, by Ela, suo jure COUNTESS OF SALISBURY. He d. s.p. 26 June 1242, and was bur. at Warwick.[f] His widow m. (as his second wife) Sir Philip BASSET, of Wycombe, Bucks, Chief Justiciary, 1263, who d. Oct. 1271. She d. s.p. at Headington afsd., 6 Feb. 1297, and was bur. at Oseney priory, Oxon. Monument there.

VII. 1242. 7. MARGARET, who may be considered as suo jure COUNTESS OF WARWICK, having "the tertium denariam de placitis comitatus Warwici delivered to her,"[g] sister and h., being only da. of the 5th Earl, by his first wife. She was b. about 1215; suc. her brother, 26 June 1262. She m. firstly, John MARSHAL (who d. Oct. 1242), and secondly, before Sep. 1248, John DU PLESSIS, or DE PLESSETIS, both of whom are considered to have been Earls of Warwick, as below is stated. She was living (1252-53) 37 Hen. III., but is said[h] to have d. before 5 June 1253, being certainly dead before her second husband, who d. 26 Feb. 1263.

JOHN MARSHAL, s. and h. of John MARSHAL,[i] of Hingham, co. Norfolk (d. 1235), by Aliva, da. and coheir of Hubert DE RYE, of the same, was first husband to the above Margaret, and is generally considered to have been in her right, EARL OF WARWICK, from 26 June 1242 till his death, four months later. He had seizin of Warwick Castle, 3 Oct. 1242, and d. s.p. the same month.

(a) His yr. brother, Waleran de Newburgh, of Greetham, co. Rutland, d. s.p. before 1263, at which date, Brooke (following Rous's history of these Earls) makes him succeed (on the death of John de Plessetis) as Earl of Warwick. To this dignity, had he been alive, he would have been unquestionably heir, to the exclusion of William Mauduit, his sister's son, who, also, was of the half blood.

(b) During his minority, King John granted, in 1203, the Lordship of Gower in Wales (part of his ancient inheritance) to William de Braose.

JOHN DU PLESSIS,[a] or DE PLESSETIS, second husband to the above Margaret, she being his second wife.[b] He was a Poitevin by birth; was knighted before 1227; was in the household of Hen. III.; Constable of Devizes Castle, 1234, and again, 1250; Sheriff of Oxfordshire. 1239-40; accompanied the King to Poitou, 1242-43, who granted him (he being an especial favourite) the disposal in marriage of this Countess, whom, accordingly, he himself m. before Sep. 1243. He was, 24 June 1244, made Constable of the Tower of London, but does not appear to have been admitted (jure uxoris) as EARL OF WARWICK, till April 1245,[c] and, according to Dugdale, was "loath, as it seems, to use that attribute till he had made such an agreement with the next heir, that in case he overlived the said Margery, his Countess, and had no issue by her, he should not lay it aside again," for in a fine levied in Hilary term, 1246/7, between him and William Mauduit and Alice, his wife (heir presumptive of the Earldom), the lands of Warwick were settled on him for life, and, moreover, the said William and Alice "do, as much as in them lies, confer the same Earldom upon him for life." Between Feb. 1246/7 and Aug. 1247, he was apparently invested therewith, and in Aug. 1247, he is called Earl of Warwick in a royal licence, and had a grant of his wife's lands for life, 18 Oct. 1250. He took the Cross in 1252; was Capt. in the army in Gascony and Poitou, 1252-54, being treacherously thrown into prison there, 1254-55; Warden of Northumberland, and Constable of Newcastle, 1257-59; P.C. (el. by Parl.) 1258; Sheriff of co. Leicester, 1261, taking part with the King in the troubles then beginning to arise from the Barons. The Earl[c] d. 26 Feb. 1262/3, and was bur. at Missenden priory, Bucks, leaving issue by a former wife,[b] but none by the heiress of Warwick.

VIII. 1263. 8. SIR WILLIAM MAUDUIT, first cousin and heir[d] to Margaret, Countess of Warwick abovenamed, being only s. and h. of William MAUDUIT,[e] of Hanslope, Bucks (d. April 1257), by Alice (living 1246, but d. before 1263), sister (by the half[f] blood) to Earl Henry, the father of the said

[a] "Du Plessis, not de Plessets, which is an ignorant rendering of de Plessetis. The name of du Plessis is common to very many families in France, but the person above mentioned was, probably, yr. br. of Peter, Seigneur du Plessis in 1249, and, perhaps, son of William, living 1201 and 1213, ancestors of the great family of du Plessis-Richelieu. This Plessis is in Poitou, on the river Creuse, and was held of the Bishopric of Poitiers. See Du Chesne, Maison du Plessis de Richelieu; Anselme, iv, 361—377, has copied him." [Ex inform. G. W. Watson]. Lower [Patr. Brit.] says that "the word seems to be generic and to mean a small park."

[b] His first wife was Christian (m. before 1234), da. and h. of Hugh de Sandford, of Hooknorton, Oxon, by whom he left a s. and h., Hugh du Plessis, or de Plessetis, 26 years old at the time of his death, who was father of Hugh, sum. as a Baron in 1299.

[c] He unquestionably held the Earldom till his death, and, inasmuch as the lands thereof were settled on him for life, that fact seems to favour the territorial nature of a peerage dignity at that period. This subject is fully and very ably treated by L. O. Pike, in his "Constit. History of the House of Lords."

[e] See ped of Mauduit, in Baker's "Northamptonshire," vol. ii, p. 129, and "Her. and Gen.," vol. vii, p. 386.

[f] This succession of the half blood seems at variance with the old law. There were descendants of the great aunt (of the whole blood) of the Countess Margaret, viz., Agnes, wife of Geoffrey Clinton, among which one have thought would have been found the heir. Such, at least, was the decision as to the office of Great Chamberlain, which, in 1625, passed to the cousin (by the father's sister) of the whole blood of Henry (de Vere), Earl of Oxford, rather than to his sisters of the half blood, the daughters of his said father. See vol. iii, p. 46, note "d," and p. 373, note "c"; vol iv, p. 105, notes "e" and "f," and vol. vi, p. 171, note "f." The doctrine of half blood, which, till 1 Jan. 1834, applied to the inheritance of lands, was, when "the idea of Barony by tenure faded away," held to be not applicable to an Honour, and in the time of Charles I. the judges were unanimously of opinion that "there cannot be a possessio fratris in point of Honour," the reason assigned being that no entry, as on land, can be made on the Margaret, being da. of Waleran (DE NEWBURGH), 4th EARL OF WARWICK, and only child of his second wife, Alice, da. of Robert DE HARCOURT. He was b. 1220; suc. his father, April 1257, as Hered. Chamberlain of the Exchequer; and suc. on the death, 26 Feb. 1262/3, of Earl John next abovenamed, as EARL OF WARWICK, and to the vast estates of that Earldom, and was sum., as such Earl, to attend the King at Worcester, 25 May (1263) 47 Hen. III. In the Barons' war he at first sided with Montfort, but afterwards with the King, being, in April 1264, surprised and taken prisoner with his wife, tho' released on payment of 19,000 marks. He m. Alice, da. of Gilbert DE SEGRAVE, by Amabel, da. and coheir of Robert de CHAUCOMBE. He d. s.p. 8 Jan. (1267/8) 52 Hen. III., his heart being bur. at Catesby priory, co. Northampton, and his body in Westm. Abbey. Esch. 52 Hen. III.

IX. 1268. 9. WILLIAM DE BEAUCHAMP,(a) nephew of the above, and aged 30 at his death, 8 Jan. 1267/8, being s. and h. ap. of WILLIAM DE BEAUCHAMP, of Elmley, co. Worcester, by Isabel, only sister and heir of the said Earl William. He, in his mother's lifetime(b) who was living, tho' probably as a recluse, as late as 7 Jan. 1268/9 (about a year after her said brother's death), took upon him, in the lifetime of his parents, the style of EARL OF WARWICK,(c) doing homage, 9 Feb. 1267/8. Soon after that date he suc. to Elmley and other his paternal estates on the death of his father between 7 Jan. 1268/9 and 6 May 1269, when he did homage for the same. He was joint Commissr., 16 Oct. 1270, in the trial between Llewellyn, Prince of Wales, and the Lords of the Marches; Constable of Rockingham Castle, 1297, and a Councillor of Regency, Aug. 1297 to March 1298. He m., before 1270, Maud, widow of Gerald DE FURNIVAL, of Sheffield, co. York, sister and coheir [1297] of Richard (FITZ JOHN), LORD FITZ JOHN, da. of John FITZ JOHN FITZ GEOFFREY, of Berkhampstead, Berks.(d) He d. 9 June 1298, aged about 60. Will directing his burial to be at the Greyfriars, Worcester.(e) Esch. 26 Ed. I. His widow d. 1300. Esch. 29 Ed. I.

X. 1298. 10. GUY(f) (BEAUCHAMP), EARL OF WARWICK, 1st s. and h.; b. 1278; knighted by Ed. I. 25 March 1296; suc. his father, 9 June, and did homage, 25 Sep. 1298, being then aged 26; served in Scotland, 1298—1304, and distinguished himself at Falkirk, 22 July 1298, receiving, accordingly, a grant of estates in that kingdom, and being one of the seven Earls who rejected, 12 Feb. 1301, the authority of the Pope in the Scottish question. He was present at the death of Ed. I., 7 July 1307. At the coronation of Ed. II., 25 Feb. 1308, he was bearer of the Third Sword; took an active part against the Court favourite, Piers Gaveston,(g) being one of Lords "Ordainers" of Reform, 20 March 1310. He m., before 28 Feb. 1310, Alice, widow of Thomas LEYBURNE, sister and heir (1310, when she was aged 26) of dignity of a Baron. On this, L. O. Pike [Constit. Hist. of the House of Lords, p. 146] very sensibly remarks, "However applicable this argument might be to a Barony just before the great Rebellion it certainly could not have been applicable to Earldoms of the 12th century, a common feature of which was that the Earl received the third penny (or one third of certain revenues) derived from his county. The principle of an Earl receiving profit from his office had, without doubt, fallen into oblivion, just as the idea of Barony by tenure was, a few years later, held to be an anachronism."

(b) "She is presumed therefore to have taken the habit of a nun at Cokehill nunnery, which she had founded: this supposition is borne out by the will [dat. 7 Jan. 1268/9] of her husband, who names her in conjunction with the church and nuns at Cokehill." [Courthope].

[Dugdale].

(f) He, apparently, received the name of Guy in commemoration of the famous "Guy of Warwick" (see p. 52, note "a"), the fabulous ancestor of these Earls.

(g) By Gaveston he was called, in allusion to his swarthy complexion, "the black cur of Arden.'

Robert, LORD TONI, da. of Ralph DE TONI, of Flamstead, Herts. He d., not without suspicion of poison, 10 Aug. 1315, at Warwick Castle, aged about 48, and was bur. at Bordesley Abbey, co. Worcester.(a) Esch. 9 Ed. II.; Will dat, 25 July 1315. His widow m. (as her third husband and his first wife) William (ZOUCH, formerly MORTIMER), LORD ZOUCH DE MORTIMER, who d. 1337. (a) He is spoken of by the Chroniclers as "a discreet and well informed man," and called (W. de Hemingburgh, Chron. II., 295) "Miles severissimus."

(e) In this will he gives to Thomas, his s. and h. "the sword and coat of mail, sometime belonging to that famous Guy of Warwick," as to whom see p. 52, note "a."

(f) His widow calls herself, 11 Aug. 1360, "Philippe, que fu la feme Sire Guy de Warwyst."

(g) His daughters and coheirs were (1) Katharine aged 7 and (2) Elizabeth, aged 1 year at his death. They both appear to have been nuns at Shouldham, and so were passed over in the succession. Elizabeth is mentioned in her grandmother's will, as living 4 Aug. 1369. Katharine, who, as late as [1397-98], Ric. II., obtained an annual pension of 40 marks in regard that she enjoyed no part of the inheritance, was living 1 April 1400, the date of her uncle's will.

He captured the banner of Owen Glendower in 1403, and fought against the rebels at Shrewsbury in that year. Soon after the death, 22 March 1421, of the King's uncle, Thomas, Duke of Clarence and Earl of Albemarle, he appears(f) to have been cr. EARL OF ALBEMARLE for life.(g) In 1422 he received the surrender of Meaux. (e) This is the date assigned in "Doyle" and a very probable one. He is in Beltz's "Knights of the Garter" conjectured to succeed to a vacancy that occurred 16 Jan. 1399/400, but he was then under age and did not succeed to the Earldom till 1½ year after that date. No less than 3 vacancies occurred in July 1403.

V., for unquestionaby an English Earldom of Albemarle, held by the Duke of Clarence, existed as late as 1421.

After, however, the recovery of Hen. VI., from madness, he became a staunch Yorkist, and at the first battle of St. Albans, 22 May 1455, "had the good fortune to decide the day and win, somewhat easily, a military reputation."(g) He was rewarded, 1455, with the important post of Captain of Calais, Lieut. of Picardy, and in 1457, was made Captain to guard the sea. He was Chief Commissr. to Burgundy, 1457; took an active part in the proposed reconciliation between Henry VI. and the Yorkists, and walked in the "love-day" procession to St. Paul's, 25 March 1458. After the Yorkist victory at Blore heath, 23 Sep. 1459, he joined their troops at Ludford, near Ludlow, but at the King's approach, 12 Oct., they dispersed, and he (with their other leaders) fled, and was consequently attainted reconciled at Angers, to Margaret, Queen Consort of Hen. VI., and landing at Plymouth, 13 Sep. 1470 (with the Duke of Clarence, the Earl of Oxford, &c.), proclaimed Henry VI. as King (whose restoration is dated as 6, or 9 Oct. 1460), and accompanied him in state to Westminster. The parl. met 26 Nov. 1460, and appointed him and his son-in-law, the Duke of Clarence, joint Lieutenants of the Realm. By that Duke, however, he was deserted, and he was slain with his said brother, the Marquess of Montagu, at the battle of Barnet,(a) 14 April 1471, at which date Ed. IV. was again acknowledged as King. Both brothers were (after two days exposure, "naked," at St. Paul's), bur. at Bisham Abbey. death would lead to the presumption that no such attainder would be [was] enacted: Edward IV. did indeed issue a proclamation, 31 Mar. 1470, declaring the Duke of Clarence and the Earl of Warwick rebels and traitors, but this proclamation was speedily followed by his own expulsion from England, and the restoration to power of King Henry VI. through the instrumentality of this powerful Baron. At the period of his death (at the battle of Barnet) in the year following, his eldest da. Isabel, coheir of his vast estates, was married to George, Duke of Clarence, who had lately made his peace with King Edward, by treachery towards his father-in-law; and the death of Edward, Prince of Wales, at Tewkesbury only a few weeks after, opened the way to the marriage of Richard, Duke of Gloucester, with Anne, the younger da. and coheir.

(c) These included the castles of Warwick, Worcester, Elmley, Abergavenny, Neath, &c., the lordships of Gower and Glamorgan, and also Barnard Castle in the north, to which, after his father's death in 1460, the great Nevill estates at Middleham and Sheriff Hutton, in Yorkshire, were added.

By an Act of 13 Edw. IV. (1473), it was ordained that 'George, Duc of Clarence and Isabell his wyf, Richard, Duc of Glouc. and Anne his wyf, doughters and heires to Richard Nevill, late Erle of Warwyk, and doughters and heires apparantes to Anne, Countes of Warwyk, late wyfe to the seid Erle, shall from henceforth have, possede, enherit and enjoy, as in the right of their seid wyfes, all Honours, Lordships, &c., Enheritaments, &c., which were or be belongyng to the seid Anne, Countess of Warwyk, &c., and that the same Isabell and Anne, the doughters, be heires of blode to the same Countes, &c., and to all other their auncestres, as yf the seid Countes were nowe naturally dede.' This Act, though annulled by another, 3 Hen. VII. (1487-8), as 'against all reason, conscience, and course of nature, and contrary to the laws of God and man,' seems decisive as to the fact, not only that Isabel and Anne had succeeded their father as his lawful heirs, but also that no legal impediment existed to the enjoyment of Ann, Countess of Warwick of the Honours and Lordships belonging to her as heir of that Earldom, for, had there been such impediment, this unnatural proceeding need not to have been resorted to. Henry VII., though ready to stigmatise the act of his predecessor, seems to have been induced to do so, more with a view to his own advantage than from compassion towards the Countess; for we find that no sooner was she possessed of her large inheritance, by the reversal of the Act of 1473, than it was all settled by her upon the King, and we search in vain for further trace of the history of this unfortunate lady; upon her death, which is supposed to have happened about 1490, the ancient Earldom of Warwick, and whatever dignity she possessed under the Patent of 1450, devolved upon her grandson, Edward, Earl of Warwick." [Courthope.]

(a) See p. 65, note "f," sub. "Saye."

(b) That he was "Miles audax agilis et animosus" (as stated in J. de Whethamstede's "Chron.") is no true character of him, indeed it was his deficiency in military skill, which, with perhaps a suspicion of his want of courage, accounts for the contempt in which Ed. IV. held him. His success was due to his popular bearing, his hospitality, his knowledge of men and his great diplomatic talent. He is apparently first called "Regum creator" in the Latin history of Scotland by John Major [1461-1550], and is styled by Hume, "The Last of the Barons," which is the title of Lytton's historical romance concerning him. This term indeed "is not wholly inapplicable to [him, as being] the last representative of the class of Great Nobles in opposition to the Crown." [Nat. Biog.]

(c) These were (1) Isabel, who m. George (Plantagenet), Duke of Clarence (attainted 1478) and d. 22 Dec. 1476, leaving issue Edward (Plantagenet), Earl of Warwick, only s. and h., who d. unm., 28 Nov. 1499; (2) Anne, who m. firstly 1470, Edward, Prince of Wales, who d. s.p., 4 May 1471; she m. secondly, 12 July 1472, Richard III., and d. s.p.s., 16 March 1485.

the Earldom of Warwick, remained (according to the grant of 1450), to his widow, for her life, while as to his own hereditary titles, the Earldom of Salisbury lapsed to the Crown, and the Baronies of Montacute and Monthermer fell into abeyance.

His widow, suo jure COUNTESS OF WARWICK, having survived both her children, obtained an Act of Parl. in 1487 for her restoration to her family estates, but apparently only to enable her to settle them on the Crown. She d. shortly before 8 Feb. (1492/3), 8 Hen. VII.,(a) and was suc. in the Earldom of Warwick by Edward Plantagenet, her grandson and heir as hereafter stated.

He was attainted 15 Jan. 1477/8, whereby all his honours became forfeited.(c) See fuller particulars under "CLARE or CLARENCE," Dukedom, cr. 1461; forfeited, 1478.

XVIII. 1492? to 1499. 17, or 2. EDWARD PLANTAGENET, styled (at his birth) EARL OF WARWICK, being 1st s. and h. ap. of George, DUKE OF CLARENCE, EARL OF WARWICK, &c., by Isabel, his wife, both abovenamed; b. 21 or 25 Feb. 1474/5, at Warwick Castle; was present (being styled Earl of Warwick) at the coronation, 6 July 1483, of his uncle, Richard III., by whom he was Knighted 8 Sep. following, tho' shortly afterwards imprisoned at Sheriff Hoton, co. York, whence on the accession of Henry VII., in 1485, he was removed to the Tower of London. By the death s.p.s., 16 March 1485, of the Queen Consort, Anne, his mother's only sister, he became jure matris EARL OF SALISBURY, LORD MONTACUTE [1299 and 1357], and LORD MONTHERMER [1309], tho' he appears to have still been known by his courtesy title of Earl of Warwick. Some 6 or 7 years later, however, by the death of his maternal grandmother, Anne, suo jure COUNTESS OF WARWICK, shortly before 8 Feb. 1492/3, to whom he was sole heir;(d) he became EARL OF WARWICK under the remainder of that dignity in the grant thereof in 1450. He was condemned for conspiring high treason with Perkin Warbeck(e) (a Fellow Prisoner) 21, was executed 24 Nov. 1499, on Tower Hill, aged 24 and unmarried, and subsequently (19 Jan. 1503/4) attainted. At his death all his honours became forfeited, his sister Margaret,(f) afterwards (1513), restored as Countess of Salisbury, being his sole heir. He was bur. (with his maternal ancestors) at Bisham abbey. With him ended the male line of the Royal house of Plantagenet.(g)

(whose issue became coheir) of Richard (BEAUCHAMP), EARL OF WARWICK, was himself cr. 18 Feb. 1546/7, EARL OF WARWICK. He was, subsequently, cr., 11 Oct. 1551, DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND; was beheaded, 22 Aug. 1553, aged about 51, when, having been attainted, all his honours were forfeited. VI., at which he was "Lord Pantler"; Capt. of a troop of men-at-arms, 1551; Master of the Buckhounds, 1551-52; styled EARL OF WARWICK, since Oct. 1551, and was sum. v.p.(d) in that Earldom (belonging to his father), 5 Jan., taking his seat, 1 March (6 Ed. He was one of the signatories of the letters patent, 16 June 1553,(f) settling the Crown on Lady Jane Grey, and was found guilty of high treason, imprisoned and condemned to death, 18 Aug. 1553. He d. s.p. 21 Oct. 1554, at Penshurst, co. Kent, ten days after his release from the Tower of London, and fourteen months after his father, when the Earldom of Warwick [1553] became extinct. His widow m., 29 April 1555, Sir Edward UNTON, K.B., of Wadley, Berks, by whom she had seven children. She, who was insane since 1556, was living 1573-74. Admon. 17 Jan. 1587/8, as "of Islington, co. Middx."

XXI. 1561, to 1589. 1. AMBROSE DUDLEY, styled after 1551, Lord Ambrose Dudley, br. and h., being 3d s. of John (DUDLEY), DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND, by Jane, da. of Sir Edward GUILFORD, Marshal of Calais; was b. about 1528; served with his father in repressing the Norfolk rebellion, and was knighted 17 Nov. 1549; was convicted of high treason (as a supporter of Lady Jane Grey), 13 Nov. 1553, but pardoned 18 Oct. 1554, and, having distinguished himself at the siege of St. Quintin, 1557 (where his br. Henry was slain) obtained 7 March 1557/8, a reversal of the attainder of 1553. He was in great favour with Queen Elizabeth; was Chief Pantler, 1559; Master of the Ordnance, 1560, and was cr. 25 Dec. 1561, BARON LISLE, with the usual rem. to heirs male of his body, and (the next day) 26 Dec. 1561, EARL OF WARWICK with a spec. rem., failing such issue, to his br. (a) The descendants of this Margaret were named in the remainder to the Earldom of Warwick conferred on her sister, Anne, in 1450, failing the issue of the said Anne. Such issue (which still exists) was, however, in 1547, under the attainder (1539) of Margaret, Countess of Salisbury, born Plantagenet, the only grandchild of the said Anne, who left issue. Compare Cruise on Dignities (p. 128), as to this point.

He also encouraged maritime enterprise and was the chief promoter of Martin Frobisher's first voyage in 1576. Portraits are at Hatfield, Woburn Abbey and Lumley Castle. (d) One of the 4 Earls cr. that day, all of whom obtained nicknames, that of this grantee being "Cornucopia," alluding to his wife's infidelity. (See vol. iii, p. 113, note "e," sub. "Devonshire."

(e) He was refused the title of "Clare" (see vol. ii, p. 272, note "c," sub. "Clare,") and probably fell back on that of Warwick, merely as being the name of a county (a great desideratum in those times) which happened to be then vacant, as he does not appear to have had any interest in Warwickshire. For the same reason, apparently, William (Cavendish), Baron Cavendish of Hardwick, was cr. at the same date Earl of Devonshire, tho' his estates were in Derbyshire, &c., not in the west of England.

He allied himself with the Puritan party, and was one of the 16 "popular" noblemen(d) named by the King, Sep. 1640, to treat with the Scots at Ripon, being Joint Commissr. for a like purpose in London, 23 Nov. following; P.C., 1641; a Commissr. of Regency, Aug. to Nov. 1641. He, on the nomination of Parl., was L. Lieut. of Essex and Norfolk, Admiral in the Navy, Capt. This house passed (see p. 68, note "f") to William (Edwardes), 1st Baron Kensington [I.], as heir to the 7th Earl, and was in possession of that family when Malcolm, in 1802, wrote his "Londinium redivivum" It was the famous monastery, founded by Rahere, which, 426 years after its completion, was part of the ecclesiastical spoil that was granted, 19 May 1544, to Robert (Rich), 1st Baron Rich. Dugdale, however, states that the Earl died "at Warwick House, in Holburne," and it seems that a house in Holborn called "Warwick House" belonged, as early as 1645, to these Earls: see p. 67, note "c." Brooke House in Holborn, existing 1628 (said to have been subsequently called Warwick House) belonged to the Greville family (owners of Warwick Castle since 1604) and retained its name as late as the time of Charles II., when "The Brook House Committee" was appointed, while Pepys mentions "Warwick house in Holborn," 8 March 1659/60, these two houses being clearly distinct buildings.

(e) The death of his hopeful grandson, Robert Rich, only two months before his own, had much affected him. The Earl was "a great patron of seamen and of the Puritans, and seems to have owed his success in life rather to his agreeable and popular manners than to more sterling qualities." [Her. and Gen.," vol. v, p. 445]. According to Lloyd, he was "serious in his carriage, rough in his spirit, stubborn in his constitution, steady in his course, stern in his comportment, sly and close in his conduct; choosing rather to improve himself in America by trade, than in England by courtship; something inclined to the faction by the principles of his education, more by those of his interest." Lord Clarendon speaks of him as "a man in no grace at court, and looked upon as the greatest patron of the Puritans . . . tho' he was of a life very licentious and unconformable to their professed rigour . . . of a pleasant and companionable wit and conversation; of an universal jollity, and such a licence in his words and in his actions that a man of less virtue could not be found." His portrait, "after Van Dyck," is engraved in "Doyle," as also by Houbraken, Vertue, and Hollar. See, also, Ricraft's "Englands's Champions," and Vicars' "England's Worthies."

(a) She, possibly, is the Lady referred to in Luttrell's Diary, 26 Sep. 1699, as "the Earl of Warwick's Lady being dead her jointure of £1,000 a year falls to his Lordship." In any case, we must supply the word "late" to the word "Earl," and the word "present" to "Lordship," as the [only] wife of the then Earl survived him. Possibly, however, the entry was from a false report.

Lees Priory, the original seat of the Riches, is now the property of Guy's Hospital." [Craik's "Romance of the Peerage," vol. i, p. 309.]

Of the 3 daughters and, eventually, coheirs of Robert the 3d Earl, all being by his second wife (1) Anne m. 8 Nov. 1664, in the chapel at Lees, Thomas Barrington, s. of the 3d and father of the 4th Bart.; (2) Mary, m. there, 11 Dec. 1673, Henry (St. John), 1st Viscount St. John; (3) Essex, m. there, 16 June 1674, Daniel (Finch), 2d Earl of Nottingham, who became (in 1729) Earl of Winchilsea. The aunts of these coheirs, the 3 daughters of the 2d Earl, appear to have inherited some of the estates. These were (1) Ann, 2d wife to Edward (Montagu), 2d Earl of Manchester; (2) Lucy, m. John (Robartes), Earl of Radnor, and (3) Frances, m. Nicholas (Leke), Earl of Scarsdale.

Earldom [I.] I. 1446. 1. JOHN (TALBOT), EARL OF SHREWSBURY [1442], LORD TALBOT, &c., was cr., 17 July 1446, EARL OF THE COUNTY AND CITY OF WATERFORD [I.] See "SHREWSBURY," Earldom, cr. 1442, with which Earldom this dignity has ever since remained united.

It was, however, considered [tho' probably erroneously] to have been forfeited by the 4th Earl, under the Act (1536-37), 28 Hen. VIII., relating to Irish absentees (see vol. vii, p. 139, note "a"), but was acknowledged soon after the Restoration, when the 11th Earl was introduced by proxy in the Irish House of Lords, and his vote received, 10 July 1661, as Earl of Waterford I.

Marquessate [I.] I. 1789. 1. GEORGE DE-LA-POER (BERESFORD), EARL OF TYRONE, &c. [I.], 4th but 1st surv. s. and h.(b) of Marcus (BERESFORD), 1st EARL OF TYRONE, VISCOUNT TYRONE, and BARON BERESFORD [I.], by Catharine, suo jure(c) BARONESS LA POER [I.], was b. 8 Jan. 1735; styled LORD BERESFORD from 1746 till he suc. to the peerage, [I.], as above, 4 April 1763, having been previously M.P. [I.] for co. Waterford, 1756-60, and for Coleraine, 1761-63. He was Gov. of co. Waterford, 1766; He became, on the death of his mother, 27 July 1769, LORD LA POER I.; K.P., 5 Feb. 1783, being one of the fifteen original Knights of that Order(d) On 21 Aug. 1786, he was cr. a Peer of Great Britain as BARON TYRONE OF HAVERFORDWEST,(e) co. Pembroke, and on 19 Aug. 1789,(f) was cr. MARQUESS

(a) In 1831, John, the 17th Earl, presented a petition respecting this dignity, possibly as to its connection with the office of Lord High Steward [I.]

(b) The elder brothers were (1) James, who d. young; (2) Marcus, bap. 22 Feb. 1727, who d. young; and (3) Marcus, second of that name, b. 23 Dec. 1733, who, also, d. young.

(c) According to the remarkable and anomalous decision respecting that dignity, 19 Dec. 1767 See under "La Poer."

(d) See vol. i, p. 36.

(e) "I prefer Baron Tyrone, that I may write my name the same way in both Kingdoms * * [but] if necessary to be Baron Tyrone of some place [in England] * * * I should choose to be Baron Tyrone of Haverfordwest, of St. Davids, or Hubberston, these places being all opposite to the coast of this country." [Letter of Lord Tyrone to the Duke of Rutland, from the Rutland MSS., Hist. MSS. Com.]

(f) In the "Fortescue Papers" printed in the 13th Rep. of the Hist. MSS. Comm., are, under the date of 1789, several letters of the Marquess of Buckingham, then Viceroy of Ireland, concerning the creations in the Irish Peerage. In 12 March 1789, he mentions his having "carte blanche" in that matter. He proposes that there should be at once created "four Marquessates, four Earls (of whom three are included in the Duke of Rutland's [who was formerly Viceroy] list), four Viscounts, and the Duke of Rutland's five Barons (Gardiner, Lawless, Browne, Gore and Stewart),

OF THE COUNTY OF WATERFORD I. He was P.C. [I.] He m., 19 April 1769, at St. Peter's, Dublin, Elizabeth,(b) da. and h. of Henry MONCK, of Charleville and Grange Gorman, by Isabella, da. of Henry (BENTINCK), 1st DUKE OF PORTLAND. He d. 3 Dec. 1800, at Curraghmore, aged 65. His widow who was b. 1743, d. 15 Jan. 1816, at Golden hill, Hampstead, Midx.

II. 1800. 2. HENRY DE-LA-POER (BERESFORD), MARQUESS OF WATERFORD, &c. [I.], also BARON TYRONE OF HAVERFORDWEST, 2d but 1st surv. s. and h.; b. 23 May 1772, being styled LORD LA POER, after his brother's death in 1783 to 1789, and EARL OF TYRONE from 1789 till he suc. to the peerage, as above, 3 Dec. 1800, having previously mat. at Oxford (Ch. Ch.), 19 May 1790, where he was cr. M.A., 7 Dec. 1792, and having been M.P. [I.], 1790—1800; K.P., 14 March 1806, being inst. 29 June 1809; P.C. [I.]; Gov. of co. Waterford, and Col. of the Waterford militia. He m., 29 Aug. 1805, at St. Geo., Han. sq. (spec. lic. fac.), Susanna Hussey, da. and h. of George (CARPENTER), 2d EARL OF TYRCONNEL [I.], by his second wife, Sarah Hussey, da. and coheir of John Hussey (DELAVAL), BARON DELAVAL. He d. of gout, 16 July 1826, at Carmarthen, aged 54. Will pr. Oct. 1826. His widow, who was b. 15 July 1784, d. 7 June 1827, in Mansfield street, Marylebone, in her 44th year. Will pr. III. 1826. 3. HENRY DE-LA-POER (BERESFORD), MARQUESS OF WATERFORD, &c. [I.], also BARON TYRONE OF HAVERFORDWEST, 2nd but 1st surv. s. and h.; b. 26 April 1811 in Mansfield street afsd.; styled EARL OF TYRONE after the death of his br. in 1824 till he suc. to the peerage, as above, 16 July 1826; mat. at Oxford (Ch. to whom I would wish to add the name of Lord Justice Carleton." These five designate Barons were ennobled under the title of MOUNTJOY, CLONGURRY, KILMAINE, ANNALY and LONDONDERRY. The four Viscounts were, possibly, CLONMELL (Scott, Lord Earlsfort), BELMORE (Lowry, Baron Belmore), CONYNHAM (Conynyham, Baron Conynham), LOFTUS (Loftus, Baron Loftus), while the four Earls were, probably, Annesley (Annesley, Viscount Glerawly), Enniskillen (Cole, Viscount Enniskillen), Erne, (Crichton, Viscount Erne), and Carysfort (Proby, Baron Carysfort). The four Marquessates were unquestionably CLANRICARDE (De Burgh, Earl of Clanricarde), ANTRIM (O'Donnell, Earl of Antrim), WATERFORD (Beresford, Earl of Tyrone), and DOWNSHIRE (Hill, Earl of Hillsborough), as to whom the Viceroy writes (4 March 1789) "Lord Tyrone and Lord Hillsborough must be Marquesses; this will, I fear, involve Lord Antrim and Lord Clanricarde in the same promotion as they claim the King's promise but they have no sons. I look upon this last as absolutely necessary, and you [the Rt. Hon. W. W. Grenville] must get me an answer upon it, as Lord Hillsborough and Tyrone are very warm in the pursuit of it, and have been very steady."

(a) A very improper designation, there being then (as now) an Earl of Waterford in existence. It is remarkable, too, as being against the sentiments expressed by the grantee in p 70, note "e."

(b) Mrs. Delaney writes, as early as 8 June 1765, that "Miss Monck, Lady Bell's daughter is to be married to the Earl of Tyrone, a man of more intrinsic worth than he appears to be, and she is much commended for good nature and not wanting sense, among her acquaintances; no beauty between them, but very good fortune."

(c) He, "in his youth, obtained an unenviable notoriety for his eccentricities," but became afterwards "one of the best landlords and most improving cultivators" in Ireland, "and had become universally popular and respected" [Ann. Reg. 1859].

(which had been left to her in dower by her husband), 12 May 1891, in her 74th year, and was bur. at Ford.[a]

IV. 1859. 4. JOHN DE-LA-POER (BERESFORD), MARQUESS OF WATERFORD, &c. [I.], also BARON TYRONE OF HAVERFORDWEST, next surv. br.[b] and h., being 4th s. of the 2d Marquess; b. 27 April 1814 at Tyrone House; was styled Lord John Beresford till 1859; ed. at Trin. Coll., Cambridge; M.A. 1835. Incumbent of Mullaghbrack, co. Armagh, and Rural Dean; suc. to the peerage, as above, 29 March 1859. He m. 20 Feb. 1843, Christiana, sister of Sir John Leslie, 1st Bart., da. of Charles Powell LESLIE, of Glaslough, co. Monaghan, by his second wife Christian, da. of George FOSBERY, of Clorane, co. Limerick. He d. of gastric fever, 6 Nov. 1866, at Curraghmore, aged 52, and was bur. at Clonegan, co. Waterford. His widow living 1897.

V. 1866. 5. JOHN HENRY DE-LA-POER (BERESFORD), MARQUESS OF WATERFORD, &c. [I.], also BARON TYRONE OF HAVERFORDWEST, 1st s. and h.; b. 21 May 1844 in London; ed. at Eton; styled EARL OF TYRONE, 1859-66; an officer in the 1st Life Guards, 1862-69; M.P. for co. Waterford, 1865-66; suc. to the peerage, as above, 6 Nov. 1866; K.P., 17 Nov. 1868; L.-Lieut. of co. Waterford, 1874; P.C. [I.], 1880; P.C. [G.B.], 1885; Master of the Buckhounds, 1885-86. He m. firstly, 9 Aug.,[c] at the Register office, St. Geo. Han sq., Florence Grosvenor, divorced wife of the Hon. John Cranch Walker VIVIAN, 2d da. of George ROWLEY, Major 2d Bombay cavalry, by Emily Isabella, da. of Lieut.-Col. Robert HONNER, of Lee Mount, co. Cork. She d. 4 April 1873, at 27 Chesham place, aged 33, after childbirth of a still born infant 5 days before, and was bur. at Clonegan afsd. He m. secondly, 21 July 1874, at St. Michael's, Badmington, co. Gloucester, Blanche Elizabeth Adelaide, only da. of Henry Charles Fitzroy (SOMERSET), 8th DUKE OF BEAUFORT, by Georgina Charlotte, da. of Richard (CURZON), 1st EARL HOWE. He d., having shot himself,[d] 23 Oct. 1895, at Curraghmore, aged 51, and was bur. at Clonegan. Will pr. at £88,467 personalty. His widow, who was b. 26 March 1856, d. 22 Feb. 1897, at Curraghmore.

(a) It is said that she would have been "The Queen of beauty" at the Eglinton tournament, in 1839, had it not been decided that none but a married person should hold that position. She was also an artist of no mean merit. Her "artistic and charitable labours" as also her exemplary career have been very fully set forth (1) by Augustus Hare in his Two Noble Lives, namely those of herself and her sister, Countess Canning [see vol. vii, p. 295, note "b,"] in which he writes that "it was only as Louisa Stuart grew to girlhood that her marvellous beauty shewed itself," but that her sister, Viscountess Canning, was "perfectly lovely from infancy"; (2) by the Rev. H. M. Neville in his Under a Border Tower, . . . Ford Castle, where "the first half is wholly surrendered to her . . . Mr. Hare spoke of 'our Lady,' with bated breath, like a pilgrim at a shrine; Mr. Neville chants his orisons at the same altar. The tone is natural enough in the welcome guest and biographer; it is almost inevitable in the parish priest of my Lady Bountiful" [Athenæum, No. 3590, p. 316; 15 Aug. 1896]. The estate of Ford Castle in 1876 was 6,537 acres, worth £10,089 a year.

(b) Lord William de-la-Poer Beresford, the intermediate br. (3d s. of the 2d Marquess), b. 2 Dec. 1812; an officer in the Life Guards; d. unm., 18 Oct. 1850, at Regent's Park barracks, aged 38.

(c) Sic, not 8 July, as generally stated.

(d) The verdict was temporary insanity. He had for the last 12 years been a great sufferer from a sprain in his back caused by a fall when in the hunting field.

Of him wrote John Morley, then Sec. for Ireland, in a private letter, 1894, only a year before his death, "I liked Lord Waterford as well as I did when I last met him in London. He has a thoroughly able, direct, frank, masculine mind, and with a good deal of liberality and breadth of apprehension. They say he is of a dictatorial turn. Perhaps; I don't know. It does not prevent him from being a man of strong, clear sense, and of hearty straight ways. We talked Ireland in and out, up and down, hour after hour—land question, Home Rule, Catholic and Protestant. . . . I should never desire to meet a more acute, frank, manly disputant. . . . I felt the value of hearing the landlord view, put at its best, by the man who is far the ablest in that camp."

VI. 1895. 6. HENRY DE-LA-POER (BERESFORD), MARQUESS OF WATERFORD [I. 1789], EARL OF TYRONE [I. 1746], VISCOUNT TYRONE [I. 1720], BARON BERESFORD [I. 1720] and LORD LA POER [I.],(a) also BARON TYRONE OF HAVERFORDWEST [G.B. 1786], also a Baronet [I. 1665] only s. and h.; b. 28 April 1875, at 30 Charles street, St. James' square; styled EARL OF TYRONE till he suc. to the peerage, as above, 23 Oct. 1895; ed. at Eton; Lieut. Royal Horse Guards.

1. SIR REGINALD EARLE WELBY, 5th and yst. s. of the Rev. John Earle WELBY, Rector of Hareston, co. Leicester (6th s. of William Earle WELBY, 1st Bart.), by Felicia Elizabeth, da. of the Rev. George HOLE, of Chulmleigh, Devon, was b. 3 Aug. 1832; ed. at Eton, and at Trin. Coll., Cambridge; B.A., 1855; C.B., 1874; Assist. Financ. Sec. of the Treasury, 1880-84; Auditor of the Civil List, 1881; K.C.B., 1882; Permanent Sec. to the Treasury, 1885-94; G.C.B., 1892, being, on his resignation of office, cr., 16 April 1894; BARON WELBY OF ALLINGTON, co. WELLES.

Barony by Writ. I. 1299.

1. SIR ADAM DE WELLES, of "Welle-parke," Hellowe, Grimsby, &c., co. Lincoln, whose parentage is somewhat doubtful, was b. about 1276; served in Gascony, 1294; was Constable of Rockingham Castle, being then a Knight, 1297; was in the Scotch war, 1298—1303, being at the siege of Carlaverock, and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD WELLES) from 6 Feb. (1298/9) 27 Ed. I. to 16 June (1311) 4 Ed. II. His signature as "Adam, Dominus de Welle," appears on the letter of the Barons to the Pope, 1301.[a] He was sum. to the coron. of Ed. II. He m. Joan,[b] da. and h. of John D' ENGAINE, of Grimsby afsd. He d. Sep. 1311. Esch. 5 Ed. II. His widow then living, was dead before 1316; Esch. 9 Ed. II.

[a] See full account of this letter in "Nicolas," pp. 761—809.

[b] That the name of the wife of the 1st Lord was Joan and not Margaret (as in "Doyle") appears from the mass for her soul, founded in (22 Ed. III.) 1348, by her grandson, John, Lord Welles, where, also, it appears that the name of the wife of Adam, 2nd Lord Welles, her son, was not Maud (as in "Doyle"), but Margaret.

II. 1311. 2. ROBERT (DE WELLES), LORD WELLES, s. and h., 16 years old at his father's death, made proof of his age (1318-19), 12 Ed. II.[a] He, who was never sum. to Parl., was knighted before 1319. He m. Maud, widow of Robert (DE CLIFFORD), LORD CLIFFORD (slain 25 June 1314), 2d and yst. da. of Thomas DE CLARE, probably that Thomas, who was 2d s. of Gilbert, EARL OF GLOUCESTER AND HERTFORD. He d. s.p. Aug. 1320. Esch. 14 Ed. II. Will pr. (as that of "Sir Robert de Welle") Feb. 1321, at Lincoln. His widow was found heir in (1320-21) 14 Ed. II., to her nephew, Thomas, only s. and h. of Richard (DE CLARE), LORD DE CLARE.[b] She d. (1326-27) 1 Ed. III.

III. 1320. 3. ADAM (DE WELLES), LORD WELLES, br. and h., aged 16 at his brother's death, made proof of age, 22 Aug. 1326. He was in the Scotch wars in 1333 and in 1335, being then a Knight, and was in the King's service in France, 1342-43. He was sum. to Parl. from 20 July (1332) 6 Ed. III. to 20 April (1343) 17 Ed. III. He m. Margaret,[c] presumably da. of John (BARDOLF), LORD BARDOLF, by Elizabeth, da. and coheir of Sir Roger D' AMORIE, or, according to some, he m. "Maud,[c] da. of Eubolo Ros, of Hamlake."[d] He d. 27 Feb. 1344/5, having lands in the Counties of Lincoln, Northampton, Essex and Northumberland. Esch. 19 Ed. III. Will dat. 24 Feb. 1344/5, directing his burial to be at Greenfield, near his late wife, Margaret, pr. 2 April 1345, at Lincoln.

IV. 1345. 4. JOHN (DE WELLES), LORD WELLES, s. and h., aged 12 at his father's death, his wardship being granted to Margaret, widow of William (DE ROS), LORD ROS; made proof of his full age in 1355; served in the wars of Gascony in 1359. He was sum. to Parl. from 15 Dec. (1357) 31 Ed. III. to 20 Nov. (1360) 34 Ed. III. He m., when a minor, before 1350, Maud,[e] who, apparently, was da. of the said William (DE ROS), LORD ROS, by Margaret, sister of John, EARL OF ARUNDEL, da. of John (FITZALAN, otherwise ARUNDEL), LORD ARUNDEL. He d. (1361) 35 Ed. III. Esch. 35 Ed. III. His widow was, apparently, the "Maud, Lady Welles," who d. 1399. Esch. of that date.[f]

V. 1361. 5. JOHN (DE WELLES), LORD WELLES, s. and h., aged 11 at his father's death, made proof of his age in 1373, being knighted before Nov. 1373. He served in the expedition to Flanders and the French wars; was on an embassy to Scotland, where his challenge to prove "the chivalry and valiant deeds of Englishmen" was accepted by Sir David Lindsay of Crawford, afterwards (1398) Earl of Crawford [S]. in which combat on London bridge, 23 April 1390, he was, however, unhorsed by the said David. He was sum. to Parl.[g] from 20 Jan. (1375/6) 49 Ed. III. to 26 Feb. (1420/1) 8 Hen. V., such summons being, apparently, continued no less than seven years after his death, viz., from 29 Sep. (1422) 1 Hen. VI. to 3 Aug. (1429) 7 Hen. VI.[h] He m., in or before 1366, Cicely,

(g) There is proof in the rolls of Parl. of his sitting.

(h) "Though Dugdale's statement relative to this Baron has been followed in the text, it must be observed that a 'John de Welles' (and apparently the same personage) was regularly summoned to Parliament from 29 September (1 Hen. VI.) 1422, to 3 August (7 Hen. VI.) 1429. Many instances are to be found of Writs of Summons being directed to Barons several years after their deaths, probably from ignorance of their demise: of which that of Maurice, Lord Berkeley, is a singular example, who, though dead in 1368, was regularly summoned until 1380, viz., twelve years after his decease." [Nicolas]. The following remarks made by R. E. C. Waters (as in note "f," above) are subjoined: "Dugdale's account of the succession in the peerage [of Welles] is open to grave doubts, for it would seem that Adam II. was succeeded [in 1345] by three Johns successively, and Dugdale only mentions two.

restitution in blood and honours, acquiring thereby the additional title of LORD WELLES. He m. secondly (lic. 10 Aug. 1468,[a]) to marry at her father's house at Harlesley), Margaret, widow of John INGLEBY, da. of Sir James STRANGWAYS. He was beheaded, near Stamford,[b] 12 March 1469, by order of Ed. IV., who had expected him to have restrained his son, then in rebellion against that King. All his honours were thus, presumably, forfeited, tho' it was not till 1475 that a formal Act of Attainder was past. His widow took the veil, 8 May 1475.[a]

SIR ROBERT DE WELLES, only s. and h., having survived, tho' but for a short time, his father (beheaded for high treason as afsd.), may possibly be considered to have became on his father's death, 12 March 1469, LORD WILLOUGHBY AND WELLES. He was at that time in command of the Lincolnshire insurgents,[c] but was defeated and beheaded very shortly afterwards. He d. s.p., and was bur. at Doncaster. He was included with his father, in the act of attainder of 1475. He m. Elizabeth, da. of John (BOURCHIER), LORD BERNERS. Her will directing her burial to be at Doncaster afsd., dat. 2, and pr. 8 Oct. 1470.

VIII. 1482, to 1503. 8 or 1. SIR RICHARD HASTINGS, br. to William, 1st LORD HASTINGS, being 2d son of Sir Leonard HASTINGS, by Alice, da. of Thomas (CAMOYS), LORD CAMOYS, was b. before 1450; made Knight Banneret (by Ed. IV.), 3 May 1461. He, having m. before 1470, Joan, the childless widow of Richard PIGGOT, of London,[d] sister and heir of Sir Robert de Welles, being only da. of Richard (DE WELLES), LORD WELLES AND WILLOUGHBY, both abovenamed, obtained in that year a grant of the lands which his said wife would have inherited, had it not been for the attainder[e] of her said father and brother, and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron from 15 Nov. (1482), 22 Ed. IV. to 9 Dec. (1483), 1 Ric. III. by writs directed "Richardo Hastinges de Welles, Chl'r," becoming thus LORD WELLES. As such, he was at the coronation of Ric. III., 6 July 1483[f] He appears, however, to have styled himself LORD WILLOUGHBY,[g] to which last Barony his wife, had it not been for the attainder, would have been equally entitled. He d. s.p.s.[h] Sep. 1503. Will dat. 18 March (18 Hen. VII.) 1502/3, pr. 1503. The will of his widow (the heiress of the Baronies of Welles and Willoughby), dat. 19 March 1504/5, was pr. 7 April 1505. Both were bur. at Greyfriars, London. M.I.

At his death the Barony of Welles, if it be considered (as is most probable), a creation de novo, originating in his writ of summons of 1482, became extinct, but the representation of the old Barony, subject to the attainder of 1475 (which has never Vet.*"] So also is he described in the will of his widow, no allusion being made in any of the said wills to the title of Lord Welles. In the inscription on his monument he was, however, styled "d'ns Ric. Hastyng, d'nus de Wyllybi et de Welle, qui obiit Sept. 1503."

1. JOHN WELLES, of Maxhey, 2d s. of Leo, LORD WELLES, being 1st s. by his second wife, Margaret, Dow. VII., he obtained, as heir male, tho' not heir general, the family estates, forfeited in 1469 by his elder br., Richard, Lord Welles, as also several considerable grants, being, soon afterwards, apparently at some date in 1485, cr. LORD WELLES, and so described in the Parl. roll, 1 Hen. VII.,(b) and being, apparently, before 23 Feb. 1486/7, tho' the precise date of his patent does not appear, cr. VISCOUNT WELLES,(c) and first sum. to Parl. as such, 1 Sep. 1487. El. He d. s.p.m.(d) of pleurisy, "at Pasmer's place in Saint Sythe's lane," London, 9 Feb. 1498/9, aged about 50, and was bur. with some state in Westm. Abbey, when all his honours became extinct. Funeral recorded in Coll. of Arms. Will, leaving all his lands to his wife for her life, dat. 8 Feb. 1498/9, pr. 22 June 1499. His widow, who was b. 1469, m., about 1503 (before Jan. 1503/4), THOMAS KYMBE, often called KYME,(e) of, apparently, the Isle of Wight. She d. 24 Aug. 1507, aged 38, and was bur. at Quarr Abbey in that island.

WELLINGTON.

Viscountcy. I. 1809. Earldom. I. 1812. Marquessate. I. 1812. Dukedom. I. 1814.

1. "THE RT. HON. SIR ARTHUR WELLESLEY, K.B., Lieut. Gen. of Her Majesty's forces," was cr., 4 Sep. 1809, BARON DOURO OF WELLESLEY, co. Somerset, and VISCOUNT WELLINGTON OF TALAVERA AND OF WELLINGTON, in the said county. He was subsequently cr., 28 Feb. 1812, EARL OF WELLINGTON, co. Somerset, being (eight months later) cr., 8 Oct. 1812, MARQUESS OF WELLINGTON, and finally, 11 May 1814, MARQUESS OF DOURO and DUKE OF WELLINGTON. The Hon. Arthur WESLEY, afterwards (1798?) WELLESLEY, 5th but 3d surv. s. of Garret (WESLEY), 1st EARL OF MORNINGTON [I.], by Anne, da. of Arthur (HILL, afterwards HILL-TREVOR), 1st VISCOUNT DUNGANNON [I.], was b. in the Provost's house (opposite Mornington House) in Upper Merrion street, Dublin, probably 29 and was certainly bap. 30 April 1769, at St. Peter's in that city[b]; ed. at Eton, and at a military school at Angers; joined the Army, 73d Foot, 7 March 1787; was Aide-de-Camp to two successive Viceroys of Ireland, 1787-93; M.P. [I.] for Trim, 1790-93; M.P. [U.K.] for Rye, 1806; for St. Michael's, 1807, and for Newport (Isle of Wight), 1807-09. His 21 years of active military service began in 1794, when, as Lieut. Col., he commanded a brigade in the unsuccessful

[b] Both the day of birth, often given as 1 May, and the place thereof (Dangan Castle, co. Meath; Grafton street, Dublin; or Upper Merrion street, Dublin), are matters of controversy. As to the former, see N. & Q., 7th S., vii, 286, and x, 337, where the place and date of baptism are fully proved. See, also, in the last entry as to the probable date of birth. See, also, "Her. and Gen.," vol. viii, p. 14. As to the place of birth there is a letter, signed "Robert Staveley, Killiney Vicarage, 9 July 1890," to the Editor of "The Irish Times," stating that "the late Arthur Gayer, Q.C., LL.D., Eccles. Commissr., assured me that he had made the fullest inquiry and had satisfied himself that the Countess of Mornington was compelled to leave Mornington House, 24 Upper Merrion street (for a long time the offices of the Ecclesiastical Commission), on account of the painting of the house, and that her child was born in the house opposite, the Provost's, lately occupied by the Alliance Gas Company." This statement is confirmed by a letter to the Editor of this work, dated 4 Nov. 1890, from Charles John A. Coote, of Mount Coote, near Kilmallock (d. 20 Jan. 1897, aged 85), who writes: "Many years ago I asked the late Dean Pakenham, who was brother to the Duchess of Wellington, 'Can you tell me where the Duke was born, as there has been much controversy about it.' He replied, 'Yes, I can on the best authority, that of Lady Mornington, the Duke's mother,' who told him she was obliged to leave her house in Upper Merrion street, on account of painting, and that the Duke was born in the house opposite [i.e.], the Provost's house."

expedition to Holland; in 1797 he served in India, taking a conspicuous part in the campaign against Tippoo Saib in 1799, and was, from 1799 to 1805, Governor of Seringapatam and Mysore. Under his command, as Major General, was gained the victory, 23 Sep. 1803, at Assaye, with 9,500 men against 40,000, followed by that of Argaum and the storming of the fortress of Gawilghar, ending in the entire submission of Scindiah and of the Rajah of Berah. He received, in consequence, the thanks of Parl., and was nom. K.B., 28 Aug. 1804, becoming, accordingly, G.C.B., 2 June 1815. He was made Col. of the 33d Foot in Jan. 1806; distinguished himself, in 1807, in command, under Lord Cathcart, against the island of Zealand, which expedition terminated with the surrender of Copenhagen and of the whole Danish fleet, when the officers in command received the thanks of Parl. He was, 1807-09, Chief Sec. to the Viceroy of Ireland, and was P.C. [G.B. and I.], 1807. In 1808 he embarked for Portugal, gaining, on 18 and 21 Aug., the victories of Roleia and Vimiera,(a) which effected the evacuation by the French of that country. On 26 July 1809, being then Com. in Chief of the British forces and Marshal Gen. in the Portuguese army, he accomplished a brilliant passage over the Douro and defeated the French after a desperate conflict at Talavera in Spain. He was, accordingly, raised to the peerage, 9 Sep. following, as above stated, the Barony of Douro(b) and the Viscountcy of Wellington of Talavera,(b) commemorating these achievments, and was again thanked by Parl., who, in Feb. 1810, conferred on him and his two successors in the title an annuity of £2,000. In 1810 he was one of the Regency of Portugal, and in that year he carried out the fortifications of Torres Vedras, extending from the Tagus to the sea, and thus barring the access of the French troops to Lisbon, over whose superior forces (under Marshal Massena) he, 27 July 1810, gained the victory of Busaco, compelling them, after a loss of above 40,000 men from sword, famine and disease, to withdraw into Spain. In May 1811 he repulsed the enemy at Fuentes d' Onoro, recovered the frontier fortress of Almeida, and made two attempts to storm that of Badajoz. On 19 Jan. 1812, he won, after an eleven days siege, the important fortress of Ciudad Rodrigo,(c) being, consequently, raised, 28 Feb. 1812, to an Earldom, as above stated, and receiving an additional annuity of £2,000 on the same terms as that of 1810. On 6 April following, he, after a frightful carnage and the loss of nearly 5,000 men, effected the capture of Badajoz, and, entering Spain, defeated the French, 22 July 1812, at Salamanca, an action in which he himself, for the only time, was wounded. He entered Madrid, 12 Aug. (whence the usurping King, Joseph Buonaparte, had fled) and after five weeks siege of Burgos, retreated on the Douro, being then Generalissimo of the armies of Spain. He again received the thanks of Parl. and was advanced, 8 Oct. 1812, to a Marquessate, as abovestated, with a grant of £100,000 for purchase of lands to descend with his peerage. On 21 June 1813 he gained a complete victory over Marshal Jourdan at Vittoria, where King Joseph narrowly escaped capture, and was raised, 21 June 1813, to the rank of FIELD MARSHAL, again receiving the thanks of Parl. A series of actions in the passes of the Pyrenees against the French Marshal Soult (whom he compelled to retreat into France), was followed by the capture of San Sebastian, 31 Aug., and of Pampeluna, 10 Nov. 1813, the victory at Orthez, 27 Feb., the surrender of Bayonne, 12 March, and the final defeat of Soult, at Toulouse, 10 April 1814. This was his last victory in the Peninsular war, the abdication of Napoleon having then taken place. He was accordingly advanced, 11 May 1814, to a Dukedom, as abovestated, being granted an additional £400,000 to purchase estates

(a) The convention at Cintra which followed, signed by himself, Sir Harry Burrard and Sir Hew Dalrymple, who, on arrival, had taken the chief command, was generally condemned as too favourable to the French, considering the means in the hands of Sir Hew, who was tried for the same, but exonerated. It gave rise to this distich:—

"Sir Arthur and Sir Harry—Sir Arthur and Sir Hew—
Cock-a-doodle, cock-a-doodle, cock-a-doodle-doo.—
Sir Arthur's a brave soldier; but of the other two,
Sing cock-a-doodle, cock-a-doodle, cock-a-doodle-doo.

entailed on the heirs male of his body, failing which, on the heirs female thereof,(a) and receiving, for the 12th time, the thanks of Parl. He took his seat in the House of Lords, for the first time, 28 June 1814.(b) He was, from 1813 to 1827, Col. of the Royal Reg. of Horse Guards; he had been elected K.G., 4 March, receiving the ensigns at Freneda in Portugal, 6 May 1813,(c) and was inst. by disp., 19 April 1814. As to foreign peerages received during his Peninsular campaign, he had been cr., 18 Oct. 1811, COUNT OF VIMIERA; in 1812, MARQUIS OF TORRES VEDRAS, and. 18 Dec. 1812, DUKE OF VITTORIA, all 3 in Portugal, besides Jan. 1812, DUKE OF CIUDAD RODRIGO AND GRANDEE OF THE FIRST CLASS in Spain, in which Kingdom he received an estate valued at £20,000 a year. He was cr. D.C.L. of Oxford (by diploma), 14 June 1814. In Aug. 1814 he arrived at Paris as Ambassador, proceeding in Feb. 1815 to Vienna, as joint Plenipo. to the European congress there held, and being appointed 28 March (on the escape of Napoleon from Elba), Com. in Chief of the Forces on the Continent. The Prussians and the English alone were ready to oppose Napoleon, when, with 150,000 men, he appeared on the frontier of Belgium. The famous victory of Waterloo, when for the first and last time these two great Generals (Napoleon and Wellington) were opposed, was gained on 18 June 1815, Paris capitulated on 3 July, and Louis XVIII. was restored as King of France. On 23 June he was yet again thanked by Parl. "for the consummate ability, unexampled exertion and irresistable ardour displayed by him on the 18th," and, in July, an additional sum of £200,000 was voted for the purchase of lands to be held by him and his heirs, on the tenure of rendering a tricoloured flag on 18 June in every year. He, who was Com. in Chief of the allied armies of occupation, 1815-18, was cr., 18 July 1815, PRINCE OF WATERLOO in the Netherlands, receiving an estate, estimated at £2,000 a year, in that Kingdom; G.C.H., March 1816. Among the numerous foreign Orders of Knighthood conferred on him were the following, viz. (1), The Tower and Sword of Portugal, 18 Oct. 1811; (2) St. Ferdinand, 11 April 1812; (3) the Golden Fleece, 7 Aug. 1812; (4) St. Hermengilde, 1 Sep. 1817, and (5) Charles III., the last four being of Spain; (6) Maria Theresa of Austria, 5 Feb. 1814; (7) The Sword of Sweden, 5 Feb. 1814; (8) the Black Eagle of Prussia, 4 March 1814; (9) St. George, 4 March 1814; (10) St. Alexander Newski, and (11) St. Andrew, the last three being of Russia; (12) William of the Netherlands, 30 April 1815; (13) the Annunciation of Savoy, or Sardinia, 7 July 1815; (14) the Elephant of Denmark, July 1815; (15) the Rue Crown of Saxony, 27 July 1815; (16) the Order of Fidelity, July 1815, and (17) the Lion, both of Baden; (18) Maximilian-Joseph of Bavaria; (19) the Saint Esprit of France, 27 Nov. 1815; (20) St. Januarius of Naples, 16 July 1817, and (21) St. Ferdinand of Naples, 16 July 1817, both orders of the Two Sicilies; (22) the Golden Lion of Hesse Cassel; (23) the Order of Merit, of Wurtemberg, &c. In Nov. 1818, being at that date the representative of his country at the Congress of Aix-la-Chapelle, he was made Field Marshal of Austria, Russia and Prussia.(d) From this time till his

(a) It is somewhat remarkable that none of the peerage dignities conferred on Wellington have any special remainder, so that, on failure of heirs male of his body (never at any time very numerous, tho' those of his younger brothers are "legion"), that well known and well merited title would be extinct. As to peerages conferred in somewhat similar circumstances (1), in the case of Marlborough, the Dukedom endures so long as any descendant of the great Duke's body exists, while (2) in that of Nelson, the title was not only limited to the brother, but even to the descendants of two sisters; so also (3) in that of St. Vincent, the spec. rem. was to the children of a sister; (4) in that of Hill, to the children of a brother, &c.

(b) "The patents for his successive creations of Viscount, Earl, Marquess and Duke were read together, a circumstance unparalleled in history—all won in five years by achievements of greatest renown." [Ann. Reg. 1853, in "Life of the Duke of Wellington."]

(c) On this occasion he resigned the Order of the Bath, but was re-elected thereto, becoming (with all the other existing knights of that order) G.C.B. on 2 Jan. 1815.

(d) He was "Field Marshal of the armies of the United Kingdom, Austria, Hanover, the Netherlands, Prussia and Russia, Marshal General of the Portuguese, and Captain General of the Spanish armies" [Courthope], these being almost all the European kingdoms but France. As to other noblemen similarly honoured, John (Talbot), 1st Earl of Shrewsbury, was, in 1436, Marshal of France, so also was, in 1706, James (Fitz James), Duke of Berwick-upon-Tweed, and so also, in 1735, was that Duke's nephew, ex parte materná, Charles O'Brien, titular Viscount Clare, and Earl of Thomond [I.]

death, 35 years later, his career was chiefly that of a distinguished Conservative statesman. He was Master Gen. of the Ordnance, with a seat in the Cabinet, 1818-27; Gov. of Plymouth, 1819-26; Col. in Chief of the Rifle brigade, 1820-52; L. Lieut. of Hants, 1820-52; L. High Constable for three successive coronations, viz., that of Geo. IV., 19 July 1821; of Will. IV., 8 Sep. 1831, and of Victoria, 28 June 1838. He was one of the two persons(a) chosen by Geo. IV. for the abortive negotiation between him and his Consort, a circumstance, which, together with his opposition to the "reform" measures (now beginning to assert themselves) rendered him, "within five years of his great victory, one of the four most unpopular men in the country,"(b) tho' during the last years of his life no one, probably, was more popular. From Sep. to Nov. 1832, he was Minister Plenipo. to the Congress of Verona; in Feb. 1826 he was spec. Ambassador to St. Petersburg for the coronation of the Emperor Nicholas; Constable of the Tower of London and L. Lieut. of the Tower Hamlets, 1826-52. On the death of the Duke of York, he became Col. of the Gren. Reg. of Foot Guards (1827-52), and Com. in Chief of the Forces (Jan. to May 1827), which last office, however, he resigned 4 months later, together with that of the Ordnance, and his seat in the Cabinet, on the formation of the Canning ministry, resuming it, however, from Aug. 1827 to Feb. 1828, from which date till Nov. 1830, he was (Prime Minister), FIRST LORD OF THE TREASURY, the Roman Catholic relief bill being passed during that period, giving cause to a bloodless duel between him and the Earl of Winchilsea. He was Warden of the Cinque Ports, &c., 1829-52. During the ministry, 1830-34, of Earl Grey, his opposition to the "Reform bill," 1831-32, inflamed the London mob to such a degree that "he could not appear in the streets without hootings and insult," was "assaulted and injured," his house [Apsley House, Hyde Park corner], being "attacked and threatened with demolition."(b) He was Chancellor of the Univ. of Oxford, 1834-52. In Nov. 1834, he became Prime Minister (for the second time), holding the office of the Secretaryships of State, till the return in Dec. of Sir Robert Peel, under whose Ministry he was Foreign Sec. 1834-45. He was cr. LL.D. of Cambridge, 6 July 1835; Master of the Trinity House, 1837. From 1841 to 1846, he was a Cabinet Minister without office, and from 1842-52, was again Com. in Chief of the Forces. Ranger of St. James' Park, and of Hyde Park, 1850-52. He m. 10 April 1806, at St. George's, Dublin, Catherine Sarah Dorothea, sister of Thomas, EARL OF LONGFORD [I.], 2d da. of Edward Michael (PAKENHAM), 2d BARON LONGFORD [I.], by Catherine, da. of the Rt. Hon. Hercules Langford ROWLEY. She d. 24 April 1831, at Apsley House afsd., aged 58,(c) and was bur. at Strathfield Saye, Hants. "The Duke" (for such during nearly 40 years he had been generally styled) d. somewhat suddenly at Walmer Castle, co. Kent, 14 Sep. 1852, in his 84th year,(d) and was bur. in state, 18 Nov. following, at the country's expense, in the Cathedral of St. Paul's, London,(e) by the side of the famous Admiral, Lord Nelson.

II. 1852. 2. ARTHUR RICHARD WELLESLEY, DUKE OF WELLINGTON, &c., 1st s. and h.; b. 3 Feb. 1807, in Harley street, Marylebone, being bap. 27 June 1808, at St. Patrick's, Dublin; was styled LORD

(a) The other was the well known Lord Castlereagh. Those on the Queen's side were Mr., afterwards Lord, Brougham, and Mr., afterwards Lord, Denman.

(b) Ann. Reg. 1853, as on p. 82, note "b."

(c) Lady Elizabeth Yorke writes of her from Paris in 1814, "Her appearance does not correspond with one's notion of an Ambassadress, or the wife of a Hero." Miss Edgeworth says: "Charming, amiable Lady Wellington, as she truly said of herself, she is always 'Kitty Pakenham to her friends'; after comparison with crowds of other beaux esprits fine ladies and fashionable scrambles for notoriety, her graceful simplicity rises in our opinion, and we feel it with more conviction of its superiority."

(d) His aristocratic and handsome features (notwithstanding the "immense hawk's nose" assigned to him, with great truth, in Baron Stockmar's "Memoirs") have again and again been delineated. See an engraving of him "after Sir T. Lawrence, 1814," in "Doyle." A clever sketch of him on horseback, by Count D'Orsay, recalls him best to those who remember him only in his later years. Raikes ("Journal") says of him, in 1843, "Remarkably neat in his appearance, always wearing a white waistcoat [as did his brother, Marquess Wellesley], and a blue riding coat in the morning, he is la vieille cour personifiée."

(e) A good account is in the "Ann. Reg." for 1852, pp. 482-496. A MS. vol. in the College of Arms is entirely filled with the description thereof.

By the death of his cousin, the 5th EARL OF MORNINGTON [I.], 25 July 1863, he became heir male of his grandfather, and, as such, EARL OF MORNINGTON, VISCOUNT WELLESLEY OF DANGAN CASTLE and BARON MORNINGTON [I.], L. Lieut. of Middlesex, 1868-84. He m., 19 April 1839, at St. Geo., Han. sq., Elizabeth, 4th da. of George (HAY), 8th MARQUESS OF TWEEDDALE [S.], by Susan, da. of William (MONTAGU), 5th DUKE OF MANCHESTER. He d. s.p., suddenly at the railway station at Brighton, 13 Aug. 1884, aged 77, and was bur. at Strathfieldsaye afsd.(a) Will pr. 18 Dec. 1884, personalty above £168,000. His widow, b. 27 Sep. 1820, was a Lady of the bedchamber, 1843-58, mistress of the robes(b) 1861-68 and 1874-80; V.C. (3d class) 1892, and was living 1897.

Lord Charles WELLESLEY, by Augusta Sophia Anne, da. and h. of the Rt. Hon. Henry Manvers PIERREPONT, of Conholt Park, Wilts (yr. son of the 1st EARL MANVERS), which Charles was 2d and yst s. of the 1st Duke, and d. 9 Oct. 1858, aged 50. He was b. at Apsley House afsd., 5 April, and bap. 14 May 1846, at St. Geo., Han. Sq.; ed. at Eton; sometime, 1865, an officer in the Gren. Reg. of Foot Guards; Lieut. Col. 1876; having been Instructor of Musketry, 1871-74. He was M.P. for Andover, 1874-80; suc. to the peerage, 13 Aug. 1884. Hon. Col. 2d Brigade Southern Div. R.A. Militia. George (MACKENZIE), 1st EARL OF CROMARTY [S.], who d. 17 Aug. 1714, in his 84th year, at New Tarbat. She d. May and was bur. 1 June 1705, in East Wemyss church. Funeral entry as "Countess of Wemyss and Cromartie" in Lyon office.

IV. 1705. 4. DAVID (WEMYSS), EARL OF WEMYSS, &c. [S.], only s. and h. by first husband; styled LORD ELCHO, till he suc. to the peerage [S.], on his mother's death in May 1705, taking the oaths and his seat, 28 June 1705; P.C. and a commiss. for the treaty of the Union (of which he was a zealous supporter), 1705; High Admiral for Scotland, 1706-07, and Vice-Admiral thereof, 1707-20; one of the Council to the Prince Consort, George of Denmark; REP. PEER [S.] in two Parls. 1707-10, being one of the 16 who were first so elected. He m. firstly, in 1697, Anne, only da. of William (DOUGLAS), 1st DUKE OF QUEENSBERRY [S.], by Isabel, da. of William (DOUGLAS), 1st MARQUESS OF DOUGLAS [S.] She d. 23 Feb. and was bur. 5 March 1700, as "Lady Elcho" (Funeral entry in Lyon office), in consequence of burns, 10 days previous to her death, her clothes having taken fire, "when engaged in secret prayer." He m. secondly, 5 Jan. 1708/9, at St. Martin's in the fields (Lic. Lond., he 27 and she 22), Mary,[a] 1st da. and coheir of Sir John ROBINSON, 2d Bart., of Farming Woods, co. Northampton, by Mary, da. of Sir William DUDLEY, 1st Bart. She d. s.p. Admon. 18 Sep. 1712. He m. thirdly, July 1716, Elizabeth, 4th da. of Henry (ST. CLAIR), LORD SINCLAIR [S.], by Grizel, da. of Sir James COCKBURN. He d. 15 March 1720, aged about 45 or 50.[b]

[DAVID (WEMYSS), styled, after 1705, LORD ELCHO, 1st s. and h. ap. by first wife; b. 1698; d. unm. and v.p., of malignant fever, 16 Dec. 1715, in his 17th year.]

V. 1720, to 1756. 5. JAMES (WEMYSS), EARL OF WEMYSS, [S. 1633], LORD WEMYSS OF ELCHO [S. 1628], and LORD ELCHO AND METHEL [S. 1633], 2d but 1st surv. s. and h. by first wife; b. 1699; ed. (with his said elder br.), by the well known "Chevalier," Andrew Ramsay; styled LORD ELCHO, from 16 Dec. 1715, till he suc. to the peerage [S.], as above, 15 March 1720. He m. 4 Oct. 1720, Janet (a great heiress), only da. and h. of the notorious Col. Francis CHARTERIS,[c] of Amisfield (formerly Newmills), co. Haddington, by Helen, 5th da. of Alexander SWINTON, a Lord of Session under the style of Lord Mersington. He d. at Norton, in the Bishopric of Durham, 21 (his bowels being bur. there the day following) March, and was bur. 8 April 1756, at Wemyss, in his 57th year. At his death, all his titles, by devolving on his eldest son, who had been attainted, became forfeited. His widow d. 1 March 1778. Will pr. May 1779.

(a) A fortune of £15,000, according to Luttrell's "Diary," 13 Jan. 1708/9, but one of £20,000 according to a letter of Lady Wentworth, on 18 of said month, who calls the future bridegroom "Lord Wembs."

(b) Macky in his "Characters," speaks of the "Earl of Weems," when about 30, as "a man of honour" and "good sense," and "as his family hath ever been, zealous for the liberty of the people, and for bringing down the power of the crown," adding that "he has not yet been in the administration; is a fine personage and very beautiful," to which Dean Swift adds "he was a black man, and handsome for a Scot."

(c) He is one of the "Twelve bad men," whose lives are written by T. Seccombe (1894), and he also appears among Cauldfield's "Remarkable Persons." Of him, who a one time, Feb. 1729, was sentenced to death for rape, Douglas writes ('Baronage of Scotland" [1798], in an account of the Charteris family), "He was a man of good parts and great sagacity and, by his particular skill and knowledge of men and manners of the time he lived in, acquired a vast estate," a highly euphemistic description of a successful and unscrupulous gambler and money lender, who thereby acquired estates (for being of a younger line, he inherited none), valued at about £7,000 a year (one of which he named Amisfield, the name of the old family estate in Dumfries-shire), besides some £100,000 in the stocks. He d. at his seat of Stoneyhill, near Musselburgh, 24 Feb. 1731/2, in his 57th year. He is frequently alluded to by Pope, and figures in the first plate of the "Rake's Progress," by Hogarth. See "N. & Q.," 8th S., iii, pp. 117 and 192, for some suggestions as to his wife's parentage, not, however, apparently, sufficient to outweigh Douglas' statement, which has accordingly been followed in the text.

The following would have been the succession of this peerage, had it not been for the attainder, viz..

VI. 1756. 6. DAVID WEMYSS, styled LORD ELCHO, 1st s. and h., b. 1721; ed. (1734) at Winchester; joined in the Stuart rising in 1745, and was Col. of the first troop of Horse Guards, but escaped abroad after the battle of Culloden, and was consequently attainted. By the death of his father, 8 April 1756, the peerage devolved on him, and became thereby forfeited; he appears, accordingly, never to have assumed the style of Earl of Wemyss. He d. unm. at Paris, 29 April 1787, aged 66.

VII. 1787. 7. FRANCIS CHARTERIS, formerly WEMYSS, styling himself, after 1787, EARL OF WEMYSS, &c. [S.], next br. and h.; b. 21 Oct. 1723. He, on the death, 24 Feb. 1731/2, of his maternal grandfather, Col. Francis Charteris, inherited his real and personal estate,(a) and assumed the name of Charteris accordingly; ed. (1739) at Eton. In 1771, he obtained an Act of Parl. to enable him, "Francis Charteris, Esq., heretofore called Francis Wemyss, and the heirs of his body . . . to retain, assume and sign the name of Charteris . . . notwithstanding the descent to him or them respectively of the honour or title of Wemyss or any other honour and title whatsoever." By the death of his brother, 29 April 1787, the hereditary right to the said title did so devolve on him, and he was thenceforth known (tho' never officially recognised) as Earl of Wemyss, &c. [S.], the impression (an erroneous one) being, that, as he did not deduce his claim thro' an attainted person, the forfeiture of his late brother did not affect his claim.(b) He rebuilt the houses of Amisfield and Gosford (now called Wemyss House), both in co. Haddington. He m., 12 Sep. 1745, Catherine, 6th da. of Alexander (GORDON), 2d DUKE OF GORDON [S.], by Henrietta, da. of Charles (MORDAUNT), EARL OF PETERBOROUGH AND MONMOUTH. She d. at Edinburgh, 21 Jan. 1756. He d. at Gosford afsd., 24 and was bur. 30 Aug. 1808, in the mausoleum there, in his 85th year.

[FRANCIS CHARTERIS, known after 1787, as LORD ELCHO, 1st s. and h. ap., b. at Edinburgh, 31 Jan. 1749. He was M.P. in two Parls., 1780-87, for Haddington boroughs, being deprived, 23 May 1787, when a new writ was issued "in the room of Francis Charteris, Esq., now Lord Elcho, who is become the eldest son of a Peer of Scotland."(c) He was a great agriculturist. He m., 18 July 1771, at St. Geo., Han. sq., Susan, 2d da. and coheir of Anthony TRACY-KECK, formerly TRACY, of Great Tew, Oxon, by Susan, da. of James (HAMILTON), DUKE OF HAMILTON [S.] He d. v.p. after a long and painful illness, 20 Jan. 1808, in his 59th year, and was bur. in the Abbey Church of Haddington. His widow, who had been, before 1771, one of the Maids of Honour to Charlotte, the Queen Consort, d. 25 Feb. 1835, aged 89. Will pr. April 1835.]

VIII. 1808. 8. FRANCIS CHARTERIS, afterwards CHARTERIS-WEMYSS-DOUGLAS, styling himself, after 1808, EARL OF WEMYSS, &c. [S.], grandson and heir of the late (so styled) Earl, obtained, in 1826, the reversal of the attainder of 1745, and became, in consequence, Earl of Wemyss, &c. [S.] See next below.

(a) He, however, did not inherit the estate of Wemyss or any of the paternal estates of the family, which were all left by the late Earl to the youngest son, the Hon. James Wemyss.

(b) The forfeiture was valid on the same principle as in the case of Airlie, viz., that "if the attainted person survived the person in possession of the dignity, the title was forfeited." See vol. i, p. 45, note "a," sub "Airlie."

(c) This recognition of his father's peerage was, however, (see note next above) in error.

Earldom [S.]
VI. 1826.

1 and 6. "FRANCIS CHARTERIS-WEMYSS-DOUGLAS, Esq., claiming to be EARL OF WEMYSS AND MARCH," was cr. 17 July 1821,(a) BARON WEMYSS of Wemyss,(b) co. Fife. He was grandson and heir of Francis CHARTERIS, known (1787-1808) as EARL OF WEMYSS, &c. [S.], being only s. and h. of Francis CHARTERIS, styling himself LORD ELCHO (who d. v.p. 20 Jan. 1808), by Susan his wife, both abovenamed. He was b. 15 April 1772; was an officer in the army, being aide-de-camp to his maternal granduncle, Lord Adam Gordon, 1793-97. On the death of his father, 20 Jan. 1808, he styled himself Lord ELCHO, till (a few months later), on the death of his paternal grandfather abovenamed, 24 Aug. 1808, he styled himself EARL OF WEMYSS, &c. [S.], and on the death, 23 Dec. 1810, of his distant cousin, William (Douglas), 4th Duke of Queensberry &c. [S.], he, as heir male of the body of his great-great-grandmother, Anne, first wife of David, Earl of Wemyss, and da. of William (Douglas), 1st Duke of Queensberry [S],(c) inherited considerable estates in Peebles-shire, including the Castle and Barony of Niedpath, and assumed the name of Charteris-Wemyss-Douglas, in lieu of that of Charteris. On the grounds that the titles of EARL OF MARCH, VISCOUNT PEEBLES, LORD DOUGLAS OF NIEDPATH, LYNE AND MUNARD [S.] were cr., 20 April 1697, with an extended limitation,(d) whereby they would devolve on the heirs of such lands, he, from 1810, styled himself EARL OF WEMYSS AND MARCH [S.], neither of such titles being, however, recognised (save as titles claimed by him) when he was raised to a Barony [U.K.] 17 July 1821, as abovestated. By the reversal, in 1826,(e) of the attainder, in 1745, of his collateral ancestor, David Wemyss, styled Lord Elcho, he, as heir male of the body of the grantee, became EARL OF WEMYSS [S. 1633], LORD WEMYSS OF ELCHO [S. 1628] and LORD ELCHO AND METHEL [S. 1633]. He was L. Lieut. of Peebles-shire. He m., 31 Aug. 1794, at Edinburgh, Margaret, 4th da. of Walter CAMPBELL, of Shawfield, by his first wife, Eleanor, da. of Robert KERR, of Newfield, grandson of Robert, 1st MARQUESS OF LOTHIAN [S.] She d. 25 Jan. 1850, at Gosford House afsd. (a) This was one of the coronation peerages of Geo. IV. See vol. ii, p. 351, note "d." sub "Conyngham."

(b) See p. 87, note "a," as to the estate of Wemyss.

(c) The heir of line of the 1st Duke is not among the issue of the said Anne, whose issue male was preferred to the issue female of her brother, from whom descends the Duke of Buccleuch and Queensberry [S.], being, consequently, such heir of line.

(d) The authenticity of this limitation (in right of which the Earldom of March, &c. would devolve on the family of Wemyss) is questionable. See vol v, p. 241, note "e," sub "March."

(e) This is one of the seven Scotch peerages forfeited in the insurrection of 1745, and has (with two others, Strathallan and Lovat) been restored. See fuller particulars in vol. iii, p. 398, note "a," sub "Forbes of Pitsligo."

(f) He supported the Conservative party, but took little interest in politics.

(g) His marriage, 22 Aug. 1817, is recorded as "Francis Charteris, Lord Elcho."

He, however, again changed sides, and was slain on the Lancastrian side at the battle of Tewkesbury, 4 May 1471.[c] He is said to have m. Elizabeth, da. and coheir of Sir John DRAYTON, but d. s.p., when the Barony became extinct.

IV. 1852. 2. BEILBY RICHARD (LAWLEY, formerly THOMPSON), BARON WENLOCK, and a Baronet, 1st s. and h.; b. 21 April 1818, at 29 Berkeley square, and bap. at St. Geo., Han. sq.; was M.P. for Pontefract, 1851-52;

(a) "He is stated by some authorities to have been cr. a Baron by patent, but no enrolment of the dignity has been found." [Courthope].

(b) There is proof in the rolls of Parl. of his sitting.

(c) The following list (from Phillipp's MSS. 9735, No. 279) refers to the battle of Tewkesbury, 4 May 1471: "Dead in the field, Edward, that was called Prince; Lord John of Somerset; Erle of Devonshire; Lord Wenlock. Beheaded, the Duke of Somerset; made a Knight in the field, Lord Cobham." According to the Paston letters, Wenlock was cleft down as a traitor (which very probably he, again, was) by the Duke of Somerset, for delaying to bring his forces up in time, whereby the battle and the Lancastrian cause was lost.

(d) One of the coronation peerages of William IV., for a list of which see vol. ii, p. 312, note "a," sub "Cloncurry."

(e) His ancestor, Sir Thomas Lawley, the 1st Bart., was 5th in descent from Thomas Lawley, who ("ex inform. Dom. Tho. Lawley, de Spoonhill, Bart.") was "cousin and heir of John, Lord Wenlock, P.C. to Edward IV. and K.G., and suc. to his lands in Wenlock, Calowton, &c. in co. Salop, 17 Ed. IV." [Wotton's "English Baronetage," 1741.]

WENMAN OF KILMAINHAM, and WENMAN OF TUAM.[a]

Viscountcy and Barony [I.]

I. 1628.

1. SIR RICHARD WENMAN,[b] of Thame Park,[c] Oxon, and of Twyford,[c] Bucks, s. and h. of Sir Thomas WENMAN, of the same, by Jane,[d] da. of William (WEST), LORD DELAWARR, suc. his father, 22 July 1577, being then aged four years; mat. at Oxford, 8 Dec. 1587, aged 14; was knighted by the Earl of Essex, at Cadiz, in 1596; M.P. for Oxon, 1620 and 1625; Sheriff of Oxon, 1627, and was cr., 30 July 1628,[e] BARON WENMAN OF KILMAINHAM, co. Dublin, and VISCOUNT WENMAN OF TUAM, co. Galway [I.] He m. firstly, about 1595, Agnes, da. of Sir George FERMOR, of Easton Neston, co. Northampton, by Mary, da. and h. of Thomas CURSON, of Waterperry, Oxon. She was bur. 4 July 1617, at Twyford afsd.[f] He m. secondly, 4 Nov. 1618, at St. Barth. the Great, London, Alice, widow of Robert CHAMBERLAYNE.[g] Another wife, Elizabeth, was bur.

(a) The account of this family in "Lodge" is very incorrect. It has been corrected in the "Her. and Gen.," vol. ii, pp. 521—522. See, also, Dr. Lee's "History of Thame," and Lipscomb's "Bucks," vol. iii, p. 131.

(b) "Originally clothiers of Witney, and, being the first that used wains, or carts with four wheels, to carry their cloth to London, were called Wainmen; or else the first was a driver of a wain." [Note by Anthony Wood, reproduced in Giles' "Witney," 1852.]

(c) The estate of Thame Park came into the family by the marriage of Sir Richard Wenman, the Viscount's grandfather (d. 7 March 1572), with Isabella, da. and coheir of John (Williams), Lord Williams de Thame; that of Twyford came by the marriage of Sir Thomas Wenman (father of the said Richard) with Ursula, da. and h. of Thomas Giffard, of Twyford.

(d) They were m. 9 June 1572, at St. Dunstans in the West, London. See account of her and her three other husbands in "Her. and Gen.," as in note "a," above. Her admon. was dat. Oct. 1621, and her will pr. Nov. following.

(e) See "Creations, 1483—1646," in ap. 47th Rep., D.K. Pub. Records. The preamble to the patent is in "Lodge," vol. iv, p. 282. It is to be remarked that, when quoted in the subsequent creation of 1683, the date recited is there given as 30 July, 5 Car. I., i.e., 1629, but this seems erroneous.

(f) She translated from French into English the "History of the World," by John Zonaras, written originally in Greek. She appears to have been a Roman Catholic. See "Her. and Gen.," as in note "a," above.

(g) There is a good deal about this match of "Sir Richard Waynman" with "the stale widow in St. Bartholomews, that brags she had the refusal of a white staff" in J. Chamberlain's letter to Sir D. Carleton, 7 Nov. 1618. She appears to have had some £1,500 a year, besides £2,000 ready money.

27 April 1629, at Twyford. Yet another wife, Mary, da. and coheir of Thomas KEBLE, of co. Essex, was bur. 28 July 1638, at Twyford. He d. on Good Friday, 3 and was bur. 7 April 1640, at Twyford, in his 67th year. M.I. Will dat. 15 Aug. 1638 to March 1640, pr. 30 April 1640.

II. 1640. 2. THOMAS (WENMAN), VISCOUNT WENMAN OF TUAM, &c. [I.], 1st s. and h., by first wife; b. about 1596; matric. at Oxford (Ball. Coll.), 23 Nov. 1604, aged 8; Student of the Inner Temple, 1614; knighted 10 Sep. 1617, at Woodstock; was one of the adventurers in Ireland, when it was reduced by the English Parl., from whom he received 1,000 acres in the Barony of Garrycastle, Kings County; suc. to the peerage [I.], 3 April 1648; was M.P. for Brackley in five Parls., 1621-22, 1624-25, 1625, 1628-29, April to May 1640; for Oxon, 1626 and 1640, till secluded, 1648, and again, 1660; was a Commiser. from Parl. to the King at Oxford and at Uxbridge, both in 1644, and at Newport, 1648, being one of the forty-one members who voted that the King's concessions were sufficient to proceed upon. Took his seat in the House of Lords [I.], by proxy, 13 July 1661.(a) He m., before 1 Nov. 1617, Margaret, da. and h. of Edmund HAMPDEN, of Hartwell, Bucks, by his second wife, Margaret, da. of (—). She, who was bap. at Hampden, 13 Feb. 1598, d. 1 May 1658, aged 60, and was bur. at Twyford. M.I. He d. at Twyford, s.p.m.s.(b) 25 Jan. 1664/5, aged 68, and was bur. there. M.I. Will pr. 1665.

III. 1665, to 1686. 3. PHILIP (WENMAN), VISCOUNT WENMAN OF TUAM and BARON WENMAN OF KILMAINHAM [I. 1628], br. and h. male; b. 17 Aug. 1610; M.P. for Oxon, 1660; suc. to the peerage [I.], 25 Jan. 1664/5. He m. Elizabeth, widow of Dutton (GERARD), 3d BARON GERARD OF GERARD'S BROMLEY (who d. 22 April 1640), 3d da. and coheir of Henry (O'BRIEN), 5th EARL OF THOMOND [I.], by Mary, da. of William (BRERETON), 1st BARON BRERETON OF LEIGLIN [I.] Her will, dat. 9 April 1656, pr. 30 June 1659. By letters patent, 30 June 1683, reciting that he had no surv. issue to inherit his titles, and that Sir Richard Wenman, Bart. [who was a great-nephew, by the mother, she being one of his brother's daughters and coheirs] was "his nearest of kin," his said titles were, in the event of his dying without issue male, granted to the said Richard and the heirs male of his body.(c) He d. s.p.s.(d) 20 April 1686,(e) and was bur. at Twyford, when the peerage (as granted in 1628) became extinct.

IV. 1686. 1. SIR RICHARD WENMAN, Bart., became, on the death of the late Peer, by virtue of the patent of 30 June 1683, above quoted, BARON WENMAN OF KILMAINHAM and VISCOUNT WENMAN OF TUAM [I.] He was 4th but only surv. s. and h.(f) of Sir Francis(g) WENMAN, of Caswell, Oxon, cr. a

(a) He is said to have given a generous reception to Dr. Seth Ward, afterwards Bishop of Salisbury, when expelled from Sidney College, Oxford, during the Civil War.

(b) The Hon. Richard Wenman, his only s. and h. ap., mat. at Oxford (Linc. Coll.), 20 April 1638, aged 16. He m. Barbara, da. of Edward Villiers, and d. s.p. and v.p. about 1646, aged about 24. His widow m., for her third husband, in 1650, James (Howard), 3d Earl of Suffolk. His four daughters became co-representatives of the Barony of Williams de Thame, of which their father was a coheir.

(c) A copy of the said letters patent is in the addenda (p. 624) to Burke's "Extinct Peerage," 1883. It contains, however, no clause of precedency as is often imagined.

(d) He is sometimes credited with a da., Mary, who m. William Croft.

(e) The date, 1686, is that given in Lipscomb's "Bucks" (see p. 91, note "a."), and is probably correct. He would then be 75. He was certainly alive in 1683, and dead before 1691, so that "1696," which is generally given as the year of his death, is clearly wrong.

(f) His elder brothers, Thomas, Francis and Ferdinand, all d young. Francis d. 3 June 1655, and was bur. at Witney; M.I. Ferdinand, mat. at Oxford (Mag. Coll.), 20 July 1669, aged 14, d. 3 Aug. 1671, and was bur. at Twyford. M.I.

(g) This Francis was s. and h. of Sir Francis Wenman, of Caswell afsd. (d. 26 June 1640, aged 40), who was s. and h. of another Francis Wenman, of the same (living in Ireland 1572), who was yr. br. of Sir Thomas Wenman, father of the 1st Viscount, both being sons of Sir Richard Wenman, of Caswell and Twyford, by the heiress of Lord Williams de Thame. Barony for life.

I. 1856, to 1868.

Barony.

I. 1856, to 1868.

1. "SIR JAMES PARKE, Kn^t^, late one of the Barons of the Court of Exchequer," was cr. 16 Jan. 1856, BARON WENSLEYDALE of Wensleydale in the North Riding, co. York, for the term of his natural life,[b] being, six months later, cr., 23 July 1856, BARON WENSLEYDALE OF WALTON, co. Lancaster, with the usual remainder. He was yst. s. of Thomas PARKE, of Highfield House, near Liverpool, Merchant, by Anne, da. of William PRESTON; was b. at Highfield, 22 March 1782; ed. at Macclesfield grammar school and at Trin. Coll., Cambridge, where he obtained the Craven University scholarship in 1799; Scholar of his College, 1800; Browne's medallist, 1802; B.A., 5th Wrangler and Senior Chancellor's medallist, 1803; Fellow, 1804; M.A. 1806, and finally, 1835, LL.D. He became a Student at Linc. Inn; practised many years as special pleader, and, becoming a Barrister (Inner Temple) 1813, went the northern circuit. Seven years later, in 1820, he was one of

(a) On this creation Charles Greville ["Memoirs," vol. iii, p. 84] thus comments, 23 May 1834: "The maddest thing of all is (what appeared in the Gazette of Tuesday) the Peerage conferred on . . . . She is a disreputable, half-mad woman; he [William IV] perhaps thought it fit to give her this compensation for not being Queen, for he wanted to marry her, and would have done so if the late King would have consented."

(b) The object of this life peerage (for, as the grantee had no surviving male issue, the ordinary limitation would, in his case, have made no difference) was to create a precedent, whereby the House of Lords might be strengthened by men whose means were insufficient to enable them to support an hereditary peerage. The Committee for Privileges, having negatived a motion that the question should be referred to the Judges, which in a matter of law seemed the obvious course) moved, 22 Feb. 1856, "that neither the said letters patent, nor the said letters patent with the usual writ of summons, enable the grantee to sit and vote in Parl.," which was "resolved and adjudged" 3 days later, it having been intimated that the Government would not oppose such confirmation. The second peerage [cr. in July 1856], of course, removed all difficulty as to a seat in this case. In 1869 Earl Russell introduced a bill for the creation of life peerages, which was, however, rejected, but in 1876 two (a number to be afterwards increased to four) Lords of appeal were authorised to be Barons and Lords of Parl. during office, which duration was, in 1887, extended to their life.

A LIFE-PEERAGE (i.e., one with no remainder, differing thereby from a peerage-for-life, i.e., one granted with a remainder) tho' it has frequently been bestowed upon women (see vol. iii, pp. 474-475) has apparently but seldom been, nominatim, conferred on men. Where it has been granted to one who already possessed a peerage dignity, it may be considered more in the light of a promotion, and, of course, has no bearing upon a seat in Parl. Such was (1) the MARQUESSATE OF DUBLIN conferred by Ric. II, 1 Dec. 1385, and the DUKEDOM OF IRELAND, conferred 13 Oct. 1386, both on Robert (de Vere), Earl of Oxford; (2) THE DUKEDOM OF AQUITAINE IN FRANCE (if indeed that, being a foreign dignity, should be reckoned) conferred, also by Ric. II, on John (Plantagenet) the well-known Duke of Lancaster; so also (3) the DUKEDOM OF EXETER was conferred on Thomas (Beaufort) Earl of Dorset; and the 5 Counsel on behalf of the King in the celebrated trial of Caroline, the Queen Consort.(a) He was (without having ever "taken silk") made 28 Nov. 1828, one of the Justices of the Court of King's Bench, being knighted 1 Dec. 1828, and was made, 29 April 1834, one of the Barons of the Court of Exchequer, a post he resigned at the age of 73, in Dec. 1855. He was P.C. 1833, and a most efficient member of the judicial committee. On his retirement from his office of Judge, which he had held for 28 years,(b) he was raised to the peerage in 1856, as above stated. He m., 8 April 1817, Cecilia Arabella Frances, yst. da. of Samuel Francis BARLOW, of Middlethorpe, co. York. He d. s.p.m.s. at his seat, Ampthill Park, Beds, 25 Feb. 1868, in his 86th year, when all his honours became extinct. His widow d. at the same place, 10 March 1879, aged 85.

(4) the EARLDOM OF ALBEMARLE on Richard (Beauchamp), Earl of Warwick, both by Henry V., in 1416.

LIFE-PEERAGES, however, have nominatim been granted to the following persons, who did not previously possess any peerage dignity, i.e., [I.] THE EARLDOM OF HUNTINGDON, granted by Ric. II, 15 July 1377, to Guichard D'Angle (a Poitevan) "for his whole life," who sat in Parl. accordingly. [II.] THE DUKEDOM OF BEDFORD, granted by Hen. V, 16 May 1414, to his brother, John Plantagenet, called of Lancaster "for his natural life," who sat in Parl. accordingly, tho' some 20 years later, in 1433, he obtained a new grant of the same dignity, with the ordinary limitation. [III.] THE DUKEDOM OF GLOUCESTER, granted at the same date by the same King in like manner, to his brother, Humphrey Plantagenet, called of Lancaster, who sat in Parl. accordingly, tho' he, also, in 1433, obtained a new grant of the same dignity, with the ordinary limitation. [IV.] THE EARLDOM OF SURREY, conferred for life, by Hen. VIII., 1 Feb. 1514/5, on Thomas Howard, s. and h. ap. of Thomas, Duke of Norfolk (who had surrendered the same, "pro termino vitæ filii," for that purpose), which Earl sat, accordingly, together with his father, in Parl. This last case, however, is somewhat analogous to the more modern practice of summoning up the eldest son of a Peer in a Barony belonging to his father. [V.] THE BARONY OF WENSLEYDALE, conferred 16 Jan. 1856, on Sir James Parke (as in the text) which, contrary to the precedents in all the previous cases of a life peerage, was held by their Lordships not to confer a seat in the House of Parl.

There are, also, two other creations, each made without any limitation, an omission which may, by implication, render them life-peerages. These are (1) THE EARLDOM OF CAMBRIDGE, conferred, 1 May 1414, on Richard Plantagenet, called "of York," who was invested, accordingly, in Parl. See vol. ii, p. 120, note "b," as to the conjectured effect of such investiture. (2) THE BARONY OF FANHOPE, conferred, 17 July 1433, on Sir John Cornwall, who sat, accordingly, in Parl., tho' sum. thereto as "Johannes Cornewall, Chevalier." He was also cr., 30 Jan. 1442, BARON MILBROKE. See vol. iii, p. 316, note "c," for conjecture as to the effect of these two creations, both made in open Parl.

A PEERAGE FOR THE LIFE OF ANOTHER was bestowed by Ric. II, when, on 25 Feb. 1389/90, Edward Plantagenet, s. and h. ap. of Edmund, Duke of York, was cr. EARL OF RUTLAND with the assent of Parl., to hold the same "during the lifetime of the Duke, his father." Such sort of a creation was discussed before the Court in Banco, 1443-44; See "Year Books," 22 Hen. VI., pp. 29-30. The grantee was, when so created, but 17, and was, at the age of 23, cr., 29 Sep. 1397, Duke of Albemarle, succeeding his father as Duke of York, 1 Aug. 1402, when the said Earldom of Rutland became (according to the special clause in its creation), extinct.

AN HEREDITARY PEERAGE WITHOUT ANY SEAT IN PARL. was conferred, 21 June 1606, when Sir James Hay was so cr. under the designation of BARON HAY. He was, however, nine years afterwards, cr., 29 June 1615, Baron Hay of Sawley in the usual manner, and, subsequently, Viscount Doncaster and Earl of Carlisle. The same exclusion is said to have been made (see vol. vi, p. 337, note "b," sub "Reede") in the creation, 24 March 1644/5, of John de Reede, Ambassador from Holland, as BARON REEDE.

(a) See vol. iii, p. 62, note "b," sub "Denman," for some account of the eleven Counsel engaged in this trial.

(b) The most remarkable event in his judicial career was his exhaustive summing up in the trial, in 1845, of John Tawell, for the murder of Sarah Hart, at Slough. Tawell himself is said to have called him "a just but severe judge."

WENTWORTH, and WENTWORTH OF WELLESBOROUGH.

Barony.

I. 1529. 1. SIR THOMAS WENTWORTH, of Nettlestead, co. Suffolk, 1st s. and h. of Sir Robert WENTWORTH,(a) of the same, by Anne, da. of Sir James TYRRELL,(b) of Gipping, in that county, was b. 1501; served in the expedition against France, 1523, being knighted there at the surrender of Roye, 31 Oct 1523, by the Duke of Suffolk; suc. his father, 17 Oct. 1528, and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD WENTWORTH) by writs from 2 Dec. (1529) 21 Hen. VIII. to 4 Nov. (1548) 2 Ed. VI. He, in 1530, was one of the 83 signatories to the letter to the Pope in favour of the proposed divorce of Hen. VIII.; was one of 27 Peers by whom, in May 1536, that King's 2nd Queen, Anne Boleyn, was found guilty, and was, in Dec. 1539, at Calais for the reception of his 4th Queen, Anne of Cleves. He supported the King's views as to the extirpation of "heresy." He was P.C. and one of the six Lords of the council appointed to attend on (his cousin(c)) Ed. VI., from whom, 16 April 1550, he received the manors of Stepney and Hackney, and to whose household, 1549-51, he was L. Chamberlain. He m., about 1520, Margaret, 1st da. of Sir Adrian FORTESCUE (beheaded 10 July 1539), heir to her mother, his first wife, Anne, da. and h. of Sir William STONOR, of Stonor, co. Oxon, by Anne, da. and eventually h. of John (NEVILLE), MARQUESS OF MONTAGU. He d. at the King's palace at Westminster, 3 and was bur. 7 March 1550/1, with some state in Westm. Abbey, leaving no less than 16 children (d) Will pr. 1551.

II. 1551. 2. THOMAS (WENTWORTH), LORD WENTWORTH, 1st s. and h.; b. 1525; ed. at St. John's Coll., Cambridge; served in the expedition to Scotland, where he was dubbed Knight-Banneret by his cousin,(c) the Duke of Somerset, 28 Sep. 1547, in the camp at Roxburgh. M.P. for Suffolk, 1547, till he suc. to the peerage, 3 March 1550/1, being sum. to Parl. 23 Jan. 1551/2. Tho' he was one of the signatories(e) to the settlement by Ed. VI., of the Crown on Lady Jane Grey, he was among the earliest supporters of the accession of Queen Mary,(f) and was one of those appointed to examine the rebels; P.C.; Governor of Calais, 13 Dec. 1553, till its re-capture (after 200 years) by the French, 6 Jan. 1557/8, with whom he remained prisoner above a year, being tried for high treason for his surrender of that town, but acquitted, 22 April 1559.(g) He held a high place in Elizabeth's court, and was one of those appointed, 1559-60, to receive the Swedish embassy; was L. Lieut. of Norfolk and Suffolk; was one of the 27 Peers who, in Jan. 1572, tried and condemned the Duke of Norfolk for high treason. He m. firstly, 9 Feb. 1545/6, at Gosfield, co. Essex, Mary, da. of Sir John WENTWORTH, of Gosfield afsd. (d. 15 Sep. 1567), by Anne, da. of John BETTENHAM, of Pluckley, co. Kent. She

(a) He was s. and h. of Sir Henry Wentworth (d. Aug. 1499), s. and h. of Sir Philip W. (d. 1464), s. and h. of Roger W. (d. 1452), all of Nettlestead afsd., an estate which the last had acquired by his marriage with Margery, the childless widow of John (de Ros), Lord Ros (slain 22 March 1420/1), da. and (1424) h. of Philip (Le Despencer), Lord Le Despencer, who was of Nettlestead afsd. and of Goushill, co. Lincoln. Roger Wentworth was a yr. s. of John W. of North Elmsall, co. York (living 1413), who was grandson of John W. (living 1314), a yr. s. of William W. of Wenthworth Woodhouse, co. York (d. 1308), from whom no less than eight distinct lines of this ancient family descend. See a tabular pedigree in W. L. Rutton's "Three Branches of the Family of Wentworth," London, 4to., 1891.

(b) This James is considered to have been the murderer of Edward V.

(c) Margaret Wentworth, paternal aunt of the 1st Lord, m. Sir John Seymour, and was mother of the Duke of Somerset, Lord Seymour of Sudeley, and of Jane, wife of Hen. VIII. and mother of Edward VI.

(d) His portrait as L. Chamberlain, 1549, æt. 48, belonging to Sir C. W. Dilke, is engraved in Rutton's "Wentworth." See note "a" above. There are also engravings of his portrait by Bartolozzi and Minasi, from the Holbein drawings.

(e) See vol. iii, p. 70, note "f," sub "Derby."

(f) The Earls of Sussex, Bath and Oxford, and Lord Wentworth were the first of the nobility who rallied to Mary.

(g) It appeared that he had warned the Government of the attack and fruitlessly begged for further supplies. Hayward's statement that Lord Grey de Wilton was chosen Deputy (i.e., Gov.) of Calais is untrue. Grey was indeed Capt. of Guisnes, three miles from Calais, and surrendered a fortnight later.

but was taken prisoner, 27 Oct. following, at the second battle of Newbury, and appears not to have been released till 1649. In 1650 he was made P.C. to Charles II at Beauvais, attended him to Scotland, and was in command at the battle of Worcester, where he was captured, and, narrowly escaping being sentenced to death, remained a prisoner in the Tower probably as late as 1656. After the Restoration his estates and debts "formed the subject of 3 acts of Parl."(a) He m. firstly, in or shortly before 1612, Anne, da. of Sir John CROFTS, of Saxham, co. Suffolk, by Mary, da. of Sir Thomas SHIRLEY, of co. Sussex. She d. 16 and was bur. 17 Jan. 1637/8, at Toddington. He m. secondly, before 25 Oct. 1638, Lucy, da. and coheir of Sir John WENTWORTH, Bart., of Gosfield, co. Essex, by Catherine, da. of Sir Moyle FINCH, Bart. She d. s.p.m.(b) 23 Nov. and was bur. 2 Dec. 1651 at Toddington. The Earl (having survived all his children but his da. Anne, afterwards, 1686, Baroness Wentworth), d. s.p.m.s. 25 March and was bur. 4 April 1667 at Toddington, aged 76.(c) when the Earldom of Cleveland became extinct, but the Barony of Wentworth (which, possibly, had reverted to him on the death of his son, 7 March 1664/5) devolved or had already [in 1665] devolved on his granddaughter and heir.(d) Will dat. 21 Sep. 1640.(e) Admon. 2 June 1668 and again 15 Oct. 1686.

V. 1640, to 1665. 5. THOMAS (WENTWORTH) LORD WENTWORTH, s. and h. ap. by first wife; was sum. v.p., as above in his father's Barony, by writ dat. about Oct. 1640, taking his seat 25 Nov. following. He was b. at Toddington early in 1613; was K.B., 2 Feb. 1625/6; and was styled LORD WENTWORTH, three days later, on his father's elevation to an Earldom; was a prisoner in the Tower, June 1643, for intemperate language and duelling; was M.P. for Beds for a few weeks, from Oct. till Nov. 1640, when he became a Peer as abovestated. He was in command of a troop of horse, on the side of the King, was at the battle of Cropredy, 29 June 1644, and, after Goring's retirement in Nov. 1645, commanded the whole of the horse, which, however, refusing the fight, led to the defeat at Torrington and the surrender 14 March 1646. He was at the battle of Worcester, escaping thence to the continent; was Gent. of the Chamber and Master of the Ceremonies to Charles II. when in exile; promoted in 1653 a league between the Danes and Dutch against Cromwell, was Col. of the "Royal Reg. of Guards," then first raised in Flanders. He m. in or shortly before 1655, Philadelphia, 5th da. of Sir Ferdinando CAREY (grandson of Henry, 1st Baron HUNSDON), by Philippa, da. of Sir William THROCKMORTON. He d. v.p. 1 and was bur. 7 March 1664/5, at Toddington in his 52d year.(f) Admon. (as "of St. Giles' in the fields") 24 May 1665 (g) His widow, who was b. abroad and naturalised by act of Parl. 1662, having survived her only child (the succeeding Baroness) 10 years, d. 4 and was bur. 9 May 1696 at Toddington afsd. M.I. Will, disposing of £12,000 in legacies, dat. 2 April and pr. May 1696.

(a) Nettlestead had been sold in 1643 to William Lodge of London. Stepney and Hackney were seized by Parl., and tho' restored at the Restoration, were mortgaged to nearly their full value. Toddington was also much encumbered.

(b) Her da. and only child, Lady Catherine Wentworth, who inherited, from her, the estate of Codham Hall, m. William Spencer, of Cople, Beds, and d. s.p. and v.p. May 1670, being bur. at Cople.

(c) Lord Clarendon describes him as "a man of signal courage and an excellent officer upon any bold enterprise," and Sir Philip Warwick also calls him "of a daring courage, full of industry and activity as well as firm loyalty, and usually successful in what he attempted." Sir E. Nicholas speaks of him, 1 May 1653, as "a very intelligent person." There is a fine portrait of him by Vandyke, in the possession of the Earl of Verulam, engraved by "Doyle."

(d) See note to that Lady.

(e) It is signed, sealed, and duly witnessed. In June 1881 it was in the possession of T. C. Noble, who permitted Col. J. L. Chester to make an abstract of it.

(f) His death appears to have been very sudden. He was present at a meeting of the Privy Council 22 Feb., not a week before it. In Davy's "Suffolk MSS." [19, 154, fo. 359] he is said to have been "killed."

(g) A picture of him, dated 1640 (when 27), in possession of H. R. Clifton, of Clifton Hall, Notts, has been engraved in Hamilton's "Grenadier Guards," 1874.

VI. 1665, or (possibly) 1667. 6. HENRIETTA MARIA, suo jure BARONESS WENTWORTH, only child of the above, and, as such, probably(a) entitled to succeed her said Father, on his death, 1 March 1664/5, in the Barony of Wentworth. She was also grand-daughter and h. of Thomas (WENTWORTH), EARL OF CLEVELAND and LORD WENTWORTH, on whose death, 25 March 1667, she was, undoubtedly,(a) entitled to that Barony. She, who was b. in England in or shortly before 1657, assisted in a Court "masque," Dec. 1674. Her illicit connection with the well known Duke of Monmouth began, apparently, in 1680, and continued till his execution. She survived him but nine months, and d. unm. 23 being bur. 30 April 1686, at Toddington, aged about 29.(b) M.I.

VII. 1686. 7. ANNE, suo jure BARONESS WENTWORTH, and dow. BARONESS LOVELACE OF HURLEY, aunt and heir, being only surv. da. of Thomas (WENTWORTH), EARL OF CLEVELAND and LORD WENTWORTH, by his first wife Anne, da. of Sir John CROFTS, all abovenamed. She had m. 11 July 1638, at St. Giles' in the fields (Lic. Lond., he aged 22, she 15) John (LOVELACE) 2d BARON LOVELACE OF HURLEY, who d. 25 Nov. 1670 and was bur. at Hurley, co. Berks. She suc. to the Barony of Wentworth 23 April 1686,(c) but continued to be known as Lady Lovelace. She d. 7 May 1697. Admon. 26 April 1697.

VIII. 1697. 8. MARTHA, suo jure BARONESS WENTWORTH, grandaughter and heir being, da. and h. of John (LOVELACE), 3d BARON LOVELACE OF HURLEY, by Martha, da. and coheir of Sir Edmund PYE, Bart., of Bradenham, Bucks, which John, who was only s. and h. of John, 3d BARON LOVELACE OF HURLEY, by Anne, suo jure BARONESS WENTWORTH, both abovenamed, d. s.p.m. (vitâ matris) 27 Sep. 1693. She, who was b. about 1665, m. as his second wife (Lic. Vic. Gen., 6 March 1692/3, he about 32, wid., to marry at Bradenham or Wickham, Bucks), Sir Henry JOHNSON, of Friston Hall, co. Suffolk, and of Blackwall, co. Midx., an eminent shipbuilder. She suc. to the peerage, as above, 7 May 1697, the resolution of the House of Lords, 1 April 1702,(d) that she was entitled to the Barony of Wentworth being confirmed by Queen Anne,(e) at whose coronation she accordingly walked as a Peeress. He d. 29 Sep. 1719, at Bath, and was bur. at Toddington afsd. Will pr. Oct. 1719. The suo jure Baroness d. s.p. 18 and was bur. 26 July 1745, at St. James' Westm., aged about 80.(f) Will pr. 1745.

(a) Courthope, overlooking, apparently, this instance, remarks ["Observations," p. xl] : "The case has not occurred where the s. and h. ap., having been called up in a Barony originating in writ of summons, has d. v.p., leaving an only da. ; but it is presumed such da. would become entitled to the same estate in the dignity, which was before enjoyed by her father, she being heir apparent of her grandfather and within the original limitation of the writ of creation." It may, however, be remarked that Courthope places the succession of this Barony as "1667" [not 1665) inconsistently with his above remark ; but, probably, this is not intentional, and is merely a non correcting of the date (1667) as given in "Nicolas."

(b) A whole length portrait, by Kneller, was engraved in mezzotint by R. Williams, a photograph of which is given in Rutton's "Wentworth," where a small, coarse engraving from a picture by Lely, 1675, pub. 1708 by W. Richardson, is also noticed.

(c) Of her writes Humphrey Prideaux to John Ellis, 20 Sep. 1681, "The old Lady Lovelace is very busy at all businesses in the town to influence them her way, and she is now grown so zealous a whig that she goes every Sunday to the Lady Anglesey's, to make one of the Holy Sisters at her conventicle."

(d) Luttrell ("Diary," 3 April 1702) writes, "Yesterday, in the House of Peers, the Lady Johnson, da. of the late Lord Lovelace, was heard by her council as to her right of being Baroness Wentworth ; her claim allowed."

(e) See vol. ii, p. 302, note "b," sub "Clifton," as to the descent of Baronies by writ to heirs female.

(f) The estate of Toddington descended, after her death, to William (Wentworth), Earl of Strafford (the 2d Earl of the creation of 1711), whose mother, Anne, was da. and h. of Sir Henry Johnson abovenamed, by his first wife. This was by virtue of the marriage settlement of the said Henry with his second wife, the abovenamed Martha, Baroness Wentworth, by which, failing issue from that marriage, the estate had been so settled. It was curious that it should thus revert to a branch of the Wentworth family. Earl William, however, demolished the grand old mansion, and, at his death, in 1791, the estate was allotted to his eldest sister and coheir, Lady Anne Conolly.

IX. 1745. Viscountcy. I. 1762. 8 and 1. EDWARD (NOEL), LORD WENTWORTH, cousin and h., being s. and h. of Sir Clobery NOEL, 5th Bart. (d. 30 July 1723, aged 39), by Elizabeth, da. of Thomas ROWNEY, of Oxford, which Clobery was s. and h. of Sir John NOEL, 4th Bart. (d. 1697, aged 30), br. and h. of Sir Thomas NOEL, 3d Bart. (d. s.p. 1688), both being sons of Sir William NOEL, 4th Bart. (d. 1675, aged 33), by his first wife, Margaret,(a) aunt to the late Baroness, and only da. that had issue of John (LOVELACE), 2d BARON LOVELACE OF HURLEY, by Anne, suo jure BARONESS WENTWORTH, abovenamed. He was b. 30 Aug. and bap. 11 Sep. 1715, at Kirkby Mallory, co. Leicester; suc. his father, 30 July 1733, in the family estate there, and as 5th Baronet; ed. at New College, Oxford; cr. M.A., 19 July 1736, and D.C.L., 23 Aug. 1744; suc. to the peerage, 18 July 1745, on the death of his cousin, the Baroness Martha, abovenamed, and was cr. 5 May 1762, VISCOUNT WENTWORTH OF WELLESBOROUGH, co. Leicester. He m., 20 July 1744, at Wilbye, co. Northampton, Judith, da. and h. of William LAMB, of Wellesborough afsd., and of Farndish, co. Bedford. She d. at Kirkby Mallory, 3 and was bur. there, 10 Dec. 1761. Admon. 26 Feb. 1762. He d. at the same place, 31 Oct. and was bur. there, 8 Nov. 1774, aged 59. Will pr. Nov. 1774.

Viscountcy. II. Barony. X. 1774, to 1815. 2 and 10. THOMAS (NOEL), VISCOUNT WENTWORTH OF WELLESBOROUGH [1762] and LORD WENTWORTH [1529], only s. and h.; b. 18 Nov.; and bap. 21 Dec. 1745 at Kirby Mallory; ed. at Brasenose Coll., Oxford; cr. M.A., 29 April 1766, and D.C.L., 7 July 1773; M.P. for Leicestershire from 20 to 31 Oct. 1774, when he suc. to the peerage; was a Lord of the Bedchamber, 1790; Col. of the Leic. Provisional Cavalry, 1798; Lieut. Col. com. West Leic. batt. of Vols., 1803. He m. 2 Feb. 1788, by spec. lic., in Lady Bridget Tollemache's house, in South Audley Square, St. Geo. Han. Sq., Mary, Dow. COUNTESS LIGONIER OF CLONMELL [I.], 3d da. of Robert (HENLEY), 1st EARL OF NORTHINGTON, by Jane, da. of Sir John HUBAND.(b) She d. at Kirkby Mallory, 29 June, 1814. Will pr. 1814. He d. s.p. in Edward-street, Marylebone, 17, and was bur. 28 April 1815, at Kirkby Mallory, in his 70th year, when the Viscountcy of Wentworth of Wellesborough became extinct, but the Barony of Wentworth fell into abeyance.(c) His will pr. 1815.

Barony. XI. 1856. 11. ANNE ISABELLA, suo jure BARONESS WENTWORTH and DOW. BARONESS BYRON OF ROCHDALE, widow, niece and heir, being da. and h. of Sir Ralph MILBANKE, afterwards [1815] NOEL, 6th Bart. (who d. s.p.m., 19 March 1825), by Judith (d. 22 Jan. 1822), 1st sister and co-heir of the late Lord. She, who was b. 17 May 1792, at Elemore Hall, and bap. at Seaham, co. Durham, 10 Aug. following, m. 2 Jan 1815, by spec. lic. at her father's house, Seaham Hall, co. Durham, George Gordon (BYRON, afterwards, 1822, NOEL), 6th BARON BYRON OF ROCHDALE, the celebrated Poet. He, from whom she was separated in a year's time, d. 19 April 1824, in his 36th year; see fuller particulars of him under "BYRON." By the death, 19 Nov. 1856, of her cousin, Nathaniel (CURZON), 3rd BARON SCARSDALE, the abeyance of the Barony of Wentworth terminated, and she became entitled to that dignity.(d) She d., s.p.m.,

(a) She d. 14 April 1671, aged 27, and was bur. in Westm. Abbey.

(b) The notice in the "Gent. Mag." of the marriage of Lord Wentworth, 19 May 1799, at Westwood, to Louisa, 1st da. of John Pakington, Bart., is unintelligible.

(c) The coheirs were (1) his eldest sister, Judith, wife of Sir Ralph Milbanke, afterwards Noel, Bart., whose da. and h., Anne Isabella, inherited the Barony in 1856; (2) his nephew, Nathaniel Curzon, afterwards (1837), 3d Baron Scarsdale, s. and h. of his yst. sister, Sophia Susanna. On the death s.p. of this Nathaniel, 12 Nov. 1856, the abeyance of the Barony of Wentwood terminated.

(d) She also, apparently, became entitled to the Barony of Despencer (cr. by writ of summons, 17 Dec. 1387), a Barony of which the 1st Lord Wentworth and his successors appear to have been the representatives. See p. 96, note "a."

(a) Tho' acquitted of personal complicity in respect (1) of the corrupt appointment of a Mr. Welch to the office of Registrar of the Leeds Bankruptcy Court, and (2) of the granting of a pension to a Mr. Edmunds (who, as Clerk to the Commissioner of Patents, was found to have appropriated money to his own use), the resolution of the House of Commons, in spite of the defence made by the Government, was that these cases, according to the evidence, "show a laxity of practice and a want of caution with regard to the public interest on the part of the L. Chancellor (in sanctioning the grant of retiring pensions to public officers against whom grave charges were pending), which, in the opinion of this House, are calculated to discredit the administration of his great office" ["Times," 4 July 1865]. He at once announced his resignation, in a speech full of grace and dignity, and Lord Cranworth was appointed (for the third time) L. Chancellor in his room.

(b) The death of his old antagonist in the House of Lords, the well-known Bishop Samuel Wilberforce, took place but a day before.

(c) A zealous reformer of legal abuses, the first of the Statute-Law-Revision Acts and the Bankruptcy Bill of 1861 were passed under his guidance, as also were many other praiseworthy measures. He is, however, better known for his great power of sarcasm, which his urbane manner of delivery considerably enhanced. His style is well imitated by the author of a proposed epitaph for him, who, alluding to the judgment of the Privy Council which he delivered in 1864, in favour of the appeal of the authors of "Essays and Reviews," against a charge of heresy, writes, that thereby "he took away from orthodox members of the Church of England their last hope of everlasting damnation."

(a) The ancient Irish Baronies (with the exception of one anomalous decision in 1767. in the case of La Poer) have invariably descended to the heirs male to the exclusion of the heirs general.

(b) The following entries in the "Gent. Mag." are not easy to identify with certainty, viz., "The Countess of Westmeath died in Ireland," 7 Aug. 1772, and "The Countess of Westmeath died" in or shortly before Feb. 1776. According to Debrett's peerage (1849) the earlier entry refers to the wife of the 6th Earl and the later one to the widow of the 5th.

He m. 24 July 1866, his first cousin, Emily Margaret, da. of Andrew William BLAKE, of Furbough, co. Galway, by Maria, da. of Malachy DALY, abovenamed. He d. 31 May 1883, aged 50. WESTMORLAND.(c)

Earldom. I, 1397. 1. RALPH (DE NEVILL), LORD NEVILL DE RABY, s. and h. of John (NEVILL), LORD NEVILL DE RABY, or LORD NEVILL (a Barony cr. by writ 23 June 1295), by his first wife, Maud, da. of Henry (DE PERCY), LORD PERCY; was b. about 1354; knighted, v.p., in the French expedition (by the Earl of Buckingham), 1380; suc. to the peerage on his father's death, 17 Oct. 1388, being then about 24; was sum. to Parl. from 6 Dec. (1389) 13 Ric. II, to 30 Nov. (1396) 20 Ric. II.,(d) by writs directed "Ranulpho de Nevyll de Raby," and, having filled many important posts and being one of the supporters of the King, was cr., 29 Sep. 1397, EARL OF WESTMORLAND.(e) He, however, was one of the first to join Henry (afterwards Hen. IV.), his wife's brother, on his landing in Yorkshire in July 1399; was EARL MARSHAL, 30 Sep. 1399, till about 1413; bearer of a sceptre at the coronation of

(a) See vol. ii, p. 51, note "a" (circa finem), under "Buccleuch."

(b) The well known Grosvenor gallery of pictures, belonging to this family, is at the spacious town residence called Grosvenor House, in Lower Grosvenor street. This forms part of the block of land (bounded by Oxford street on the north, Davies street on the east and Park lane on the west) which, together with the Ebury estate in Pimlico (see p. 109, note "b") belongs to the family of Grosvenor.

(c) The more correct spelling would appear to be "Westmerland," and the derivation to be from "mere" not "moor." The signature of the 6th Earl was "C. Westmerland," and the name apparently is so spelt by the 4th and 5th Earls in their signatures. See facsimiles of all three in "Doyle."

(d) There is proof in the Rolls of Parl. of his sitting.

(e) He appears to have held no land in Westmorland, but it was "the nearest available county" [See Round's "Mandeville," pp. 191 and 272,] to Yorkshire and Durham, where most of his vast estates lay, (viz., Raby, Brancepeth, Middleham, Sheriff-Hutton, &c.), as also was it to his royal honour of Penrith.

Hen. IV., 13 Oct. 1399; P.C., 1399; and received in that year a grant for life of the Honour of Richmond. K.G. soon after 1 Aug. 1402: Capt. of Roxburgh Castle, 1402-08; Warden of the Scotch Marches, &c., taking an active part in the suppression of the rebellion of the Percies, and obtaining possession (in, apparently, a somewhat unscrupulous manner) of Archbishop Scrope and the young Lord Mowbray (generally known as "Earl Marshal") who were hastily executed. From this time, till his death, he was constantly employed in Scotch affairs, taking no part in the invasion of France in 1415;(a) was one of the executors of Hen. V. in 1421, and a Councillor of Regency, 5 Dec. 1422. He m., firstly, about 1388 (disp. from Pope Urban V.), Margaret, da. of Hugh (STAFFORD), 2d EARL STAFFORD, by Philippa, da. of Thomas (BEAUCHAMP), EARL OF WARWICK. She d., 9 June 1396, and was bur at Brancepeth. He m., secondly, before 3 Feb. 1397, Joan (formerly Joan BEAUFORT, spinster), widow of Sir Robert FERRERS, the legitimated da. of John (PLANTAGENET, called "of Gaunt"), DUKE OF LANCASTER, by Catharine, da. of Sir Payne ROELT. He d. 21 Oct. 1425, aged about 61, and was bur. at Staindrop, under a splendid altar tomb.(b) Will, dat. 18 Oct. 1424, at Raby, pr. at Durham.(c) Esch. 4 Hen. IV.(d) His widow, who had robes of the Order of the Garter on St. George's day, 1399, d. at Howden, 13 Nov. 1440, and was bur. (with her mother) in Lincoln Cathedral. Will dat. 10 May 1440.(e)

II. 1425. 2. RALPH (NEVILL), EARL OF WESTMORLAND and LORD NEVILL, grandson and h., b. about April 1404; aged 19, when he suc. his grandfather, 21 Oct. 1425, as above; knighted by Hen. VI., 19 May 1426; sum. to Parl. 11 July 1429; Capt. of the Scotch Marches, 1436. He m., firstly, (contract at Roche Abbey, 7 May 1426, dispensation ex post facto from Rome, 30 Aug., and from York,(f) 28 Nov. following), Elizabeth, widow of John (DE CLIFFORD), LORD CLIFFORD, da. of Sir Henry PERCY, styled LORD PERCY (better known as "Hotspur,") by Philippa, da. of Edmund (MORTIMER), EARL OF MARCH. (d) Owing to his numerous family and the large estates he gave to his issue by his second wife, "the later Earls of Westmorland had a landed position inferior to that of their ancestors, who were simple Barons, and the real headship of the Neville house passed to [the Earl of Salisbury] the eldest son of the second family." ["Nat. Biogr."] He had no less than 23 [!] children, nine by the first and fourteen by the second wife. See a list of these in "The Genealogist," N.S., vol. iii, p. 110, where, however, Anastacia (who probably d. in infancy), the 9th child, being the yst. one of the first wife, is omitted. Of his eleven sons, six were Peers; so, also, of his twelve daughters, six were Peeresses, two being Baronesses, one a Countess, and as many as three being Duchesses, of which three, the youngest, Cicely, Duchess of York, was mother of two Kings, viz., Ed. IV. and Ric. III.

VI., 29 March 1461, and attainted 4 Nov. following. He was b. 1456, and having obtained, 6 Oct. 1472, the restoration of the greater part of his estates and a reversal of his father's attainder,[c] became thereby LORD NEVILL [1459]. He was knighted before 20 Oct. 1480, and, on the death of his uncle, 3 Nov. 1484, as abovestated, suc. him as Earl of Westmorland [1397] and Lord Nevill [1295]. notwithstanding the attainder of that dignity in 1571.(a) He was sum. to appear before the Court of Chivalry, and, on 2 March 1605, prayed for further time to justify his title. He m., firstly, Jane MARTIGNIS, DAME DE COLOMBE, of Hainault. He m., secondly, before 1580, Jane, da. of Richard SMYTHE. He was living 1638,(b) but d., s.p.m.s.,(c) at Brussels, about 1631; M.I. at Eastham, co. Essex, he being there described as "Lord Latimer and Earl of Westmorland, the 7th of that family who had enjoyed that title."(d) Admon. 13 July 1646, as "Lord Latimer" [only], and as "late of St. Dunstans in the West, London, but decd. at Brussels." His widow (who was living at Ilford, co. Essex, 29 Oct. 1622), d. at Mile End about 1647, and was bur. at Eastham afsd. Will, in which she styles herself "Countess of Westmorland," pr. 20 April 1647.

After his death, the title (which had, indeed, been granted de novo in 1624 to another family), was, being under attainder, never assumed by any of the male descendants of the 1st Earl, tho' such, even now (1897), exist.(e)

(a) The judges, to whom the case had been referred by James I., decided, in Michaelmas 1604, that the Earldom, "altho' within the statute de donis conditionalibus, was forfeited [for high treason] by a condition in law tacite annexed to the estate of dignity." [Cruise, p. 108.] See also Collins's Precedents, &c., p. 137. Courthope remarks that "it was decided against him, on the ground that the attainder had caused all the honours possessed by the said Charles to be forfeited to the Crown as an estate of inheritance. A copy of Edmund Nevill's claim, which is a curious document, may be found in Lansdowne MSS. 254, p. 376, and Surtees' Durham, vol. iv, 164."

(b) Wadsworth, in his "English Spanish Pilgrim," printed in 1630, speaking of the English refugees in Flanders, says, "There is one Nevill who styles himself Earl of Westmorland, but his Earldom many times will scarce furnish him with a dinner, and were it not for his second wife (this Nevill's first wife is yet living in London) who playeth the she physician in the Archduchess' Court, he might be put oftimes to narrower shifts, notwithstanding his 100 crowns pension a month."

(c) He appears to have had two sons, each named Ralph, and 5 daughters, all of whom, apparently, died young, save one da., Dorothy, who m. Arthur Hill, and who, as "Lady Dorothy Hill alias Nevill," consented, 13 July 1646, to the admon. of her father being granted to Thomas Ferrour, "of kin to the decd.," and who was executrix, 20 April 1647, to the will of her mother.

(d) See Lysons's Environs of London (edit. 1796), where the verses on his monument are quoted.

(e) The Marquess of Abergavenny is now (1897) not improbably the heir male of the body of the 1st Earl of Westmorland, in which case he would be entitled, if the attainder of 1571 was reversed, to an Earldom some 50 years more ancient than that of Shrewsbury, which (save the anomalous Earldom of Arundel) at present heads the list. There was, however, issue male existing, probably long after the 17th century, from George Nevill, cr. Lord Latimer in 1432 (the 5th son of the 1st Earl), and this and other lines would have to be first proved to be extinct. See vol. v. p. 26, note "g" sub. "Latimer," and tabular pedigree on p. 114, note "a."

(g) An interesting article [Genealogist, N.S., vol. xiii, pp. 81-86], by W. V. R. Fane, entitled "Fane or Vane Pedigree," shews that this Thomas was second cousin to Henry Fane, of Hadlow, co. Kent (d. 1597), ancestor of the Barons Barnard, both being great grandsons of John Fane, of Tunbridge (d. 1488), whose father, "Henry a Vane" [sic], also of Tunbridge (d. 1456), appears to be the first proved ancestor of the race. The long line of Welsh descent, as given in the Visitation of Kent, appears to be baseless.

([a]) Creations, 1483—1646, in ap. 47th Rep., D. K. Pub. Records. His mother was a coheir of the Barony of Burghersh, cr. by writ 1330. See that dignity, as also vol. iii, p. 93, note "d," sub. "Despencer." She was also (see p. 115, note "f") a descendant, but certainly not the representative, of Ralph (Nevill), 1st Earl of Westmorland.

([b]) He is thus described in Manningham's Diary, 11 Jan. 1601/2, "Mr. Francis Vane, a young Gent. of great hope and forwardness, very well affected in the country already . . . . his possibility of living by his wife very much, she being da. and coheir to Sir Antony Mildmay, and thought her mother will give her all her inheritance also; the father worth £3,000 p. a., the mother £1,200." ([c]) Portraits of both of them (his at full length) were [1791], at Apethorpe.

([d]) It appears that on 15 Aug. 1643, he had been in prison for 10 months, "having a wife and houseful of small children."

([e]) He was author of a vol. of poems, printed 1648, entitled "Otia Sacra." His portrait, by Vandyke, was [1791] at Apethorpe. Another, "after W. Hollar," is engraved in "Doyle."

I. 1826. 1. JAMES-ARCHIBALD STUART-WORTLEY-MACKENZIE, previously (1795-1803) STUART-WORTLEY and, before that (1776-95), STUART, of Wortley Hall, co. York,[e] &c., 2d but 1st surv. s. and h. of the Hon. James Archibald STUART-WORTLEY-MAC-

(a) Henry Thynne, the only s. that survived infancy, m. (Lic. Fac. 29 April 1695) Grace (a "fortune of £20,000") da. and h. of Sir George Strode, Serjeant-at-Law. He d. s.p.m. and v.p. 20 Dec. 1708, aged 33, leaving 2 daughters and coheirs, viz., Frances, Duchess, of Somerset, and Mary, Baroness Brooke of Beauchamps Court.

(b) He, "tho' not a nonjuror, did himself honour by offering to the most virtuous of the nonjurors [Bishop Ken] a tranquil and dignified asylum in the princely mansion of Longleat" [Macaulay's James II]. His portrait, in a full wig, "after Sir P. Lely," is engraved in "Doyle."

(c) The elder br., James Thynne, who was of Buckland, co. Glouc., d. unm. 15 March 1708/9.

(d) He appears from the Delany Memoirs (vol. ii) to have been a selfish fellow, who nearly ruined himself and his sisters by his extravagance. Mrs. Delany, however, in 1731, speaks of him as "good natured and affectionate but liberal without distinction, warm in his temper, could not bear contradiction, and had not discernment enough to be reasoned with," and of his 2nd wife, she says "she was very sensible and discreet, of a complying temper, gentle, mild, and withal very lively." Mrs. Pendarves writing, 21 July 1733, to Dean Swift, says of him, "He has honour and good nature, and does not want for sense; he loves the country, and inclines a little too much to his stable and dog kennel; but he keeps a very hospitable, good house, and is always ready to relieve those in distress."

(e) The estate of Wortley was inherited from Anne Newcomen otherwise Wortley, the illegit. da. and testamentary heir of Sir Francis Wortley, Bart., of Wortley afsd. (who

KENZIE,[a] previously (1795-1803) STUART-WORTLEY and, before that (1747-95), STUART, by Margaret, da of Sir David CUNINGHAME, Bart. [S.], which James Archibald last named (who d. 1 March 1818 aged 70) was 2d s. of John (STUART), 3d EARL OF BUTE [S.] and br. to John, 1st MARQUESS OF BUTE. He was b. 6 Oct. and bap. 1 Nov. 1776; ed. at Charterhouse; entered the army 1801, serving in Canada and at the Cape of Good Hope, and being, 1796, Lieut.-Col. 12th Foot and, 1797, Capt. 1st Reg. of Foot Guards, but retiring in 1801. He took (together with his father), by royal lic., 17 Jan. 1795, the name of Wortley after that of his patronymic of Stuart, assuming (in like conjunction) in 1803 after such names the addit. name of Mackenzie, which last was confirmed to him (for himself and his successors in the Mackenzie estates) by royal lic, 17 June 1826; was M.P. for Bossiney 1802-18 and for Yorkshire 1818-26, having suc. 1 March 1818, on the death of his father, to the family estates. He was cr. 12 July 1826 BARON WHARNCLIFFE[b] OF WORTLEY, co. York; P.C., 1834; L. Privy Seal, 1834-35; and L. President of the Council, 1841-46; L. Lieut. of West Riding of Yorkshire, 1841. He m. 30 March 1799, at the house of the Earl of Bristol in St James' Square, St. James' Westm., Caroline Elizabeth Mary, da. of John (CRICHTON), 1st EARL ERNE OF CROM CASTLE [I.], by his second wife, Mary, da. of Frederick Augustus (HERVEY), 4th EARL OF BRISTOL. He d. of gout and apoplexy, 19 Dec. 1845, at Wharncliffe House Curzon Street, Mayfair, aged 69.[c] Admon. March 1846. His widow d. 23 April 1856 at 45 Grosvenor Street, aged 78. Will pr. July 1856.

II. 1845. 2. JOHN (STUART-WORTLEY-MACKENZIE, formerly, 1801-45, STUART WORTLEY), BARON WHARNCLIFFE OF WORTLEY, 1st s. and h., b. 20 April, 1801 at Egham, co. Surrey; mat. at Oxford (Ch. Ch.) 7 Dec. 1818; 1st class classics, 2d maths. and B.A. 25 May 1822; M.P. for Bossiney, 1823-30; for Perth burghs, 1830-31; for Yorkshire (West Riding), 1841-45; Sec. to the Board of Control for India, Feb. to Dec. 1830; suc. to the peerage 19 Dec. 1845; Col. Com 1st West York Mil. 1846. He m. 12 Dec. 1825, at Sandon, co. Stafford, Georgiana Elizabeth, 3d da. of Dudley (RYDER), 1st EARL OF HARROWBY, by Susan, da. of Granville (LEVESON-GOWER), 1st MARQUESS OF STAFFORD. He d. of disease of the lungs, 22 Oct. 1855 at Wortley Hall, aged 54, and was bur. at Wortley.[d] Will pr. Dec. 1855. His widow, who was b. 23 April 1804, d. 22 Aug. 1884, at 3 Tilney Street, Mayfair, aged 80.

d. s.p. legit, 14 March 1665) which lady m. the Hon. Sidney Montagu and was mother of Edward Wortley-Montagu, who (by his wife, the well known Lady Mary Wortley-Montagu), was father of Mary, suo jure Baroness Mount Stuart of Wortley, wife of John (Stuart), 3d Earl of Bute, and mother of the said James-Archibald Stuart-Wortley-Mackenzie, being grandmother of the 1st Baron Wharncliffe of Wortley.

(a) His right of succession to the estates of Sir George Mackenzie, of Rosehaugh (whose da., Agnes, was wife of his paternal great-grandfather, the 1st Earl of Bute [S.]), was confirmed by the House of Lords, 4 March 1803.

(b) Wharncliffe Lodge, in the parish of Tankersley, appears to have given the name to this peerage.

(c) He was practically the leader (and not a very successful one) of the Conservative party in the House of Lords from 1842 to 1844. Charles Greville speaks of him [Memoirs, vol. ii, p. 209] as "a very honest man, with a right view of things, and a fair and unprejudiced understanding—vain and imprudent—without authority, commanding no respect." On 22 Dec. 1845 (after his death) he adds: "He was not popular, and his manners were ungracious . . . but he was deservedly loved by his family and friends . . . He was kind hearted, affectionate, hospitable and obliging, an excellent, well-meaning man . . . He was very far from being a man of first-rate capacity, but he had good strong sense, liberal opinions, honesty, straightforwardness and courage . . . He was for above 20 years Chairman of the Quarter Sessions, and for 4 years Lieut. of his county, and in both capacities acted with credit and approbation. In public life thus playing a secondary, but an honourable and useful part; in private life he was irreproachable, amiable and respected . . . no man ever died with fewer enemies, with more general goodwill, and more sincerely regretted." He edited an edition of the letters of his great-grandmother, Lady Mary Wortley-Montagu. His portrait, "after H. P. Briggs, 1836," is engraved in "Doyle."

(d) A moderate Conservative in politics, his interest was chiefly in agriculture.

III. 1855. Earldom I. 1876. 3 and 1. EDWARD MONTAGU STUART GRANVILLE (STUART-WORTLEY-MACKENZIE, formerly, 1827-55, STUART-WORTLEY, and afterwards, 1880, MONTAGU-STUART-WORTLEY-MACKENZIE), BARON WHARNCLIFFE OF WORTLEY, 1st s. and h ; b. 15 Dec. 1827 at Sandon afsd. ; ed. at Eton ; Lieut., Gren. Foot Guards, 1846-51 ; suc. to the peerage, 22 Oct. 1855 ; Lieut.-Col. 1st West York Yeomanry, 1859-61 ; Lieut.-Col. 2d West York Rifle Vols., 1861. He was cr. 15 Jan. 1876,(a) VISCOUNT CARLTON of Carlton, and EARL OF WHARNCLIFFE, both in the West Riding of co. York, with a spec. rem. failing heirs male of his body to his br., the Hon. Francis Dudley STUART-WORTLEY, in like manner. By royal lic. 18 Oct. 1880, he took the name of Montagu in addition to and before that of Stuart-Wortley-Mackenzie. He m. 4 July 1855, at St. Geo., Han. Sq., Susan Charlotte, 2d da. of Henry (LASCELLES), 3d EARL OF HAREWOOD, by Louisa, da. of Thomas (THYNNE), 2d MARQUESS OF BATH. She was b. 10 April 1834.

Family Estates.—These, in 1883, consisted of 22,544 acres in the North and West Ridings of Yorkshire, and 2,039 in Cornwall ; besides 6,926 in Forfarshire, and 1,940 in Perthshire. Total, 33,449 acres, worth £50,823 a year. Principal Seats.—Wortley Hall, near Sheffield, and Simonstone Hall, near Hawes, both in co. York ; and Belmont Castle, near Meigle, co. Perth.

WHARTON.(b)

Barony I. 1544. 1. SIR THOMAS WHARTON, Lord of the manors of Wharton and Nateby in Kirkby Stephen, co. Westmorland, and of Healaugh in the co. of the city of York, by Agnes, da. of Reginald WARCOP, of Swerdale, co. Westmorland, was b. about 1495 ; knighted at Windsor, 20 June 1527 ; was M.P. for Appleby, 1529-36, and for Cumberland, 1542-44 ; Warden of Carlisle, 1541, and having greatly distinguished himself at the battle of Solway Moss, 24 Nov. 1542.(c) was, shortly before 18 March 1543-4, on which day the patent(d) was delivered to him, cr a Baron, presumably, as BARON WHARTON of Wharton, co. Westmorland, and was accordingly sum. to parl. from 30 Jan. (1544/5), 36 Hen. VIII. to 30 Sep. (1566), 8 Eliz. He was Dep. Warden of the Scotch Marches, 1552, Warden of the East and Middle Marches, 1555, and of the Middle Marches, and of

(a) See vol. iv, p. 19, note "a," sub "Gerard," as to the batch of eight peerages created at that date.

(b) The Editor is greatly indebted to "E. R. Wharton" for much valuable information from orig. sources respecting this family, which corrects the account thereof in "Dugdale," "Doyle," Lipscomb's Bucks, and elsewhere.

(c) He received, in consequence, 23 April 1552/3, from Ed. VI., an augmentation to his "ancient" arms, viz., "a border engrailed, gold, remplised with lyons legs in saltire, rased [i.e., erased], gules," these legs being parts of the lion in the Royal Arms of Scotland, the tinctures also of which shield are retained. [Genealogist, N.S., vol. viii, p. 127.] See vol. vi, p. 48, note "e," sub "Norfolk," for a similar augmentation, granted 1513, to Howard. With respect to an alleged descent of Wharton from the family of Hastings, of Croghill, temp Ed. III., accounting for the "maunch" in their arms, and the "bulls head" in their crest, it may be observed that the family of Conyers, also, possess the same bearings, and that the grandmother of the grantee of 1553 was (by an odd coincidence) Alice, da. of Sir John Conyers, of Hornby, co. York.

(d) In a letter to the King, 20 March 1543/4, Edward (Seymour), Earl of Hertford, then Lieut. of the Scottish borders (afterwards, 1547, Duke of Somerset), writes that "on Tuesday morning last [18 March 1543/4] I delivered to Lords Eure and Wharton your Majesty's letters patents by the which it hath pleased your Highness to create and make them Barons." These were received at Newcastle upon Tyne by the newly made Lords on their knees in the presence of a distinguished company. [Hamilton Papers, vol. ix]. Neither of these patents, however, were enrolled, but there is no reason to doubt that the limitation in each was in the usual form, viz., to the heirs male of the body of the grantee, and the devolution of the Barony of Eure proves that in that Barony, at all events, it was so considered. The creation by patent in the case of Wharton is also confirmed "in some MS. notes, by a latter Lord Wharton, correcting Dugdale [who makes no mention of such patent], which are preserved among the Carte Papers in the Bodleian." [Academy, 8 June 1896, in an article by "J. S. C.," on Edward Wharton.]

IV. 1625. 4. PHILIP (WHARTON), BARON WHARTON, grandson and h., being 1st s. and h. of Sir Thomas WHARTON, of Easby, co. York, by Philadelphia,[b] da. of Robert (CAREY), 1st EARL OF MONMOUTH, which Thomas (sometime of Caius Coll., Cambridge, knighted 25 April 1611, and who d. v.p. 17 April 1622, being bur. at Easby, aged 34) was 2d[c] but only surv. s. of the late Baron. He was b. 8 April 1613; matric. at Oxford (Ex. Coll.) 3 March 1625/6; and suc. to the peerage, 25 March 1625, being sum. to parl. from 3 Nov. (1639) 15 Car. I. to 19 May (1685) 1 Jac. II. He was a pronounced Puritan, and took an active part for the Parl. in the Civil War; was one of the 16 "popular" noblemen[d] to treat with the Scots at Ripon in Sep., and at London in Nov. 1640, as also in July 1646; was one of "the commanders"[e] in the armies of the Commonwealth,[f] being, 20 Oct. 1642, in the battle of Edgehill, at the head of his regiment, all of whom, however, ran away.[g] On the nomination of Parl. he was, in 1642, L.-Lieut. of the counties of Lancaster and Buckingham, and in 1644 of Westmorland; Speaker of the House of Lords, 27 May 1642 and 26 Feb. 1645, it being voted in parl., 1 Dec. 1645, "that Lord Wharton be made an Earl."[h] He was one of the Lay Members of the Westminster Assembly of Divines by whom, in 1648, The Shorter Catechism was drawn up. He was sum. to Cromwell's "House of Lords," 10 Dec. 1657,[i] as also 27 Jan. 1658/9 to Richard Cromwell's parl. At the Restoration he was one of the cavalcade to escort the King on his landing. He was imprisoned in the Tower, 16 Feb. 1676/7 to 29 July following, for declaring the Long Parl. dissolved by its fifteen months' prorogation. He was suspected of fraud in promoting the passing of the "Habeas Corpus" Act, and of being concerned in some of the many plots of that period. He was one of the first to declare for William III., to whom, in Feb. 1688/9, he was P.C. He m., firstly (settlement 20 Sep. 1632), Elizabeth, da. and h. of Sir Rowland WANDESFORD, of Pickhill, co. (a) In this, the yearly value of his estates is given as (but) £434 7s. 4d., but his grandson, the 4th Lord, is said, when of age in 1634, to have inherited something under £8,000 a year.

(f) In Peacock's "Army lists of Roundheads," &c., 1642 (p. 64), appears, 11 June 1642, "Philip, Lord Wharton, Baron of Scarborough, Lord General of Ireland," but this designation of him as "Baron of Scarborough" is apparently incorrect.

(g) The names of the officers of this gallant [!] troop are given in Lipscomb's Bucks (vol. i, pp. 545-548), where, also, is his own verbose account of the flight, as narrated by him to the House of Lords. According to Wood's Athenæ, he hid himself in a saw pit after this battle, which appears to have been his sole military achievement.

Possibly, however, "William Kerr, alias Kirkaldy, of Grange," is meant. He (who is omitted in Wood's Douglas) was next yr. br. to Andrew, 1st Lord Jedburgh [S.], both being elder brothers (of the half blood) to Robert Kerr, otherwise Carr, the well known Earl of Somerset,

(b) When young, he is said [Memoirs of the Marquess of Wharton] to have "had particularly fine legs, and took great delight to show them in dancing." He had also a great taste for architecture and painting, but a sour Puritanism was his prevailing characteristic. On 12 July 1692 he conveyed lands in Yorkshire to trustees "for buying English bibles and catechisms for poor children and for preaching sermons." The administration of this charity gave rise in 1896 to a Chancery suit. His portrait, "after W. Hollar," is engraved in "Doyle." An account of him is given in Lipscomb's Bucks, vol. i, p. 545.

(c) Of his elder brothers (1), Philip was bap. 28 and bur. 29 Oct. 1638, at Winchendon; (2) Arthur, bap. 2 June 1641, d. 21 March following and was bur. at Wooburn.

(d) In a letter to the then Lord Wharton, Cromwell writes, 2 Sep. 1648, about this child, as "The young Baron," adding "my love to the dear little lady," i.e., the child's mother. [Thurloe State Papers, I., 99.]

(e) He then wrote the famous song of Lillibullero, pub. in Dec. 1688.

(f) Macky in his Characters writes of him, about that period when "50 years old, of a middle stature and fair complexion"; that William III. "did not like in a servant" the boldness with which he censured the measures of the Court, and thought him "too popular or too much a Republican to be intrusted with the administration of state affairs." He adds that "he is certainly one of the completest gentleman in England, hath a very clear understanding and manly expressions with abundance of wit. He is brave in his person, much of a Libertine." See, however, on p. 128, note "b," a pungent diatribe, which gives him a very different character. As to his wit see vol. i, p. 40, note "a," for his scathing remark on the introduction, in 1711, of the twelve new Tory Peers.

(g) See vol. vii, p. 320, note "b," sub "Sunderland."

(h) His Secretary, in Ireland, was Joseph Addison, the well known essayist.

(i) This is the date given in Boyer's Political State. The account in Lodge's patents (M.S.) is strangely jumbled, the privy seal being given as 1 Jan. 1714/5, and the patent as 12 April 1715, the day of the Marquess's death, and the grantee being called "Philip, Earl of Wharton."

PHILIP (WHARTON), MARQUESS OF WHARTON and MARQUESS OF MALMESBURY [1715], EARL OF WHARTON [1706], VISCOUNT WINCHENDON [1706] and BARON WHARTON [1544]; also MARQUESS OF CATHERLOUGH, EARL OF RATHFARNHAM and BARON TRIM [I., 1715], only s. and h., by second wife, b., apparently, on or shortly before 21 Dec. 1698 at Adderbury, or Ditchley, Oxon., and bap 5 Jan. 1698/9, William III., the Princess Anne of Denmark and the Duke of Shrewsbury being his Sponsors; styled VISCOUNT WINCHENDON from 1706 till he suc. to the peerage [E. and I.] as Marquess, and to an estate of about £14,000 a year, including his mother's jointure of £6,000, 12 April 1715. He visited, at Avignon, in Sept 1716, the titular King James III., by whom he was either then or (more probably) ten years later, in 1726, cr. Duke of Northumberland, and whose health he is said to have openly drunk at the English Embassy at Paris.(c) No notice, however, of his conduct was taken by the Government, and, tho' under age, he was allowed to take his seat in the Irish House of Peers, being introduced 12 Aug. 1717; P.C. [I.] 1717-26. While still under age he was cr. 28 Jan. 1717/8, DUKE OF WHARTON, Dukedom I. — 1718, to 1731.

(a) See vol. v, p. 108, note "b," sub "Lisburne,"

(b) Swift, besides adding to Macky's flattering character of him (see p. 127, note "f") that he was "the most universal villain I ever knew," says that he made at least £45,000 out of his short government of Ireland. He writes of him in his Short Character of the Lord Lieut. of Ireland, 30 Aug. 1710, that "He is without the sense of shame or glory, as some men are without the sense of smelling; and therefore a good name to him is no more than a precious ointment would be to these . . . He has passed some years his grand climacteric without any visible effects of old age either on his body or mind; and in spite of a continual prostitution to those vices, which usually wear out both . . . He seems to be but an ill dissembler and liar, although they are the two talents he most practices and most values himself upon . . . With a good natural understanding, a great fluency in speaking, and no ill taste of wit, he is generally the worst companion in the world; his thoughts being wholly taken up between vice and politics, so that bawdy profaneness and business fill up his whole conversation . . . He bears the gallantries of his lady with the indifference of a stoic . . . He has three predominant passions which you will seldom find united in the same man, these are love of power, love of money and love of pleasure." Lady Mary Wortley Montagu calls him "the most profligate, impious and shameless of men," and speaks of his (second) wife as "equally unfeeling and unprincipled; flattering, fawning, canting, affecting prudery and even sanctity, yet in reality as abandoned and unscrupulous as her husband himself." He was, however, termed ["facetiously termed" says J. R. Robinson in the "introduction" to his Philip, Duke of Wharton] "Honest Tom," and was, by the Whig party (often hard pressed for a hero), spoken of as a "Patriot." The Whig-historian, Macaulay, does all honour to his political, at the expense of his personal, character, saying of him that "of all the liars of his time he was the most deliberate, the most inventive and the most circumstantial . . . The falsest of mankind in all relations but one, he was the truest of Whigs." His portrait, "after Sir G. Kneller," is engraved in "Doyle." That of his second wife, by Lely, is engraved by Thompson. He had a famous stud of race horses, greyhounds, &c.

Bucks, was b. 6 Aug. 1605 in Fleet Street; was Joint Keeper of the Great Seal, and Joint L. father "an atheist grafted on a Presbyterian," the son "a freethinker in the garb of a Roman Catholic;" but "the one acquired power, the other lost it; the one was as cautious as the other was reckless; the father was a miser, the son a spendthrift." His portrait, "after C. Jervas," is engraved in "Doyle;" another, as a younger man, is in Robinson's Life of Wharton.

(a) The Barony was claimed in 1843-44, as one cr. by writ, by Charles Kemeys-Tynte and others, descendants of the daughters of the 4th Lord, who on the death, s.p.m., 1761 of the Duke's surv. sister (da. of the 5th Lord), were the representatives of the 1st Lord. The House of Lords, at that date, considered the Barony to have been created by writ and that the said C. Kemeys-Tynte was heir to one third part thereof. This decision was apparently only arrived at because the patent had not then been discovered.

[a] His claim to the title was opposed on behalf of an alleged (infant), son of his eldest br. (of the half blood), William George Howard, who d. 12 Oct. 1864, aged 39. The marriage of the said W. G. H. with Miss Ellen Richardson, on 23 Feb. 1863, was admitted, but the birth of the alleged son was not. An account of the proceedings is in the Annual Register for 1870, pp. 185-191. The said person (named like his alleged father, William George Howard), after full age, continued the claim to the title and estates, in 1891, in the Irish High Court, but on 27 Feb. 1892, judgment was given in Dublin against him.

berland, 1637; M.P. for that county, 1641 and 1642. He was one of the most zealous of the supporters of Charles I, for whose cause he raised a considerable force, distinguishing himself, chiefly under the Duke of Newcastle, in most of the civil war fights.[a] He, who is said to have been cr. a Baronet 9 July 1642,[b] was raised to the peerage in 1643 as above mentioned. He m. in 1629, Mary, da. and h. of Sir Anthony THOROLD, of Blankney afsd., by Elizabeth, da. of Thomas MOLYNEUX, of Haughton. (a) The House of Commons, resolved, 14 March, 1648, that the Duke of Buckingham, the Earl of Bristol, the Earl of Newcastle, Sir William Widdrington, George, Lord Digby and others be proscribed and condemned to death.

(b) It will be observed that no mention of the baronetcy is made in the Signet bill of 1643 raising him to the peerage, neither was the creation thereof enrolled, but that is hardly any argument against its existence, as at that period such neglect was common.

(c) Clarendon (Hist. Rebell.) calls him "one of the most goodly persons of that age, being near the head higher than most tall men . . . His affection to the King was always notorious . . . He was a man of great courage and choler, by the last of which he incurred the ill-will of many, who imputed it to an insolence of nature which no man was farther from."

(d) In this he is described as "Sir William Widdrington, of Widdrington, co. Northumberland." All titles granted by Charles I. after 4 Jan. 1641 were made void by Act of Parl., 4 Feb. 1651/2.

V. 1743, to 1774. 5. HENRY FRANCIS WIDDRINGTON, s. and h. by first wife, b. about 1701; styled himself, after his father's death in 1743, BARON WIDDRINGTON OF BLANKNEY, notwithstanding the attainder of 1716. He m. ANNE, da. of (—) GATTONBY, of co. York. He d. s.p., 19 Sep. 1774, at Turnham green, and was bur. at St. Pancras, Midx., when the issue male of the 1st Lord most probably became extinct.(a) Will dat. 1772.(b) His widow d. at Bath, Sep. 1780. Will pr. Jan. 1781.

Earldom [S.] I. 1341. 1. SIR MALCOLM FLEMING, of Cumbernauld, 1st s. and h. of Sir Malcolm FLEMING, of the same, whose father Robert FLEMING received those lands from Robert I. [S.]; suc. his father after 19 May 1321; was one of the few who survived the battle of Halidonhill, 19 July 1333, securing the Castle of Dunbarton for David II [S.], whom he assisted to escape into France, and by whom, by Charter, 9 Nov. 1341, he was cr. EARL OF WIGTOUN [S.], with rem. to the heirs male of his body.(c) With that King also he was captured 17 Oct. 1346, at the battle of Durham, and for sometime imprisoned in the Tower of London. He was in the Parl. [S.], 26 Sep. 1357. He m. Marjorie, foster-sister of the said King David II. [S.] He d. about 1365.

(c) "Ut ipse Malcolmus et hæredes sui prædicti [i.e., heirs male of the body], abinde nomen Comitis accipiant et Comites de Vygtoun de cetero nuncupenter." The charter is given at length in Crawford's Peerage [S.], 494.

(b) The second son, Sir Robert Fleming, d. unm., as also did James and Harry, the 3d and 4th sons.

(c) He obtained, upon his resignation, a royal sign manual, 18 Aug. 1669, of a novodamus of his peerage dignities to himself and other relatives in tail male, "with an ultimate substitution to the eldest heir female, without division, of the body of the disponee. It is remarkable, however, that this regrant always remained in the same inchoate state, and was never perfected in any manner." The heirs under this regrant would be, after the date of 1747, the Lords Elphinstone, but, "by the resignation of 1669, [this] William, the 5th Earl, may be legally held to have denuded himself of the honours." ["Riddell," pp. 628-636].

1747, at Arth. Funeral entry in Lyon office. After his death the Earldom of Wigtoun and the Baronies cr. therewith [S.] probably became extinct, neither has anyone proved a right to the old Barony of Fleming [S.] of the creation of 1445. The titles were, however, assumed as below.

X. 1747. 8. CHARLES ROSS FLEMING, M.D., of Dublin, assumed the style of EARL OF WIGTOUN, &c. [S.], on the death, 22 May 1747, of the late Earl, claiming to be heir male of the body of the 1st Earl, as being s. of the Rev. James FLEMING, Rector of Castlane, or Whitechurch, co. Kilkenny, by Magdalen, da. of the Rev. Thomas WAY, Archdeacon of Ossory, which James (m. 1700, and d. 1729), was s. of another Rev. James FLEMING, Rector of Ray, or Romachy, co. Donegal (m. 1660, and d. 1684), the last James being stated to be s. of the Hon. Alexander FLEMING, 4th and yst. s. of the 1st Earl.(a) He voted at the elections of Scotch Peers in 1752 and 1754 without challenge. His petition was referred to the House of Lords, 29 Jan. 1762, who, on 25 March following, ordered that, till he had made out his claim, the title should be disallowed and his vote not admitted. He m. 26 Dec. 1743, Anne, sister of William HAMILTON, of Killylengh, co. Downe. He d. 18 Oct. 1769, in Great George street, Westminster, in his 58th year.

XI. 1769, to 1809. 9. HAMILTON FLEMING, styling himself EARL OF WIGTOUN, &c. [S.], s. and h.; an officer in the 13th Foot. His petition for the above peerage was referred, 18 April 1776, to the house of Lords who, after it was heard in 1779, 1781 and 1782, before the Committee for privileges, resolved, 6 Feb. 1782, that he had no right thereto.(b) He m. 14 Dec. 1769,(c) at St. Geo., Han. sq. (Lic. Cant.), Mary Challot, da. and coheir of William CHILD, of Birthwaite Hall, co. York, by Sarah Maria, da. and coheir of William ROOKE, of Barnsley, in that county. She d. on Richmond hill, 31 Jan. 1797, aged 47. He d. s.p.m., 13 June 1809, aged 64,(d) when the issue male of his great-grandfather, James Fleming, appears to have become extinct.

WILINGTON, or WILLINGTON.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1329.

1. JOHN DE WILINGTON was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD WILINGTON), from 14 June (1329) 3 Ed. III. to 15 Nov. (1338) 12 Ed. III. He presumably(e) is the same person as John, s. and h. of Ralph DE WILINGTON, sometime Gov. of the Castles of Bristol, Devizes and Exeter, which John, in 1283 (when apparently a minor), obtained large grants from Ed. I., and, in 1299, had licence to crenellate his

(a) "John, 1st Earl of Wigton, no doubt had a yr. s., Alexander, father of James Fleming, which last was alive in 1654, but the claimant failed to instruct his male descent from them as he maintained (nor could it be) thro' James Fleming, Rector of Castlane, and an earlier James Fleming, Rector of Ray." ["Riddell."]

(b) "The Lords, however, entertained grave doubts as to the authenticity of the documents produced on Mr. Fleming's behalf to establish his descent," and tho' Mr. Rose, whom they had directed to examine them, "gave his opinion that the papers did not appear suspicious," they "appear to have taken a different view of the writings, and on the same day decided against the claim." [Hewlett].

(c) The marriage is thus recorded in the parish register:—"The Rt. Hon. Hamilton, Lord Fleming, Earl of Wigton, and Mary Challot Child. L.A.C." Witnesses, "Sarah Maria Child," and "Caleb Greville." The Bride's residence was in New Bond street.

(d) Harriet Jane Laura, his only da and h., m. 13 Oct. 1794, at Wyndisbury, Bucks, William Gyll, Capt. 2d Life Guards, and d., a widow, 6 Nov. 1813, aged 35, leaving issue. See Lipscomb's Bucks, vol. iv, p. 598, where the ped. of this branch of Fleming, which is therein deduced from the Earls of Wigton, in the manner indicated above, is set out.

(e) "Dugdale in his Baronage omits to notice that a John de Willington was ever sum. to Parl., but it is pretty evident it was this John whom he states had his lands seized, 15 Ed. II., but which were restored to him by Edward III." [Nicolas, followed by Courthope].

manor house at Yate, co. Gloucester. He took part, in 1322, in the rebellion of the Earl of Lancaster, incurring forfeiture of his lands, which, however, were restored to him by Ed. III., by whom he (assuming the identity as above) was sum. to Parl. as abovestated[a] from 1329 to 1338. He d. 1339.

II. 1339, to 1348. 2. SIR RALPH DE WILINGTON, s. and h., aged 30 at his father's death in 1339; took part in the expedition to Scotland, 1341; was sum. to a council (which was not a regular Parl.), 25 Feb. (1341/2) 16 Ed. III., but never afterwards, being then a Banneret and residing in Gloucestershire; was in the wars with France, 1347. He d. s.p. 14 April 1348, when the issue of his father having failed, all right to the Barony became extinct.[b]

WILLIAMS DE THAME.

Barony [by Writ.?]

I. 1554, to 1559. 1. SIR JOHN WILLIAMS, 2d s. of Sir John WILLIAMS, of Burfield, Berks, by Elizabeth, da. and coheir of Richard MORE, of Burfield afsd., was in the King's household in 1527; Clerk of the Jewel House, 1536, and, shortly afterwards, joint Master thereof; was knighted, 18 Oct. 1537; purchased the manors of Great and Little Ricot, Oxon, in 1539; had a grant of the Stewardship of the manors of Grafton and Hertwell, co. Northampton, and of those of Wytham, Weston, &c., co. Oxon, in 1540; Treasurer of the Court of Augmentation, 1546/7 to 1554; was, on the demise of Ed. VI., one of the first to espouse the cause of Queen Mary, by whom he is stated to have been "solemnly cr. LORD WILLIAMS OF TAME [i.e., THAME, co. Oxon], at her palace of St. James's, 5 April [1554], in the first year of her reign, tho' his patent be not enrolled, having also his writ of summons to the Parl. then sitting at Westm. (which began by prorogation on the 2d day of that month), where he took his place the same 5th day accordingly."[c] He had, however, been previously sum. to Parl. by writ, dat. 17 Feb. 1553/4,[d] directed "Johi Williams de Thame, Ch'r," whereby, presumably, a Barony in tail general (LORD WILLIAMS DE THAME) was created, so that the proceedings of 5 April following were, probably, only confirmatory. He continued to be so sum. till 5 Nov. (1558) 5 and 6 Ph. and Mary. He was L. Chamberlain of the Household to Philip, the King Consort; L. President of Wales to Queen Eliz., 1558. He was founder of a free school in the town of Thame. He m. firstly, Elizabeth, widow of Andrew EDMONDS, of Cressing Temple, co. Essex, da. of coheir of Thomas BLEDLOW,[e] by Elizabeth, da. and coheir of Sir Humphrey STARKEY, Chief Baron of the Exchequer, 1483-86. She d. 25 Oct. 1556, and was bur. at Ricot. Funeral certif. in Coll. of Arms. He m. secondly, Margaret, da. of Thomas (WENTWORTH), 1st LORD WENTWORTH, by Margaret, da. of Sir Adrian FORTESCUE. He d. s.p.m.s.[f] at Ludlow Castle, 14 Oct. and was bur. 15 Nov. 1559, at Thame afsd., when the Barony, if cr. by patent, became extinct or, if cr. by writ, fell into abeyance.[g] M.I. at Thame. Will pr. 1560. His widow, (e) He was s. and h. of Thomas Bledlow, Sheriff of London, 1472.

(f) His eldest son, Henry, m. Anne, da. of Henry (Stafford), Lord Stafford, and d. s.p. and v.p., probably before 1548; his second and yst. son, Francis, living 1548, d. unm. and v.p.

(g) His two daughters, by his first wife, were his coheirs, viz. (1), Isabel, m. firstly, Richard Wenman (d. 1572), by whom she was grandmother of Richard, 1st Viscount Wenman of Tuam [I.], the descendants of whose granddaughters (children of the 2d Viscount) represent one moiety of this Barony if it is assumed to have been one cr. by

V. 1396. 5. WILLIAM (WILLOUGHBY) LORD WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, 1st s. and h. by first wife,[a] aged 24 or 28 at the death of his father in 1396. He was sum. to parl. from 30 Nov. (1396), 20 Ric. II., to 26 Oct. (1409), 11 Hen. IV.[b] He was present in the parl. of 22 Ric. II. when that King resigned the Crown. He attended Henry IV. into Scotland in 1400, and was made K.G. in or soon after that year. He m. firstly Lucy, da. of Roger (STRANGE), LORD STRANGE DE KNOKIN, by Aliva, da. of Edmund (FITZALAN), EARL OF ARUNDEL. He m. secondly, about March 1406, (pardon dat. 14 May 1409) Joan, widow of Edmund (PLANTAGENET), DUKE OF YORK (who d. 1 Aug. 1402), 2d da. of Thomas (HOLAND), 2d EARL OF KENT, by Alice, da. of Richard (FITZALAN), EARL OF ARUNDEL. He d. at Eggefield, co. Norfolk afsd., 30 Nov. 1409; Esch. 11 Henry IV. His widow, who was b. about 1380, m. thirdly, as his second wife (Lic. York 6 Sep. 1410 to marry in the chapel of the manor of Foxflete) Henry (LE SCROPE), 3d LORD SCROPE DE MASHAM, who d. s.p. soon after 3 June 1415. She m. fourthly (pardon 14 Aug. 1416), as his first wife, Henry (BROMFLETE), LORD VESCY, who d. 6 Jan. 1467/8. She d. s.p. 12 April 1434.

VI. 1409. 6. ROBERT (WILLOUGHBY), LORD WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, 1st s. and h. by first wife; aged 24 at the death of his father in 1409. He was sum. to parl. from 21 Sep. (1411), 12 Hen. IV., to 5 Sep. (1450), 29 Hen. VI. He accompanied Henry V. into France, and was with him at the taking of Harfleur and the victory of Agincourt, 25 Oct. 1415. K.G. 1416. Continuing his services in France, he was at the victory of Verneuil, 17 Aug. 1424, "bearing, in 10 Henry VI. [1431-32], the title of EARL OF VENDOSME AND BEAUMONT, LORD WILLOUGHBY OF MONBLAY AND BEAUMESGUIL."[c] He was in command at Paris, but, being insufficiently supported, was constrained to surrender it in 1436 to the French, from whom it had been wrested 15 years before. In 20 Hen. VI. (1441-42) he defeated the French, near Amiens, with great loss. In 1442 he was Master of the King's hart hounds. He m. firstly, about 1420, Elizabeth, yst. da. of John (MONTACUTE), EARL OF SALISBURY, by Maud, da. of Sir Adam FRANCIS. He m. secondly, before 9 Jan. 1448, Maud, da. of Sir Richard STANHOPE, K.B., of Rampton, Notts, by Maud, sister and coheir of Ralph (CROMWELL), LORD CROMWELL, but by her he had no issue. He d., s.p.m., 25 July 1452.[d] Esch. 30 Hen. VI. Will dat. 9 Jan. 1448 to 6 June 1452, directing his burial to be at Metyngham, proved (no date) at Lincoln. His widow m. before 1456 Sir Thomas NEVILL (yr. s. of Richard, Earl of Salisbury), who was slain at Wakefield 31 Dec. 1460 on the Yorkist side. She is said to have m. thirdly Sir Gervase CLIFTON. She d. s.p.[e] 30 Aug. 1497, and

(a) His yr. br. Thomas Willoughby is ancestor of the Lords Willoughby de Broke. See tabular pedigree below, as also in vol. v, p. 24, note "b," sub "Latimer."

(b) There is proof in the Rolls of Parl. of his sitting.

(c) "Dugdale." It is to be presumed that this was an Anglo-Norman creation.

(d) "What an old poet hath said of this noble family, and especially of . . . . this valiant and expert soldier" is given in "Dugdale" in 8 verses, each consisting of seven (long) lines. Mention is made therein of "Sir John de Willughby, the valiant Chivalier," who "with the Conquest, did here inhabit," and "Whose arms was azure, an Hermite sable cleer"; also of the "true Knight" who captured the King of Barbary, and with his ransom built "Barbican without Creplegate"; also of another ancestor by whom

"A Saracyn King discumfyt was in fight, Whose head, my crest, shall ever be present."

Ending with the "acts of grete honour, six against one," done at Agincourt &c. by this "Lord Robert de Willughby."

(e) It is often stated that she (and not her husband's first wife) was mother of Joan Willoughby, the heiress, but her death without any surviving issue is clearly proved.

was bur. with her maternal ancestors at Tattershall, co. Lincoln. M.I. Will dat. 18 July and pr. 30 Nov. 1497. Inq. p.m. finding her heirs to be the descendants of her great aunts.

VII. 1452, to 1469. 7. JOAN, de jure(a) suo jure BARONESS WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, only da. and h. by first wife; b. about 1425, being aged 27 at her father's death in 1452 and then married as under.

SIR RICHARD DE WELLES, s. and h. ap. of Leo (DE WELLES), LORD WELLES, by his first wife, Joan, da. of Robert WATERTON, was b. about 1425, and having m. before 1452 the above-named Joan, was in her right sum. to Parl., in which he sat as early as 1454,(b) receiving, also, subsequently, writs of summons directed "Richardo de Welles, Domino Willoughby, Militi," from 26 May (1455) 33 Hen. VI., to 28 Feb. (1455/6) 8 Ed. IV., and thus becoming (v.p.) LORD WILLOUGHBY. His said wife d. before 1460. Esch. I Ed. IV. He, however, appears to have retained the style of Lord Willoughby during his life, and was (as afsd.) sum. to Parl., as such, for at least six years after his said wife's death. On the death of his father, 29 March 1461, he, in consequence of that nobleman's attainder, did not at once succeed him in his peerage as Lord Welles, but as early as 1464-65, he obtained restitution of his paternal estate, and, in 1468, a full restitution in blood and honours, acquiring thereby the additional title of LORD WELLES. He m. secondly (lic. 10 Aug. 1468,(c) to marry at her father's house at Harlesley), Margaret, widow of John INGLEBY, da. of Sir James STRANGWAYS. He was beheaded, near Stamford,(d) 12 March 1469, by order of Ed. IV., who had expected him to have restrained his son, then in rebellion against that King. All his honours were thus presumably forfeited, tho' it was not till 1475 that a formal Act of Attainder was past. His widow took the veil, 8 May 1475.(e)

SIR ROBERT DE WELLES, only s. and h., having survived, tho' but for a short time, his father (beheaded for high treason as afsd.), may possibly be considered to have become on his father's death, 12 March 1469, LORD WILLOUGHBY AND WELLES. He was, at that time, in command of the Lincolnshire insurgents, but was defeated and beheaded very shortly afterwards. He d. s.p., and was bur. at Doncaster. He was included with his father in the act of attainder of 1475. He m. Elizabeth, da. of John (BOURCHIER), LORD BERNERS. Her will directing her burial to be at Doncaster afsd., dat. 2 and pr. 8 Oct. 1470.

VIII. 1482, to 1505. 8 or 1. SIR RICHARD HASTINGS, br. to William, 1st LORD HASTINGS, being 2d son of Sir Leonard HASTINGS, by Alice, da. of Thomas (CAMOYS), LORD CAMOYS, was b. before 1450; made Knight Banneret (by Ed. IV.), 3 May 1461. He, having m. before 1470, Joan the childless widow of Richard PIGGOT, of London,(e) sister and heir of Sir Robert de Welles, being only da. of Richard (DE WELLES), LORD WELLES AND WILLOUGHBY, both abovenamed, obtained in that year a grant of the lands which his said wife would have inherited, had it not been for the attainder(e) of her said father and brother, and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron from 15 Nov. (1482), 22 Ed. IV. to 9 Dec. (1483), 1 Ric. III., by writs directed "Richardo Hastinges de Welles, Chl'r," becoming thus LORD WELLES. As such, he was at the coronation of Ric. III., 6 July 1483.(e)

(e) See notes on pages 78 and 79, sub "Welles."

He, appears, however, to have styled himself LORD WILLOUGHBY,[a] to which last Barony his wife, had it not been for the attainder, would have been equally entitled. He d. s.p.s.[b] Sep. 1503. Will dat. 18 March (18 Hen. VII.) 1502/3, pr. 1503. The will of his widow (the heiress of the Baronies of Welles and Willoughby), dat. 19 March 1504/5, was pr. 7 April 1505. Both were bur. at Greyfriars, London. M.I.

At his death the Barony of Welles, if it be considered (as it probably was), a creation de novo, originating in his writ of summons of 1482, became extinct, but the representation of the old Barony of Welles (1299), subject to the attainder of 1475 (which has never been repealed, unless the said writ of 1482 may be considered to have done so), fell into abeyance, between the four daughters of Leo, Lord Welles,[c] sisters of Richard, Lord Welles and Willoughby abovementioned. The right to the Barony of Willoughby was, it is presumed, vested in his widow, and at her death, in 1505, devolved on William Willoughby her heir, as hereafter mentioned.

CHRISTOPHER WILLOUGHBY, of Parham, co. Suffolk, Wichampton, co. Dorset, &c., styled himself LORD WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, probably either as being, since the death (1477) of his elder br., heir male (tho' not heir general) to that dignity, or as conceiving himself entitled thereto after the attainder of the actual possessor. He was next br. and h. of Sir Robert Willoughby, of Parham, &c. (who d. unm. and under age 24 March 1466/7), both being sons of Sir Robert Willoughby, of the same (who d. 30 May 1465), by Cicely, da. (whose issue became coheir) of Leo (WELLES), LORD WELLES, which Robert was, s. and h. of Sir Thomas Willoughby, next br. of the whole blood to Robert, Lord Willoughby de Eresby (d. s.p.m. 1452), both being sons of William, Lord Willoughby de Eresby (d. 1409) abovenamed.[d] He was b. about 1453, being aged 14 at the death of his br., in March 1466/7, and made proof of his age 1474. He was K.B., 5 July 1483, at the coron. of Ric. III. He m. Margaret, da of Sir William JENNEY, of Knottishall, co. Suffolk, one of the Judges of the Court of King's Bench (1477-83), by his first wife Elizabeth, da. of Thomas CAWSE. Will in which he directs his burial to be by the side of his father at Campsey, co. Suffolk, dat. 1 Nov. 1498, pr. 13 July 1499.

IX. 1505. 9. WILLIAM (WILLOUGHBY), LORD WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, 2d cousin and heir, s. and h. of Christopher Willoughby, styling himself Lord Willoughby de Eresby, and Margaret, his wife, both abovenamed. Having laid claim, 21 Nov. 1694, to the Barony of Broke, afterwards amended to that of Willoughby de Broke, as lineal heir to the person so sum. in 1491, the House of Lords decided, at first, against the claim(c) but, shortly afterwards resolved, 13 Feb. 1695/6, in his favour as to the latter title. He received his writ accordingly, as LORD WILLOUGHBY DE BROKE, taking his seat on the 28th as a Peer by descent, without ceremony, in the ancient seat or place of his ancestor, Sir Robert Willoughby, next above the Lord Eure.(d) He m. firstly, before 1658, Mary, 1st da. of Sir John PRETYMAN, 1st Bart. Verney, as to his being a Peer, and carried it, without dividing, that he is Lord Willoughly of Brook." He was a barrister of the Middle Temple and aged 28 in 1681, and it is said that it was chiefly thro' his advice that his father prosecuted the claim to the Peerage. WILLOUGHBY OF PARHAM.

Barony. I. 1547. 1. SIR WILLIAM WILLOUGHBY of Parham, co. Suffolk, was s. and h. of Sir Christopher WILLOUGHBY, of the same, by Elizabeth, da. (whose issue became eventually coheir) to Sir Gilbert TALBOYS, of Kyme, co. Lincoln, which Christopher was next br.([a]) to William, LORD WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, who inherited that Barony in 1505. He was b. about 1515; distinguished himself in the wars of Henry VIII, was knighted and was one of the batch of Peers([b]) made on the accession of Edward VI., being cr. 20 Feb. 1546/7, BARON WILLOUGHBY OF PARHAM, co. Suffolk. He was Lieut. Gov. of Calais 1550-53; was one of the 26 Peers([c]) who, in 1553, signed the letters patent of Ed. VI. whereby the Crown was settled on Lady Jane Grey. II. 1574. 2. CHARLES (WILLOUGHBY), BARON WILLOUGHBY OF PARHAM, only s. and h. by first wife; matric. as a pensioner of Mag. Coll. Cambridge, May 1551, being then under 14; suc. to the peerage in Aug. 1574. He m. Margaret, da. of Edward (CLINTON), 1st EARL OF LINCOLN, by his first wife Elizabeth (sometime mistress of Henry VIII.), DOW. BARONESS TALBOYS, da. of Sir John BLOUNT, of Kinlet, Salop. He d. in 1603.([d])

([a]) Thomas Willoughby, a yr. br. of the said William and Christopher, is ancestor of the Barons Middleton, who since 1779 are apparently the representatives, in the male line, of that illustrious family. See tabular ped. p. 145, note "a."

III. 1603. 3. WILLIAM (WILLOUGHBY), BARON WILLOUGHBY OF PARHAM, grandson and h., being s. and h. of the Hon. William WILLOUGHBY, of Cots, by Elizabeth, da. and h. of Sir Christopher HILDYARD, of Winestead in Holderness, which William was 1st s. and h. ap. of the late Baron, but d. v.p. in 1601 (c) He was b. 1584 and suc. to the peerage in 1603. He d. 28 Aug. 1617, and was bur. in Lincoln Cathedral. Will dat. 26 Aug. 1617, pr. 28 Nov. 1618. Inq. post mortem 14 Oct. 1617. His widow, who was b. (posthumous) at Winkbourne, Notts, 22 Oct. 1588, is said to have d. in 1643. He obtained from the Earl of Carlisle, in 1647, a lease for 21 years of the Caribbee islands and the post of Lieut.-Gen. thereof, he paying half profits to the Earl's creditors. He arrived at Barbados 29 April 1650 and proclaimed Charles II. for whom he held the Government till 1651, as he did subsequently from 1663. In the interval he endeavoured to take Lynn in 1659 for the King, but was taken prisoner in his own house. He m. before 1634, Elizabeth,(f) 2d da. and coheir of Edward (CECIL), VISCOUNT WIMBLEDON, by his first wife, Theodosia, da. of Sir Andrew NOEL of Dalby, co. Leicester. (a) Her issue became, in 1687, coheirs of the ancient Barony of de Ros, which was allowed in 1806 to her descendant. See tabular pedigree in vol. vi, p. 406, note "b," sub "Ros."

(b) She had, shortly before that date, proved, 14 July 1641, the will of one of her daughters, Elizabeth Willoughby, who directs her burial to be at Hambleden, or elsewhere, as her mother "Lady Frances Willoughby" shall direct.

(c) The existence of this Henry is ignored by Vincent, Dugdale and Segar and all the older writers. He is not mentioned nominatim in his Father's will, where either he, or his brother Francis may be indicated by the term of "my eldest son." He is, however, mentioned in his father's inq. post mortem as his heir, which, unless we suppose "Henry" to be an error for "Francis" (which is not the view taken by Nicolas or Courthope) proves his then existence.

(d) See vol. i, p. 299, note "d" sub. "Bedford." In the list there given he is called "Col. William Willoughby, Lord Willoughby of Parham, but apparently this Francis (not his br. William, who was not then a Peer) is meant.

(e) See vol. vii, p. 414, note "e" sub "Townshend" as to his having been brought over to the King's party by Sir Horatio (afterwards Viscount) Townshend.

(f) The Diary of Lady Willoughby, 1635-63, an interesting though fictitious and not altogether accurate work (2 parts 1845-48), purports to be written by her.

(g) The representation of a moiety of the Barony of Ros devolved in 1679 on the descendants of his daughters. See note "a" above.

of Carlton by Leeds, co. York. She, who was bap. 20 June 1615, at St. Olave's, Silver street, London. was bur. 12 Jan. 1671, at Aldenham, Herts. M.I. He d. at Barbados, 10 April 1673, and was bur. at Knaith, co. Lincoln. Will dat. 18 May, 1672, pr. 27 Nov. 1673.

VII. 1672. 7. GEORGE (WILLOUGHBY), BARON WILLOUGHBY OF PARHAM, 1st s. and h., b. 18 March 1638 at Belvoir Castle, co. Lincoln,[a] his birth being reg. at Hunsdon, Herts. He m. 9 Oct. 1666, Elizabeth, 1st da. and coheir of Henry CLINTON, otherwise FIENNES, of Kirkstead, co. Lincoln, by Jane, da. of Abraham MARKHAM. He d. at Knaith 1674 and was bur. there. His widow, who was b. 12 Jan. 1650 was (apparently) bur. at Knaith, 24 Dec. 1679.[b]

VIII. 1674. 8. JOHN (WILLOUGHBY), BARON WILLOUGHBY OF PARHAM, only s. and h.; b. 16 and bap. 28 July 1669, at Knaith, his birth (like that of his father) being registered at Hunsdon afsd.; suc. to the peerage in 1674. He d. early in 1677/8, at Winchester, aged 9 years, and was bur. at Stanwell, Midx.[c] Admon. 15 Feb. 1677/8.

IX 1678. 9. JOHN (WILLOUGHBY), BARON WILLOUGHBY OF PARHAM, uncle and h. male, being 6th s. of the 6th Baron. He was b. 29 Dec. 1643 at Stansteadbury, Herts,[a] his birth being registered at Hunsdon afsd. He suc. to the peerage in 1677/8. He m. Anne BOLTERTON, a native of Bermuda. He d. s.p. at Stanwell, Sep. 1678. Will dat. at Barbados 10 June 1678, directing his burial to be at Knaith, pub., at Stanwell, 28 Sep. and proved 7 and 19 Nov. following by Anne the widow. She, possibly, was "the Lady Willoughby, who died lately," mentioned in Luttrell's Diary, of 20 Sep. 1689.

X. 1678, to 1679. 10. CHARLES (WILLOUGHBY), BARON WILLOUGHBY OF PARHAM, br. and h. male, being 8th and yst. s. of the 6th Baron. He was b. 6 Oct. 1650 at Stansteadbury, Herts,[a] his birth being registered at Hunsdon afsd. He suc. to the peerage, Sep. 1678. He m. Mary, 2d da. of Sir Beaumont DIXIE, 2d Bart., of Bosworth, co. Leicester, by Mary, sister and h. of Sir William WILLOUGHBY, Bart., of Selston, Notts. He d. s.p. at Knaith afsd. 9 Dec., and was bur. there on Christmas eve, 1679. Nunc. will 3 Dec. 1679, pr. 6 Jan. 1679/80. His widow, who was b. 16 March 1660, m. the Hon. George COKAYNE,[d] who d. s.p. 12 July 1722, aged 56, at Northampton and was bur. at Rushton, co. Northampton. M.I. She, who was living 1711, d. before him, probably before 1716.

After this date the issue male of William, the first son of the second Baron, became extinct, and the Barony should have devolved on that of the second son Ambrose. That issue, however, was supposed to have been also extinct, and the Barony was (wrongfully) allowed, as below, to the descendant of Thomas, the fifth and youngest son of the said second Baron.

XI. 1680. 1. THOMAS WILLOUGHBY, of Shaw place in Horwich, co. Lancaster, s. and h. of the Hon. Sir Thomas WILLOUGHBY, of Newton-by-Trent, by Mary, da. of John THORNEY, of Fenton, Notts, which Thomas last named was 5th and yst. s. of Charles, the second Baron, was b. about 1602. On the death of his distant cousin, the late Baron, in 1679, he, without any proceedings in Parl., was, on the evidence submitted to the L. Chancellor, adjudged (wrongly) to be the heir male of the grantee, and consequently, received a writ directed "Thomæ Willoughby de Parham, Chl'r," taking his seat in Parl., "upon descent," 21 Oct. (1680) 32 Car. II.,

(a) Date and place of birth of each of the 14 children of his parents are entered in the registers of Hunsdon, Herts, where, in July 1656, the yst. child (Mary) was actually born and bap. being, apparently, the only one born there.

(b) It is presumed that she was "the Lady Willoughby" buried there at that date.

(c) Elizabeth, his only surv. sister, inherited, in 1679, after the death of her uncles, all the estates of this branch of the family, including that of Stanwell, which came thro' her grandmother, Anne Carey. She m. the Hon. James Bertie, and was mother Willoughby (Bertie), 3d Earl of Abingdon, ancestor of the succeeding Earls.

(d) His brother Charles (Cokayne), 3d Viscount Cullen [I.], had m. Katharine Willoughby, sister of this lady's husband, both being children of the 6th Baron.

(b) The coheirs would be his two sisters, (1) Helena, wife of Baxter Roscoe, of Anglezark in Bolton, co. Lancaster, and (2) Elizabeth, widow of John Shaw, of Shaw place in Heath Charnock, co. Lanc. Her issue is set out at length by W. D. Pink, (see p. 157, note "a,") while that of the former lady is recorded in the Coll. of Arms.

(c) According to the decision of the House of Lords, 20 March 1767, when that Barony was allowed to Henry Willoughby, son of Henry, and grandson of another Henry Willoughby, both of which last named Henrys would, when alive, have been equally entitled (as is stated in the text) to that dignity.

(d) His admon. as "of Gateburton, co. Lincoln," dat. 20 Dec. 1619 and granted to a creditor, is in the Archdeaconry court of Stowe.

(e) In this decision it was admitted that the preceding Lords, in and after 1780, had "sat contrary to the right and truth of the case."

(f) Three sons, Henry, Henry and Ambrose, and one da., Susan, d. in infancy, but the rem. da., Elizabeth, b. 23 Oct. 1726, m. firstly, John Halsey and secondly, Edward Argles, but d. s.p. and v.p. May 1763, being bur. in Bunhill fields.

XIV. (bis). 1775, to 1779. 14. GEORGE (WILLOUGHBY), BARON WILLOUGHBY OF PARHAM, nephew and h. male, being only s. and h. of Fortune WILLOUGHBY, by Hannah(a) formerly wife of Cook TOLLET, of Swanscombe, co. Kent, da. of Thomas BARROW, of Deptford, which Fortune (who was bur. 20 June 1750 at Bunhill fields) was yst. br. of the late Lord.(b) He who was b. 24 April and bap. 19 May 1742 at St. George's in the East, was ed. at Warrington "academy," and was a Pensioner at Queen's Coll., Cambridge, about May 1770. He suc. to the Peerage 29 June 1775, and was, on 16 May 1776, the sole surv. issue of his paternal grandfather. He d. s.p. 29 Oct. 1779 when the Barony, as cr. by patent, 20 Feb. 1546/7, became extinct. Will pr. Nov. 1779.

WILMINGTON.

Barony.
I. 1728.
Earldom.
I. 1730, to 1743.

1. THE RT. HON. SIR SPENCER COMPTON, K.B., was cr. 8 Jan. 1728, BARON WILMINGTON, co. Sussex, and shortly afterwards, being then L. Privy Seal, was cr., 14 May 1730, VISCOUNT PEVENSEY and EARL OF WILMINGTON, both co. Sussex. He was 2d surv. s. of James (COMPTON), 3d EARL OF NORTHAMPTON, by his second wife, Mary, da. of Baptist (NOEL), 3d VISCOUNT CAMPDEN; was b. about 1674; matric. at Oxford (Trin. Coll.), 28 Feb. 1689/90, aged 15; Barrister (Mid. Temple), 1686(c); M.P. for Eye (in the Whig interest) in seven Parls., 1698—1710; for East Grinstead, 1713-15, and for Sussex, 1715-28; Chairman of the Committee for privileges, 1705-10; Treasurer to the Queen's Consort, Prince George of Denmark, 1707-08; Speaker of the House of Commons, 1715-27; P.C., 1716; Paymaster Gen. (a highly lucrative office), 1722-30; K.B., 27 May 1725, on the revival of that Order. On the accession of Geo. II., with whom he was in great favour, he was designed by him to be Prime Minister, a position which, however, was retained by Walpole, he, however, being raised to the peerage and cr. 8 Jan. 1728, Baron Wilmington as afsd.; L. Keeper of the Privy Seal, May to Dec. 1730, and was cr. 14 May 1730, Viscount Pevensey and Earl of Wilmington, as afsd.; cr. D.C.L. of Oxford, 5 Dec. 1730; L. President of the Council, 1730-42: was el. K.G., 12 June and inst. 22 Aug. 1733, having previously resigned the Order of the Bath. After the death of Caroline, the Queen Consort, he appears to have opposed the measures of Walpole, whom, eventually, he supplanted, becoming, during the last year of his life, First Lord of the Treasury (Prime Minister), 11 Feb. 1742. He d. unm. 2 July 1743, aged about 70, and was bur. at Compton Wynyates, co. Warwick, when all his honours became extinct.(d)

(a) This Hannah, who m. Fortune Willoughby, 7 Feb. 1746, at St. Catharine by the Tower of London, long survived her son, dying about Oct. 1796.

(b) Three intermediate brothers were (1) William, who m. in 1723, Elizabeth (—) and d. 27 Dec. 1729, leaving by her (who d. 1756) an only surv. child William, who m. Mary, widow of Richard Bray, but d. s.p. 19 Sep. 1755, being bur. at Bunhill fields; (2) Joseph who m. Anne de Graves, of St. Catharine by the Tower of London, but d. s.p. before June 1775 and was bur. at Bunhill fields; (3) Edward who d. s.p. before June 1775.

(c) He was Counsel for Dr. Bentley at his trial before the Bishop of Ely.

(d) "A man of the most moderate intelligence," writes Lecky. "The most formal solemn man in the world, but a great lover of private debauchery," says Walpole [Geo. II.]. "His assiduity in business and punctuality in accounts rendered him respectable in the opinions of Geo. II., who . . . esteemed it one of the most essential requisites in a Minister." [Coxe's Walpole]. The best description, however, of him is in the New Ode to a Great Number of Great Men, by the witty Sir C. Hanbury Williams:—

"See yon old dull important Lord,
Who at the long'd-for money board
Sits first; but does not lead.
His younger brethren all things make;
So that the Treasury's like a snake,
And the tail moves the head."

For "with the Duke of Newcastle and Carteret as Secretaries of State and Pulteney (without office) in the Cabinet, Wilmington was Prime Minister in name only." [Nat. Biogr.]

WILMOT OF ADDERBURY, and WILMOT OF ATHLONE.

Viscountcy [I.]
I. 1621.

1. "CHARLES WILMOTT, Knt., President of the province of Connaught and a Privy Councillor in Ireland,"(a) was cr. 4 Jan 1620/1, VISCOUNT WILMOT OF ATHLONE [I.]

He was s. of Edward WILMOTT, of Witney, Oxon, formerly of Derwent, co. Gloucester. He served in Ireland, where he is said to have first gone as a Page; was knighted in Dublin, 5 Aug. 1599, by the Viceroy Essex; obtained a grant, in 1614, of the abbey of Carrickfergus, co. Antrim, and subsequently of the monastery of Baltinglass, co. Wicklow, and of extensive estates elsewhere in Ireland; was P.C. [I.] and L. President of Connaught, and was cr. a Viscount [I.], 4 Jan. 1620/1, as above mentioned. He m. firstly, in or shortly after 1605, Sarah, 4th da. of Sir Henry ANDERSON, sometime [1601—1602] Sheriff of London, by Elizabeth, da. of Francis BOWYER, Cit. and Grocer of London. Her burial on 8 Dec. 1615, is registered both at St. Olave's, Jewry, London, and at St. Martin's in the fields. He m. secondly, between 9 Nov. 1627 and 28 April 1630,(b) Mary, widow of Garrett (MOORE), 1st VISCOUNT MOORE OF DROGHEDA [I.], da. of Sir Henry COLLEY, of Castle Carbery, co. Kildare, by Catherine, da. of Sir Thomas CUSACK, L. Chancellor [I.]. He was living 29 June 1643 (the date of his son's creation as a Baron), but d. not long afterwards, before 7 Jan. 1644/5(c). Will dat. 12 May 1643, pr. 2 June 1654(d) [sic]. His widow, by whom he had no issue, d. 3 June(e) and was bur. 3 July 1654, with her first husband, at Drogheda.

Barony [E.]

Viscountcy [I.]
II. 1644?

1 and 2. HENRY (WILMOT), VISCOUNT WILMOT OF ATHLONE [I.], and, also, BARON WILMOT OF ADDERBURY, 3d but 1st surv. s. and h., by first wife, probably b. 2 Nov. 1612; was cr. v.p., as "Henry Willmott," 29 June 1643, BARON WILMOT OF ADDERBURY, co. Oxford; suc. to the Irish peerage, as above, between 1643 and 1645, and was cr. 13 Dec. 1652, EARL OF ROCHESTER; see that dignity, which, with the above named peerages, became extinct 12 Nov. 1681.

(b) Among the sponsors for Dorothy Annesley, da. of the 1st Viscount Valentia [I.], 28 April 1630, was Mary, Viscountess Wilmot. No mention (oddly enough) is made of her in her husband's will of 12 May 1643.

(c) On that date (7 Jan. 1644/5) the Committee of Sequestration report that Anne [i.e., Anne St. John, 2d wife of the 2d Viscount] Viscountess Wilmot, may enjoy her jointure to her own use only and not to the use of her husband.

(d) His character is thus given in the will of Sir Arthur Willmott, Bart., of Weld, co. Southon, dat. 23 Feb. and pr. 16 March 1628/9, who therein gives God "most humble thanks that hath blest our name and family with so noble a person as my Honble. nephew, Charles, Lord Viscount Willmott, whose virtues hath [sic] added honour to our house."

(a) He took little part in politics, being a thorough sportsman, tho' more known in the hunting field than on the race course; was an owner of various yachts, Commodore of the Royal Yacht Squadron, and the author of a work entitled "Sports and Pursuits of the English." He was also a musical amateur, an organist and a composer of psalm tunes, of which one is the well known "Prestwick." He is thus described by Charles Sheridan :—

"Next upon swish-tailed bay, with wandering eye,
Attenuated Wilton canters by;
His character how difficult to know,
A compound of Psalm-tunes and Tally-ho;
A forward Rider, half inclined to preach,
Though less disposed to practise than to teach;
An amorous Lover, with a Saint-ly twist,
And now a Jockey, now an Organist."

One of "H. B.'s" clever sketches gives a good likeness of him on horseback in Hyde Park.

Earldom.

I. 1397, to 1399.

1. WILLIAM LE SCROPE, 1st s. and h. ap.(a) of Richard (LE SCROPE), 1st LORD SCROPE DE BOLTON (so sum. 1371), by Blanche, da. of Sir William DE LA POLE, was b. before 1360, probably about 1350; was knighted before 1378; Seneschal of the Duchy of Aquitaine, 1383-92; Captain of the Castle &c. of Cherbourg, 1386-89; Captain of the Castle &c. of Brest, 1389, besides being Constable of the Castles of Bamborough, Queenborough, Marlborough, Beaumaris, Dublin, &c. He became Lord of the Isle of Man, 1393,(b) by purchase from William (de Montacute), Earl of Salisbury; Vice Chamberlain of the Household, 1393; was K.G. soon after July 1394; P.C., Chamberlain of the Household and joint Ambassador to France to arrange the King's marriage with the Princess Isabel, all in 1395; took a prominent part on behalf of the King, against the Duke of Gloucester and others in 1397,(c) for which (as a reward) he was cr. 29 Sep. 1397, EARL OF WILTES, i.e., WILTSHIRE,(d) with limitation "sibi et heredibus suis masculis in perpetuum,"(e) receiving considerable grants of estates forfeited by that Duke's adherents. He was Chief Justice of Chester and North Wales, 1398, and was L. Treasurer of England, 1398-99. He m. Isabel, widow of John DE DRAYTON, da. and eventually coheir of Sir Maurice RUSSELL, of Derham, co. Glouc., by his first wife Isabel, da. of Sir Edmund CHELREY. On the landing of Henry, afterwards Henry IV., at Ravenspur, he fled to Bristol, which surrendered to that Prince, 29 July 1399, by whose order he was next day beheaded.(f) He d. s.p. 30 July 1399, as afsd., when the Earldom, if considered (as it probably was) one in tail male, became extinct, but in any case, by the Earl's attainder declared in Parl. a few months later, it became

(a) In "Courthope" [1857] his parentage is misstated, he being described as "br. of Stephen, 2d Baron Scrope of Masham," that statement having been copied from "Nicolas" [1825], tho' totally disproved, not long afterwards [1832], by Sir H. Nicolas himself, in his edit. of the Scrope and Grosvenor Roll, as also [1841] by Beltz in his Knights of the Garter.

(b) In right thereof he appears to have used the arms of the Isle of Man (Gu., 3 legs in armour conjoined in the fess point) quarterly with his paternal coat (azure a bend, or) of Scrope.

(c) For this conduct Walsingham says of him that "a man more wicked and cruel could not easily be found amongst the whole human race."

(d) "The title of Earl of Salisbury, which is the principal town of that county, being at that time in William de Montacute," observes Dugdale, implying, apparently, that had it not been so, the Earl of a county would naturally have selected the capital town thereof for his title of dignity.

(e) See observations as to patents similarly worded in vol. iii, p. 107, note "c," sub "Devon."

(f) Sir John Bussy and Sir Henry Grene shared the like fate. The Earl had made himself particularly obnoxious to Henry IV., as the adviser of the repeal of the patent securing to him the possessions of the Duchy of Lancaster during his exile.

forfeited.[a] His widow, to whom a pension of £100 was granted, 27 Jan. 1399/400, m. Thomas DE LA RIVIERE, who d. (1405-06) 7 Hen. IV. She m. fourthly (as one of his three wives), Sir Stephen HAYTFELD, Sheriff of co. Gloucester 1423 and 1430, who d. 1465; she herself d. 1 May 1487.

(a) "The Earl's attainder was declared in Parl. shortly after the accession of Hen. IV., and, when the act was introduced for that object, his aged father [Richard, Lord Scrope de Bolton] raised his feeble voice to acknowledge submissively the justice of the sentence (Rot. Parl. vol. iii, p. 453b)" [Beltz's Knights of the Garter] It was not till more than 4½ centuries [!] later that a claim was made, 1859-69, to this Earldom, by Mr. Scrope, of Danby, co. York; (undoubtedly the heir male collateral), on the ground that the words "de corpore suo" were not (expressly) set forth in the patent. It was, however, decided against him, notwithstanding a preposterous decision, in 1831, in favour of such collateral heirs in the case of the Earldom of Devon. These conflicting decisons, in 1831 (as to the Earldom of Devon) and in 1869 (as to the Earldom of Wiltshire), are the cause of a suggestion in an article in the Edinburgh Review for Oct. 1890 (on the "New Series of State Trials," from 1820 downwards), as to whether, in regard to the House of Lords, "there ought not to be some finality in the decisions of the committee for privileges," and it is pointed out how that, as a rule, that committee is "concerned simply with questions of descent and not with points of law." In the case of the claims of the Earldoms of Devon and Wiltshire, the purely legal point was argued as to whether the Crown had power to grant a peerage to heirs male general for ever. In the former the decision (in 1831), guided by the enthusiastic (but utterly Law-less) Lord Chancellor Brougham, and supported by Lord Wynford ("superficial in legal knowledge," and "nicknamed the judge-advocate," see Foss's Judges), was in favour of such power; while in the latter (in 1869) by a diametrically opposed decision, Lords Chelmsford, Colonsay, and Redesdale held that such power was not within the power of the Crown. It was, moreover, some 6 and 7 years later, laid down by Lord Chancellor Cairns (in the claim to the Barony of Buckhurst) that "a Peerage, partaking [as it does] of the qualities of real estate, must be made, in its limitations by the Crown, descendible in a course known to the law"—which would be fatal to the interpretation of such a limitation as "hæredibus suis masculis in perpetuum," other than by (the generally received one) heirs male of the body in perpetuity.

There are, however, many other incidental points raised by these incongruous decisions. The old doctrine (probably the true one) was that when a peerage had once fallen into abeyance it vested in the Crown, in whose power it thenceforth was to withhold it from any coheir and even (after the extinction of all coheirs) from the (sole) heir. This doctrine (being that which was the opinion of the judges, in 1625, with respect to the Baronies, lately held with the Earldom of Oxford) was acted upon in 1694, when, in the first instance, the committee resolved against the claim of Sir Richard Verney to the Barony of Willougby de Broke. Soon afterwards, however, "several Peers, as the Earls of Lindsey, Thanet, Sussex, and Abingdon, the Lord Delawarre, &c., had Baronies by writ in them (some whereof had at that time only daughters), who looking upon themselves as concerned from what was mentioned in the committee in relation to the descent of Baronies by writ" [see Cruise's Dignities] came to a resolution, diametrically opposed to the above, viz., that such heir "has a right to demand a summons to Parl," and, as a logical consequence, that Verney was entitled to the said Barony. Another such reversal of opinion was when the House, in 1711, without any reference from the Crown, resolved, in their wisdom, that by the Union with Scotland the Crown had been deprived of the right of conferring a peerage of Parl. on a Peer of Scotland, an opinion which they also acted upon, after a reference from the Crown, in 1719, but these two (absurdly ultra vires) resolutions were rescinded in 1782, and the claim of the great grandson of the peer who had been refused admission to the House on the above grounds, in 1711, was acknowledged. It must also be remembered (as stated by Lord Chelmsford in the Wiltes Peerage Claim) that "the resolutions of the committee were merely for the information and advice of the Crown," and "could not be regarded as final judgments, which, when once pronounced, must not be departed from."

In Her. and Gen., vol. vi, pp. 178-191, the Wiltes peerage claim is well discussed by the well known J. G. Nichols, and the following are the remarks as to how the proceedings in the Parl. of Hen. IV., in which William Le Scrope was treated as a Commoner throughout, affected that Earldom. "The dignity was evidently

(a) In the Paston letters (iii, p. 404) the gorgeous apparel in 1506 of "my Lord Harry of Stafforth" and of his "courser" is mentioned.

(b) This is the date given in "Doyle." In "Creations, 1483-1646" (ap 47th Rep. D.K. Pub. Records) the date of the creation of "Henry Stafford, Knt.," as Earl of Wiltshire is given as "1509 or 1510, month not mentioned." It is added that "This dignity was conferred with assent of Parl.; Patent Roll (No. 610) 1 Hen. VIII., p. 17, m. 2. (27). A marginal note states that this enrolment was vacated because the creation had been enrolled on the Charter roll. It has not been found on the Charter roll., temp. Hen. VIII."

(c) See vol. vi, p. 144, note "c," sub "Ormond" for the explanation of these different remainders, the creation as to the Irish Earldom of Ormond being there considered as equivalent to the termination of the abeyance thereof.

(d) Creations, 1483-1646 in ap. 47th Rep. D.K. Pub. Records.

(e) Banks (Bar. Angl. vol. i, p. 377) says, sub "Poynings," that when the Marquessate of Winchester was created the Earldom of Wiltshire was resigned and the patent cancelled, adding that this was "a proceeding not then uncommon, as in the case of Pembroke, temp. Ed. IV; and, it seems, the vacancy was so looked upon by Queen Eliz., who, according to Naunton, is said to have offered the Earldom [of Wiltshire] to her cousin, the Lord Hunsdon." See p. 172, note "a."

of 4,000 English at the siege of Juliers, and in 1613 was Treasurer to the Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Elector Palatine during their journey to Germany. In 1625, by favour of the Duke of Buckingham (the "Generalissimo"), he was appointed (as his deputy) Lieut. Gen. of the Fleet and Army, and Admiral to the Admiral of England for the costly expedition to Cadiz against Spain, and, as such, set sail 8 Oct. 1625, but "incapable of any resolution, tho' Cadiz was without defence," it was "to the gross incapacity which he displayed under circumstances of no peculiar difficulty" that "the Spaniards owed it that every ship in the harbour was not taken or burnt, that Cadiz was not sacked and that the treasure-ships were not captured."(a) He was, however, cr. 9 Nov. 1625(b) BARON CECIL OF PUTNEY and VISCOUNT WIMBLEDON of Wimbledon,(c) co. Surrey, his elevation to the peerage having been announced before the fleet set sail from England. In 1626 he was member to the permanent Council of War and joint L.-Lieut. of Surrey; in 1627 was in command at the siege of Groll, and in 1629 was at Bois-le-Duc, being, in all, some 35 years in the wars in the Netherlands; Gov. of Portsmouth, 1630-38. Roscommon, Muster-master-general [I.], who d. at Cecil House in the Strand, between 13 April and 18 June 1657. She d., 16, and was bur. 19 Nov. 1691, at Ketton, co. (a) Nat. Biogr.

(b) "Creations, 1483—1646," in ap. 47th Rep. D.K. Pub. records. The titles were conferred together, the statement in the Nat. Biogr. that the Barony was on 9 Nov. 1625 and the Viscountcy not till 25 July 1626 being erroneous.

(c) He writes thus to Sir John Coke, 8 Nov. 1625, as to the proposed title, "I am to make an humble suit to your Honour that, in regard his Majesty by my Lord Duke's means was pleased to give me the choice of what place I desired my Viscountship, which at first I did choose of Wimbledon, that now I may have it to be Lord Cecyll, Viscount Latymer, because it was the ancient title of my grandfather by my mother's side."

(d) Chamberlain writes of her in 1616, that "since the death of her brother she had become a good marriage, worth £10,000 or £12,000."

(e) Pory writes to Sir J. Puckering, 12 May 1631, that "on Thursday last the Lady Viscountess Wimbledon's corpse was carried over the bridge of London with a train of twenty caroches drawn with six horses apiece, and many more with four, and with torches sans nombre."

(f) Of this marriage John Finet writes, 16 Oct. 1635, "My Lord of Wimbledon (of whose valor, I think, no man ever doubted in his youth) hath now in his age also shewed himself no less valiant and venturous, having lately marryed the young daughter (of 17 years old) of Sir Edward Zouche, deceased."

(g) Of his children, Algernon, his only son (by the 3d wife), d. young, as also did a da., Anne, by the second wife. His 4 surviving daughters and coheirs, all by the first wife, were (1) Dorothy, living unm. Nov. 1638; (2) Albinia, m., before Nov. 1638, Sir Christopher Wray, of Ashby, co. Lincoln, and was bur. as his widow, 30 Jan. 1659/60 at Giles in the fields; (3) Elizabeth, m. Francis (Willoughby), Baron Willoughby of Parham, being the "Lady Willoughby" of the book entitled Lady Willoughby's Diary; [see p. 155, note "f," sub "Willoughby"] (4) Frances, m. James (Fiennes), 4th Viscount Saye and Sele.

(h) His portrait "after S. de Passe, 1618," is engraved in "Doyle."

WINCHENDON.

i.e., "Winchendon, co. Bucks," Viscountcy (Wharton), cr. 1706, with the EARLDOM OF WHARTON; see "WHARTON," Marquessate, cr. 1715; all becoming ex., with the Dukedom of Wharton, 1731.

WINCHESTER.

[This Earldom was, in the earlier centuries, evidently considered equivalent to the Earldom of the county of Southampton, just as Shrewsbury, Salisbury, &c., were to the counties of Salop, Wilts, &c. It was not till 1537 that an Earldom of Southampton as distinct from Winchester was conferred.]

Earldom. I. 1207. 1. SEYER DE QUINCI(c) s. of Robert DE QUINCI (probably br. of Seyer DE QUINCI, of Buckby, co. Northampton) by Orabilis, apparently widow of an early EARL OF MAR [S.], da. of one NESS, of Leuchars, co. Fife(d), was b. about 1155, being, tho' then young, one of the knights who, in 1173, adhered to King Henry the younger, in his rebellion against his father(e) and was a witness in 1174 to the treaty between them; was Castellar of Nonancourt in Normandy, 1180-84; was one of the escort of William, King of Scotland, to Lincoln and a witness of his homage there to King John in Nov. 1200. Having m., between 1168 and 1173, Margaret, 2d and yst. da. of Robert (DE BEAUMONT), EARL OF LEICESTER, by Petronilla, da. and probably sole heir of Hugh

(a) She, who was b. 19 May 1812, m. secondly 20 April 1855, Charles Schreiber (who d. 31 March 1884), and was well known (as "Lady Charlotte Schreiber") both as an authoress and as a collector of curiosities. She d., 15 Jan. 1895, aged 82.

(b) The greater being described as of the less, as in the absurd instances of "Leicester of Holkham," "Truro of Bowes," &c.

(c) From "Cuinchy, between Béthune and la Bassée, on the frontier of Artois and Flanders. This can be shewn with some degree of probability." [G. W. Watson's "Ancient Earls of Leicester" in The Genealogist, N.S., Vol. x, pp. 1-16.]

(d) Ness and his da. Orabilis, bestow the church of Leuchars on the convent of St. Andrew's "about 1180." She, "before 1199," being then designed "Comitissa de Mar" attests the same, which was confirmed by her son, Saher de Quincy, before 1207, his father, Robert de Quincy, being a witness. See the Genealogist, N.S., Vol. iv., p. 179, note 1, to Burnett's Early Earls of Mar, but it may be noted that as Morgund, Earl of Mar, was living 1178 it could not be his widow (as there conjectured) that was mother of Saher, who was a young Knight as early as 1172.

He was hanged by the forces of the Queen Consort, Isabella, 27 Oct. 1326, outside the city of Bristol, aged 64, and, having been convicted of high treason by Parl., all his honours became forfeited. See fuller particulars under "DESPENCER" Barony, 1295 to 1326.

Gen. of Holland, Zealand and Friesland, 1463 to 1477, in which capacity he received Edward IV., when a fugitive at Alckmaer, 9 Oct. 1470, and entertaining him magnificently at Bruges till 19 Feb. 1471. By that King, he, not long afterwards, being on an embassy to England, was cr. 13 Oct. 1472, EARL OF WINCHESTER, "with an annuity of £200 per annum [viz., £20] out of the county of Southampton, besides a grant [of £180] out of the customs payable at the port of Southampton."(d) In the next month he received a grant of Arms.(e) He was a commissr. from England, March 1473, to treat with the Hansetowns; was deprived of the Governorship of Holland, &c., in consequence of a law, 28 Jan. 1476/7, excluding aliens from office; was Chamberlain to the Duchess Mary of Burgundy in 1478; was an opponent of the Archduke Maximilian and was consequently imprisoned in Jan. 1485, but his property, which had been forfeited, was restored by the treaty of 10 May 1488. (b) For the information respecting this Earl and his son, the Editor is indebted to G. W. Watson's Two Earls of Winchester. [Genealogist, N.S., vol. xiv.] For some account of Lewis de Bruges see an article by Sir F. Madden, in the Archæologia, xxvi, p. 270.

(c) He paternally belonged to the ancient family of Van der Aa, of Brabant, but the wife of his great-great-grandfather, Gerard d'Aa, was Anne (or Catherine), da. and h. of Guildolf, Sire de la Gruthuyse de Bruges, living 1292.

(d) "Courthope," where is added "but without a seat in Parl." There is, however, nothing in the Charter itself (save the omission of words expressly conferring such seat), to warrant such a statement (which is not to be found in "Dugdale," or in "Vincent on Brooke"), neither was the peerage one for life [as seems to be implied in "Courthope," p. lviii], but to heirs male of the body. Copies of this charter are in Watson's and Madden's articles as in note "b" above.

(e) These were Azure, 10 mascles, 4, 3, 2 and 1, or; on a canton ("de nostre propre armes d'Engleterre"), gu., a leopard passant, guardant, of the second. The mascles were probably in allusion to the coat of de Quincy, the former Earls of Winchester, which (tho' the field was gu., a tincture which could not have been followed in this case, where the canton was of the same colour) consisted also of mascles, tho' generally but of 7, viz., 3, 3 and 1. These arms, however, he appears to have never used, and they were not on his tomb (destroyed 1797), those thereon being "or, a cross, sa," for Gruthuyse de Bruges, quartering "Gules, a saltire, argent," for Van der Aa.

(f) Not "24 Nov." as reproduced in Madden's article (see note "b" above) from a misprint in the work of Van Praet. This Earl is said to have been a munificent patron of art and literature.

27 Nov. 1492, at Notre Dame in that city. M.I. His widow d. 29 Aug. 1510, and was bur. with him. M.I.

(e) Camden, however, says he was 97 at his death, which would place his birth, 1474-75. "He was descended from a younger house of the Pawlets in Hinton St. George, in Somersetshire, as by the Crescent in his arms is acknowledged. This Lord had the rare happiness of εὐθανασία, setting in his full splendour, having lived 97 years, and seen 103 out of his body. He died A.D. 1572." In the "Her. and Gen." viii, 279 it is stated that "it was once said by Sir R. Baker in his chronicle and by his copyists that Sir William Powlet, the 1st Marquess of Winchester had lived for more than 106 years and 3 quarters, but his age is more correctly stated at 97 by Camden, and by Fuller in his Worthies."

He was in command against the rebels in the "Pilgrimage of Grace," Sep. 1536; Treasurer of the Household, 1537-39, being, as "William Poulet, Knt."(a) cr. 9 March 1538/9, BARON SEINT JOHN(b) i.e., SAINT JOHN. He was Master of the Court of Wards and Liveries, 1540-54; Keeper of the Royal woods, 1541; P.C. to Hen. VIII. (1542), Ed. VI. (1547), Mary (1553), and Elizabeth (1558-76); el. He (with his eldest son) was one of those who signed, 16 June 1553, the settlement of the Crown on Lady Jane Grey,(e) to whom, on 12 July, he delivered the Crown jewels, but whom on the 19th he deserted, taking an active part in the proclamation of Queen Mary. By that Queen (as well as by her successor) he was confirmed in his office, bearing the orb at her coronation, 1 Oct. 1553. He was L. PRIVY SEAL, 26 March 1556; Lieut. of the order of the Garter, 1556 and 1558.

(a) "Creations, 1483—1646," in ap 47th Rep D.K. Pub. Records.

(b) Tho' this is the spelling in the patent, the writs both to him and his son were directed "Domino St. John," i.e. Saint John. "It is generally considered that he was created Baron of St. John of Basing, but Mr. Hargrave observes in a M.S. note to his copy of Edmondson's Peerage now in the British Museum: 'I have a copy of the Patent before me, and it runs to heirs male of Sir Wm. P.'s body, and the title conferred upon him was Seint John, and not St. John of Basing.—F. H.'" [Courthope]. The writ of summons, however, in 31 Hen. VIII. was (according to Dugdale's "Lists") directed "Willielmo Paulet de St. John (de Basing) chl'r" and that in 38 Hen. VII. and in 3 Ed. VI. to him as "domino St. John de Basing;" that to John, his son, in 1554, as "Johanni Paulet, domino St. John, Chl'r;" that to William, the son of the said John, in 1572, as "Willielmo Paulet, domino St. John, Chl'r;" that to William, son of the last named William, in 1580, as "Willielmo Paulet, domino St. John (de Basing);" and that to John, son of the last named William, in 1624, as "Johanni St John (de Basing), Chl'r;" so that in some cases the words "de Basing" are omitted and in others inserted, tho' in most of the insertions they are put within brackets, tho,' probably, only by Dugdale himself. The title was chosen inasmuch as the grantee was grandson and heir of John Paulet, or Poulet, of Basing (d. 1470) who was s. and h. of Sir John P., Sheriff of Wilts (1429), by Constance, da. of Sir Hugh Poynings, otherwise St. John, which Constance was coheir to the Barony of Saint John, otherwise Saint John de Basing, cr. by writ 1299. See ped. in vol. vii, p. 16, note "b," sub "Saint John."

(c) Banks (Bar. Angl., vol. i, p. 377) states that he, a year later, on being created a Marquess, resigned the Earldom of Wiltshire, "of which the patent was cancelled, and, it seems, the vacancy was so looked upon by Queen Elizabeth, who, according to Naunton, is said to have offered the Earldom to her cousin, the Lord Hunsdon." There appears, however, to be no grounds for this statement. It is, however, somewhat remarkable that this Earldom of Wiltshire seems not to have been used as a courtesy title for a long period, the Barony of St. John taking its place. See p. 166, note "e."

(d) Two dukedoms (Northumberland and Suffolk), one Marquessate (Winchester), and one Earldom (Pembroke), were conferred on that day.

(e) See vol. iii. p. 70, note "f," sub "Derby." Froude says ("Queen Mary," p. 28), that the Marquess of Winchester and the Earl of Arundel "had signed, with a deliberate intention of deserting or betraying Northumberland."

After the Restoration a proposal was made to recompense him to the amount of £19,000 for his many losses, but nothing was done in the matter. He m. firstly (Lic. (a) She is called Agnes in the epitaph at Lambeth on her mother, but Anne in the will of Charles (Brandon), Duke of Suffolk. The marriage was not a happy one, and the parties were on one occasion, only reconciled by Royal intervention.

(b) He is best known as the author of "The Lord Marques Idleness," in which is a remarkable and most ingenious acrostic of 6 Latin verses, pub. in 1586 and 1587. See "Dugdale" as to his 4 illegit. sons, "all knights," to whom he leased lands for 100 years "of little less than £4,000 per ann. value." These bastards are entered in the Heralds' Visit. of Hants.

Admon. 9 Jan. 1664/5 to Elizabeth his widow: Edward the 6th and yst. son is infamous as a traitor to his brother, in endeavouring to betray Basing House, during its siege in 1644.

(f) He, presumably, was never styled "Earl of Wiltshire" being certainly at his marriage in Dec. 1622, called Lord St. John. See p. 172, note "c."

(g) Basing House was burnt to the ground in Oct. 1645, and sacked by Cromwell, whose interesting letter thereupon is printed in "Collins," vol. ii, p. 376. The goods therein were said to amount to £200,000 in value. On every window was inscribed "Aimez loyaulté." One of the most celebrated pictures of Landseer depicts the scene.

(a) Letter, of that date, of the Duchess of Buckingham to the Earl of Rutland, Mr. Pory writes thus, 21 April 1631, to Sir Thos. Puckering, Bart. "The Lady Marquess of Winchester, da. to the Lord Viscount Savage, had an impostume on her check lanced; the humour fell down her throat and quickly despatched her, being big with child; whose death is lamented as well in respect of other her virtues, as that she was inclining to become a protestant." Milton, dating from "Chr. Coll., Camb.," 1631, wrote an epitaph on her beginning—

"This rich marble doth inter
The honour'd wife of Winchester."

James Howell, who taught her Spanish, says of her "that Nature and the Graces exhausted all their treasures and skill in framing this exact model of female perfection." See Topographer, edit. 1789, vol. i, p. 425, note.

(b) For the last 15 years of his life he passed his time in agriculture and literature at his estate at Englefield, where he greatly enlarged the mansion. His piety and unselfish loyalty are commemorated by Clarendon. He translated three works from the French. His portrait, "after W. Hollar," is engraved in "Doyle," and a miniature, by Peter Oliver, has been engraved by Cooper.

(c) The verses thereon beginning

"He who in impious times undaunted stood,
And 'midst rebellion durst be just and good."

(a) A similar case of a person possessing a peerage of higher degree and more ancient date, receiving a Barony (without any special and more extended remainder) was when the Earl of Denbigh was cr., 2 Feb. 1663/4, Baron St. Liz. In both cases it was, apparently, to commemorate a presumed descent from a family of the name. There is in the Coll. Top et Gen., 1st series, pp. 325-337, an interesting account of the Finch family "compiled by Jo. Philipott, Rouge Dragon" [1618-24] wherein it is deduced from "Henricus, filius Hereberti, Henrici primi Camerarius," there made to be ancestor, in the male line, both of the Earls of Pembroke, as also (in the 5th degree) of "Herebertus, filius Hereberti, dictus Finch," to whom the arms now borne by "Finch" are ascribed and from whom Sir Moyle Finch, Bart., is made 10th in descent. It is, however, a fact that (save for 2 references, viz., "23 Hen. III." and "14 Ed. I.") there is neither date nor any name of place in all this elaborate performance, which, consequently, it would be extremely difficult to *dis*prove.

(b) See a list of L. Lieuts. removed, as in his case, by James II., in vol. i, p. 28, note "a," sub "Abingdon."

(c) He published in 1661 an account of his "audience with the grand Vizier and grand Seignieur" [The Sultan Mahomet Chan IV.], and in 1669 an account of an eruption of Mount Etna, which he had witnessed. He was a great debauchee. See Harley's Memoranda in N. & Q., 2d S., vol. i, p. 325, for his witty retort to Charles II.'s allusion thereto, viz., that he was His Majesty's "representative."

(d) In a fictitious work, entitled Lady Willoughby's Diary, her marriage is placed as between Oct. 1652 and April 1653; the birth of her only son, Heneage, as about Oct. 1653, and his death of smallpox as on 28 March 1655, followed by her own death, 22 March 1655/6, in her 21st year. Of these dates that of her marriage is certainly wrong, as probably is also that of her age at death, if, indeed, the date of such death (which, apparently, is 3 or 4 years too late) is correct.

(f) "Collins," where they are all set out, tho' (that credulous old gossip) Aubrey relates that "My Lady Seymor dreamt that she found a nest with nine finches in it; and so many children she had by the Earl of Winchelsea, whose name is Finch." That Earl had in all 27 children, of whom 16 lived to "some maturity."

He m. 26 or 28 Sep. 1692, at Mildenhall, Wilts, Sarah, da. of Henry NOURSE, of Woodlands in that county. He d. s.p.s. 5/16 Aug. 1712 in London.(a) Admon. 23 Oct. 1712 to a creditor. (a) Macky ("Characters") says of him when "not 30 years old," that "he hath neither genius nor gusto for business, loves hunting and a bottle, was an opposer (to his power) of the measures of King William's reign, and is zealous for the monarchy and church to the highest degree. He loves jests and puns and that sort of low wit [to which Swift adds, 'I never observed it'], is of short stature, well shaped, with a handsome countenance." Swift, also, adds, "Being very poor he complied too much with the party he hated," and, again (when writing to Stella, 7 Aug. 1712), he says, his death was "to my great grief. He was a worthy honest gentleman and a particular friend of mine."

(b) "A man of great worth and honour; he was a nonjuror" [Harley's Memoranda, in N. and Q., 2d S., vol. i, p. 325]. His portrait "after G. Vertue," is engraved in "Doyle."

(c) She is said to have influenced the Queen in her "Jacobite" tendencies. She is the "Ardelia" of Pope and the "Flavia" of Rowe. Her best known poem is one on "The Spleen."

(d) Isabel, Lady Wentworth [Wentworth papers, p. 295], writes of him in 1712, as "a prety, genteel, welbred, modist young man, and sings fynly."

was s. and h. of the Hon. Sir Heneage FINCH, of Kensington, Recorder of London (d. 5 Dec. 1631), 4th s. of Sir Moyle FINCH, Bart., by Elizabeth, cr. COUNTESS OF WINCHILSEA, and Viscountess Maidstone as afsd. He was b. 1647; ed. at Westm., and at Ch. Ch., Oxford; mat. 26 July 1662, aged 15; was Student of the Inner Temple; F.R.S., 26 Nov. 1668; M.P. for Great Bedwyn, 1673-78, and for Lichfield, 1679-82; a Lord of the Admiralty, 1679, being first Lord thereof, 1680-84, P.C. 1680 to Charles II, as also to William and Mary, Queen Anne, and George I; styled LORD FINCH, from 1681 till he suc. to the peerage as Earl of Nottingham, &c., on his father's death, 16 Dec. 1682. Tho' he took no part in bringing about the Revolution,(a) he was Sec. of State to the new Sovereigns from 1689 to 1693, as also (for the North) to Queen Anne from 1702 to 1704; was one of the council of 9, left by Will. III. during his absence in 1690, to advise Mary II., with whom he had great influence;(b) was assistant L. Sewer at the coronation of Anne, 23 April 1702. In 1711, however, he joined the Whig party(c) he had hitherto opposed, his dislike to the measures of Harley and St. John being, apparently, the main cause. He was one of the Lord Justices (Regents of the Realm) 1 Aug. to 18 Sep. 1714,(d) and was L. PRESIDENT OF THE COUNCIL, 1714-16, when he retired from official life, and resided principally at his house at Burley-on-the-hill, co. Rutland.(e) Having for 47 [!] years been known (and well known) as Earl of Nottingham, he became by the death of his second cousin, 9 Sep. 1729 (for the last four months only of his life). Earl of Winchilsea, &c. He m. firstly, 16 June 1674 (Lic. Vic. Gen., on 12, she about 22), Essex, 3d da. and coheir of Robert (RICH), 3d EARL OF WARWICK, by his second wife, Anne, da. of Sir Thomas CHEEKE. She d. s.p.m. 1684. He m. secondly, 29 Dec. 1685, at St. Giles' in the fields (Lic. Vic. Gen., she aged 18), Anne, 3d da. (whose issue in or soon after 1762 became sole heir) of Christopher (HATTON) 1st VISCOUNT HATTON OF GRETTON, co.

(a) His action at the time of the revolution is well described in his own dignified words, "My principles do not permit me to bear any part in making a King; but, when a King has been made, my principles bind me to pay him an obedience more strict that he can expect from those who have made him."

(b) She, however, said of him (Dalrymple III., 95) that "it may be his formal, grave, look, deceives me."

(c) On this occasion a newspayer, called the "the Post Boy," 6 Dec. 1711, offered wittily a reward of 10s. to anyone who would "restore him to his friends." Macky (Characters) says of him "when about 50" (i.e., some ten years before this period) that "he never made any considerable figure till the Revolution, when he zealously opposed King William's coming to the throne, yet was made Sec. of State by that Prince to oblige the Church, of which he sets up for a mightly champion . . . . He is a zealous promoter of absolute power in the state, and implicit faith in the church, to that degree as hardly to be in common charity with those of more moderate principles. He hath also the exterior air of business, and application enough to make him very capable. In his habit and manners very formal; a tall, thin, very black man, like a Spaniard, or Jew." Swift speaks of him as of "grave, solemn deportment and countenance, and alludes to his nickname of "Dismal" in his poem entitled, "The intended speech of a famous orator against peace, 1711."

"An orator, Dismal, of Nottingham-shire,
Who has 40 years let out his conscience to hire;
* * * *
When once he begins, oh he never will flinch,
But repeats the same note a whole day, like a Finch."
[the speech ending thus].
"I'll speak against peace, while Dismal's my name,
And be a true Whig, while I'm Not-in-game."

His portrait "after Sir S. Kneller" which looks "dismal" enough) is engraved in "Doyle." The family of "the Dismals" and the "tall Black Finches" are often alluded to by Horace Walpole, and other contemporaries. Macaulay speaks of this Earl as "always upright and honourable, but a bigot and formalist." He was one of the new Tory party (not Jacobites) sometimes known as "Whimsicals," whose devotion to the established church was greater than to hereditary right.

(d) See vol. iii, p. 116, note "b," sub "Devonshire," for a list of these.

(e) He had incurred the lasting displeasure of Geo. I. by taking part in an address Feb. 1716, for mercy on the Jacobite peers, then under sentence of death.

WINDSOR, or WYNDESORE.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1381 to 1384.

1. WILLIAM DE WYNDESORE, who possessed lands in Westmorland, Cumberland, Lancashire, Yorkshire, Notts, Warwickshire, Leicestershire, Northamptonshire, Oxon, Berks, Wilts, Somerset, Dorset, Middx., Essex, Herts, Surrey, Gloucestershire,[d] Herefordshire and the Marches of Wales, was s. and h. of Sir Alexander DE WYNDESORE, of Grayrigg, co. Westmorland (living 1336), by Elizabeth (d. Aug. 1349), his wife; was of full age Aug. 1349; was in the wars with France; was sometime (1374-76) the King's "Lieutenant" in Ireland; was Warden of the West Marches, and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron [LORD WYNDESORE] by writs from 22 Aug. (1381) 5 Ric. II. to 3 March (1383/4) 7 Ric. II. directed Willo de Wyndesore. He m., before Dec. 1376, the well known (much maligned) Court beauty, Alice DE PERRERS,[e] who not improbably was then widow of Sir Thomas DE

(a) He has taken an active part in support of British Agriculture.

(b) The Eastwell estate was sold to Lord Gerard for about £250,000 in Aug. 1892 and has, it is believed, again changed owners since that date.

(c) This does not refer to the well known town of Windsor in Berks, tho' it arises indirectly (see p. 185, note "a") therefrom. The grantee was the husband of the da. and eventually sole heir of Herbert (Hickman-Windsor), 2d and last Viscount Windsor of Blackcastle [I.], and chose this title, so as to perpetuate the surname and peerage of his father-in-law.

(d) In an able history of the Duket family, entitled "Duchetiana" [4to, 1876], written by Sir G. F. Duckett, Bart., is [pp. 268-283, referring to pp. 156-157] a full account of the ancestry of this Baron, from whose sister, Margery, wife of John Duket, the writer thereof is (thro' his paternal grandmother) descended. It is there clearly proved link by link (by the Placita de Banco, 15 Hen. VI., Mich. 153) that all the previous accounts of such ancestry are erroneous, and that the Baron's father was Sir Alexander de Wyndesore, who was fourth in descent from another Alexander de Wyndesore, who, by his marriage with Agnes, da. of William de Lancaster, "Baron of Kendal,*" acquired the estate of Grayrigg, co. Westmorland, which, for no less than 300 years after the Baron's death in 1384, was the inheritance of the family of Duket. The precise connection, tho' doubtless one existed, between this Baron and the family of Windsor of Stanwell (afterwards, 1529, Lords Windsor de Stanwell) is not ascertained.

(e) The accounts of her are so contradictory that the reader is referred to the able one (by "C. L. Kingsford") in the "Nat. Biog.," where, in spite of the suggestion (therein noticed) "that she was only the King's sick nurse," she is spoken of as

* Dodsworth says of him "fecit se vocari Baronem de Kendal in Parliamento."

NARFORD(a) and who appears to have been, as early as 1366, the mistress of Edward III., over whom, till the day of his death, she exercised unbounded influence, receiving large gifts from him, and being twice censured by Parl. for her interference with justice. Her parentage is uncertain, she was very possibly related to Sir Richard PERRERS, Sheriff for Herts and Essex, temp. Ed. II. and Ed. III.(b) She was "domicella Camere Reginæ," before Oct. 1366, a position which plainly implies that she was of good birth, tho' she is sometimes expressly stated to be otherwise. In 1375, attired as "the Lady of the Sun," she rode thro' London to the tournament at Smithfield and on 20 May 1376, "apparel for the Countess of Bedford [da. of the King] and for Alice Perrers" was ordered by privy seal for a like occasion.(c) Lord Wyndesore d. s.p., or s.p. legit., at Heversham, co. Westmorland in the diocese of Chester, 15 Sep. 1384, when the Barony became extinct (d) Nunc. will dat. at Heversham, 15 Sep. and pr. 12 Oct. 1384. His widow, after a series of lawsuits with her husband's relatives, d. at Upminster, co. Essex, in 1400. Will dat. 15 Aug. 1400, pr. 8 Feb. 1400/1.

having become "the mistress of Ed. III. in the lifetime of Queen Philippa," it being added that other writers "as well as the hostile St. Albans' chronicler" refer to her as such, and that "tho' the charges of avarice and intrigue may be exaggerated it is impossible to doubt the substantial accuracy of the story."

(a) She was a "femme sole" in 1371and 1374, but this, presumably, could be equally well said of her as a spinster or as a widow. It is certain that she had two daughters mentioned in her will (who were probably children of Sir Thomas de Narford) and it is equally certain that neither was a child of William de Wyndesore.

(b) See note "d," p. 183.

(c) Beltz's Order of the Garter, p. 10.

(d) According to five inquisitions taken at his death, his coheirs were his three sisters, (1) Isabella, then aged 60, or 38, and then unm. (2) Christiana, m. Sir William de Morers, of Elvington, co. York, and then aged 55, or 38, and (3) Margery, m. John Duket, and then aged 50, or 34. Of these inquisitions, those in Dorset, Essex and Middx., give the greater age, while those in Berks and Wilts give the lesser one. This coheirship, however, is complicated by the Baron's will, in which he speaks of Robert, Roger, William, Elias and Peter, "sons of my brother [Qy., if br. of the whole blood] John de Wyndesore, deceased," which John appears to have had also an eldest son John, sometimes called heir to testator and mentioned in will of his relict, see below. This lastnamed John was, for a short time, of Manorbeer and Penally, co. Pembroke,* and was bur. in Westminster Abbey, 7 April 1414, having himself a son, John. Courthope states in his text (tho' on what ground is unknown) that this Barony is in abeyance among the descendants of the three sisters [sic] of the grantee (an anomalous devolution of a Barony in fee, tho,' doubtless, correct enough as to the estates) altering the, apparently, more rational statement in "Nicolas" that in 1384 it "is presumed to have become extinct. He appends the following note (slightly altered from one in "Nicolas") to the word "abeyance," viz. :—"The statement in the text [that the three sisters were the coheirs] rests on the authority of several Inquisitions taken 8 Ric. II. ; but Dugdale, in his Warwickshire, p. 431 (cited in Banks' Stemmata Anglicana), states, that he left his daughters his heirs, of whom Joane, the eldest, married Skerne. Alice, widow of Lord Wyndsore, in her testament dated in 1400, speaks of three daughters, Joane, Jane, and another Joane: to the latter (whom she describes as her youngest daughter) she gives her manor of Gaines in Upminster, and bequeaths to her two other daughters all her manors, &c., which John de Wyndesore, or others by his consent, had usurped, and orders her executors to recover them ; for, she emphatically adds : 'I say on the pain of my soul he hath no right there, nor never had.' It is probable, therefore, that he left illegitimate issue, born before his marriage with the said Alice."

* William de Wyndesore had a grant of Manorbeer Castle from the King, to the succession whereof the said John de Wyndesore got a confirmation, which was subsequently cancelled on the score of misrepresentation. This certainly points to illegitimacy, and in his M.I., he is not spoken of as heir at law to his uncle, William, the words being "constitit, hæredem avunculus iste." See this matter fully discussed in an exhaustive account of "Manorbear Castle and its Early Owners," by Sir G. F. Duckett, Bart., in the Archæologia Cambrensis.

(a) He is stated to have been the victim of some foul play by his uncle, Edward Windsor (who m. Elizabeth Ardington), of whom Dr. Rawlinson writes "habuit permultos filios, filiasque ; sed veneficio arte usus ne Thomas, sextus Baro Windsor (sui nepos) haberet exitum, ipsemet, Dei judicio, cum numerosâ prole, periit."

WINDSOR.

The name of Thomas Windsor appears together with that of William Windsor in the writ of summons, 5 Nov. (1558) 5 and 6 Philip and Mary, as given in Dugdale's list; on which Nicolas remarks that "as only one Lord Windsor is mentioned in the Journals of the House of Lords, as having been sum. that year, the insertion is probably an error of the person who transcribed the list from the roll." This seems, however, unlikely, as William Windsor is also included in that list. Thomas, however, may not improbably refer to Thomas Windsor, of Bentley (a yr. br. of the said William), who m. and had seven sons and three daughters, duly set out in "Collins," vol. iii, p. 670.

[S.], attainted of high treason in 1716, d. at Versailles 9 March 1769, aged 84. It is stated in Wood's "Douglas" that "this family still [1818] subsists in the male line tho' dispossessed of the estates"—and at St. Andrew's, Newcastle, there occurs the burial, 31 Dec. 1782, of "Ralph Seton, commonly called Lord Seton, aged 80." It is observed in "Hewlett" that "if there be issue male from Sir John Seton, of Garletoun, now in existence, his heir male would be the heir male of the Earls of Wintoun; but if, as seems most probable, his male issue has failed, the Earl of Eglinton would appear to be the heir male of the house of Seton and entitled to all the honours held by the Earls of Wintoun."

Remarks. On 22 Dec. 1840, the Earl of Eglinton [S.], heir male of the body of Alexander Seton, afterwards Montgomerie, who was next yr. br. to the 3rd Earl of Winton [S.], was served "nearest and lawful heir male general and also nearest and lawful heir male of provision to George, 4th Earl of Winton." This, of course, he could only be, on the supposition that the issue male of the 3rd Earl was extinct,(a) in which case, under the novodamus of 1686 (no nomination having been made by the 4th Earl, the grantee,) he would apparently be such heir male, and, as such, be entitled, subject to the attainder(b) of 1716, to the peerages of Wintoun and Seton. No such recognition, however, was made by the Crown, when, some 20 years later, he was cr. Earl of Winton [U.K.]

the Duke of Gordon, the Earls of Eglintoun and Aboyne being descendants of this family in the male line." Tho', however, the name of Seton has given way to those of Gordon and Montgomerie in the Scotch peerage, yet "Seton of Abercorn" and "Seton of Pitmedden" still [1897] exist in the Baronetage and the race is, elsewhere, well represented by other families which bear that ancient name as their patronymic.

(a) See p. 192, note "e," as to this point.

(b) As to his right being debarred by this attainder it is observed in "Hewlett" that "such bar would apparently extend only to the issue male of the 4th Earl, as the subsequent heirs male and other heirs would take under a distinct and different substitution, and, in fact, under a new grant in their favour; and if the subsequent grant to heirs male, on failure of issue male to the [said] Earl, and in default of a nomination by him, fall within the decision of the case of Gordon of Park or of the similar case of the Sinclair peerage (decided by the House of Lords, 25 April 1782), then the attainder of 1716 would not be a bar to the title of the heir male."

(c) No further description is given. It may of course be considered as practically an acknowledgment that the grantee was entitled to the Scotch earldom of the same name. Compare the case of the Barony of Lovat [U.K.] granted in 1837 to one who, in 1854, some 17 years later (by the reversal of the attainder of 1747) became Lord Lovat [S.]; and that of the Barony of Wemyss [U.K.] granted in 1821 to one who, in 1826, some 5 years later (by the reversal of the attainder of 1745) became Earl of Wemyss [S.]

(b) This Garnet Joseph, was 5th s. of the Rev. William Wolseley, Rector of Tullycorbet, co. Monaghan and formerly Capt. 8th Hussars (d. 1800, aged about 70), who was 3d s. of Sir Richard Wolseley, Bart. [I.], so cr. 19 Jan. 1744, who was yr. br. of Sir Richard Wolseley, 5th Bart. [E.], which last named dignity was cr. 24 Nov. 1628.

(c) Her Father has been sometimes called Alexander Erskine Holmes; he is, however, described as "Alexander Erskine, Gent.," in the certificate of her marriage, in 1847, to which the witnesses are "Alexander Erskine" and "Elizabeth Harriet Holmes." The date and place of her birth has not been ascertained.

WOLVERTON.

Barony.

I. 1869. 1. GEORGE CARR GLYN, of Stanmore Park, co. Midx., and of London, Banker, 5th but 4th surv. s. of Sir Richard Carr GLYN, 1st Bart., of Gaunts, co. Dorset, and of London, Banker, sometime (1798-99) L. Mayor of London (d. 27 April 1838, aged 83), by Mary, da. of John PLUMPTRE, of Fredville, Notts, was b. 27 March and bap. 6 May 1797, at St. James', Westm.; was partner in the well-known bank of "Glyn, Mills, Currie and Co.," Lombard Street, London, of which he eventually became head; M.P. for Kendal, for 21 years, 1847-68; many years Chairman([a]) of the London and North Western Railway; Gov. of Harrow School, etc., and was cr., 14 Dec. 1869, BARON WOLVERTON of Wolverton, co. Buckingham. He m. 17 March 1823, at St. James', Westm., Marianne (then a minor), da. of Pascoe GRENFELL, of Taplow House, Bucks, by Georgiana, 7th and yst. da. of St. Leger (ST. LEGER, formerly ALDWORTH), 1st. (Vth) VISCOUNT DONERAILE [I.] He d. 24 July 1873 in Upper Eccleston street, aged 76. II. 1873. 2. GEORGE GRENFELL (GLYN), BARON WOLVERTON, 1st s. and h., b. 10 Feb. 1824, in London; ed. at Rugby and Univ. Coll., Oxford; partner in his father's bank, 1845; Chairman of the Railway Clearing house; M.P. for Shaftesbury, 1857-73; Joint Sec. to the Treasury, 1868-73; being "Whip" to the "Liberal" party, and one of the most zealous supporters of the Gladstone Ministry([b]); suc. to the peerage 24 July 1873; P.C. 1873; Paymaster Gen., 1880-85, and Postmaster Gen., Feb. to Aug. 1886. He m. 22 June 1848, at St. Peter's, Eaton sq., Georgiana Maria, 1st da. of the Rev. George TUFNELL, of Uffington, Berks. He d. s.p., suddenly at the Bedford Hotel, Brighton, 6 and was bur. 11 Nov. 1887, aged 63, from his house, 7 Stratton street, Piccadilly, at Ham cemetery, Surrey, but removed 28 Aug. 1888, to Iwerne Minster, co. Dorset. Will dat. 16 Jan. 1885, pr. Jan. 1888, above £1,820,000([c]) personalty. His widow, who was b. 11 Oct. 1825, d., of gout, 10 Jan. 1894, at 73 South Audley street, and was bur. at Iwerne Minster, aged 69. Will pr. at £48,000 personalty.

III. 1887. 3. HENRY RICHARD (GLYN), BARON WOLVERTON, nephew and h. male, being 1st s. and h. of Vice-Admiral the Hon. Henry Carr GLYN, C.B., by Rose, da. of the Rev. Denis MAHONY, of Dromore Castle, co. Kerry, which Henry Carr, who d. 16 Feb. 1884, aged 53, was 4th s. of the 1st Baron.([d]) He was b. 18 July 1861. in Upper Eccleston street; was a partner in the family bank; suc. to the peerage 6 Nov. 1887, but d. unm., 8 months afterwards, from a protracted tubercular illness, 2 July 1888, aged 27, at Warren House, Coombe Wood, in Kingston-on-Thames, and was bur. at Iwerne afsd.

([a]) This post, perhaps, suggested to him the name of Wolverton for his title of peerage, as he appears to have had no property in or near that town.

([b]) He is described in Men and Manners in Parl., in 1874, as a highly successful Whip, "bright, cheerful, good-tempered, and ready." He suc. H. B. W. Brand (Speaker, 1872-84) in that office.

([c]) The largest personal estates for probate in that year, 1888, were (1) Baron Stern, £3,541,000; (2) Mr. Hugh McCalmont. £3,121,000; (3) Sir Robert Loder, Bart., £2,500,000; (4) Lord Wolverton, £1,820,000; and (5) Sir John Hardy, Bart., £1,033 000.

([d]) The 3d son Riversdale-Robert, b. 12 April 1827, d. July 1829; the 2d son the Hon. St. Leger-Richard Glyn, b. 3 Oct. 1825, d. 16 April 1870, s.p.m., leaving five daughters and coheirs.

([e]) By what was probably a technical error in the will of the 2d Baron, the reversion to some £1,500,000 passed, owing to the untimely death of his successor, to the five daughters and coheirs of testator's next brother (see note "d" above), but these ladies generously released in July 1888, their claim thereto in favour of the holder of the Barony.

WORCESTER (County).

URSO DE ABITOT, Constable of Worcester Castle and hereditary Sheriff of Worcestershire, is sometimes (tho' erroneously) considered to have been cr. EARL OF WORCESTER about 1076. He sat in the great council of 1082 and 1085.

Earldom.

I. 1136? to 1145? 1. WALERAN DE BEAUMONT, COUNT OF MEULAN in France,(b) twin br. of Robert, EARL OF LEICESTER, being 1st s. of Robert, COUNT OF MEULAN, Sire de Beaumont, &c., generally considered to have been EARL OF LEICESTER, by Isabel, da. of Hugh le Grand, COUNT OF VERMANDOIS AND VALOIS (yr. s. of HENRY I, KING OF FRANCE) was b. 1104; suc. his father, 5 June 1118, in his French Possessions; was knighted by Henry I. about 1120(c); fought on the side of King Stephen, to whose da., Mary (then aged 2 years) he was affianced, about March 1136, and by whom, about that date, he appears to have been cr. EARL OF WORCESTER(d). He appears, however, to have subsequently taken part with the Empress Maud and to have been deprived of his honours and possessions, both in England and in Normandy, not many years later. He took the cross 24 March 1145. He m. before 1141 Agnes, heiress (thro' her mother) of Gournay-sur-Marne,(e) da. of Amauri III, COUNT OF EVREUX, by Agnes, da. and h. of Anseau DE GARLANDE, Seneschal of France.(b) He became a monk at Préaux, 21 days before his death, and was bur. (with his father) at that abbey, 9 April 1166, aged 62. He had issue, six sons, of whom the eldest, Robert,(b) suc. to his foreign dignities.

II. 1397, to 1403. 1. SIR THOMAS PERCY, K.G., yr. br. of Henry, 1st EARL OF NORTHUMBERLAND, being 2d s. of Henry, (PERCY), LORD PERCY, by his first wife, Mary, da. of Henry (PLANTAGENET), EARL OF LANCASTER, grandson of Henry III.; was b. in or soon after 1343; began his active military career in France, under Sir John Chandos; was Councillor of the duchy of Aquitaine and Seneschal of La Rochelle, 1369; of Poitou, 1370, and of the Limousin, 1372; was a prisoner at Paris, 1372-73; was K.G. between 14 April 1375 and 4 April 1376; Constable of Roxburgh Castle, 1376-81; was in attendance, 16 July 1377, at the coronation of Richard II.; Joint warden of the eastern marches, 1377 and 1383-84; Admiral of the North, 1378-80 and 1385-86; Admiral of the fleet north of the Thames, 1378; took part in the invasion of France in 1380, and of Spain in 1386; Vice-Chamberlain of the household, 1389; Ch. Justice of South Wales 1390, 1392 and 1394; was head of the embassy to France to treat for peace Feb. 1392; P.C. 1393; Steward of the Household, 1393-99; was, by the king's wish, chosen Procurator for the clergy in parl., Sep. 1397, assenting, as such to the banishment of Archbishop Arundel, and to the arbitrary execution of the Earl of

(a) From this Urso, whose da. Emmeline m. Walter de Beauchamp, is derived the well known cognizance of that family (Earls of Warwick), the Bear with the ragged staff.

(b) See an admirable account of this family in G. W. Watson's "Ancient Earls of Leicester." [Genealogist, N.S., vol. x, pp. 1-16.]

(c) In 1124, he is thus spoken in the Chronica of Robertus de Monte: "Tunc satis juvenis, miles tamen armis fortis."

(d) Henry of Huntingdon says that King Stephen bestowed, to his own damage, on Waleran "the county and city of Worcester," and [the continuator of] Florence of Worcester, in his account of the burning of Worcester, in 1138, distinctly calls him "the Earl." This Earldom, however, is not included among the 18 Earldoms created by King Stephen [see vol. v., p. 86, note "a," sub "Lincoln"] as set out in Round's "Geoffrey de Magnaville," but is therein spoken of as "a doubtful earldom of Worcestershire," the learned author considering that in such cases the evidence of the chroniclers (alone) is not sufficient. But having, since that date, discovered the impression [see Round's paper on "Armorial Bearings," pub. in the Archæological Journal 21, 47] of Waleran's seal, on which is the legend "Sigillum Gualerani Comitis Wigornie," he is disposed to consider the evidence of existence of this Earldom of Worcester to be sufficient.

(e) "But not also of Rochefort in Iveline (as La Roque, Anselme, and L'Art de vérifier les dates assert) which was retained by the Counts of Montfort." (See note "b" above.)

Arundel, and being, doubtless as a reward, cr. 29 Sep. 1397, EARL OF WORCESTER. He was Constable of Jedburgh Castle, 1397; Capt. of Calais, 1398; was one of the committee to wind up the business of the parl. in Jan. 1398; Admiral of the fleet for Ireland, Jan. 1399, accompanying Richard II there, whom he apparently[a] deserted at Milford, being certainly present in the parl. that deposed him, and acting as Steward, 13 Oct. 1399, at the coron. of Henry IV., to whom also he was, 1399, P.C., and Steward of the household; Admiral of the North and West, and of Ireland, 1399-1401; Commissr. to treat with France, 1399 and 1401, to which country he in 1401 escorted the ex-Queen Consort Isabella, being also, early in 1402/3, one of the escort from Britanny of Joanna, the bride of Henry IV.; Lieut. of South Wales 1402, to 1403, when he resigned that post and joined his nephew, Lord Percy ("Hotspur") in rebellion, who was slain at the battle of Shrewsbury, 21 July, 1403, where he was taken prisoner and beheaded two days later, being bur. at St. Peter's, Shrewsbury.[b] He d. probably unm., and certainly s.p.s.,[c] but, having been attainted, his honours were thereby forfeited. The attainder, however, was reversed some 80 years later by Richard III. in Jan. 1483/4.

III. 1421, to 1422. 1. RICHARD (BEAUCHAMP), LORD ABERGAVENNY, or BERGAVENNY, or BEAUCHAMP DE BERGAVENNY, s. and h. of William BEAUCHAMP, sum. as a Baron in that title, by writ 1392 (directed "Willelme Beauchamp de Bergavenny") suc. his father in that Barony, 8 May 1411, being then aged 14; m. 7 July 1411, Isabel, heiress of the Lords Le Despencer, and was cr. Feb. 1420/1[d] EARL OF WORCESTER. He d. s.p.m. 16 April 1422, when his vast estates and the representation of his Barony devolved on his only da., but the Earldom of Worcester reverted apparently to the Crown. See fuller particulars under "ABERGAVENNY."

IV. 1449, to 1470. 1. JOHN (DE TIPTOFT or TIBETOT), LORD TIPTOFT, b. 1427; suc. his father in the above Barony (cr. 1426). 27 Jan. 1452/3; and was cr. 16 July 1449, EARL OF WORCESTER. He was beheaded for high treason, 18 Oct. 1470, when all his honours became forfeited.

* * * * * *

V. 1471, to 1485. 2. EDWARD (DE TIPTOFT or TIBETOT), EARL OF WORCESTER [1449] and LORD TIPTOFT [1426], only surv. s. and h. b. about 1468, is presumed to have become entitled to the above dignities on the re-accession of Edward IV., 14 April 1471, by which, apparently, the forfeiture of his father would have become null. He d. unm. 12 Aug. 1485, when the Earldom of Worcester became extinct, but the Barony of Tiptoft fell into abeyance.

See fuller particulars under "TIPTOFT" Barony, cr. 1426.

(b) "Gentil et loyal Chevalier . . . doux, raisonnable et gracieux," says Froissart, while the writer of the Annales Henrici Quarti says that "no one would ever have suspected him of treason, for while English perfidy was a byword, he was always trusted . . . yet he played the traitor both to Richard and to Henry. Family affection [relationship] may account for his first act of treason, but the second is not to be explained so simply. The common accounts represent him as a prime mover in the [1403] rebellion." [Nat. Biogr.]

(c) In Vincent's "Baronagium" [Vincent, no. xx, fo. 223, Coll. of arms] "the Earl is stated to have married and to have had an only child, Thomas Percy, who died before him without issue. All inquiries to ascertain whom the Earl married have hitherto proved ineffectual." [Beltz's Order of the Garter, p. 227, note 2.] Milles, in his very accurate "Catalogue of Honor" (1610) says exactly as above; Dugdale merely states that "he d. s.p," while Brooke (corrected severely and justly in "Vincent on Brooke") attributes to him the wife and issue of his nephew, Sir Thomas Percy, the younger.

(d) "The charter or patent for this creation does not appear to have been enrolled." [Courthope].

VI. 1514. 1. "CHARLES SOMERSET, Knight, BARON [Dominus] HERBERT, Chamberlain to the King,"(a) was cr. 1 Feb. 1513/4, EARL OF WORCESTER.(b) He was illegit. s. of Henry (BEAUFORT), DUKE OF SOMERSET (beheaded 3 April or 15 May 1464), by Joan Hill, spinster; was b. about 1460; Knighted (by the Archduke of Austria) before Aug. 1485; P.C. 1485; Capt. of the Yeomen of the Guard, 1486; Cupbearer, 1486; Knight of the Body, 1486-1503; Constable of Helmesley Castle, 1487; Capt. and Admiral of the Fleet, 1488; was Plenipo., 12 Sept. 1490, to invest Maximilian, King of the Romans, with the Garter(c); was K.G. (23 April?), 1496; Knight Banneret, 16 July 1497; was on several embassies to France, 1498, 1505, 1514, 1517, 1521 and 1525, and to Germany, 1501-02 and 1517, being then Vice-Chamberlain of the Household and Capt. of the Guard. Having m. 2 June 1472, Elizabeth, de jure, suo jure BARONESS HERBERT, da. and h. (16 July 1491, when she was aged 30) of William (HERBERT), EARL OF HUNTINGDON, formerly EARL OF PEMBROKE, by his first wife Mary, da. of Richard (WYDVILLE), 1st EARL RIVERS, he appears to have been styled, in her right, as early as 21 Feb. 1504, LORD HERBERT, and is generally stated to have been cr. by patent 26 Nov. 1506, BARON HERBERT OF RAGLAND, CHEPSTOW AND GOWER, but "no enrolment of this patent nor any Privy Seal, nor Signed Bill (among the Chancery Series) has been found bearing on the creation."(a) He was, however, sum. to Parl. as LORD HERBERT, by writs dat. 17 Oct. (1509) 1 Hen. VIII. and 28 Nov. (1511) 3 Hen. VIII, directed "Carolo Somerset de Herbert, Chivaler." He was L. Chamberlain of the Household to Hen. VII., 1508-09, and to Hen. VIII., 1509-1526, being cr. by the latter, 1 Feb. 1513/4, Earl of Worcester as afsd. He had been in command of 6,000 foot in the expedition to France, the sieges of Tournay and Therouenne in 1513, and was present at the coronation of Mary, the King's sister, as Queen Consort of France, in 1514; was President of the Order of the Garter, 1518, and Chancellor of that Order, 1523. His first wife, the heiress of Herbert, who was b. at Raglan Castle about 1461, d. about 1514, and was bur. at St. George's, Windsor. He m., secondly, Elizabeth (by whom he had 3 children), da. of Thomas (WEST), LORD DELAWARR, by his first wife, Elizabeth, da. of Hugh MORTIMER. He m., thirdly, Eleanor, da. of Edward (SUTTON), LORD DUDLEY, by Cecily, da. of Sir William WILLOUGHBY. He d. 15 April 1526 and was bur. at St. George's afsd.(d) M.I.(e) Will in which he styles himself "Erle of Worcestour, Lorde Herbert of Gower and of Chepstowe," dat. 21 March 1523/4, pr. 1526.(f) His third wife (by whom he had no issue) survived him.

X. 1628. Marquessate. I. 1643.

5 and 1. HENRY (SOMERSET), EARL OF WORCESTER, etc., 2d but 1st surv. s. and h.(a); b. in co. Hereford, 1577; matric. at Oxford (Mag. Coll.) 27 June 1591 (with his elder br. above-named) aged 14. He was sum. to Parl. v.p. in his father's Barony, as LORD HERBERT, by writs from 19 March 1604 to 12 Feb. 1623/4(b); was joint L.-Lieut. of the counties of Glamorgan and Monmouth, 1626-31; suc. as Earl of Worcester, 3 March 1627/8; was a zealous supporter of the royal cause, for which he held his castle of Raglan, one of the last places that surrendered to the Parliamentarians,(c) from 1642 to 19 Aug. 1646, raising and supporting two several armies, and being Lieut.-Gen. of the forces in Monmouthshire. He was in reward cr. 2 March 1642/3,(d) MARQUESS OF WORCESTER. He m. 16 June 1600, at St. Martin's, Ludgate, in the presence of Queen Elizabeth, Anne, only surv. da. and h. of John RUSSELL, styled LORD RUSSELL (2d but 1st surv. s. and h. ap. of Francis, 2d EARL OF BEDFORD) by Elizabeth, da. of Sir Anthony COOK.(e) She d. (as Countess of Worcester) at Worcester House afsd. 1 April 1639 and was bur. at Raglan. Funeral certif. at Pub. Record office. He d. in Covent Garden (where he was in the custody of "Black Rod)," 18 Dec. 1646, and was bur. at Christmas (with the 1st Earl) at Windsor.(f) Admon. 18 July 1652. Nunc. will, dated within 3 days of death, pr. 30 Sep. 1653.

Marquessate. II. Earldom. XI. 1646.

2 and 6. EDWARD (SOMERSET), MARQUESS OF WORCESTER, &c., 1st s. and h., b. 1601; ed. abroad; was styled LORD HERBERT from 1628 to about 1644; L.-Lieut. of South Wales and Monmouthshire, 1642; Col. of a Reg. of Horse, 1642; and Lieut.-Gen. of the counties of Hereford, Monmouth, Brecknock, Glamorgan, and Radnor, 1643, on behalf of the King, of whose cause he and his father were most zealous supporters. Between 16 April 1643 (when he is called Lord Herbert) and 13 Nov. 1645 (when, as also frequently afterwards, he appears as Earl of Glamorgan) he was probably cr., or promised to be cr. EARL OF GLAMORGAN and BARON BEAUFORT OF CALDECOT CASTLE, co. Monmouth, with, apparently, a spec. rem. in favour of his issue male by his then wife.(g) As "Earl of Glamorgan" he was well known when acting for Charles I. in his negotiations, 1645-47, with the Roman Catholics in Ireland.(h) A discredited Commission, dated 1 April 1644, addressed to him as Earl of Glamorgan, &c., professing to create him Duke of Somerset, to make him K.G., "our Generalissimo, etc.," was surrended by him soon after he produced it, some 16 years later.(g) He suc. his father, 18 Dec. 1646, as Marquess of Worcester, tho' by Act of Parl., 4 Feb. 1651/2,(i)

(a) Of the 8 brothers, Thomas Somerset, the 3rd, was cr., 1626, Viscount Somerset of Cashel [I.] and d. s.p.m. about 1650.

(b) See vol. vi., p. 221, note "c," sub "Pembroke," as to the confusion between this Henry (Somerset), Lord Herbert, and Charles Herbert, styled Lord Herbert of Shurland, s. and h. ap. of Philip, Earl of Pembroke.

(c) The lead on the Castle was sold for £6,000, and the damage done to the house and woods was computed at £100,000, besides as great a sum advanced to the king.

(d) "Creations, 1483-1646" in ap. 47th Rep. D. K. Pub. Records. The date of 2Nov. 1642, being that of the docquet, signed at Oxford, is the one which is generally assigned.

(e) See vol. i, p. 297, note "a," sub "Bedford."

(f) Clarendon says of him that "he was generally reputed the greatest monied man of the kingdom, and probably might not think it an unthrifty thing rather to disburse it for the king, who might be able to repay it, than have it taken from him by the other party. This mercenary motive, however, seems not very justly attributed to him, indeed his conduct appears to have been the result of true loyalty. His portrait, in a hat (with feathers) surrounded by an Earl's coronet, "after a painter unknown," is engraved in "Doyle."

(g) This mysterious Earldom of Glamorgan, and the commission of, 1 April 1644, as to the dukedom of Somerset, &c., are fully dealt with in this work, sub "Glamorgan."

(h) He is "the Earl of Glamorgan" of Clarendon and Carte. Clarendon, writing of him in 1643, says "Lord Herbert was a man of more than ordinary affection and reverence to the person of the king . . . a Papist . . . whom many men loved and few hated . . . of a civil and obliging nature."

(i) All titles granted by Charles I. since 4 Jan. 1641, were by this act disallowed.

the creations of that date were made void, and, consequently, till the Restoration, he was only recognised as Earl of Worcester. He came over from France to England on behalf of the exiled King, but was committed to the Tower, 28 July 1652 to Oct. 1654. In 1655, he prepared his Century of Inventions for the press(a): on 23 April 1661, he attended the coronation of Charles II. He m., firstly, in 1628, Elizabeth, sister of Robert, 1st EARL OF CARNARVON, da. of Sir William DORMER (s. and h. ap. of Robert, 1st BARON DORMER OF WENGE), by Alice da. of Sir Richard MOLYNEUX, Bart. She d. 31 May 1635 at Worcester House afsd., and was bur. at Raglan. Funeral certificate. He m., secondly, in 1639, Margaret, 2d da. and coheir of Henry (O'BRIEN), 5th EARL OF THOMOND [I.], by Mary, da. of William (BRERETON), BARON BRERETON OF LEIGHLIN [I.] He d. at St. Giles' in the Fields, Middx, 3 and was bur. 19 April 1667 at Raglan,(b) aged about 66. At his death the Earldom of Glamorgan and the Barony of Beaufort of Caldecot Castle are supposed to have become extinct.(c) Admon. 23 Nov. 1667, 13 Jan. 1670/1 and 15 Oct. 1681. His widow m. Donogh O'KEARNEY,(d) who was living 31 May 1682. She d. s.p.s. 26 July 1681. Admon. 31 May 1682.

Marquessate. III. Earldom. XII.	1667.	3 and 7. HENRY (SOMERSET), MARQUESS OF WORCESTER, etc., only s. and h., by first wife; b. about 1629; styled LORD HERBERT, till he suc. to the peerage, as above, 3 April 1667. He was cr. 2 Dec. 1682, DUKE OF BEAUFORT; see that title.

(a) The monument, one of great beauty, is by Rysbrach.

(b) Foss's Judges. She was more likely a niece or cousin.

(c) It was supposed that thus only he was induced to retire to make room for Tindal, then Solicitor General. A full (but perhaps somewhat prejudiced) account of the matter is in Carpenter's Peerage. There certainly seems to have been some motive (other than merit) for the conferring of this Peerage.

(d) This office he obtained and held for many years, tho' he had retired (see note "c" above) with a pension granted under an Act which required that he should be disabled by permanent bodily infirmity from the due execution of his office. "Very early in his career he had the good fortune to extract a flattering eulogium from Lord Kenyon . . . he consequently soon received ample employment. Tho' superficial in legal knowledge, his readiness of comprehension and fluency of speech . . . and his increase of business warranted him in accepting the degree of the Coif in 1800. His services were in great requisition . . . and he somtimes appeared on important criminal trials." From his "hasty and questionable opinions" and from his "summing up so much on one side," he was nicknamed the Judge-Advocate. [Foss's Judges]. A sarcastic allusion to his judicial abilities is made by the well known Mr. Chitty, who, in one of his law indexes, places "BEST, Mr. Justice, his great mind"; the reference to which being that, when, during a trial, at which he presided, a considerable disturbance took place, he said that he had "a great mind" to order the Court to be cleared. [See Solly's "What is an Index," pp. 44-45].

II. 1683, to 1732.

2. WILLIAM (PASTON), EARL OF YARMOUTH [1679], VISCOUNT YARMOUTH [1673] and BARON PASTON [1673], 1st s. and h., aged 19 in June 1673; ed. at Trin. Coll., Cambridge; Col. Norfolk reg. of Horse militia, 1678; M.P. for Norwich 1678-83; styled LORD PASTON, 1679-83; suc. to the peerage, as above, 8 March 1682/3; High Steward of Yarmouth, 1684; Capt. of a troop of Horse, 1685-88; Treasurer of the Household, 1687-88, to James II., of whom he was a supporter; joint L. He m. firstly, in or before May 1674, Charlotte Jemima Henrietta Maria (born BOYLE or FITZROY), widow of James HOWARD (who d. 6 July 1669, in his 20th year), and illegit. da. of Charles II., by Elizabeth, wife of Francis (BOYLE), 1st VISCOUNT SHANNON [I.], da. of Sir Robert KILLEGREW. She d. suddenly, at her house in Pall Mall, 28 July and was bur. 4 Aug. 1684, in Westm. Abbey.(e) He m. secondly (Lic. Vic. He d. s.p.m.s., 25 Dec. 1732, at Epsom, aged 80, when all his honours became extinct.(f) Will pr. 1733.

(a) He is said to have been granted the imposition of "deals coming to Yarmouth" (worth £3,000 a year) for having moved for a grant for £2,500,000 for the King, with whom he was, apparently, in great favour.

(b) On 9 Aug. 1676, "he was waylaid, while travelling at night, by ruffians, who shot five bullets into his coach, one of which entered his body."

(c) He is spoken of as "a person of good learning, and a traveller who brought home a number of curiosities." His portrait, "after Sir G. Kneller," painted about 1675, is engraved in "Doyle."

(d) She, "who made a great bustle in K. Charles II.'s time, now boards in a thatched house; and altho' she keeps up her pride to the height, by suffering no one to sit at meat with her, and many other vain formalities, yet with difficulty enough finds money to pay for her board . . . Her son gives her no respects or holds any correspondence with her, tho' she lives not above two miles from him." [Humphrey Prideaux to J. Ellis, 25 Dec. 1693.]

(e) "Without any arms [i.e., armorial ensigns] of her own; the King, her father, not having assigned her any in her lifetime." [Sandford]

(f) In Macky's "Characters," he is spoken of, when about 50, as "a Nonjuror all King William's reign, but a man of sense and knowledge in the affairs of his country." Later on, however, it is said of him "Lives very obscurely and yet increaseth his debts." He deeply incumbered the estates (which were sold at his death), allowing the magnificent family seat at Oxnead to fall into ruin, and selling his father's library and collection of curiosities.

[CHARLES PASTON, styled LORD PASTON, 1st and only surv. s. and h. ap., by first wife; b. at Whitehall, 29 May and bap. 31 July 1674, at St. Martin's in the fields, Charles II. and the Duke of York being his sponsors; was a Brigadier in the Army. He m. Elizabeth. He d. s.p.m.(a) and v.p. Admon. as "of Gravesend, co. Kent, 20 Aug. 1720. The admon. of his widow, then of St. James', Westm., is dated 16 April 1724.]

Barony. I. Earldom. III. 1740, to 1765.

1. AMELIA SOPHIA DE WALMODEN, sometimes called AMELIA SOPHIA MARY ANNE, BARONESS VON WALMODEN in Germany, wife or widow of Adam Gottlieb, BARON VON WALMODEN, a Hanoverian noble (by whom she had male issue), and da. of Lieut. Gen. VON WENDT,(b) having become the mistress of George II. during one of his visits to Hanover in his wife's lifetime, came to England in 1738,(c) soon after the Queen Consort's death, and, after having been naturalised Feb. 1740, was cr., 24 March 1740,(d) BARONESS YARMOUTH, co. Norfolk, and COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH, for the term of her life (e) She d. at Hanover, 20 Oct. 1765, aged about 56, when the peerage became extinct.(f)

Earldom. IV. 1793.

1. FRANCIS (SEYMOUR-CONWAY), EARL OF HERTFORD, was cr., 5 July 1793, EARL OF YARMOUTH, co. Norfolk, and MARQUESS OF HERTFORD. See under "HERTFORD."

YELVERTON.

i.e., "YELVERTON," (rectius "YELVERTON OF AVONMORE") Barony [I.] (Yelverton), cr. 1795; see "AVONMORE," Viscountcy [I.], cr. 1800.

YESTER.

[The Lordship of Yester, co. Haddington, which belonged to the family of GIFFARD, or GIFFORD, from about 1130, passed into the family of HAY, before 1409, by the marriage of Johanna Giffard, the heir of line, with Sir William Hay,(g) of Locherworth, grandfather of John, 1st LORD HAY OF YESTER [S.].]

See "HAY OF YESTER," Barony [S.] (Hay), cr. 1488.

i.e., "HAY OF YESTER," Barony [S.] (Hay), cr. 1694, with the MARQUESSATE OF TWEEDDALE [S.], which see.

(a) Elizabeth, a da., was living 16 April 1724.

(b) She is described in Burke's Extinct Peerage as "a young married lady of the first fashion at Hanover, and niece of Erangard Melosine de Schulemberg, Duchess of Kendal."

(c) A. Windham writes thus of her, 22 June 1738, to Charles, Viscount Townshend, "Madam Valmoden has fine black eyes and brown hair, and very well shaped, not tall, nor low; has no fine features, but very agreeable in the main."

(d) Lord Stanhope remarks that this is "the last instance, in our annals, of a British peerage being bestowed on a Royal mistress."

(e) She is called "Amalie Sophie de Wallmoden" (only) in the grant of supporters and confirmation of her arms in 1740, so that whether she was a spinster, wife, or widow, is not there apparent.

(f) "By the King she had one son, who was not owned, and who was usually known at Court as Master Louis." [Jesse's Court of England, 1688-1760]. The King is said to have left her £12,000. Horace Walpole [George II.] speaks of her as "inoffensive, and attentive only to pleasing him [the King], and selling peerages whenever she had an opportunity." Such a one, apparently occurred when Sir Jacob Bouverie was created Viscount Folkestone in 1747, see vol. iii, p. 388, note "c." She is, however, well spoken of, by her contemporaries, as obliging and good-natured.

(g) Wood's Douglas, but other accounts state that the said Johanna m. Sir Thomas Hay, the great-grandfather of the said Lord.

YORK (county of) and YORK AND ALBANY.

Earldom.

I. 1138, to 1179. 1. WILLIAM (OF ALBEMARLE, or D'AUMALE, called "LE GROS,") EARL, or COUNT OF ALBEMARLE,(a) Lord of the vast territory of Holderness, &c., a. and h. of Stephen DE BLOIS, EARL, or COUNT OF ALBEMARLE,(a) Lord of the territory abovenamed, by Hawise, da. of Ralph DE MORTIMER, was b. about 1117; suc. his father (who d. in the Holy Land, 1129) in the above dignity; distinguished himself greatly as Joint Commander at the battle of "the Standard," near Alverton, Aug. 1138,(b) on behalf of King Stephen, by whom,(c) he was consequently cr. then, or in the month following, EARL OF YORKSHIRE.(d) He "sometimes, but rarely, styled himself Earl of York, under Stephen, [but] did not, however, under Henry II., lose his Comital rank."(e) He was with King Stephen at his defeat at the battle of Lincoln, 1141; was Gov. of Scarborough Castle; had taken the cross before 1150; and was, in March 1177, assessor in the Royal Court to arbitrate between the Kings of Castille and Navarre. He m. Cicely, "of Scotland," da. of William FITZ-DUNCAN, by Adeliza, da. and coheir of William LE MESCHIN and Cicely DE ROMILLY, the heiress of Skipton in Craven. By her he obtained the Lordship of Harewood and other large possessions. He d. s.p.m., 20 Aug. 1179, and was bur. at Thornton Abbey, co. Lincoln, which (with several others) he had founded. After his death the Earldom of Yorkshire [1138] is no more heard of, but the Earldom of Albemarle (see that dignity) continued in his da. and heiress and her descendants.

II. 1190, to 1196, or 1200. 1. OTHO OF SAXONY, 2d s. of Henry "the Lion," sometime DUKE OF SAXONY AND BAVARIA, but afterwards (only) OF BRUNSWICK AND LUNEBERG, by Maud, da. of Henry II., was b. 1175, and is said to have been cr. by his uncle, Richard I., in 1190 (1 Ric. I.), EARL OF YORK. In 1196, he was cr. by that King, COUNT OF POITOU, a creation said(f) to have been in exchange for the Earldom of York. He was crowned EMPEROR OF GERMANY, 4 July 1198. See fuller accounts of him in the history of that Empire. In 1200 he sent Ambassadors to his uncle, King John, to claim the dignities both of York and Poitou, but was unsuccessful. He m. twice, in each case after he was Emperor, and d. s.p. 19 May 1218.

Dukedom.

I. 1385. 1. EDMUND (PLANTAGENET, called "of Langley"), EARL OF CAMBRIDGE, was cr. by his nephew, Richard II., 6 Aug. 1385, DUKE OF YORK. He was 5th but 4th surv. s. of Edward III., by Philippa, da. of William, COUNT OF HOLLAND AND HAINAULT; was b. 5 June 1341, at King's Langley, Herts; served in the wars with France, and in the expedition of 1367 to Spain; was K.G. (probably in April), 1361; was cr. by his father, 13 Nov. 1362, EARL OF CAMBRIDGE. He was Commander of the forces for Aquitaine, 1369; P.C., 1372; Warden of the Cinque ports, 1376-81; was one of the Council of Regency at the accession of Ric. II., at whose coronation, 16 July 1377, he bore the Sceptre with the Dove; he was chief Capt. of the army in Portugal, 1381-83, and took part in the Scotch expedition in 1385, and was cr., 6 Aug. 1385,

(a) "Aumâle (Albemarle) is notoriously a difficult title, as one of those of which the bearer enjoyed Comital rank, tho' whether as a Norman Count, or as an English Earl, it is, at first, difficult to decide; eventually, of course, the dignity became an English Earldom." [Round's Geoffrey de Mandeville.]

(b) He was spoken of at that date (1138) as "Juvenis tunc strenuissimus, et in armis multum exercitatus." [Ethelredus; Abbas Rievallencis]

(c) See vol. v., p. 86, note "a," sub "Lincoln," as to the Earldoms cr. during the reign of Stephen.

(d) "In 1138, we are told by John, Prior of Hexham (the Continuator of Simon, the Monk of Durham), that King Stephen, elated with his success at the battle of the Standard, made William de Albemarle 'Comitem in Eboraci Sciria'; he continues to describe him as Earl of Yorkshire in 1143." deprived, 6 Oct. 1399.[a] He, being then Constable of the Tower of London, was made Constable of England, July 1398 to Sep. 1399; Warden of the West marches, and of Carlisle, 1399. Tho' his fidelity to Ric. II. was doubtful,[b] he was, by Henry IV., immediately deprived of the custody of the Tower and of his Dukedom of Albemarle (as above-stated), but in 1399 he became P.C. to that King, and, in 1401 Warden of North Wales. In the Parl. of Jan. 1401, he was restored in name and estate. By the death of his father, 1 Aug. 1402, he suc. as Duke of York and Earl of Cambridge, which last named dignity he resigned before (probably shortly before) 1 May 1414, when, being "restored to all the estate, name, fame and honour, he enjoyed before the judgment of 1399,"[c] he apparently was thereby restored to the Dukedom of Albemarle. He was Warden of the East Marches and Capt. of Berwick, 1414-15; Commander of the right wing of the army in France, 1415. He m., 1396 (at her age of about 30), Philippa, widow of Sir John GOLAFRE, of Langley, Oxon (who d. before 9 Feb. 1396), and formerly of Walter (FITZWALTER), LORD FITZWALTER (who d. 26 Sep. 1386), 1st da. and coheir of John (DE MOHUN), LORD MOHUN DE DUNSTER, by Joane, da. of Bartholomew (DE BURGHERSH), LORD BURGHERSH. He d. s.p. 25 Oct. 1415, being slain at the battle of Agincourt,[d] aged about 42, when the Dukedom of Albemarle (supposing it was restored in 1414 from the forfeiture of 1399) as also the Earldom of Cork [I.] became extinct. He was bur. 1 Dec. following in Fotheringay church, co. Northampton. Will dat. 22 Aug. 1415, pr. at Lincoln. His widow, who was b. as early as 1367,[e] and was heiress of the estate of Dunster, d. s.p. 17 July 1431, and was bur. in Westm. Abbey. M.I.[f] Will dat. 12 March 1430, pr. 13 Nov. 1431.

* * * * * *

III. 1426. 3. RICHARD PLANTAGENET,[g] nephew and heir, being s. and h. of Richard (PLANTAGENET), EARL OF CAMBRIDGE (attainted and executed 5 Aug. 1415), by Anne, only child that left issue of Roger (MORTIMER), 4th EARL OF MARCH, s. and h. of Edmund (MORTIMER), 4th EARL OF MARCH, by Philippa, da. and h. of Lionel (PLANTAGENET), DUKE OF CLARENCE, 3d but 2d surv. s. of Edward III., was b. 21 Sept. 1411, and was, owing to his father's attainder, disqualified, apparently, from succeeding to the family honours. He was, however, by act of the Parl. held at Leicester [1425-26], 4 Hen. VI., "restored to the dignities of DUKE OF YORK, EARL OF CAMBRIDGE[h] AND RUTLAND, and LORD OF TINDAL,[i]

(a) The Dukes of Exeter, Surrey and Albemarle, and the Marquess of Dorset were all deprived of their dignities (all conferred in 1397) at the same date, 6 Oct. 1399. The words applying to the three former were that they were "to lose and forego from them these names that they now have as Dukes and the worship and the dignity thereof." [Rot. Parl., vol. iii, p. 452]. See vol. vii, p. 170, note "a," sub "Somerset."

(b) His alleged treason to Richard is perhaps capable of explanation, while that to Henry IV., in 1399, is possibly an invention; but the character of this Earl of Rutland (by which title he is best known) is generally (see Hume's eloquent description of his tergiversation and duplicity), considered as "infamous." He unquestionably took part in the murder of his uncle, Gloucester (whose lands in Holderness he obtained), and his subsequent treason (as to the Mortimer plot) in 1405, was undoubted. [See Nat. Biogr.] The character he gives himself in his will, as "de tous pecheurs le plus mechant et coupable," seems fairly just.

(c) Courthope.

(d) Leland speaks of him, in 1415, as "a fatte man" whereby by much heat and thronging he was smothered to death in the battle. A spirited sketch of him "from Harl. M.S. 1319," is in "Doyle." See, as to his character, note "b" above.

(e) See vol. v, p. 322, note "b," sub "Mohun."

(f) See vol. iii, p. 370, note "b," sub "Fitzwalter."

(g) "He assumed the surname of Plantagenet apparently about 1448. This name, so extensively applied by late writers, had not been heard of in English history since the time of Geoffrey of Anjou, as Sir James Ramsay (Lancaster and York), has well remarked." [Watson's Seize Quartiers of Ed. IV.]

(h) The Earldom of Cambridge had apparently been surrendered by his said uncle, and granted 1 May 1414 to (tho' subsequently forfeited by) his father, whose heir, however, he, also, was.

(i) The Lordship of Tindall seems to have been a territorial, not a peerage, dignity.

which honours had fallen to him after the death [25 Oct. 1415] of Edward, Duke of York, his [paternal] uncle."(a) As "Duke of York," he was knighted by Hen. VI. on Whitsunday, 19 May 1426, at Leicester, being then aged about 15. He had in the previous year, on the death, 19 Jan, 1424/5, of his maternal uncle, Edmond (MORTIMER), EARL OF MARCH, become EARL OF MARCH and LORD MORTIMER DE WIGMORE, as also EARL OF ULSTER [I.], inheriting the rich Lordship of Clare, as also those of Trim and Connaught [I.], and becoming thus, probably, the most powerful subject in the realm(b); Constable of England, 20 Jan. 1430; el. K.G., 22 April 1433; Gov. Gen. of France and Normandy, 1436-37, and 1440-47; Ch. Gov. of Ireland (as L. Lieut.), 1447-53, and again 1457-59; PROTECTOR OF THE REALM, 3 April 1454, and for the second time, Nov. 1455 to Feb. 1456, having meanwhile (thro' jealousy of the Duke of Somerset), rebelled against the King, and taken him prisoner at the (first) battle of St. Albans, 22 or 23 May 1455. His party again prevailed, 23 Sep. 1459, at Blorheath, but, soon afterwards, he and his 1st surv. son fled to Ireland. He was attainted Nov. 1459, tho' restored Oct. 1460, having, meanwhile, again made the King prisoner, at the battle of Northampton, 10 July 1460. Early in Oct. 1460 he claimed the Crown as his right, but by a compromise, ratified by Parl. on the 31st of that month, he was satisfied on being declared heir, after the King's demise, to the throne, with rem. to the heirs of his body. He m. before 18 Oct. 1424, Cecily (at that date aged but 9), yst. da. of Ralph (NEVILL), 1st EARL OF WESTMORLAND,(c) being 5th da.(d) by his second wife, Lady Joan BEAUFORT, sister of the half-blood to Henry IV., legitimated da. of John (PLANTAGENET, called "of Gaunt"), DUKE OF LANCASTER. He d. 30 Dec. 1460, aged 49, being slain in rebellion at the battle of Wakefield, and was bur. at Pontefract, his head being placed on the walls of York, but afterwards interred with his body, the whole being finally removed with great pomp, 22 July 1466,(e) to Fotheringay. Admon. 15 Dec. 1461, at Lambeth.(f) His widow, who was b. 3 May 1415, survived him 35 years, is said to have taken Benedictine orders, 1480, and d. at her castle at Berkhampstead, 31 May 1495, aged 80, having survived her two last surv. sons, Edward IV. and Richard III. She was bur. with her husband at Fotheringay. Will dat. 1 April, and pr. 27 Aug. 1495.

[HENRY PLANTAGENET, 1st s. and h. ap., b. in or before 1441, to whom it is supposed(a) Henry VI., was godfather. He d. v.p. in infancy].

IV. 1460, to 1461. 4. EDWARD (PLANTAGENET), DUKE OF YORK [1385], EARL OF MARCH [1328], EARL OF CAMBRIDGE [1362], and LORD MORTIMER DE WIGMORE [1205], also EARL OF ULSTER [I. 1205], 2d but 1st surv. s. and h.; b. 28 April 1442, at Rouen(g); styled EARL OF MARCH till 1460, and was, as such, attainted in the Parl. of (1459), 28 Hen. VI., being restored Oct. 1460; Constable of Bristol, Nov. 1460; suc. to the peerage, as above, on the death of his father, 30 Dec. 1460. (a) Sandford.

(b) In the pardon, 8 Aug. 1435, for his intrusion without licence on the lands of the late Earl of March and Ulster, he is described as "Duke of York, Earl of March and Ulster, Lord of Wigmore, Clare, Trim and Connaught." [Pat. Roll. of Ireland, 13 Hen. VI., No. 81].

(c) "By which match" he "became related to most of the greatest nobility of the Kingdom . . . by whose assistance he was enabled to bandy for the Crown against the House of Lancaster." [Sandford].

(d) See Genealogist, N.S. iii, p. 110, for the births of the numerous children of the Earl, her father. She herself was his 18th, being the 10th by his second marriage. [Watson's Seize Quartiers of Edward IV.]

(e) The body of his yr. s. Edmund, Earl of Rutland, also slain at Wakefield, was removed there at the same date.

(f) Polydore Vergil writes of him as "Hic [staturâ] pusillus . . . [facie] brevi et compactâ esset." Dr. Shaw in his well known panegyric of the still better known L. Protector, his son, the Duke of Gloucester (afterwards Richard III.), says that "the L. Protector represented the verye face of the noble Duke, his father."

By the death of his elder br., Arthur, Prince of Wales, he became 2 April 1502, DUKE OF CORNWALL, and was cr. 18 Feb. 1503/4, Prince of Wales and EARL OF CHESTER, his creation to the Dukedom of York becoming void by Act of Parl. [1503-04] 19 Hen. VII. [probably 18 Feb. 1503/4] on his becoming "the King's heire apparaunt and Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornewall and Erle of Chestre."(d) He ascended the throne, 22 April 1509, as Henry VIII. For fuller particulars, see "CORNWALL" Dukedom, 1502 to 1509.

VII. 1605, to 1625. 1. CHARLES (STUART), DUKE OF ALBANY [S.],(e) 3d son of James I., by Anne, da. of FREDERICK II., KING OF DENMARK, was cr. 6 Jan. 1604/5, DUKE OF YORK. He was Bishop of Ostia and Frascati, being cr. a Cardinal Bishop, by Pope Benedict XIV., 3 July 1747, and popularly known as "Cardinal York." By the death (s.p. legit.) of his elder br., the titular King Charles III., 31 Jan. 1788 (see vol. i., p. 52, sub "ALBANY") he became titular King, as Henry IX. He d. unm. at Frascati, 13 July 1807(b) in his 83d year, when all his honours, as also the male line of the Royal House of Stuart (descendants of Robert II, King of Scotland, 1371-90), became extinct. He d. unm. of a malignant fever, at Monaco in Italy, 17 Sep. and was bur. 3 Nov. 1767 (from the Jerusalem Chamber), in Westm. Abbey, aged 28,(c) when all his honours became extinct. (b) "He is looked upon here [Rome] as proud and foolish, but, withal, charitable and humane" [John Kerrich to Ed. Weston, 7 Oct. 1762].

(c) H. Walpole [Letters] writes of him in 1751 as "a very plain boy, with strange loose eyes." His portrait (with the riband of the Garter) "after A. Walker, engr.," is given in "Doyle."

(d) He is the "Right Reverend Osnaburgh" in a well known poem of Burns. A letter from "Edward Herries" in "The Times" (Jan. 1894) headed "British Peers and German Sovereigns" points out the analogy of this case with that of the present (1897) Duke of Edinburgh, reigning Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, stating that the Bishop of Osnaburgh "more properly Osnabrück" was "a member of the Germanic body and a Sovereign Prince entitled to sit and vote among the Princes in

He was cr. 29 Nov. 1784, EARL OF ULSTER [I.] and DUKE OF YORK AND ALBANY [G.B.],(b) taking his seat, 27 Nov. 1787; P.C. 1787; F.R.S., 26 Jan. 1789; was in Command of the forces in the United provinces, 1793, conducting an unsuccessful campaign against the French, 1793-95, as also in 1799, terminated by the (too favourable) convention of Alkmaer. He was Commander in chief of the forces in Great Britain, 1798-1809 and again, 1811-27; was Warden of the New Forest and Keeper of Windsor forest, 1805; Field Marshal in the Austrian army, 1814; Knight of the Holy Ghost, of France, 21 April 1814; Knight Grand cross of Charles III. of Spain, 19 Nov. 1814, as also of Maria Theresa of Austria, 1814; G.C.B. 2 Jan. 1815; G.C.H., 12 Aug. 1815. In 1818, after the death of the Queen Consort, he was appointed guardian of the person of his father, George III. He m., 29 Sep. 1791, at Berlin, and again, 23 Nov. following, at the Queen's house (Buckingham palace), Frederica Charlotte Ulrica Catherina, PRINCESS ROYAL OF PRUSSIA, being 1st da. of Frederick William II., KING OF PRUSSIA, by his first wife, Elizabeth, da. of Charles, DUKE OF BRUNSWICK. She, who was b. 7 May 1767, d. of water on the chest,(c) at her residence, Oatlands park, in Weybridge, co. Surrey, 6 and was privately bur., 14 Aug. 1820, in a vault in the Church of Weybridge, aged 54. M.I. the Diet of the Empire" and having (as the Duke of Edinburgh) "the attributes of Sovereignty." It is also there stated that "by royal patent," 2 Nov. 1802, George III. took possession of "the said principality" using the following words, viz., "as we have agreed with respect to its cession and evacuation with its Sovereign our beloved Prince Frederick, Duke of York and Albany." So also with respect to the Dukes of Cumberland, who, from 1837 to 1866, were Kings of Hanover.

(a) In May 1789 he was challenged by and fought a duel with Colonel Lennox, the latter's ball grazing the Duke's temple, who did not return the fire. This appears to be a unique case of a prince of the blood accepting a challenge from a subject.

(b) Thus, from 1605 to 1827, the five Dukes of York (all being of separate creations) had also been Dukes of Albany [S. or G.B.] and, from 1659 to 1827, four of them had also been Earls of Ulster [I.].

(c) Her dowry was £20,000. After a few years of uneasy and formal intercourse, a separation took place. She is spoken of, 6 Jan. 1796 [S. Holroyd to M. J. Holroyd] as "the sweetest little woman, doing good everywhere, giving no trouble or offence; modest, and yet not losing dignity." Greville speaks of her (Memoirs) as "clever and well-informed; she likes society and dislikes all form and ceremony, but in the midst of the most familiar intercourse she always preserves a certain dignity of manner," and again "probably no person in such a situation was ever more really liked." In Blackwood's magazine for Feb. 1827 she is called "a harmless but an eccentric little woman, with an extraordinary fondness for cats and dogs, some indications of the German severity of family etiquette, which gave her household the air of Potsdam, and but a slight share of those attractions which might retain the regards of a husband—young, a soldier, and a prince."

(d) In the Annual Register for 1827, is a good account of his career, including Sir Walter Scott's character of him, and a long (18 pages) description, by Sir Herbert Taylor, of his last illness. Tho' not a successful commander, he was most zealous in carrying out measures to reform the great abuses which he found in the army and was essentially "the soldier's friend." His forced retirement, 1809-11, from his post was owing to charges made by Col. Wardle in the House of Commons as to promotions made at the suit of Mary Anne Clarke,* with whom, unhappily for his fair fame, he had become involved. He was twice thanked by Parl. (1814 and 1815) for the benefits he had conferred on the army, and was the founder of the "Duke of York's School for the Sons of Soldiers" at Chelsea. He is spoken of in 1789 by Sir Gilbert Elliot [Minto's letters] as "extremely handsome . . . very gentlemanlike"; by Sir Walter Scott as "large, stout and manly," and by Baron Stockmar [Memoirs]

XII. 1892. 1. H.R.H. GEORGE-FREDERICK-ERNEST-ALBERT, PRINCE OF THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, also DUKE OF SAXONY and DUKE OF SAXE-COBURGH AND GOTHA., 2d s. of H.R.H. Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, DUKE OF CORNWALL, &c. (s. and h. ap. of Queen Victoria), by Alexandra, 1st da. of Christian IX., KING OF DENMARK; was b. at Marlborough house, St. James', 3 June and bap. 7 July 1865, at Windsor Castle; entered the Royal Navy, 1877, becoming Capt. in 1893; K.G., 1884; became h. ap. to his father on the death, 14 Jan. 1892, of his eldest br., H.R.H. the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, and was, four months later, cr. 24 May 1892, BARON KILLARNEY, EARL OF INVERNESS and DUKE OF YORK.(a) K.T. 1893, K.P., 1897. He m. 6 July 1893, at the chapel royal, St. James' Palace, his cousin, Victoria Mary Augusta Louise Olga Pauline Claudine Agnes,(b) 1st da. of His Highness Francis Paul Charles Louis Alexander, DUKE OF TECK,(c) by H.R.H. Mary Adelaide Wilhelmina Elizabeth, da. of H.R.H. Adolphus Frederick, DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE, 7th s. of George III. She was b. 26 May 1867, at Kensington Palace and bap. 27 July, in the Chapel royal there.

in 1816 as "tall, with immense en bon point and not proportionately strong legs, he holds himself in such a way that one is always afraid he will tumble over backwards; very bald and not a very intelligent face." Greville [Memoirs] writes of him that he "is not clever but he has justness of understanding . . . He is the only one of the Princes who has the feelings of an English gentleman; his amiable disposition and excellent temper have conciliated for him the esteem and regard of men of all parties . . . He is very easily amused and particularly with jokes full of coarseness and indelicacy." His portrait, "after J. Jackson," is engraved in Doyle.

(a) The resolution of the committee of the House of Lords 14 June 1892, was, that he should have place in that house next after the Duke of Connaught, [yst. surv. s. of the Sovereign] and next before the Duke of Albany [grandson of the Sovereign]. His position as the heir ap. of the heir ap. of the Sovereign seems to have been (justly) taken into account, for the antiquity of the creation of the post-ranked Dukedom was (exactly) eleven years greater than that of his own, while the relative position of the Duke of Albany and himself to THE REIGNING SOVEREIGN (by which position all Royal precedency is regulated) was but the same, save that one grandson was son of the eldest while the other was son of the youngest son.

(b) In The Genealogist, N.S., vol. x, pp. 207-211, is an article by G. E. C., wherein the Seize Quartiers of the Duchess of York, as well as those of her paternal grandmother, the morganatic wife of the Duke of Wurtemburg, are set forth, as also is her two fold descent (one thro' each of her parents) from George II.

(c) He was s. of Alexander Paul Louis Constantine, Duke of Wurtemberg, by Claudina, Countess Rhédey de Kis Rhóde, afterwards Countess of Hohenstein, his morganatic wife. With respect to the validity of this class of marriages an erroneous impression prevails in England. It is well said, by one who is most competent to treat of them, that "Morganatic marriages are real marriages, duly consecrated, only they do not give the rank of the husband to the wife or children." ZOUCHE, or LA ZOUCHE.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1299, to 1314.

1. ALAN LA ZOUCHE, of Ashby de la Zouche, co. Leicester, North Molton, co. Devon, and of considerable estates in the counties of Northampton, Cambridge, Hertford, and Sussex, as also in Ireland, was s. and h. of Sir Roger LA ZOUCHE,(a) of the same, by Ela da. of Stephen LONGESPÉE, Seneschal of Gascony; was 18 years old at the death of his father (1284-85) 13 Ed. I.; served in the wars with Gascony and Scotland; was sum. to attend the King at Salisbury 25 Jan. (1296/7) 25 Ed. I., which, however, cannot be deemed a regular writ of summons to Parl.,(b) is mentioned, as a Baron, in the summons "equis et armis" to Carlisle 26 Sep. (1298) 26 Ed. I., and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron (LORD ZOUCHE or LA ZOUCHE) by writs directed "Alano La Zouche" from 6 Feb. (1298/9) 27 Ed. I. to 26 Nov. (1313) 7 Ed. II. He, as "Alanus la Zouch, d'n's de Ashcby," affixed his seal to the famous letter of the Barons to the Pope in 1301.(c) He was Gov. of Rockingham Castle and Steward of Rockingham Forest (1311-12) 5 Ed. II. He, who is said to have m. Eleanor, da. of Nicholas SEGRAVE, d. s.p.m. (1313-14) 7 Ed. II., when the Barony fell into abeyance between his three daughters and coheirs.(d) Esch. 7 Ed. II.

(a) Dugdale aptly remarks that "though all our Genealogists do agree that this ancient and noble family is branched from the Earls of Britanny they do not deduce the line of that descent in each point alike." According, however, to Courthope, this Roger was "s. and h. of Alan (d. 1269), s. and h. of Roger (living 1199), br. and h. of William surnamed de Beaumes (d. s.p. 1199), both being sons of Alan la Zouche, s. of Geoffrey de Rohan, and grandson of Alan, Viscount de Rohan, by Constance, da. and coheir of Conan Crassus, Duke of Brittany." A pedigree of Zouche connected with Longespée and with de Quincy, is in Clutterbuck's Herts, vol. i., p. 371, and vol. iii., p. 287.

(b) See vol. i, p. 111, note "b," sub "Ap. Adam."

(c) See Nicolas, pp. 761—809, for an able account of this letter.

(d) Of these Elizabeth, the yst. da., aged 20 in 1314, being a nun at Brewood, co. Stafford, d. unm. Of the others (1) Eleanor, aged 26 in 1314, was then wife of Nicholas St. Maur, sum. 8 July 1314, as a Baron (Lord St. Maur), probably in consequence of this alliance (see vol. vii, p. 23), whose heiress, the de jure, suo jure Baroness St. Maur, m. in or before 1424, Lord Zouche de Haryngworth, with which dignity not only the Barony of St. Maur but (oddly enough) the representation of the moiety of this (1299) Barony of Zouche thus became united. (2) Maud, aged 24 in 1314, and then wife of Robert de Holande, sum. 29 July 1314, as a Baron, (Lord Holand), probably in consequence of this alliance (see vol. iv, p. 236), with which Barony, the representation of her moiety of this (1299) Barony of Zouche became consequently united.

ZOUCHE, or LA ZOUCHE, DE HARYNGWORTH.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1308. 1. WILLIAM LA ZOUCHE, of Haringworth and Bulwick, co. Northampton, of Totnes, co. Devon, and of considerable estates in the counties of Bedford, Somerset, Wilts, &c., was s. and h. of Eudo[a] LA ZOUCHE (living 1276), by Millicent (inheretrix of the said estates), widow of John DE MONTALT, 1st sister and coheir (1273) of George CANTELUPE, da. of William CANTELUPE, of the same as (also) of Abergavenny. He was b. at Haryngworth about 1276, being aged 22 on the death of his mother (1298-99), 27 Ed. I.; was made K.B. (d) "On the 10 March (23 Edw. III.) 1349, the Writ was addressed to 'Willielmo la Zouche de Haryngworth,' without the addition of 'Juniori;' and, as his grandfather [also William La Zouche] was then living, it is doubtful to which of these Barons it was directed; but as the 2nd Baron was not summoned on that occasion by his usual designation, it is most probable it was to him instead of his grandfather." His widow m. Sir Gilbert DEBENHAM and d. before him, Oct. 1470.

He suc. his father in 1463, being then aged above 30, and was sum. to parl. 28 Feb. (1466/7) 6 Ed. VII. 1468, to 1485. * * * 1495. 7. JOHN (LA ZOUCHE), LORD ZOUCHE, or LA ZOUCHE, DE HARYNGWORTH, &c., 1st s. and h., was b. about 1460, being aged 8 when he suc. his father in Jan. 1467/8. He was sum. to Parl. from 22 Jan. (1482/3), 22 Ed. IV., to 9 Dec. (1483), 1 Ric. III. He attended the coronation of Ric. III.[d] and was, with that King, at the battle of Bosworth, being consequently attainted by the Parl. of 7 Nov. 1485, whereby all his honours were forfeited, but, by the reversal of the attainder in 1495, they were restored,[e] he having meanwhile, in 1492, being employed in the expedition to France. He was again sum. to Parl. from 17 Oct. (1509), 1 Hen. VIII., to 12 Nov. (1515), 7 Hen. VIII. He m., probably about 1480, Joan, sister and (1509) coheir of John, Lord Dynham, da. of Sir John DYNHAM (possibly de jure LORD DYNHAM), by Joan, da. and h. of Richard DE ARCHES. He d. about March 1525/6. Will, in which he styles himself Lord Zouche and St. Maur, and directs his burial to be in the Priory of Stavordale, co. Somerset, pr. 20 March 1525/6.

VIII. 1526. 8. JOHN (LA ZOUCHE), LORD ZOUCHE, or LA ZOUCHE, DE HARYNGWORTH, &c., s. and h., was probably b. about 1485.[f] He, having suc. his father in March 1525/6, was sum. to Parl. from 3 Nov. (1529), 21 Hen. VIII., to 4 Nov. (1548), 2 Ed. VI. He m. firstly, before 1510, Dorothy, 2d da. of Sir William CAPELL, L. Mayor of London, (1503-04), by Margaret, da. of Sir Thomas ARUNDELL, of Lanherne, co. Cornwall. He m. secondly, Susan, widow of Nicholas DAVENPORT, of Bulwick, co. (c) Banks (Bar. Ang. Conc.) adds, that "Nicolas states that he was sum. as Baron St. Maur, jure matris," but in the reference given (Synopsis, vol. ii, p. 710) the words are "summ. to Parl. . . 1466," followed by the words [apparently meant merely to indicate that he also was] "Baron St. Maur, jure matris." No writ, in fact, to this Barony appears to have been issued after the death in 1409 of the last heir male.

(d) See vol. iii, p. 8, note "e," sub "Dacre," for a list of the Peers there present.

(e) The estate of Totnes and some others were never restored, but that of Haryngworth and the greater part of them were.

(f) His s. and h. was b. about 1510, and his own father would, in 1480, have been about 20.

[b] To him, who was Knight Marshal of the Household, he devises his estate of "Bramshill House Park" and his manor of Odiham, both co. Hants, "he being of my blood, and the son of him I loved best in my life, except the Lord Gray of Wilton." This devisee, however (who was a worthless Court favourite), soon afterwards sold them. Testator mentions also in his will, in justification of this devise, that he has given £2000 to each of his daughters on marriage. The estate of Haringworth was sold, shortly after his death, to the family of Foxley, and soon afterwards (before 1648) to that of Tryon.

Having established his claim, made 7 Feb. 1804, as a representative (thro' the families of Hedges, Tate and Zouche) of the Barony of Zouche abovenamed, the abeyance of that Barony (which had existed nearly two centuries) was terminated in his favour and he was sum. to parl by writ, 27 Aug. 1815 as LORD ZOUCHE DE HARYNGWORTH.[b] He m., 27 July 1782, (spec. lic) in her father's house, at St. Martin's in the fields, Harriett Anne, da. and h. of William SOUTHWELL, of Frampton, co. XIII. 1829. 13. THE HON. HARRIET ANNE CURZON, wife of the Hon. Robert CURZON, 1st da. and coheir, b. at Geneva, 7 Sep. 1787; m. 14 Oct. 1808; became, by the death of her father, 11 Nov. 1828, the elder coheir (i.e., heir to a moiety) of this Barony, as established (1815) to her father. The subsequent abeyance thereof was, within a year, terminated in her favour, 9 Feb. 1829, and she thus became suo jure BARONESS ZOUCHE DE HARYNGWORTH. Her said husband, who was 5th but 2d surv. s. of Assheton (CURZON), 1st VISCOUNT CURZON OF PENN, was b. 1 June 1771; ed. at Ch. Ch., Oxford; B.A., 1795. He was M.P. for Clitheroe 1796—1831, and d. 14 May 1868, at Parham Park, in his 92d year. She d. there 15 Nov. 1870, aged 83. Will pr. 3 Sep. 1870 under £4,000.

Ch., Oxford, where he matric. 19 Feb. 1828. He was M.P. for Clitheroe, in the Conserv. interest, 1831-32, when he abandoned political life; was attaché at Constantinople, and private sec. to the ambassador there, 1841; a commiss. to settle the boundaries between Turkey and Persia at Erzeroum, in 1844; received the orders of the Lion and Sun of Persia, and of the Nishan of Turkey.[f] He suc. to the peerage on the death of his mother, 15 Nov. 1870. He m. 27 Aug. 1850, at Croxhall Church, Catton, co. Derby, Emily Julia, 3d da. of the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert John WILMOT-HORTON, formerly WILMOT, 3d Bart, by Anne,[g]

(a) An elaborate account of this family of Tate with some interesting notes illustrative of that of Zouche is in Burke's "Commoners," edit. 1837, vol. ii, p. 489.

(b) He represented a fourth of the Barony, in the event of the existence of issue from the yst da. of the 11th Lord, but if such issue had then become extinct he (in that case) represented a moiety thereof. See vol. vi, p. 407, note "c," for a comparison of this case with that of De Ros.

(c) He had two sons, both of whom d. v.p. and s.p. before he obtained the peerage, viz. (1) Cecil Bisshopp, Lieut.-Col. 1st Guards, who was killed in action at Black Rock in Upper Canada, 11 July 1813, aged 30; (2) Charles Cecil Bisshopp, an officer R.N., who d. unm. 10 May 1808, of yellow fever, in Jamaica.

(d) The coheirs were his two daughters (1) Harriet Anne, in whose favour the abeyance was terminated next year; (2) Katherine Annabella, b. 1 Dec. 1791, and then unm. She m. 1 Aug. 1826, Vice-Admiral Sir George Richard Brooke-Pechell, 4th Bart., and d. 29 July 1871, leaving female issue.

(e) This Baronetcy became subsequently, 27 Jan. 1970, extinct.

(f) In 1848, he pub. an account of his "Visits to the Monasteries in the Levant," which obtained great success. His "Memoir" (pub. by the Philobiblon Society) states that "The foundation of his character was sincerity, which, but for his natural good breeding and desire to avoid inflicting pain, might have sometimes given offence. . . His natural talent, varied experience, original conversation and lively wit will live long in the memory of those who knew him."

(g) She is commemorated by Byron in his well-known poem, "She walks in beauty, like the night."

da. of Eusebius Horton, of Catton, co. Derby. She d. 11 March 1866, at 24, Arlington street, aged 44. He d., after a long and painful illness, 2 Aug. 1873, at Parham afsd., aged 63.

XV. 1873. 15. Robert Nathaniel Cecil George (Curzon), Lord Zouche de Haryngworth,(a) only s. and h., b. 12 July 1851, at Catton Hall, co. Derby; ed. at Eton, and at Ch. Ch., Oxford, where he matric. 19 May 1869; suc. to the peerage 2 Aug. 1873. He m. 15 July 1875, at St. Geo., Han. sq., Annie Mary Eleanor (then aged 18) 3d da. of Alexander (Fraser), 17th Lord Saltoun of Abernethy [S.], by Charlotte, da. of Thomas Browne Evans. She, who was b. 8 Feb. 1857 and who left his house three months after marriage, was divorced by decree "nisi," 8 Dec. 1876.(b)

Family Estates.—These, in 1883, consisted of 6,654 acres in Sussex, and 239 in Staffordshire. Total, 6,893 acres, worth £6,223 a year. Principal seat, Parham Park, near Pulborough, co. Sussex.

ZOUCHE, or LA ZOUCHE, DE MORTIMER or DE RICHARDS CASTLE.

Barony by Writ.

I. 1323. 1. William La Zouche, formerly Mortimer, yr. br. of Hugh, Lord Mortimer, (so sum. 1299), both being sons of Robert de Mortimer, of Richards Castle, co. Hereford (d. 1287), by Joyce, da. and h. of William La Zouche, having inherited, thro' his mother, some of the estates of that family, and acquired others, including probably that of Ashby de la Zouche, co. Leicester,(c) (which last he undoubtedly possessed in 1327, after the death s.p.m., in 1314, of Alan. Lord La Zouche), took the name of La Zouche, and was sum. to Parl. as a Baron(d) from 26 Dec. (1323), 17 Ed. II (e) to 14 Jan. (1336/7), 10 Ed. III., the first and second writs being directed "Willo la Zousche" (LORD ZOUCHE or LA ZOUCHE) that for 10 Oct. (1325), 19 Ed. II.,(f) as also for one subsequently, "Willo. la Zousch de Castro Rici" (LORD ZOUCHE DE RICHARDS CASTLE), but those from 15 June (1328), 2 Ed. III., to (his last summons) Jan. 1336/7; "Willo La Zousche de Mortuo Mari" (LORD ZOUCH DE MORTIMER.(g)

(a) It is a curious coincidence that the title of Zouche—which word in French signifies "the stock of a tree"—should be borne by a family named Curzon, the word ("Courgeon") signifying therein "a twig" or "cutting." Camden mentions that William La Zouche, Archbishop of York (1342-52) was (for his valour against the Scotch) alluded to as under "Et pater invictus, sicco de stipite dictus."

(b) The cause was crim. con. with the Earl of Mayo [I.] She m. 30 Aug. 1893, Arthur William (Hill-Trevor) 2d Baron Trevor of Brynkinalt, at which place she d. s.p. 10 May 1895, aged 38. See vol. vii, p. 427, note "b."

(c) There seems to be little doubt but that Ashby so passed, together with the Lordships of Swavesey and Fulborne, co. Cambridge, which undoubtedly did so. The account in Dugdale (vol. i., p. 158, sub. "Mortimer,") is that this William "enjoyed the Lordship of Ashby, co. Leicester, whereof Robert his father [died 1286-87, 15 Ed. I.], had been possessed by the gift of Alan La Zouch, his uncle." It is, however, known that Alan La Zouche d. (1269-70), 5 Hen. III., seized of this manor leaving Roger his s. and h., aged 28, who had livery thereof, and d. (1284-85), 13 Ed. I., leaving Alan his s. and h., afterwards (1299), Lord La Zouche, who in 1301 is described as "dominus de Assheby," which Lordship, apparently, he held till his death, s.p.m., in 1314.

(d) There is proof in the Rolls of Parl. of his sitting.

(e) This was the same Parl. in which his cousin, another William La Zouche, appears with the designation of "de Haryngworth" added to him for the first time.

(f) In this Parl. writs are directed to three persons named William Zouche, viz., (1) "Willo la Zouche, (2) Willo la Zousch de Haryngworth, and (3) Willo la Zousch de Castro Rici," which last doubtless refers to this Baron. The first entry is marked † in the "Report on the dignity of a Peer," and it is far from clear to whom it may refer.

(g) "In the Rolls of Parl., vol. ii., p. 68, 'Mons. Will. la Zouch de Assheby' is stated to have been a Trier of Petitions in 1332, and notwithstanding that this Baron was never so designated in Writs of Summons, it may almost be considered as certain that William la Zouche de Mortimer was the person in question." (b) Eight other Baronies had been already cr. that month (1 to 9 July) on the occasion of Queen Victoria's (first) "jubilee." See vol. ii, p. 238, note "a," sub "Cheylesmore."

AMHERST OF HACKNEY.

Barony.

I. 1892. 1. WILLIAM AMHURST TYSSEN-AMHERST (formerly TYSSEN-AMHURST and, before that, DANIEL-TYSSEN), of Amherst, co. Kent, Didlington Hall, co. Norfolk, and of Hackney, co. London, 1st s. and h. of William George TYSSEN-AMHURST([d]), formerly DANIEL-TYSSEN and, before that, DANIEL, of the same (d. 30 Dec. 1885, aged 54), by Mary, 1st da. of Andrew FOUNTAINE, of Narford Hall, Norfolk, was b. there 25 and bap. 26 April 1835, at Narford ; ed. at Eton, and at Ch. Ch., Oxford ; took (together with his father) the name of Tyssen-Amhurst, in lieu of that of Daniel-Tyssen, by royal lic. 6 Aug. 1852 ; High Sheriff of Norfolk, 1866 ; took, by royal lic., 16 Aug. 1877, the name of Tyssen-Amherst in lieu of that of Tyssen-Amhurst ; was M.P. for West Norfolk, 1880-85, and for South West Norfolk, 1885-92, and was cr. 26 Aug. 1892([e]) BARON AMHERST OF HACKNEY, co. London,([f]) with a spec. rem. of that dignity, failing heirs male of his body, to his eldest da., wife of Lord William CECIL, and the heirs male of her body. He m. 4 June 1856, at Hunmanby, co. York, Margaret Susan, da. and h. of Robert MITFORD, of Mitford Castle and of Hunmanby afsd., Admiral R.N., by Margaret, da. of James DUNSMORE, of Edinburgh. She was b. 8 Jan. 1835, at Lucker, co. Northumberland, and bap. there.

([a]) This was one of no less than 8 introductions on the same date, viz., one Earl (Carrington), 1 Viscount (Peel of Sandy) and 6 Barons (Burghclere of Walden, James of Hereford, Glenesk, Rathmore of Shanganagh, Pirbright, and Aldenham).

([b]) She was granted by Royal warrant, dated 4 Sep. 1838, the precedency of the da. of a Viscount.

([c]) In the time of his father (the 5th Viscount who enjoyed that title above 86 years, 1716), the orthography was altered from Cokayne to Cockayne.

([d]) He was s. and h. of William George Daniel, afterwards (1814) Daniel-Tyssen of East Farleigh, Kent (d. 13 Jan. 1838), by Amelia, da. of John Amhurst, Capt. R.N. (d. 1788, aged 64), heir to her mother, Mary (her father's second wife), da. and h. of Francis John Tyssen, of Hackney abovenamed.

([e]) This was one of 8 Baronies conferred at the recommendation of Lord Salisbury, when leaving office, for a list of which see vol v. p. 126, note "c." No less than two of these, of which this was one, were granted with a special remainder.

([f]) See p. 47 note "a" sub Wandsworth, as to "the county of London." In a letter, however, 22 April 1897 (marked $\frac{18}{4.97}$) from the "London County Council, Estates and Valuation department," signed "Andrew Young, Valuer, pr. W.G." in reply to enquiries (made by the Editor) it is stated that "By the Local Government Act, 1888, and the Metropolis Local Management Act, 1885, Putney, which includes Roehampton, was incorporated and became part of London, ceasing from that time to form part of Surrey!" It is presumed therefore that this remark (mutatis mutandis) applies generally to all other places now situated in the county (or "administrative county" as, at first, it was certainly designated) of London.

Family Estates.—These, in 1883, consisted of 9,488 acres in Norfolk; 240 in the East Riding of Yorkshire, and 47 in Kent. Total 9,775 acres, worth £6,576 a year. Principal Seat.—Didlington Hall, near Brandon, co. Norfolk.

III. 1590? to 1596? 3. THEOBALD BOURKE, s. and h., appears to have been de jure BARON OF ARDENERIE [I.] By the influence of O'Donnell he was declared the "MacWilliam" in 1595, which style had, however, been interdicted by Government. After gaining a victory over the English under Sir John Norris, in 1596, he was shortly afterwards defeated and attainted, when all his honours became forfeited. He fled to Spain and was cr., by Philip II. of Spain, Marquis of Mayo, a dignity which expired on the death of his son, Walter Bourke, s.p.

[c] This was one of eight Baronies conferred at the recommendation of Lord Salisbury on leaving office. See list of them in vol. v, p. 126, note "c," sub "Llangattock." No less than two of these (this one and Amherst of Hackney) had special remainders, in this case the extension being "a very large order," and one almost unprecedented. Compare this case of five Gentlemen at once being thus specially honoured for the merits (however great), of a surviving elder brother, with the limited number of persons which are usually included in such marks of favour, one, which, until a very recent period, was never granted save in cases of transcendent merit.

Sussex. He was 1st s. of the Rev. Christopher BOWEN, of Hollymount, co. Mayo, sometime Rector of St. Thomas, Winchester, by Catherine,(b) da. of Sir Richard STEELE, 3d Bart. [I.] He was b. at Woolaston, near Chepstow, 29 Aug. 1831; ed. at Rugby (1843), and at Ball. Coll., Oxford; Scholar, 1854; 1st class Mod., 1856-7; Fellow, 1857; B.A. and 1st class, 1858; having obtained the Hertford scholarship in 1855; the Ireland and Latin verse in 1857, and the Arnold prize in 1859; M.A., 1872, being cr. D.C.L., 13 June 1883. He was Barrister (Linc. Inn), 1861; Junior Standing Counsel to the Treasury and Recorder of Penzance, 1872; one of the Judges of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice, 1879-82, being knighted, 26 June 1879; one of the Lords Justices of Appeal, 1882-93; Hon. LL.D. of Edinburgh, 1888; F.R.S. He was, 23 Sep. 1893, made a Lord of Appeal and raised to the peerage as above stated. He m., 7 Jan. 1862, at St. John's, Paddington, Emily Frances, sister of Stuart, 1st BARON RENDEL OF HATCHLANDS, 1st da. of James Meadows RENDEL, of Plymouth, Civil Engineer, F.R.S., by Catherine Jane, da. of W. James HARRIS, of Plymouth. He d. s.p. of "a cruel disease, borne with exemplary patience," in Princes gardens, 10 April 1894, aged 59, and was bur. at Slaugham, Sussex, when the peerage became extinct.(c) Will pr. at £26,994 personalty. His widow d., after a long illness, at 2 Queen's Gate gardens, 24 and was bur. 27 March 1897, at Slaugham. Will pr. at £34,250 personalty.

(a) See vol. i, p. 357, note "a" sub. "Blackburn" as to the nature and extent of these creations.

(b) Frances, one of her sisters, m. John Synge, of Glanmore Castle, co. Wicklow, while Emily, another sister, m. the Rev. Edward Synge; hence doubtless her son was named "Synge."

(c) He is spoken of, by one who knew him well, as "of an amiable disposition; a baby face and mincing manner; a subtle mind and ready wit; entirely devoid of humbug." The Times [12 Feb. 1897], writes of him as "versatile, many sided, gifted, and nimble minded, 'delightfully clever' as his first schoolmaster characterized him, and possessed of fascinating social gifts. As counsel he was matchless in industry; with juries he was not very successful." Some of his witty sayings are widely known, e.g., that the Judges' address to the Sovereign should not run "conscious as we are of our shortcomings," but "conscious as we are of one another's shortcomings," as also his paraphrase of the title of a work, called "Defence of the Church of England, by a Beneficed clergyman," as "Defence of the 39 articles by a bonâ fide holder for value." His distinguished career as a scholar, was succeeded by one hardly less so at the Bar. He was a member of the Western Circuit; was junior counsel (Coleridge, afterwards Chief Justice, being the senior) for the infant heir in the first "Tichborne trial" and again (with Hawkins, Q.C.), at the longer criminal trial that followed; he was complimented by Ch. Justice Coleridge for his able summing up of the Duke of Norfolk's [successful] claim to the Fitzalan chapel attached to Arundel church. His life, by Sir Henry Cunningham, was pub. in 1897. A touching tribute was paid to him by the Master of the Rolls, Lord Esher, who declared in the Court of Appeal, soon after his death, that in his opinion, Bowen "was the most distinguished Judge who had sat in an English Court during the long period [more than 50 years] of his acquaintance with the occupants of the English bench." His 7 months tenure of office as a Lord of Appeal was even less than that of Lord Hannen, whom he suc. therein and who d. but a few days (29 March 1894) before him.

CORRIGENDA ET ADDENDA,

Down to September 1897.

[These incorporate those contained at the end of each previous Volume (Vols. I to VII), which, accordingly, need not be consulted excepting in the few cases where (to avoid unnecessary reprinting) special reference is herein made to them.]

p. i; dele lines 31 to 35 as also lines 1 and 2 on page ii.; insert "they are not included, save in two or three cases, such, more especially, as Abergavenny, Berkeley, &c., where it has been contended that the tenure per Baroniam constituted the actual peerage. BARONIES BY TENURE are a class of dignities, which are best dealt with by themselves, and the account of them given in Nicolas and reproduced in Courthope is, when tested by the light of the researches made during the last threescore years, very inaccurate, besides also that a vast number of such Baronies are altogether omitted in those publications."

p. ii; dele lines 9 to 11, and insert—"AS TO SCOTLAND, an accurate distinction between such Barons as may be considered PEERS (i.e., the GREATER BARONS, who were 'LORDS OF PARLIAMENT') and such (i.e., the LESSER BARONS) as held only a territorial Barony, is, at an early period, hardly attainable. In this work an account will be given of such Scotch Baronies only as were Lords of Parl., or which (tho', in some cases, almost imperceptibly) developed afterwards into such. One of the best authorities on such a subject, the well known John Riddell ('Scotch Peerage Law,' edit. 1833, p. 89, note 2) remarks that in Scotland 'we had no hereditary Lordships of Parl. till about [1437-1463] the reign of James II.' [S]. R. R. Stodart, Lyon Clerk Depute, in a letter (1885) to the Editor, writes that 'It does not seem that there were Barons by tenure here [S] as in England, or rather, one might say that the Minor Barons were all Barons by tenure; they certainly were not Lords of Parl.' G. Burnett, Lyon, adds, in a similarly directed letter (1889), that 'the Scotch Parl., as it existed in the 14th and 15th centuries and the greater part of the 16th, was an assemblage in one Chamber of three separate orders of the Community, the Prelates, Barons and Burgesses. The Earls belonged to the order of Barons. All Barons in the old sense, i.e., landholders holding their land as a Barony, had the right, or, more properly speaking, were under the obligation, to attend the meeting of the Estates, sometimes expressed as part of the reddendum of a charter. By the less considerable landowners the obligation to be present was often held a grievous burden and a statute of James I [S], in March 1427/8, enacted that the Small Barons should be excused from attending Parl., provided they sent two or more wise men from each Sheriffdom to represent them. Though this act, as well as a later one, was a failure as to its main object (Parliamentary representation) it was probably held to afford a quasi-sanction to the habitual absence of the Small Barons, while the bestowal of a new title, that of Lord of Parliament, on the more considerable of the order, who might regard parliamentary attendance as a privilege rather than a burden, contributed further to the same result. No such creations, however, existed prior to the time (1406-37) of James I [S], who created but few, tho' his successor (1437-60) James II [S], created a good many, but many Barons even at that period, who attended the meetings of the estates, were not Lords of Parliament.' The distinction between the Greater Barons [S] (who were Lords of Parl.), and the Lesser Barons (who were not such Lords) is emphasised in the creation (14 April 1616) of Sir David Carnegy in Baronem Majorem et Dominum Parliamenti [S]"; last line and also lines 1 to 5 on p. iii; dele the words "as also of" to "successor."

p. iii; note (a), insert at end "See p. 171, note (c) and vol. iii, p. 83, note (c) and p. 86, note (a);" note (c) line 2 for "wit" read "writ."

p. lv ; line 2, after the word "Lynch," insert "([a])," as a reference to note "a," which insert as under. "Lynch is 'the ablest writer, no doubt, upon the subject, but, we must remember, a partisan. Lynch wrote with the object of establishing, as a rule of law, a presumption in favour of heirs male in the descent of Irish dignities. Betham, in spite of his official position [Ulster King of Arms, 1820-53] was so poor an advocate (in his Dignities Feudal and Parliamentary, 1830) of the opposite view, that we cannot wonder at G.E.C. following Lynch throughout. . . . The native tribal principle, invincibly in favour of Agnates, strove here, as elsewhere, against the principles of English law. We imagine that at first the latter prevailed especially within the Pale, but with the ebb of the English rule the native principle revived, and even the Anglo-Normans (Hibernis Hiberniores) adopted, in the wilder parts, the old tribal system, or at least elaborately entailed their estates upon heirs male. Thus there arose, in practise, a system of male succession, altho', in our opinion, it had not prevailed at first. It is largely due to this development that the houses of the Conquistadores present so long and illustrious a descent in the male line, instead of merging in heiresses, as in England would have been their fate.' (Quarterly Review, for Oct. 1893. Vol. 177, p. 410, in an able article headed The Peerage)" ; dele lines 2 and 3 from the word "while" to the end ; insert as under. "The early dates (1181, etc.) assigned to some of the Irish Baronies have always been a great difficulty, one, it is feared, that has not been very adequately dealt with in this work, but (since its issue) the solution thereof has been thus ably indicated. ([a]) 'The origin of the difficulty is, we would suggest, that whereas in England the creation of a Barony [if not by letters patent] is reckoned to date from the first proved writ of summons ; in Ireland the writ of summons has been comparatively ignored, and dignities traced to the earliest period at which their possessors were Barons by tenure. This principle, tho' pressed upon them, has always been rejected by our own House of Lords, so that the apparent superior antiquity of Irish over English Baronies has no foundation in fact.' The anomalous precedency accorded to the Barony of Abergavenny seems, however, a case (probably the only case) in which the English Peers have in modern times recognised some such right.

As to England, Courthope's work (above mentioned) is an almost infallible guide as far as it extends ; some matters, however, have been changed since (1857) the date of its issue. The validity of the writ of (1264) 49 Hen. III. (to Montfort's parl.) which had been accepted in the cases of Le Despencer (1604) and of De Ros (1806) has been disallowed ([b]) in 1877 (in the decision on Mowbray) 'and has thereby raised a question of precedence as yet insoluble.'([a]) The theory that the next valid writ to 1264 was that of 24 June (1295) 23 Ed. I. (tho' the late Dep. Keeper of the Records, the well known Sir Thomas Duffus Hardy, expressly stated in 1841, in the Hastings case, that he had made search for any intermediate writs of summons and found none) has also been upset by their Lordships' decision in 1877 (in the Mowbray and Segrave case) who allowed the validity of the writ of summons to Shrewsbury, 28 June (1283) 11 Ed. I., 'apparently without the slightest conception that they were establishing a precedent of the most momentous consequence. When it is added that the contested writs of 1294 and 1297 were also allowed to be put into evidence without question([c]) and that the writ of 1283 affects a hundred [!] Baronies it will be seen that the Mowbray decision (1877) unconsciously worked a revolution, and that the histories of baronies by writ must now be undertaken de novo.'([d]) The decision in 1841 in the Hastings case (ignoring the writ of 1264) recognised

([a]) Article headed "The Peerage" in the Quarterly Review for Oct., 1893.

([b]) The writ of 1264 had, however, been previously (1841) ignored in the Hastings case.

([c]) These writs, however, were very possibly not questioned, as nothing turned upon them. The number of writs (already held to be valid) under which (by the decision of 1673), a peerage descendible to heirs general is now held to have been created, is great, and the persons summoned in such writs are "legion." It is curious, too, that these (now deemed) hereditary peerages should have been created in batches of 100 or so, and that, too, by the early Plantagenet kings, generally supposed to have been more chary of such creations than the House of Stuart.

Vicary GIBBS, M.P., not only for contributing numerous dates, and names of persons and places, but for supplying many notices of peers and peeresses severally, from contemporary sources (more especially those in vols. vi to viii), and for various valuable suggestions. The Editor takes this opportunity of mentioning that during the course of this work, a large number of Letters, Memoirs, Journals, Obituaries and other kindred writings have (with the assistance of friends) been carefully examined, with the result not only of correcting and amplifying many vague and doubtful statements appearing in works bearing on the Peerage, but of checking and confirming a still larger number. Such a field is practically inexhaustible, and, if this enquiry be pursued, it will, as printing makes more and more of such works accessible, be possible in the future to approach much nearer, not only to correctness, but also to completeness, than in this so styled Complete Peerage has hitherto been attained.

Note (a) conclude as follows "The Somersetshire Beauchamps and the descent of this Barony are ably dealt with by 'John Batten' in the proceedings of the Somersetshire Archæological Society, a reprint whereof at Taunton (pp.-40) was made in 1891. The writer holds that this Barony, of which in 1361 Roger Seymour was sole representative, was not forfeited by Act 5 Ed. VI., nor by the attainder (1551-52) of the 1st Duke of Somerset (heir general of the said Roger), and that, even had it been so forfeited, it would have been restored by Act 7 Ed. VI. for the restitution in blood of Sir Edward Seymour, that duke's eldest son. Note (e), after "who" add "as John de Beauchamp, Lord of Hache." In that case the 12th Duke of Somerset, his lineal heir general, would (subject to any attainder of the 1st Duke that might affect it) have been so entitled, and on his death, s.p.m.s. 28 Nov. 1885, it would have fallen into abeyance among his daughters. W. Watson, who has kindly contributed the following additional remarks:—

'Louis and Henry de Beaumont were younger sons of Louis de Brienne, dit d'Acre, who was, jure uxoris, Vicomte de Beaumont in Maine. This Louis was younger son of John de Brienne, King of Jerusalem, Emperor of Constantinople, by Berengaria, da. of Alfonso IX, King of Leon, father of Ferdinand III, King of Castile and Leon, the father of Eleanor, first wife of Edward I and mother of Edward II. This explains why the phrase consanguineus Regis is applied to Henry de Beaumont, why his sister Isabel (de Vesci) is called Kinswoman to Queen Eleanor, and also why the arms of Jerusalem were sometimes quartered with his own. Louis de Brienne had substituted fleur de lis for the billets in the arms of Brienne [azure, billettee, a lion rampant, or], and Henry de Beaumont bore the paternal arms without further difference, perhaps because he resided in England. Mr. Stapleton (Rot. Norm. II, p. 32) incidentally mentions the parentage of Henry, while that of his brother Louis, the Bishop of Durham, is, I believe, recorded in every French pedigree of Brienne.

I am unable to say to whom is originally due the extraordinary statement that Louis and Henry de Beaumont were sons of Louis, eldest son of Charles, King of Sicily and Jerusalem. The arms of that King were those of France, differenced with a label gules, and did not contain the lion rampant; moreover, his said son Louis died in Cyprus a few days after his birth in 1248, and was buried in the Church of the Dominicans at Nicosia. The origin of the error is sufficiently obvious, for on either hypothesis, the Beaumont brothers are made grandsons of a King of Jerusalem. Charles, King of Sicily, was son of Louis VIII, father of Louis IX, father of Philip, the father of Margaret of France, second wife of Edward I. The Beaumont arms could hardly be explained (as Hermentrude supposes) if the English Beaumonts were male descendants of the royal house of France. For it is not conceivable that any member of that family would have so far differenced his arms as to have assumed a lion rampant for the principal charge. It might be supposed that Louis, the Vicomte de Beaumont adopted the fleur de lis and obtained his christian name because he was nearly related to the Kings of France, but he was, in fact, not so related?"

THOMAS-MORETON-FITZHARDINGE BERKELEY, de jure, EARL BERKELEY [1679], VISCOUNT DURSLEY [1679], and LORD BERKELEY [1421], who, however, never assumed such titles, nor bore (since infancy) any style other than "the Hon." He was the 5th but 1st legit. s. and h. of his parents, being born five months after the date (16 May 1796) of their marriage. He was b. at Cranford, Midx., 19 Oct. and bap. 19 Nov. 1796, as "Lord Dursley" at St. Martin's-in-the-fields,(f) but ceased, at an early age, to be so styled, his eldest (tho' illegit.) br. being (subsequently) so designated. He matric. at Oxford (Corpus) 16 June 1814. He d. unm. 27 Aug. 1882, in his 87th year,(a) at Cranford afsd., and was bur. there. At his death the Barony of Berkeley [1421] passed to the heir general of the body of the first Baron (as set out subsequently below), but the Earldom and Viscountcy devolved on the heir male of the body of the grantee thereof, viz.:—

Earldom VII. } 1882. 7. GEORGE LENNOX FITZHARDINGE (BERKELEY). EARL OF BERKELEY and VISCOUNT DURSLEY, cousin and h. male, being 3d and yst. but only surv. s. and h. of Gen. Sir George Henry Frederick BERKELEY, K.C.B. (d. 25 Sept. 1857, aged 72), by Lucy, da. and coheir of Sir Thomas SUTTON, Bart., which Sir George was 1st s. and h. of Admiral the Hon. Sir George Cranfield BERKELEY, G.C.B. (d. 25 Feb. 1818, aged 64), next br. to the 5th Earl. He was b. 25 Feb. 1827; was sometime an officer in the army; suc. to the peerage 27 Aug. 1882, but, his right thereto not having been established, never took his seat. He m. 22 Feb. 1860, Cecile, divorced wife of Admiral the Hon. Sir Fleetwood Broughton Reynolds PELLEW, 2d da. and coheir of Edward DRUMMOND, COMTE (Edouard) DE MELFORT, in France, by Maria NASMYTH his wife. He d. in Dover Street, 27 Aug. 1888, aged 61, and was bur. in the family vault at Moseley, Surrey. His widow living 1897.

VIII. 1888. 8. RANDAL MOWBRAY THOMAS (BERKELEY), EARL OF BERKELEY and VISCOUNT DURSLEY [1679], only s. and h., b. 30 Jan. 1865; entered the Royal Navy 1881; Lieut. 1887; styled VISCOUNT DURSLEY, 1882-88; suc. to the peerage, as above, 27 Aug. 1888, his right thereto being established 31 July 1891. He m. 9 Aug. 1887, Kate, widow of Arthur JACKSON, yst. da. of William BRAND.

The right to the BARONY OF BERKELEY, cr. by writ 1421, devolved on the death (27 Aug. 1882) of the (de jure) 6th Earl of Berkeley, etc. (who was both heir general and heir male of the body of the Baron so sum.) as below.

Barony by writ. XV. 1882, recognised 1893. 15. LOUISA MARY, suo jure, BARONESS BERKELEY [1421], niece and heir general, wife of Major Gen. Gustavus Hamilton Lockwood MILMAN, Royal Artillery, da. and h. of the Hon. Craven Fitzhardinge BERKELEY, by his first wife Augusta, relict of George Henry TALBOT, formerly Augusta JONES, spinster, illegit. da. of Sir Horace ST. PAUL, Bart., which Craven (who d. s.p.m. 1 July 1855 aged 50) was the 3d and yst. br., but the only one who left surv. issue of the 6th (de jure) Earl above named. She was b. 28 May 1840, in Mansfield street, Marylebone; m. 3 April 1872; suc. to the peerage 27 Aug. 1882, her right thereto being declared by letters patent 12 June 1893.

add as note "(f) His mother is described in that entry as Countess of Berkeley, tho' the two baptisms there recorded of the previous children (13 March 1795 and 15 July 1793) are as those 'of the Earl of Berkeley, by Mary Cole.' The entry in the Berkeley parish register of Thomas' baptism there without the description of Lord Dursley, appears to be one of a series of fraudulent entries made therein by his father (together with his marriage entry of 30 March 1785), when he (late in life) conceived the idea of legitimating the four bastard sons, who were born previously to 1796."

[In 1435 THE EARLDOM OF BUCHAN [S.] was [according to Fordun] conferred on George Dunbar, who had been deprived at that date of the EARLDOM OF DUNBAR or MARCH [S.], but it is spoken of [Fraser's Douglas Book, vol. ii, p. 31, only as "the empty title of Earl of Buchan," and was certainly one which was little, if indeed at all, used by the grantee. See vol. iii, p. 200, sub "Dunbar." It was, however, soon afterwards again disposed of as below.]

XIII. 1444? to 1465. 1. THE LADY MARY STEWART, da. of James I [S.], by Joanna, da. of JOHN (BEAUFORT), EARL OF SOMERSET, m. at ter Veere in Zealand, in 1444,([a]) WOLFART VAN BORSSELE,([b]) 1st s. and h. ap. of Henry VAN BORSSELE, COUNT OF GRANDPRÉ in Champagne, "Heer van der Veere in Zealand,"([c]) by his second wife Jane, da. of Oliver VAN HALEWYN, "Heer van Lacken and Heuserode." She appears to have been granted the Earldom of Buchan, probably on the occasion of her marriage, her husband thus becoming "jure mariti"([d]) EARL OF BUCHAN [S.], and being spoken of as having "had the compliment made him of the title of Earl of Buchan."([e]) She d. s.p.s. 20 March 1465, and was bur. at Sandenburg at ter Veere in Zealand. M.I. He m. secondly (contract 17 June 1468) "Charlotte DE BOURBON, da. of Louis I, COUNT OF MONTPENSIER, OF CLERMONT AND OF SANCERRE, DAUPHIN OF AUVERGNE, by his 2nd wife, Gabrielle, da. of Bertrand VI, Seigneur de la Tour, COUNT OF AUVERGNE AND BOULOGNE."([b]) She d. 14 March 1478, and was bur. at Sandenburg afsd. M.I. He is called in 1464 "Marshal of France and Chamberlain to the King," but is never afterwards so described. He suc. his father, 17 Feb. 1474, as COUNT OF GRANDPRÉ, &c.,([f]) was Gov. of Holland, Zealand and Friesland 1477-80, and was cr. a Knight of the Golden Fleece at Bruges, 1-2 May 1478. He d. s.p.m.s., at Ghent, 29 April 1487, and was bur. at Sandenburg afsd. M.I., in which he is styled "Grave van Grootvelt, Bouchane,([g]) Heere van ter Veere," &c.

([a]) This date is expressly given by Jan van Reigersberch, who adds that the marriage was "met grooter triumphe." [ex inform G. W. Watson, who came across the passage in this obscure chronicle, after he had compiled his article on Van Borssele (see note next below), in which he had conjectured the date to be 1449].

([b]) See an able article by G. W. Watson, in The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xiv., pp. 10-11, entitled "Wolfart van Borssele, Earl of Buchan." This gives full particulars of him and his ancestry, and furnishes almost entirely the facts and statements in the above notice.

([c]) This title is spoken of as "Lord of Campvere in Zealand" in Burnett's Stewart genealogy (see note "e" below) and elsewhere.

([d]) He is thus spoken of in Burnett's Genealogy of the Stewart family in the preface to vol. iv. of the "Exchequer Rolls" [S.], 1880, and on the M.I. his wife is described as "Mary of Scotland, da. of James, King of Scotland, Countess of Buchan," a description which somewhat implies a suo jure Countess, and which is not given to her husband's second wife. See also note "g" below.

([e]) "Yair," p. 80, as quoted in an article by "A.W.C.H." on "Scottish trade with Flanders," in Northern Notes and Queries or the Scottish Antiquary, vol. iii, p. 141 (1889).

([f]) In 1487 he sold "the Comté of Grandpré," which his father had purchased.

([g]) In 1469, or certainly in 1476 (that is to say after the death [1465] of the Countess Mary, but long before that of her husband, Wolfart [1487]), the Earldom of Buchan was undoubtedly again disposed of, being then conferred on James Stewart.

Now comes the curious thing. After Nov. 19 the name suddenly drops out of the daily roll of Barons in that Parl. I hold then that Thomas Boleyn never sat, and that one of two things had happened, either [1] that, as sometimes happened, the writ had gone out, as usual, to the Earl of Ormond, tho' dead, or [2] that Thomas Boleyn had been sum. (as in Dugdale's writs), but in error. In either case the mistake seems to have been discovered, and the name omitted after Nov. 19. I lean to the first hypothesis because the old Barons would never have allowed T. B. to be placed at their head. Moreover, in 1515, he was not even coheir to the dignity, but only the son of a coheir, and therefore there was nothing in him.'" The family of Cornwall possessed, from a very early date, the manor of Burford, co. Salop, "a land Barony by tenure of providing 5 men for the army of Wales, and tho' the Cornwalls were not parliamentary Peers, either by writ of summons or patent, yet they invariably styled themselves BARONS OF BURFORD and retained this titular distinction even down to the alienation of the estate [circa 1730] in the last [18th] century." CORNWALL.

A BARONY OF CORNWALL may possibly be held to have existed conjointly with that of Fanhope, inasmuch as John (CORNWALL), Lord Fanhope appears to have been always sum. to Parl. by writs directed "Johanni Cornewall, Chivalier." See "Fanhope," Barony, cr. 1433; ex. 1443."

CORNWALL (county of).

Earldom.

I. 1068? to 1075?

1. BRIAN DE BRETAGNE, a Count of Britanny, is often considered as EARL OF CORNWALL(d) being undoubtedly spoken of as Comes Anglice terre.(e) He was br. of Alan, who received the honour of Richmond [see vol. vi, p. 342, sub "Richmond"], with whom he is said to have commanded a band of Bretons at the battle of Hastings. He received Cornwall and West Devon, when that region had been reduced into possession, in the spring of 1068. Early in 1069, he witnessed a charter in favour of Exeter Cathedral, and, in June, put to flight the sons of Harold near the river Taw. He was probably deposed after Guader's rebellion in 1075. He was, subsequently, among the invaders of South Italy, capitulating, in 1084, as Governor, for the city of Castoria.

insert as said notes "(d) Chester Waters writes, as to the Earldom of Cornwall, that 'the first Earl after the Conquest was Brient of Brittany, the elder br. of Alan, who was created Earl of East Anglia to soothe the Bretons in England, when they were indignant at the expulsion of Ralph de Guader, in 1075, and the transfer of Brient's Earldom to Robert of Mortain." "(e) See vol. vi, p. 342, note (e), under Richmond. It should be noted that his nephew, Alan de Bretagne, Earl of Cornwall, in a charter of 1140 to the monks of St. Michael in Cornwall, mentions him as his uncle from whom he had inherited the Earldom of Cornwall"; lines 17 and 35, for "MORTEIN," read "MORTAIN"; line 20, for "MORTEIN in the Cotentin(b)," read "MORTAIN, in the Avranchin(aa)"; and insert as said note "(aa) The Avranchin in which Mortain (Moritonium or Moretolium) is situated in the south part (the Cotentin being the north part) of what is now called La Manche, not being in the Cotentin, tho' the Counts of Mortain were sometimes called Counts of the city of Coutances. It is not to be confounded with a place of a somewhat like name, viz., Mortagne (Mauritania) in Perche [Ex. inform. G. W. Watson]"; line 23, after "probably," add "eventually"; line 24, after "he," add "after the expulsion of Earl Brian"; lines 32 and 33, dele "He was living" to the end, and insert "He(b) d. 8 Dec. 1090." Note (b), line 1, dele "not to be confounded with Mortagne in La Manche." Note (e), dele the whole note.

p. 361; note (b) conclude "See Vol. vi, p. 345, note (d), as to the possibility of Alan de Dinan having been nominated Earl of Cornwall, in 1141, by the Empress Maud." Note (e), conclude "See Vol. iii, p. 66, note (a), sub Derby, as to the Earldoms supposed to have been then conferred on him."

p. 362; line 31, for "MAURIENNE," read "SAVOY"; lines 32 and 33, dele "Theodoric" to "Cologne," and insert "Thierry DE FAUQUEMONT, by Jane, da. of Arnoul, COUNT OF LOOZ(oo)"; and insert as said note "(oo) G. W. Watson remarks: 'The parentage of the third wife of Richard, Earl of Cornwall has been variously stated. According to Butkens, she was dau. of Lothaire, Count of Hostade and Daelhem; it is this hypothesis alone which would make her niece of Conrad, Archbishop of Cologne. Gebauer, in his Life of Richard (1744), endeavours to prove that she was dau. of Philip von Falckenstein, Arch-chamberlain of the Empire. But it appears certain that she was really dau. of Thierry de Fauquemont (Valkenberg, near Maastricht), by his wife Jane, da. of Arnoul, Count of Looz: and consequently niece, not of Conrad, but of his successor, Engilbert de Fauquemont.'" parish as the church of Hope, and that both were in the jurisdiction of the said Dean and Chapter; it shows that the chapel was in the Peak, and on land which was formerly Peverel's; and it shows that the Earl de Ferrers SEIZED this land during the war between the King and his barons, and gave it to the monks for this chapel. Turning to Lysons' Mag. Brit., vi. 183, we find that Hope is in the hundred and deanery of High Peak (about 8 miles from chapel-en-le Frith), and that the church was vested in the Dean and Chapter of Lichfield; and in the same vol., p. 73, we find that, in Chapel-en-le Frith, a chapel was originally built and consecrated between 1224 and 1238, and that this town is in the hundred and deanery of High Peak. The only baron's war that fits these dates is that of 1227, when the Earl de Ferrers is said to have joined other Earls at the time [when] Henry III. sought to deprive his brother Richard, Earl of Cornwall, of a certain manor. William, E. de Ferrers, therefore, "made himself heir," and "intruded himself into" the inheritance of William Peverel by seizing some of the land which had been Peverel's, in the year 1227, about 28 years AFTER he had paid King John 2,000 marks for Hecham, Bliseworth and Newbottle, and had GIVEN UP ALL HIS CLAIMS to the OTHER lands which were Peverel's. (Oblate Roll, 1 Joh.); and this was 5 years before Agnes (de Blundeville) became a coheir of her brother. But, blind as Planché was to what the Oblate Roll, 1 John, clearly shows, and as to how the Earl of this plea made himself heir, when he did it, and which Earl it was, he was still more negligent in dropping this plea where he did; for, had he read further on in it, he would have seen that the monks came to the Earl and asked him to conceed to them (which he did) the tithes belonging to this chapel, AS THE EARL WAS THE HEIR OF THE AFORESAID WILLIAM PEVEREL.

Now, for the third proof, which was not found by Planché. PLEA ROLL, 1 JOHN (Abb. Plac., page 24).—Isabella de Peissi claims rights in Newbottle and Bliseworth, against the Earl de Ferrers, after (but in the same regnal year) he had given King John 2,000 marks for Hecham, Bliseworth and Newbottle, and had released all his claims to Peverel's other lands. In this plea the King testifies that Isabella has no right in Newbottle and Bliseworth, except through her deceased husband, Robert de Peissi, who held them from King Henry (II.) while the Honor of Peverel was in his hands; and that by an agreement between King John and the EARL, WHO IS HEIR TO THE SAID HONOR, the lands in question and others of the same Honor had been given and warranted to the Earl by John. Here, then, is King John's acknowledgment that the Earl himself (no jure ux.) was heir to the Honor of Peverel, in the year 1199.

It seems certain, from the foregoing, that Wm. de Ferrers, E. of Derby 1190-1247, had Peverel blood in his veins. Charter only show the Earl William, 1162?-1190, to have wife Sybilla. Unless this latter Earl had two wives, therefore, the Peverel marriage must have been with Earl Robert (1139-1162?), whose wife's name is not mentioned in any charter that I have seen. Notwithstanding [that] Brooke's "Catalogue," 1619 (Vincent does not criticise the statement), and Dugdale gave the first Earl Wm. to Margaret Peverel as husband (and later writers have copied it), it is to be noted that at least Shaw's Staffordshire and Glover's Derbyshire make the second Robert the husband of Margaret Peverel, which Doyle half adopts. It is to be noted, also, that the second Robert styled himself "of Nottingham"; and that his son, Earl Wm., held Hicham, Bliseworth and Newbottle by Knights service in 1166 (Lib. Rub. and Lib. Nig.).'

acts are evidently drawn on the same model, the opening clause deals with the title in peculiar language, which I need not repeat. This was unnecessary in the Kildare case, because the heir was already Earl under the creation of 1554. Again, in all 3 cases, the Barony recognised by the Act of Parl. is limited to the heirs male of the body, and is therefore held to be further distinguished from the forfeited Barony in fee. This also does not apply in the case of the Earldom of Kildare in which the limitation had always been to heirs male of the body. In the cases of Lumley and Darcy it is held that, the attainder not having been formally reversed, the original Barony is still under forfeiture ; in that of Stafford the form of restitution approaches so closely to that employed in the Kildare Act that its words ought to be quoted' [Round's Earldom of Kildare, as above] ;" lines 19 and 20, for "repeal the statute (28 Hen. The high precedence, according to antiquity of creation as Peerage dignities, allowed to the ancient Baronies of Ireland, and their somewhat anomalous ranking among themselves, is well explained as below—'Whereas in England the CREATION of a Barony is reckoned to date from the first proved Writ of Summons, in Ireland the Writ of Summons has been comparatively ignored and dignities traced to the earliest period at which their possessors were Barons by tenure. This principle, tho' pressed upon them, has always been rejected by our own House of Lords, so that the apparent superior antiquity of Irish over English Baronies has no foundation in fact.' [and] no evidence that he was the father of that Patrick de Courcy who is the first of the family on record. The whole story has been patched together, to connect the fatherless Patrick with John, the Conqueror of Ulster'" [Quarterly Review, as above.] Note ([b]), conclude "It is also to be noted 'that the true title, however, was not Kingsale, but Courcy, and so late as 1613 the then Peer sat in Parl. as Lord Courcy of Ringroane. In the list drawn up preliminary to that Parl. he is styled the Lord Baron Cursie; and Lord Courcy, simply, was the style by which these Peers had always been known. The creation, however, of a Viscount Kingsale in 1625 was resented by Lord Courcy as an encroachment on his own territory, and in 1627 he obtained from Royal Commissioners a misleading report that the Lord Courcy was not only Lord Courcy, but Baron of Kingsale and also of Ringrone. In 1634 the Lords' Journals still style him Lord Courcy in their list, but eventually Kingsale, in lieu of Courcy was adopted as the title of their peerage dignity, which, however, continues to be but one' [Quarterly Review, as above]. Even as late as the reign of Charles II. 'the young Lord Courcy' was the term applied to Almericus, the then Baron."

p. 394; line 7, for "20 Ric. II.," read "20 Ric. II.([aa])," and insert as said note "([aa]) The writer above quoted, after remarking that 'whatever the family's status was [previously] it required we learn from Ulster to be confirmed by patent, 1397,' says that that date (or the one of '1396-97, 20 Ric. II') is arrived at by 'misreading Lodge, who does not supply one.' He adds that 'as the earliest patent for an Irish Barony is assigned to 1462, the terms of the De Courcy patent would be of extreme interest, and it is much to be regretted that Lodge did not quote them. Possibly they implied a creation de novo and would thus have been distasteful to his patrons. In any case, so long as it is kept in retentis a doubt will surround this document' [Quarterly Review, as above.] Search has since been made among the records at Dublin by a competent authority (Frank S. Marsh), who writes thereon as follows: 'There is an old Lodge MS[S]. book purporting to be an official list of the Peers and Baronets of Ireland compiled from the earliest records and histories extant. This book formerly belonged to Ulster's office, but is now [1898] in the P.R.O. In this is an entry [viz.] Miles de Courcy (son of John, Earl of Ulster), title—Lord Courcy of Kingsale and Ringrone, co. Corke, date of patent 1223, 7° Hen. 3 (and in brackets below), confirmed by patent in 1397, 20 Ric. 2. This must be the same patent as is mentioned in the beginning of the paragraph [Lodge's Peerage of Ireland, edit. 1789, vol. vi] on p. 148, as issued at Westminster, 1 Jan. 1397, and I think it must be to it that the concluding words of the paragraph [by the letters patent of that King, received a confirmation of the honours and titles of Baron of Kingsale and Ringrone] refer. There may have been some slight confusion in the mind of the writer which led him to make two patents out of one. At all events if there is another patent it must be in the English Rolls. I searched the index to the Patent and Close Rolls of Ric. II. (there are none here from 18 Ric. II. to end of his reign), and also went through the Repertory to the Memoranda Rolls and inspected a stray Reward Roll of same reign (which I discovered) but without finding any trace of Note (c), conclude "The Restitution Act of 1885 has been called an elaborate make believe. In some respect it was so, as being the restoration of a dignity, never previously held to have been under forfeiture, save only from 1716 to 1824. No one, before 1885, ever assumed that there was more than one Earldom of Mar vested in the Earl, who died in 1866, an Earldom which was generally (indeed one may say, as far as regards the best Scotch authorities, universally) regarded as being one of great antiquity, that had descended to him as heir of line. Their Lordships, however, having, in 1875, declared that the

Earldom of Mar [far from being ancient] was a peerage created late in the 16th century with the then ordinary rem. to the heirs male of the body of the grantee, the form of the Restitution Act of 1885 (recognising the ancient Earldom as belonging to the heir of line) was the obvious way of effecting justice without flatly contravening the eccentric and baseless decision of but ten years before. To effect this 'The Bill [without affirming that there was a lawful forfeiture or surrender] proceeds upon the supposition that there may have been and probably was a lawful forfeiture or surrender.' [Statement of Lord Selborne, Chairman of the Committee in 1885]. If there was no forfeiture, the ancient Earldom was possessed by the Earl who died in 1866, and at his death passed at once to the heir of line, but the anomalous decision of 1875 (which attributed a 16th century Earldom of Mar to that Earl) casting doubt on such possession, the Act of 1885 put the heir of line in possession of the ancient Earldom as if it had been forfeited and he had been by that Act restored to it." connexion of the Duke with this town since 1818, but it throws no light on the reason which led him, in 1809, to select Wellington for his title' [A. L. Humphreys's History of Wellington, co. Somerset, 1889]. The family of Wellesley, however, from whom the Duke descended in the female line, is traditionally said 'to derive their existing name from a locality called Welesley, in Somersetshire' [Lower's Patron. Brit.], and it appears that temp. Hen. I., one 'Avenant de Wellesley was King's Serjeant of all the country lying East of the river Peret, in Somersetshire' [Lynch's Feudal Baronies [I.], pp. 95-103, where is a good account of the Irish family]. In that county also [see Collinson's Somerset], the name occurs in the hundred of Wells, and one Philip de Wellesleigh, who d. s.p.m. between 1350 and 1395, was Lord of the Manors of Nettlecombe, Wheathill and Radstock. As early, however, as 8 Nov. 1230, Walleran de Wellesley appears in Ireland, and was the lineal ancestor of Garret Wellesley, of Dangan and Mornington, who d. s.p. 1728. He, being maternal grandson of Dudley Colley (d. 1674), left his estates to his first cousin, Richard Colley (afterwards 1st Baron Mornington [I.]), another grandson, and then heir male of the said Dudley. This Richard Colley had, however, a remote descent from Wellesley or Wealey. See vol. v, p. 375, note (c)"; line 23, for "s.," read "s.(a)."

Mr. Round proves that (except for the documents mentioned below) there is no authentic mention of the Earldom before 1645. The Signet Office Docquet Book for April 1645, contains the entry of a bill for its creation. As TO THE DUKEDOM OF SOMERSET, stated to have been conferred on the family of that name, afterwards Dukes of Beaufort, Mr. Round kindly contributes (1898) the following note:—"Great confusion has prevailed on the subject of this Dukedom in consequence of its grant, or alleged grant, depending on two distinct documents: (1) The anomalous document dated 1 April 1644, which is printed in Collins' Peerage. This document (which is in English) contains among other concessions the words 'We give and allow you henceforward . . . the title of DUKE OF SOMERSET to you and your heirs male for ever.' It is obvious that these words cannot be regarded as an operative patent of creation. (2) A formal patent of creation still preserved at Badminton, which is not mentioned by Collins, or by modern writers on the peerage. This patent styles the grantee 'Edvardum, Comitem comitatus Glamorgan,' and confirms on him the dignity 'Ducis de Somerset et Beaufort.' It is dated 4 May 1645 ('anno regni nostri vicesimo primo'), but the word 'primo' is admittedly an addition, and Mr. Gardiner adopts as its true date 4 May 1644. It was clearly the latter of these two documents which the grantee (by that time Marquis of Worcester) produced at the Restoration; for Dugdale's words are 'The Marquis of Worcester did exhibit a patent under the Great Seal pretended to be granted to him by the late King at Oxford for creating [him] Duke of Somerset and Beaufort,' &c. [5th Rep. Hist. MSS. Com., p. 178]. But Dugdale goes on to mention the other document as then in possession of the Marquis, and as being also probably a forgery. There are subsidiary documents and letters which Mr. Gardiner admits are somewhat difficult to reconcile with the two documents above. He accepts the latter, however, as being both of them genuine, but Mr. Round, who has made a special and prolonged study of the subject, believes both to be forged, as, apparently, did Anstis (Garter). As the point is one of historical importance, reference may be made to Mr. Round's article in the Academy of 8 Dec. 1883, Mr. Gardiner's reply in the English Historical Review of Oct. 1887, Mr. Gardiner's History of the Civil War, and to the correspondence between Mr. Round and Mr. Gardiner in the Athenæum of 15 Jan. and 26 Feb. 1898. Mr. Round proposes to publish his detailed investigation of the question.'"

Walter de Haliburton, husband of the Duchess of Rothesay, drew her pension from the customs of Edinburgh and Linlithgow from 1404 to 1421, in which year—at Pentecost—she was dead. It is therefore possible that Walter the Hostage and the Treasurer was the widower of the Duchess and the elder brother of John, but it is clear from the Charters relating to the annuity from Tranent, that John, Lord Halyburton of Dirletoun, 1446/7, was son of the Walter de Halyburton who married Isabel, Countess of Ross, dau. of the Duke of Albany. Whether the two Walters were father and son, or what relationship they bore to each other, is matter of considerable doubt.' [Ex. inform. W. A. Lindsay, Q.C., Windsor Herald]."

THE FOLLOWING SEVEN PEERAGES HAVE BEEN CREATED in the said year, 1898 (of which two, Halsbury and Muncaster, were conferred on existing Peers), viz.,

THE EARLDOM OF HALSBURY AND VISCOUNTCY OF TIVERTON, both co. Devon (Giffard), conferred, 19 Jan. 1898, on the Lord Chancellor, Baron Halsbury.

THE BARONY OF NEWLANDS OF NEWLANDS AND BARROWFIELD, co. Glasgow, AND OF MAUDSLIE CASTLE, co. Lanark (Hozier), 19 Jan. 1898.

THE BARONY OF FARQUHAR OF ST. MARYLEBONE, co. London (Farquhar), 20 Jan. 1898.

THE BARONY OF MUNCASTER of Muncaster, co. Cumberland (Pennington), conferred, 11 June 1898, on Baron Muncaster in the Kingdom of Ireland.

THE BARONY OF HALIBURTON OF WINDSOR in Nova Scotia in Canada (Haliburton), 18 June 1898.

THE BARONY OF KITCHENER OF KHARTOUM AND OF ASPALL, co. Suffolk (Kitchener), 1 Nov. 1898.

THE BARONY OF CURZON OF KEDLESTON, co. Derby, in the peerage of Ireland[a] (Curzon), 11 Nov. 1898.

G. E. C.,

[a] This creation follows (an interval of 30 [!] years having taken place) the creation, 21 Dec. 1868, of the Barony of Rathdonnell [I.]. Soon after that date a bill (the Royal permission having previously been obtained) passed the House of Lords to put a stop to these anomalous creations. This bill, however, failed to pass the House of Commons, so that the legal power (conferred by the act of the Irish Union) remains, though the general impression was that (in these circumstances) it would never again be acted upon. See The Genealogist, N.S., vol. v., for several articles, by G.E.C., on the Peerage of Ireland at and since the Union. From the creation of Rathdonnell [I.], in 1868, there have been, down to Dec. 1898, eleven extinctions of Irish peerages which had existed before the Union (Howden extinct in 1873, Bloomfield in 1879, and Clermont in 1898 were post Union creations), viz., Moira in 1868, Strangford in 1869, Blayney in 1874, Charleville in 1875, Aldborough in 1875, Ongley in 1877, Netterville in 1882, Rokeby in 1883, Ranelagh in 1885, Bantry in 1891, and Lismore in 1898. These, as well as the Barony of Gardner and the Earldom of Milltown, both of which were unclaimed for more than a year (one from Nov. 1883 and the other from March 1891) made a total of thirteen peerages available for new creations, to which may apparently be added one of the two Peerages of Kilwarden, which, existing separately at the time of the Union, became extinct together in 1830, and of which only one was made use of in a new creation. The peerage of Curzon of Kedleston, however, "was created not in lieu of the extinction of any three peerages, but in virtue of the number of Peerages of Ireland [i.e., those not held with any Peerage of England, Great Britain or the United Kingdom] being below the number of a hundred, according to the provisions in art. 4 of the Act of Union. The total number of Irish peerages at present [i.e., in Dec. 1898] existing, which have not an hereditary seat in the House of Lords is, including Curzon, 89." [Ex inform. Sir A. Vicars, Ulster].

With reference to a peerage [I.], being, if unclaimed for above a year, available as an extinction for a new creation, it may be observed that the Barony of Wallscourt [I.], which was more than a year unclaimed (there being in fact no heir to it from 28 March 1803 to 19 Jan. 1806), was not so acted upon.
